Buzz Jones, formerly of Denver and now in San Francisco, was doing the nite spots with his sweetie when a play-boy whispered in her best ear. Buzz jumped up saying, "You are sick and should be somewhere i na hospital." And then said to the play boy, "You are crazy and should be in the morgue!"

Myrtle Bishop, entertainer, after going for 17 bucks at Tanforan motored to town and her first song was "I'm Now Back In The Office Punching The Clock".

Tom Bledsoe, Broadway sport, has resumed telegraphing to his flame, the glamor show pretty who was his constant companion in 1931 at the Clark hotel in Los Angeles.

Lawrence Criner, movie star, and Littlie Mama of San Francisco are playing the cocktail lounges, wining and dining after dark so their intimates can see them.

John Taylor, politician and fixer of San Francisco, says he will apply for the old age pension in 1939, then he will be around 65. I met John in Chicago in 1892, he was a grown man then so he must have missed a couple of birthdays.

Saunders King, radio star, and Juanita Moore have ditto marks in their eyes.

The annual picnic given by the United Spanish War Veterans in San Mateo, June 19, had from six to seven hundred visitors with dancing and swimming. A few who enjoyed the afternoon were Bessie Jones Lloyd James, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Billie Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holman, Mrs. Sally McAustin, hair dresser, Bubbie Baily, Stanley Bailey, Leon Fields, formerly of Chicago, with a lovely girl from Tulsa, Okla. The name of the prize winning bathing beauty together with her photo will be in the next issue.

Estelle Butler, with the pretty expressive eyes, Al Wilson, Charley Echols and pretty Marie Bently, the charming Florence Ross, Jack Meyers, Berry Clayton and sweet Helen Lewis can be seen romancing, wining and dining at choice tables at the swank nite spots after dark.

Frank Sebastian's Cotton Club with Len Crawford producer has opened for the summer run with a bunch of Creole beauties who are a hundred per cent from the top of their heads to the tip of their toes, with the box office making a new high.

Julie Lee Fork, Ethel Jones, Mr. and Mrs. McRobertson were last seen doing the night spots . . . It is a safe wager to bet money and not matches that Tim Cane of Hot Springs, Dr. Eves and Dr. Phipps were at the ringside, June 22.

LIGHT and SHADE

By EARL DANCER

THE MORNING AFTER

I have always wanted to be in a position to sprout to my heart's content. Now at long last I have that necessary medium, "Light and Shade".. I didn't suffer as much from stage fight the first time Ethel Waters and I played the Palace theatre in New York as I did last Wednesday night, the EAGLE press day. The suspense, the anxiety that I suffered last press day, watching the rush of news copy and ad copy to beat the deadline. Seeing the linotype operators turning pages of typewritten copy into metal. Watching these machines "eating copy" and grinding out a newspaper. And the next day being complimented by friends and members of the EAGLE staff, who liked "Light and Shade", my reaction was the same as the night my show, "Africana", opened on Broadway.

By nature, I am best described as an extremist. I believe intensely in a thing or person or I am not interested at all, and believe me this column is of cardinal importance to me. And again I reassure you I will ever give it the very best in me.

ON THE AVENUE

The West Coast's most representative Negro newspaper is the California Eagle. And I am amazed that certain businesses on the avenue that pretend to be representative of the community of which they are an integral part could hope to be classed first rate without the aid and support of the West Coast's most influential Negro organ. Los Angeles has the largest and most important Negro community on the West Coast. And the EAGLE is rightfully so, the most respected paper in this community. First, because it has served its community faithfully and successfully for more than half a century. It has ever been for anything or anyone who it believed was good for this community. And it has been against those who it believed to be leeches and who would some day, if not prevented, develop into octopuses that would strangle the growth of this Black Commonwealth.

With this thought paramount in my mind, I wonder when will the Negro wake up and realize his economic condition on Central avenue. The average Negro denies himself everything so that his children might receive a better education than he. Wear better clothes than he does. This same father cultivates appetites in this child which he or she must forget upon attaining maturity. First, because that father has carelessly spent his money building organizations of which his child can play no important part. Most businesses on the avenue are controlled and operated by groups other than Negroes. And the majority of these businesses employ Negroes only as porters and flunkeys. And whenever there is an exception made and the Negro is given the position of manager, he is manager in name only. And does not receive the same salary and respect or prerogatives that a manager in another community commands.

I had hoped Los Angeles' Central Avenue would escape the fate of the "Central Avenues" of other metropolitan cities. I have been in most of the cities of these United States where large numbers of Negroes live and in most of these cities the Negro has allowed other groups to get into his community and control it. I remember when nine-tenths of the businesses in this Negro community of Los Angeles were owned or controlled by Negroes. Particularly his drug stores and places of amusements. And these places of amusement furnished employment for a large number of Negro entertainers and musicians. I remember when the theatres employed large numbers of Negro actors and musicians. That was when these places of amusement were managed by Negroes who could dictate the policies of these places. The group that now operates these places want a return so large from their investment that they refuse to share any part of their profits with Negro entertainers and musicians and they take this large return out of this community to help build white communities.

I have yet to see one person of the other group who made money and then spent it buying a home in a Negro community to help beautify that neighborhood. I would like to cite here an example. Bill Robinson made money and built a beautiful home in a neighborhood where Negroes lived. A house across the street from Bill Robinson was offered for sale prior to the building of Bill Robinson's home for $2500. Today after Bill Robinson has spent many thousands of dollars on his home, this house across the street is now valued at $10,000.

If conditions like these don't make the Negro conscious of his economic power I don't know what will. But this column will ever pound to the sisters and brothers of Los Angeles the definite need of thinking what will your children do when they finish school. Where and how they will work is definitely up to you.

A DREAM COMES TRUE

A long time ago, as a lad I worked on San Francisco's famous "Barbary Coast". And one form of my amusement was every Monday to go to the old Orpheum theatre, and there one Monday afternoon I saw Cooper and Robinson. Bill Robinson, part of that team, I met after the show. The impression I received after meeting him was that he possessed a fiery, and quick temper and honestly I didn't believe because of that temper Bill Robinson would be the success he is today.

But behind that success lies this story. A short time after Bill Robinson developed into a single act in the theatre, he married Fanny Clay, fifteen years ago. That was the turning point in the life of one of America's greatest artists. Bill had finally met someone whom he loved, respected and believed in. And most important, would listen to. Bill has always been a great artist, but in his early youth he was what the theatre labeled "unmanageable" and headstrong.

But despite these handicaps Fanny believed in her Bill. She had visions far beyond those of Bill. She believed that Bill, with tact and singleness of purpose, could achieve heights attained by no other man of his group. In this, Bill has proven beyond all doubt, that Fanny was right.

Bill and Fanny didn't always find the going as beautiful as it is today. Theirs was a hard and long struggle. Which could not have been successful without the constant loving and thoughtful counsel of Fanny Robinson.

Fanny made her career . . . Bill Robinson.

His every need and thought was religiously heeded by her. I know of no marriage, even outside of the profession, where anyone has given themselves more unselfishly than Fanny Robinson. I have often heard it said, when you give the very best you have with no selfish motives accentuating those gifts, the result must be successful.

Eagle Drama Editor Names Some Competent Artists at Request of Hays Associate

By Earl Dancer

Our little pebbles thrown against the walls of the motion picture industry are being heard. In answer to our fight of the last few months that the Negro be given something besides roles as doormen, porters and "flunkeys" and that our actresses be given parts other than "Aunt Jemimas", "Topsys" and "handkerchief-heads" has been heeded by no less an authority than the Will Hays office.

BILL ROBINSON - JENI LeGON

In answer to a summons from Mr. Tom S. Petty, an associate of Will Hays that we come to the Hays office last Saturday, July 2. We were informed that Mr. Hays in a letter to all the major studios had advised the producers to portray the Negro in films in the future as artisans, and you nuts admit that you haven't seen any sepia mechanics or craftsmen heretofore in your films. Depicting the Negro as he actullay is, rather than the "typed" roles and Southern speaking dialecticians.

This stands as the most important step today achieved by Black Americans. Mr. Petty then asked Earl J. Morris who was with me at this conference, "If the producers saw fit to heed Mr. Hays advice had we competent actors aand actressess in our groups available here. I would like to answer Mr. Petty here and now by naming a few artists of our group who rank with Hollywood's finest.

We have a number of the members of the Old Lafayette Stock Company who have been living here ever since Mr. Jules Wolf of the Lincoln Theatre decided to substitute these players for double feature motion pictures. pictures.

We have the grand comic, Eddie Anderson who to me is ten times as funny as all the Joe Penners and Andy Devines in Hollywood. Then there is Lawrence Criner, who rates with the best heavys in the industry. And Edward Thompson that doesn't need to take off his hat to any Jack LaRues or George Rafts. Clinton Rosamond who turns in an excellent performance. Then there is Ernest Whitman. Oh yes. Mr. Petty, I am quite sure you have seen Mr. Clarence Muse in pictures long before most of the present day producers were in Hollywood. And I would like to inform you here, that one of the most memorial events of the theatre, that this man who Hollywood insists upon placing in subservient roles, who upon the stage gave a performance in Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde that proclaimed by New York and that season. I am quite sure that Hollywood doesn't want Mr. Muse to portray a role of that nature, but I cite this to prove beyond all reasonable doubt Muse is of the finest actors in Hollwood, black or white.

Then there is Monte Hawley, a very capable actor, but Mr. Hollywood says his complexion is too fair. Of course Mr. Hollywood won't concede that we have some very fair Negroes. While speakin of fair Negroes we must think of Mae Turner who is as clever a comedienne that the white screen can boast. Mae, you should refrain from portraying the type of roles that Colored Film concerns have given you. You have the art of making people laugh which is the most important asset you or anyone else can possess in the field of entertainment.

And may we hope that some day Theresa Harris will be given something worthy of her artistic ability.

Hollywood loses millions of dollars yearly on foreign importations that have nothing to offer as far as American audiences are concerned. Black America wonders why not an Ethel Waters, who I am sure would do more at the box office than all of your Darriele Darrieuxs. Simone Simons. One of the grandest musical sequences to date was done in "Hooray for Love" with Bill Robinson, Jeni LeGon and Fats Wallers. This sequence was strong enough to save an otherwise mediocre film. I am sure that your great theatre audiences would like to see a repeat of these grand artists in another vehicle.

LOUISE BEAVERS

One is amazed at the poor memory of Hollywood, we wonder how any group of individuals at the head of such a great institution as motion pictures could forget that supreme performances given by Louise Beavers and have conceded to give Black America a change in motion picture propaganda, we think you could remedy a half sick box office by injecting a bit of this type of entertainment for America's consumption.

Unveil Portrait of Bill Robinson at Virginia Theatre

NEW YORK, June 30.—Bill Robinson, honorary president of the Negro Actors Guild of America, was the recipient of another honor Monday to add to the long list of those already conferred upon him, when a life-size portrait of him was unveiled in the lobby of the Richmond, Va., theatre which bears his name.

Robinson, who returned to New York from Hollywood late last week, went to Richmond at the invitation of Mayor Bright of that city. There the world-renowned dancer was feted at a dinner, following which the unveiling ceremonies took place. Fredi Washington, executive director and secretary of the guild, witnessed the dedication.

BILL ROBINSON

The theatre was opened in September of last year, and marked the premiere of "One Mile From Heaven", in which Miss Washington and Robinson were co-starred. With "Bojangles" on the Coast at the time, Miss Washington pinch-hitted for him as guest of honor.

The portrait was presented to Robinson last April when the Grand Street Boys Association tendered him a birthday party in New York. Former Mayor James J. Walker of New York delivered a brilliant extemporaneous address extolling him.

The portrait, however, was too large for Robinson's new home in Los Angeles, and has been hung in the lobby of the Bill Robinson Theatre instead.

A LETTER TO YOUR EDITOR

P. O. Box 95.
Monrovia, Calif.
July 1, 1938

Mr. Earl Dancer, Drama Editor
The California Eagle
4075 So. Central Avenue,
Los Angeles, Calif.
Dear Mr. Dancer:

I received my Eagle today and want to congratulate you most heartily upon the splendid takeoff you have made upon taking the controls of the Drama Section. I have read every word of the three separate articles appearing under your name and hereby give my endorsement 100 per cent.

Under your clear-cut, well informed and experienced leadership, I feel the definite conviction that as a racial group we are going places. You not only have something there, but you have convinced me that you know what you have got and what to do with it. When you say that the contribution of Ethel Waters in her field is to be appraised on a par with our other great representatives in other constructive fields, I say Amen with all my heart. Inspite of the crude manifestations of the historonic we have seen on American stage, every well informed person should know, that it is in this field that the cultural life of a nation finds permanent expression. All the permanent literature that the average man cares anything about was written originally for the stage. Being written thus, it has in turn shaped the life and policies of men and nations.

If the American Negro has a definite contribution to make to the musical and dramatic side of life, he is destined to be counted among the few master-builders whose work shall endure. Long after themes modeled in timber, brick and stone have disintergrated, the words of life, modeled in song and story will still suvive.

I have a constructive interest in the things you are doing and will bring that to your attention later. But for now, my sincere congratulations. Any cooperation I may be able to give to your well conceived plans, is your for the asking.

Very sincerely yours,
S. W. BRISTER

Clarence Muse Explains Technique He Will Use in 'Run Lil Chillun'

By Fay M. Jackson

That there is no quarrel in Hollywood between the stage and screen is ably demonstrated in Clarence Muse's selection by Federal Theaters to direct its forthcoming musical folk drama, "Run, Little Chillun," tentatively set for opening at the Mayan Theatre July 22.

With a screen career that dates back to more than a score of years, Mr. Muse is now busy putting the Federal actors through their paces for this spectacular pageant of deep south life.

"I accepted this job because I felt that I could bring something to the Los Angeles version of "Run, Little Chillun", Muse told an Eagle reporter this week.

HAD LONG RUN

"It played for 126 performances in the Lyric Theatre of New York and I see no reason why our production can not fuse a Hollywood flavor into this splendid vehicle for racial expression. By 'Hollywood flavor' I do not mean stageyness of styleising of the natural interpretations of the players, but I refer to certain special technique that will bring the audience closer into the spirit of the play and nearer the reality of the problems of the players", he said.

"This business of plays about Negroes is a very touchy one, sometimes, and usually it calls for very delicate handling or our people become seriously offended.

"Run, Little Chillun" needs no apologies. It depicts a phase of life in the deep south, attempts to give the community background of the songs of our people, goes a bit more deeply than anything arising out of emotional instability and religious hysteria," Mr. Muse explained.

A cast of 100 actors, singers and dancers includes: Jess Lee Brooks, Ruby Elzy, Florence O'Brien, Cleo Desmond, Alfred Grant, Arthur Ray and Roy Glenn.

The celluloid "match of the century"--Man Mountain Dean, the actor, versus Joe E. Brown, the wrestler--has been fought and filmed, but the winner remains undisclosed.

For the past week, Dean, at 320 pounds ringside, and Brown, at exactly half that weight, have been swapping falls in the spectacular wrestling finale of the Columbia picture, "The Gladiator," produced by David L. Loew.

The script reads that Brown won the third and deciding fall for the "world's championship." But the Man Mountain has entered an eleventh hour protest, on grounds it will ruin his professional reputation to be defeated, if only on the screen, by a man just half his size.

"I don't know, and I don't care what the script says," declared Dean, who plays "himself" in the film. "I will lose a million fans if the picture shows me on the losing end."

"I happen to know what the script says," countered Brown, "and we will stick to them. My public will leave me cold if they give the nod to the Man Mountain."

WILL THEY EVER LEARN?

Twenty-five years ago when we entered the pilot house of this craft we were often called upon and questioned as to our peculiar or unpopular stand on this or that. The horrible things which provoke the ire of militant-searchers - for - something-over-which-to-work-up-a-sweat often turn out to be news stories.

Even now lead horn players in the ranks of the intellectuals just can't differentiate between news and editorial matter. No progress seems to have been made in this field here in Los Angeles; fact is, they grow worse.

A news story may picture a thing as being all wrong and against public good, but the editorial sentiment of the paper strongly censures or proposes amendments to the proposition.

Opinions of the editor are always found in this, the editorial columns. Expressions and beliefs expressed by wild-eyed columnists have no bearing whatever on the opinion of any newspaper.

Most of the columnists of The EAGLE are as far at variance with the editorial opinion and policy of the paper as day is removed from the night. The aim of a newspaper is to give the reading public a glance at all sides and not attempt to chuck our own views and opinions down the throats of people without first giving the reader an opportunity to see what other minds think on the subject.

News stories, utterances of columnists, letter writers do not, in the language of the radio announcer, necessarily reflect the views and sentiments of this paper.

It would be just as reasonable to charge the Times with being for Roosevelt's spending idea if measured by news stories saying trade is on the up-trend and the spending spree will establish prosperity. Turn, if you will, to the editorial page and you'll find every act of the idea condemned in the strongest language at command.

Wake up; it's simple to know news matter from editorial, and such blunders simply brands one as stupid, and a thing to be laughed at.

SHAW DEMANDS SHOWDOWN

Mayor Shaw's demand for his traducers to come forward with their charges of corruption and graft in his office and lay all cards upon the table has stopped many wagging tongues that charged the Mayor with being in league with the underworld.

The Mayor offered to appear before the Grand Jury any day or hour and answer any question put to him. He went further and ordered an investigation of activities of the police department and has not only offered, but is behind the District Attorney one hundred per cent in whatever clean-up program proposed.

All of this strengthens our faith in the honesty and integrity of the Mayor and there we'll stand until proof is furnished to the contrary.

HOUSE-CLEANING

The declaration of Mayor Frank L. Shaw of Los Angeles that a vigorous house-cleaning of the city's police department will be undertaken in the near future is a wise step toward crime prevention. Respect for the law is an essential support of well-ordered government. Recent unsavory revelations in the Los Angeles police force have weakened that respect. Mayor Shaw now has an excellent opportunity to restore it!

LIEUT. BETTIS ANSWERS CALL OF "30"

His trenchant pen cast aside several years ago because of failing health, Lieut. William A. Bettis, editor, soldier and crusader for civil justice, answered the call of "30" at the Soldier's Home in Dodge City, Kansas, June 17th, 1938. Lieut. Bettis served as commander of the Home, a position he was filling at the time of his death.

Kansans in all walks of life loved, honored and respected Will Bettis, as he was familiarly dubbed by the oldest down to the smallest tot.

Seething with a desire to Jim Crow Negroes, Wichita was the battle-ground of many stirring events led by the intrepid Bettis to keep alive the spirit generated by Old John Brown and made a living reality by the mighty armies of white and black men who trod the fields of slaughter at Gettysburg and Fort Pillow.

Bettis filled many positions of honor and trust in Wichita having served as city clerk and lieutenant on the city detective force. However, he never laid aside his trusty pen, and continued to edit and publish The Reflector which was changed to The Protest after returning from the army in 1898.

Will Bettis wrote his name high in the hall of journalistic fame as he battled the rising tide of prejudice in his home city.

The Constitution of Kansas gives cities of the first-class the right to establish and maintain separate schools for the races up to the high school. When charter was granted Wichita, a city with segregated educational privileges, Bettis threw a monkey wrench into the machinery.

He was employed as messenger at the State House in Topeka, and one of his duties was to deliver proofs to and from the state printer when the new statutes were being compiled and printed. Here's where Mr. Bettis got in his work. When returning proofs to the printer, he wrote in a line, saying segregated schools could not be established in the City of Wichita unless ratified by a vote of the people in special election. Being final check on proof it slid thru and was never noticed until the City got ready to exercise this Constitutional right. It was a bombshll. Wichita was too poor to erect new schools and pay the cost of an election, hence the matter was deferred for some 18 or more years. Four men knew of the trick which is revealed here for the first time when upon learning of the death of Mr. Bettis, the only survivors of the quintet related the story. Those in on the stunt pulled by Bettie were: Nick Chiles, Joseph B. Bass, John H. B. Taylor and our informant.

NEWS ITEM:—U.S.S.R. FACTORIES ORDERED TO ADOPT AMERICAN INDUSTRIAL METHODS

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

ON THE HONOR ROLL

As the depth of a lake is measured by sounding gear, so business conditions are gauged by the percentage of tax delinquency. On this score, California is taking top honors, coming out first in a field of forty-eight. Of the nation's eight cities having the lowest rate of tax delinquency, five were California municipalities, announces the current issue of Dun's Magazine. Whereas the average rate of non-payment of taxes among 150 representative American cities last year was 11.3 per cent, in the honor-roll municipalities of San Jose, San Francisco, Oakland, Fresno, and Berkeley, the delinquency rate fell below 3 per cent. Yet even municipal tax returns throughout the nation for 1938, as indicated at this early date, are giving the tax experts — and not the experts only! — a welcome surprise, with collections holding up astonishingly well. May California, however, continue to be pace-maker for the nation!

THEY BUY IN AMERICA

There is little doubt that the State is also continuing to be pace-maker for the nation's aviation industry. Two Southern California air-craft manufacturing firms alone have recently tucked a $25 million order under their belts for 400 bombing and advance training planes. These orders were placed by Great Britain whose Air Ministry during the past year has become bogged in an unusually deep mire of red-tape due to the inept management of its recently resigned chief. Nor has the British aircraft industry achieved the marvels of efficiency, co-ordination, and rationalization of methods which characterize American industrial technique. Hard-headed, skeptical John Bull is paying homage to that — $25 million worth! So is France, who also wants the best planes. So is anti-capitalist Russia, who also knows where to come for the finest machines and equipment to be found in the world. The making of death-dealing war birds is none too cheerful a business, but it's one way of re-lining American pockets with those dollars we so readily lent Europe two decades ago!

BREAD AND CIRCUSES

Circuses are not earning their bread. Who did not feel a pang of regret last week on hearing that of the six "biggest shows on earth" who took to the road so hopefully this Spring, all but two have fallen by the way-side? Which is to say, that in all of America today only two circuses remain, and neither of those in too prosperous a condition. Pinched pocketbooks, of course, were to some extent responsible for causing four of those big tops to blow down. But other factors, deeper and more permanent, played their part. Intensive suburban development is steadily gobbling up the former circus lots. The Show is forced to stake itself out farther from the cities and towns, or pay increasingly prohibitive rentals for more desirable "stands". To this trend there appears no effective remedy. It may well be that the circus, like the chautauqua already, will not survive the changing conditions of a new age, and the merry tunes of its piping caliope will linger on the ear in fond memory only.

Buyers' Guide

By CLARENCE H. PEACOCK

One of the greatest problems of the Negro is the pressing need of employment opportunities for the race. At the present time, throughout the country, the many Negro organizations are launching programs and drives for mass action for the employment of Negroes. Many of these organizations have, as their general slogan, "Do not buy where you can't work." Only by mass action can the Negro secure this objective. All Negroes should support those organizations in their vicinity.

One of the Negro's most effective weapons in his economic battle for equality, is his purchasing power. The combined purchasing power of the Negro, in 1937, was approximately $3,000,000,000. This is greater than the total amount of all exports from the United States in that year. Negroes have a purchasing power even greater than that of the whole Dominion of Canada.

It is my belief that Negroes must attack this problem from the fundamental viewpoint of economics, and less from the social and religious angles, if they are to gain economic security. It is the purpose of this column to point out how Negroes may get the full benefit from their purchasing power.

If Negroes concentrate their buying with those firms who employ Negroes, they will benefit by getting more consideration from those companies in the form of employment, not only in menial positions, but as sales executives, salesmen, clerks, technicians, skilled laborers, and in other positions.

Negroes in their daily purchasing, are blindly supporting those companies that have a closed door policy in regard to employment opportunities for the race. One of the best ways of finding out what companies have an open door policy, is to read the advertisements in Negro newspapers.

Study your advertisements, remember the names of brands, and demand them when you make your purchasees. Patronize your Negro dealer so that he in turn can demand that these companies send only Negro salesmen to service him. If there is no Negro dealer in your neighborhood, demand these products from a white retailer who employs Negroes. It makes no difference in what capacity the Negro is employed, whether he be manager, clerk, delivery boy, or porter, as long as he works there.

Many a mother and housewife, in her daily purchase of food and home commodities, does not realize that she is closing the door of opportunity for her children, by buying brands of goods made by companies that have a closed poor policy.

When Negroes buy more of the products advertised in their own papers, they will establish a reciprocal feeling of "Goodwill" toward those manufacturers who advertise in the Negro press. This "Goodwill" is essential in increasing employment opportunities for the race.

Next week I will point how Negroes can create new opportunities in their purchase of soaps, and of soap powders.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

FEARLESS STAND

Dear Editor:

I certainly did enjoy your talk over the radio Sunday evening, June 26, 1938.

I admire the fearless stand you took and feel that you should be complimented for the courageous effort that you made in behalf of so many of our Race. I know that it was deeply appreciated by all who had the extreme pleasure of hearing you.

I am eagerly awaiting your speech this coming Thursday evening, believe me.

Very sincerely yours,

THOUGHT PROVOKING

Dear Editor:

The guest editorial for Thursday, June 23 is thought-provoking o nthe matter of Public Careers and the Graduate". Also the news items for several weeks which have described the activities of the Wilshire Apartment Service. In addition the article, "Sunshine At Last For Domesticity" appearing under Los Angeles and Pasadena Society", 1st column, page 9-A calls for consideration, referring as it does to Miss Burroughs article in Chicago Defender, June 18, which in turn refers to Congressional Record for May 31, where the amendment to the work relief bill providing for domestic training is discussed in debate on the floor of the Senate. It seems to be unusual that no newspaper nor publicist has brought to the public, that discussion of Edgar Brown's appearance before the committee on appropriations to ask that provision be made to train half-a-million Colored girls and women for domestic employment.

At least, I should like to have some space to bring this to the public, hence the enclose article, if you can find the room--we ought look into the matter and see its implications.

With best wishes, and thanks for your assistance in this,

Sincerely yours,
W. ALFRED WILKINS

not say,—a religious fanatic, a Walter White, a Communist, an Adam Powell, a politician, a Clayton Russell, a bootlegger —but of one thing I am sure.—a LEADER!

With a flood in China, a typhoon in Tokio, a belligerent Czeckoslovakia, a disobedient Franco, and a friendly Chamberlin government on the verge of ruin in England, the Alliance of Japan, Italy and Germany is indeed suffering a great setback.

The over-assurance of the Fascist powers following Hitler's annexation of Austria seemingly has led them into bad days. If Japan looses the Eastern War it will be a catastrophe for totalitarianism—but if the Chamberlain government is overthrown and the British Lion once more again roars, that really will be a disaster. Events have shown hencefar that the English policy of compromise has not been effective. The Italo-British agreement was to halt trouble in Spain and humble Adolph Hitler—it has accomplished neither. Over protest after protest, Japan has continued bombing civilian populations. The "realistic" attitude which was to save the World from War—was to pacify the Dictators has failed miserably.

Many state that the Fascist bluff must be called; that arbitration has brought only continued defiance.

But should England risk an international conflagration because a dozen vessels have been sunk in Spanish waters? Should the youth of today die to humble the arrogance of a Dictator? Or is it that Germany's demands for colonies in Africa are not so reasonable—that the whole thing can yet be smoothed out? Any measure whatsoever which avoids danger of the scheduled world mass-slaughter would seem more than desirable.

But hencefar conciliation with Fascism has failed—in most cases has served only to excuse and coddle aggression. A more militant stand might bring about a change in dictatorial attitudes . . .and it might bring about the Second World War.

At any rate, a civilization rests on the outcome!

The LAUNDRYMAN

Hello, folks! I know that you all are very much rested and happy, after having driven, or ridden from two hundred, to two hundred and fifty miles on the 4th of July, in search of rest and relaxation. I couldn't make it this year, having tried out one of those long jaunts last Fourth, only to find that I was less inclined to work the next day, than ever.

And now a word of warning to those of our group who are trying to secure modernization loans to beautify their homes. In last Sunday's Examiner, Thomas G. Grace, F. H. A. Director of New York State, made the statement that racketeers are operating on a widespread scale among prospective borrowers. He said that the F.H.A. had decided to clamp down the lid on this form of swindling, in an effort to protect unsuspecting borrowers to the greatest extent possible.

According to information which I recently obtained, a gang of racketeers have conducted several swindles upon the East-side, among members of our group who sought modernization loans. In one case of which I learned, a lady residing upon E. 20th street signed up a contract with a certain company whose sales-agent--a young Jewish man--asserted that his firm, through certain influential agencies, was able to secure the necessary loan.

As it happened, this firm also had a contract to paint and redecorate a house next door to hers; which, since the contract preceded hers, they completed first--luckily for her.

According to her statement the job they performed on her neighbor's house was most atrocious. The paint was simply smeared on in the crudest manner imaginable, by inexperienced men who evidently knew nothing whatever of house-painting. They were also exceedingly lazy to boot, as they did not even take time to remove a vine that covered a small section of the front porch, and paint under it.

Needless to say, after inspecting this sample of the firm's work, our informant set up a yell like a pig under a heavy gate, and cancelled her contract forthwith. The methods of these racketeers are as follows:

Their sales-agent visits you, remarks upon the run-down condition of your property and suggests a modernization loan, stating that his firm will secure the necessary loan for you. He will tell you frankly that his firm does not compete with other bidders, and that the prices quoted by his firm ARE somewhat higher than the average. However, he explains that this discrepancy is due to the fact that they secure the loan for you ,thus relieving you from any exertion along that line. This line of logic has a plausible sound, and the average person is liable to succumb to it. Once the contract is secured however, this get-rich-quick firm hires some inexperienced men--dishwashers out of work perhaps--at low wages to do the work, thus further swelling the firm's profit at the expense of the luckless home-owner.

The public in its own interest should always bear in mind that the most important factor in the modernization of any home, is the Firm or Contractor who contracts to perform the job. Look up their record, inspect some of the work they have previously done, inter-have done work for, before signing up a contract with them; for the reputation of any firm or individual, is the most accurate guage of their ability, in any line. None of us have any money to waste nowadays, and whenever we do extend ourselves to brighten up our homes we should make reasonably sure that the returns from our investments will prove satisfactory.

Judge Rainey is 'Suspended' But Continues Court

PHILADELPHIA, July 7. (ANP)—Local members of the bar last week pondered the present "suspension" status of Magistrate Joseph H. Rainey, Democratic member of the minor judiciary, who was suspended for the month of July by Chief Magistrate John J. O'Malley. Despite the Chief Magistrate's ruling, Magistrate Rainey continues hold court.

From one source it was learned the O'Malley suspension order was stemmed in reports brought to him that Rainey was "too vigorously" espousing the cause of his people and that he has shown favoritism to Negroes involved in cases in opposition to whites. The "charges" were aired last week when Rainey was "brought in on the carpet" by the chief magistrate.

What developed at the closed hearing was not disclosed. Rainey's only comment was "I have nothing to say now, but I will have, later on."

Last week's edition of the California Eagle was so well liked—the sell-out so complete—that the office staff had trouble locating one copy to place on file. The Eagle wishes to express its appreciation for YOUR continued support.

CALIFORNIA EAGLE

VOL. 59—NO. 14 LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, JULY 14, 1938 PRICE FIVE CENTS

on the sidewalk

by c. a. b.

A CERTAIN Apartment Service case, which first broke in The California Eagle more than a month ago, remains one of the outstanding instances of labor injustice in local areas.

This Service supplies domestics to swank Hollywood hotels and apartments — each girl having a route. At the time of employment the workers must sign a lengthy legal agreement, chief stipulation in which is that they do not attempt to "steal" their circuits. It is on this hypothesis that salaries are later denied. In several instances, girls have worked diligently on their routes, only to find that salaries are denied them because of some real or fancied breach of contract. Invariably the Service must "check up" before paying employes their wages, and often the check-up period extends into infinity.

Not only are the girls defrauded in this way, but many have been given bogus rubber checks. The average citizen probably thinks to himself, "Indeed, this is a sad state of affairs," and vaguely "that something must be done about it". He is correct in both sentiments; but, unfortunately, the mere desire for "something to be done about it" cannot bring about a remedy. The employes of this Apartment Service, however, cannot afford so abstract a view of the situation — they must feed hungry mouths — pay bills — buy clothes. Only picture the predicament of a woman — possibly with children — who, having worked for a full month, finds her right to hard-earned wages blandly denied. "You have broken your contract," says the Apartment Service.

"Where? What? How?"

"We don't know exactly, but we'll have to look into the situation before we can pay you," responds the company.

To whom then can such a woman turn? Possibly, somewhere in the lengthy legal document she has signed there is a breach. But she has worked a full month — scrubbed floors, washed windows — all the thousand variations of domestic drudgery — and yet she is refused wages. Is it legal? Is it right?

And amidst this confusion of question and doubt, such a woman may take her case to a newspaper, asking for help. That publication, if it is the right kind, will take the case instantly to proper authorities, convinced that justice will be secured, and reassuring the poor woman. But what if the proper authorities refuse to take action, and instead refer the case to civil courts — a procedure for which the client may not be prepared financially. Women have been worked — worked hard — then their pay refused. This is no crime, labor or otherwise, say the proper authorities.

I have told you, my friends, what actually has happened in this Apartment Service case. Law enforcement agencies have taken no action. Exploitation exists almost to the point of slavery, yet we are told no crime exists.

Here, then, is a condition ripe for the demon light of investigation which has been so freely focused here of late. Central avenue has faced exhaustive verbal bombardments from "reform committees"; every dice-game or two-by four gambling racket has been expounded upon. Disinterested outsiders have invaded and allegedly exposed the Eastside as a mecca of vice and corruption. Righteous indignation over a penny-ante game on Central has reverberated throughout the virgin purity of our city's sixty miles and resounded even in the distant hills of Sacramento. Yet a case wherein it is shown that not only a portion--as in any form of gambling--but an entire income has been fraudulently misappropriated, inspires only a flawless silence from the moguls of Reform. Could it be that sin on Central and sin on Wilshire are two entirely different things?--that the one should be treated as a case of leper--exposed and held up to public condemnation--and the other handled gently and quietly--as a slight cold, soon to be forgotten.

Here, you everlasting enemies of injquity,--you investigating committees and Reform movements--HERE is the material for which you yearn. Working women deliberately have been denied wages for honest labor. No more perfect object for reform could be discovered. We might even hint that this, an instance of brazen economic injustice, is more worthy of investigation, than any three gambling games on Central avenue!

Do not misunderstand. We heartily endorse any sincere effort to clean-up an admittedly regrettable condition on the Eastside; however, we challenge the effec-

Wilshire Apt. Service Operator May Get Jail Term in Domestic Case

Rumors of Arrest and Attempted Flight Rife

Rumors of arrest and attempted flight to San Francisco by operators of the Wilshire Apartment Service, story of whose domestic "slave racket" broke first in the EAGLE more than a month ago, were rife today.

Tuesday the second case of a defrauded employee came before the Orfa Jean Shontz Small Claims Court and brought a favorable judgement of $37.50 for Mrs. Christine Bowie plaintiff. Third sensational development in the now-famed case this week was the entrance of a Clifford E. Clinton aide to assist the investigation.

The Wilshire Apartment service is an organization which supplies domestics to swank Hollywood apartments and hotels. Five weeks ago reports reached the California Eagle that Service operators were defrauding colored domestics in wholesale proportions. When hired all Service employees were forced to sign a lengthy legal document, including several involved stipulations. At the end of a months work the girls allegedly were refused salaries on the technical ground that they had broken some one of the conarct provisions.

The case was first taken, unsuccessfully, to Deputy A. L. Barnes of Division of Labor Law Enforcement. He referred the case to civil courts.

Two weeks ago, former Service employee Alma Britt was granted a full judgment in Small Claims Court. Collection agents have not yet been able to reach Mrs. Luena Haswell, Service operator. It is because of this illegal failure to pay, after a court injunction, that Mrs. Haswell was said to be under arrest early this morning. The alleged arrest, it is believed, anticipated a San Francisco getaway attempt.

At first threatening a suit against the EAGLE, Service proprietors, in an effort to escape further investigation, moved to new headquarters at 9441 Wilshire Avenue last week and assertedly sent out notices to clients stating that they intended to replace Race labor with Swedes.

Other instances of asserted fraudlent treatment accorded employees by the company include that of Mrs. Alice George, "paid off" with a rubber check; Mrs. Elmer Mitchell, and others.

WHAT NERVE, MR. JIM CROW; WHAT NERVE!

Jim Crow strikes again in Los Angeles, and this time in the artistic circles, which so often boast cosmopolitanism. The beautiful young lady pictured above is MISS JOYCE DANCER, niece of Earl Dancer, theatrical editor of the California Eagle. A student of the modern dance, Miss Dancer was refused admittance to the Mills College of the Dance because of her color, it was learned this week. Discovered by Mrs. Artie Mason Carter, founder of the Hollywood Bowl, the young danseuse, a native daughter, has but recently returned here from studying in Detroit.

Close Southside Coordinating Council Office; Transfer Ellison

Ben Ellison, supervisor of the Southside Coordinating Council, who has done more to make children of the Eastside happy than any twenty other persons is shoveling dirt today. The council offices were ordered closed Tuesday afternoon, July 15 at three o'clock by Chief Probation officer Scutter of the Juvenile delinquency projects of the W. P. A. and Ben Ellison along with T. Luck, Harry Penn, and Ben Shaw, assistants, "transferred" to a labor crew in South Los Angeles.

Two other council staff members, Misses Jewell and Yvonne Washington were dismissed. Another upset in the delinquency project came in the transference on the same day of Miss Vivian Simms, director of the Avalon Center Recreation Department, to the sewing project in Pasadena. Conflicting reports are given on the cause of the unwarranted and sudden move. While it is alleged that Scutter, who could not be reached at press time, said the changes and dismissals were "purely a matter of red tape" because of the lack of funds for carrying on the work of the council, it is also authentically reported from the executive W. P. A. meeting held yesterday that Toy Loan projects have received their allowance and assurance of the present staffs for five more months. Both projects draw their allotments from the same fund, and, therefore, gives rise to doubt of the alleged "lack of funds".

Eastside leaders and citizens are loud in protesting the action and believe that negligence or some subterfuge is responsible for the action. No other coordinating council of the county was closed.

Voluntary workers and other officials of the project said they could give no reason nor statement concerning the action until Friday.

Court Rules Salaries of All City Employes Exempt from Garnishment

The protective arm of the City Hall was thrown about city employees this week. Henceforth and for-ever-more the boys and girls who work for the City of Angeles needn't fear the law taking hold of their pay checks when they get behind in their alimony or payments on the new car.

Handing down a decision of far reaching importance to city employees, the Superior Court Appellate Department Tuesday decided after a long controversy that the salaries of Los Angeles City Employees, from the garbage man to the Mayor, are exempt from garnishment.

The court held that Section 710 Code of Civil Procedure, permitting garnishment of the salaries of debtors does not apply to Los Angeles City workers because Los Angeles is a charter city and has by its charter exempted itself from all legislative control of its municipal affairs.

Attorney Walter Gordan, Jr., who translated the legal terms of the decision to everyday language for the Eagle reporter, said further action to garnishee city employee weges hereafter could not be done unless a provision is inserted in the city charter.

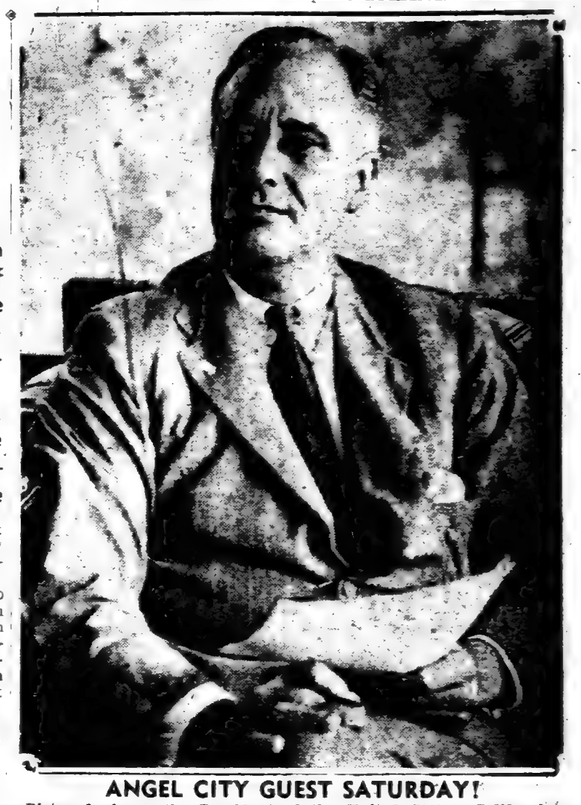
Lieut. Oxley Here on Tour of Nation

U. S. Employment Representative Speaks Sunday at Episcopal Church

On a tour of the nation to focus the attention of public officials on the problem of Negro unemployment and to stimulate constructive action, Lieut. Lawrence A. Oxley, field representative of the United States Employment Service, arrived here last Saturday and this week set about inspecting the machinery of this state's employment service.

California is the 28th state to be surveyed by the Washington official since he commenced on his tour on July 1. He will confer with State Administrative officers at Sacramento and with the local heads in an attempt to ascertain just wha percentage of the Negro population is unemployed and what can be done about it.

Completed, the survey will directly determine the availability for service of Negro applicants with State affiliates of the United States Employment Service.



The Lieutenant said his surveys had already stimulated the employment of 388 Negroes as staff workers in the Employment Service Departments of 24 states, most of them in the South.

Kick Delivered in Direction of Boy's Pants Costs Janitor $150

George Needham, white janitor at the Santa Fe School of Monrovia must pay $150.00 for a kick, delivered by him in the direction of a certain student's pants, according to the decision of Superior Court Judge, Clement Shinn yesterday in favor of Julius Parker, a twelve-year-old boy.

In answer to questions asked by his attorney, Thomas L. Griffith, Jr., young Parker told the Court that on May 5, 1937, during the recess at the Santa Fe School about 75 pupils had assembled on the grounds watching two other boys fight. As he stood there, the janitor came up and told the boys to leave; that as he was leaving the janitor kicked him.

Needham, who was represented by attorney, John F. Moroney, Deputy County Counsel, stated that the boy struck at him with his fist.

After hearing the testimony of several witnesses for both parties, Judge Shinn remarked: "I am satisfied this man kicked this boy and that it was unnecessary."

Compensation damages in the sum of $150.00 were awarded in favor of the minor.

Julius Parker is the son of Mrs. Ollie Barmore, who acted as guardian for the purpose of bringing the action. They live at 810 South Canyon, Monrovia.

Car Demolished as Hall Johnson Group in Crash

Although only very minor injuries suffered by Jester Hairston, director, and Ernest Baskett of the Hall Johnson Sextett who were treated at the Georgia Street Receiving Hospital Sunday following an accident, the car in which they were riding was completely demolished.

The mishap occured at 12th and San Pedro Sunday morning when the Johnson group machine collided with that driven by a Japanese. Others in the automobile were Joseph Crawford and William Davis. The group was en route to the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company broadcast and arrived just two minutes, before they were scheduled to go on the air.

Robberies, Burglaries, Petty Thefts Characterize Crime On Eastside

Robberies, burglaries and petty thefts characterized the week's crime activity on the Eastside, according to records at the Newton Street police station.

Less than fifteen suspects were arested and booked at the district's bastile as the police spent one of the quietest weeks of recent months.

Dr. F. R. Whiteman, well known physician with offices in the Elks building on Central avenue, reported theft of his medical bag last Tuesday evening to Captain Homer Garrott of the Newton detective bureau. He said he left the bag, which he evaluated at $85.00 in his automobile which he parked at Pico and Paloma streets at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday. When he returned, the lock had been picked and the bag pilfered.

RADIOS STOLEN

Radios were the objects of several thieves at confiscatory cravings as Tom Daniels, El Centro student, reported the theft of a $35.00 radio from his automobile which he left parked in front of his sister's house at 904 E. 20th street, Monday at 11 p. m. until 6 a. m. the next morning.

Miss Flora Webb, maid, living at 929 E. 49th street, told police someone entered her home through the front door, using a pass'key, between 9 and 9:45 p. m. last Thursday night and walked out with her radio, which she valued at $43.00.

A burglar raised a screen at the home of Mrs. Lillian White, 1157 E. 43rd street, between the hours of 8and 12 Saturday night, taking her purse which contained $11.85 in cash, a brown metallic cigarette case, gold inlaid, worth $10.00, and a book of tickets to the American Legion convention.

SMALL BUSINESSES LOOTED

Of the small business places looted the community store operated by Charles Sufaidy, white, at 1454 San Pedro street, suffered the greatest loss. Burglars jimmied the lock Friday night between midnight and the next morning, absconding with liquor, beer, candy, cigars, cigarettes, a small radio and assorted merchandise, all amounting to $75.

A thug, using his finger to simulate a gun, held up David Sherman, white, of 427 N. Townsend Monday night at 11:20, taking his wallet containing $60.00. Sherman told Newton police he had halted his car at the Pacific Electric tracks at Washington and Long Beach when the suspect jumped on the running board of the car, poked what Sherman thought was a gun in his side and demanded "Give me your wallet or I'll kill you."

Wife to View Johnson Remains

NEW YORK, July 14—Cremation of the remains of James Weldon Johnson, who was killed in an automobile crash two weeks ago, are being withheld until such a time as his wife is able to view them.

Mrs. Johnson seriously injured in the same auto crash is confined to a Maine Hospital, from which her condition is reported only "fair". It is believed, that she has not been informed of her husband's death.

Missing: 1 Latch, 2 Roosters, 8 Hens and 1 Rabbit!

What's this?—Chicken thieves this for from Watts! Who would have thought it?

Roscoe Kirkwood, janitor, living at 1523 E. 43rd Street, who raises chickens in his spare time, reported to Newton Captain of Detectives, Homer L. Garrott Friday that sometime during the preceding night, someone took the "latch off his hen-house door" charmed his biddies into silence and faded away in the dark with two roosters, eight hens and one rabbit.

Mmmm. . .the Captain must have thought, there's an indignation meeting some-awheres.

A-TALKIN' TO YOU
Clarence Muse--

HATE, FEAR, VANITY and LOVE are emotions that belong to every HUMAN BEING—Chinese, IRISHMAN, JEW or NEGRO. It is UNIVERSAL that all men and women have these emotions and that GRETA GARBO is not the only person that can PORTRAY these EMOTIONS on the screen. THE wee DIFFERENCE is that you become more interested in the nationality of the ACTOR, if these emotions are portrayed WELL. YOU begin to understand his particular RACE better, because he has HIT A real HUMAN EQUATION. I think this is a good ARGUMENT for RACE ACTORS. They should be SEEN IN ALL of the HUMAN EMOTIONS, not the two great stops, JOY and PATHOS. So much of real WORTH to the entire world is LOST when we try to play favorites in the ART EXPRESSION. And if you think this just the USUAL NEGRO complaint, I might call your attention to the FACT that the MAJOR STUDIOS are having quite an INTERNATIONAL DISCUSSION with the FRENCH, GERMAN, ITALIAN, SWEDISH, ENGLISH and RUSSIAN public about too many American-made pictures from the American point of view and ABOVE all the criticize the great cost of our FILMS. All of these facts POINT to the very HUMAN THING—they all want something to do with THIS great ART, and they have a right, and WE want the NEGRO TO HAVE something in this great ART; he still has in his daily life, HATE, FEAR, VANITY, and Love. Of course, what I am saying here is NOTHING new, but you just got to KEEP SAYING IT to impress on your MINDS that you can do something ABOUT it. In fact we live a STONE'S throw from the GREATEST MOTION PICTURE METROPOLIS in the world, and we must get into the swim. LET'S go Hollywood — ask more ABOUT RACE actors; GO TO SEE them; make contacts with THE THOUSANDS OF FINE PEOPLE IN HOLLYWOOD who know you and love you, who always want to help you, who see too little of you. Many thousands of them used to COME TO CENTRAL AVENUE when cabarets were plentiful, and will come again IF THERE are invitations, NOT ONLY TO public places, but your HOMES. You need these FOLK and THEY NEED you in this GREAT HUMAN struggle to GET AHEAD. BILL ROBINSON, LOUISE BEAVERS, Theresa Harris, Ralph Cooper, Ernest Whitman, Jeni LeGon, and nearly a hundred more, not forgetting STEPIN FETCHIT, have expressed on the SCREEN GREAT HUMAN emotions that are UNIVERSAL. Let's get about more. HARLEM should Meet HOLLYWOOD! (Copyrighted by Clarence Muse — 1938.)

CLARENCE MUSE

M. D.—I was born Dec. 22nd Can you tell me why I am not having any success with him?

Ans.—My vibrations relate to that of your present boy friend. His recent lack of interest in you is due to the influences created by this other party.

H. M. F.—Should I continue as I have been or go back to my old friends?

Ans.—It is my opinion that this present association you are enjoying will prove much better for you than effecting a reunion with your former friend.

D. R.—Will what I have planned turn out all right?

Ans.—This will materialize in the near future much to your satisfaction. However, it will take a great deal of work on your part to do this.

C. E.—I have been offered a price for my land. Do you think it best for me to sell?

Ans.—Your land is worth more than you have had offered. Wait until November when you will have a better opportunity to sell.

D. L. Will I ever marry?

Ans.—You will marry more than likely at an early age and may marry more than once. Your partner will be domesticated, fickle and emotional. Much will depend upon yourself as to whether or not you will be happy.

L. M.—I have read your column through other papers and have faith in you. Will you please tell me if it would be best to leave my husband?

Ans.—Your husband needs you more now than ever, stick by him, you will be repaid in the end. He has been upset over matters and consequently treats you mean at times. He is often sorry afterwards and it would be best if you would try to overlook this.

B. C.—I was born July 16th. Will I ever prove a success in life?

Ans.—It will be hard to achieve success in the beginning, however, once you get started you will find it easy to go straight to the top. You will be at the height of your services in the latter part of your life.

T. H.—Will my husband be able to take my child from me?

Ans.—Your husband has just threatened you this way to bring you around to his way of thinking. Don't let it bother you, no one will ever take her, providing you continue as you are.

Modern Bids for Trade On Eastside

Three reasons were advanced today why prospective furniture buyers should purchase from the Modern Furniture Store, located at 620-28 S. Main street, whose advertisement appears on Page 4-A of this paper.

That Modern is located out of the high rent district, passing savings in rent and over-head on to the buyer, is the first reason.

Modern offers easy terms on an up-to-date credit system, involving no embarrassment on long term acounts.

Modern employs a race salesman in the person of J. L. Glass, respected member of the Eastside community, who may be reached at AD. 9501, his residence, or TR. 0041, the store. A call will bring Mr. Glass to your home, prepared to explain each of the above reasons why you should purchase The Modern Way. Adv.

28th Annual Report of NAACP Out

NEW YORK, July 14—Despite defeat of the federal anti-lynch bill in the last session of Congress by a Senate filibuster more favorable sentiment for legislation to outlaw this type of mob violence was created throughout the country, especially in the South, during 1937 than at any time since 1909, according to the twenty-eighth annual report of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People sent out this week to members and the press.

Leadership in the fight for passage of the Wagner-Van Nuys-Gavagan anti-lynch bill marked the outstanding activity of the association during 1937 the report said.

1937 saw eight lynchings, an all-time low since 1932 when there were ten, according to the report. A summary of 1937 lynchings contained in the report put black marks against the following five southern states: Alabama, 1; Florida, 3; Georgia, 1; Mississippi, 2; Tennessee, 1.

The association's campaign against inequalities in educational opportunities affecting colored people extended over a broad front in 1937. It included a drive to insure equitable distribution of federal funds for education in state universities and to colored graduate and professional students, equalization of colored and white teachers' salaries in southern states, and equalization of school terms for both races in these states.

That phase of the report dealing with economic opportunity set forth the association's fight to strike out differentials in the Wages and Hours Bill, aid to tenant farmers and sharecroppers, the fight against discrimination within the ranks of the American Federation of Labor, and the drive against discrimination in WPA and other relief agencies.

The association spent $49,312.87 during 1937, received $48,548.61 in income from all sources. The report disclosed that the association's executives traveled more than 106,000 miles last year in pushing the organization's work mainly in the southwest, northwest, and the North Atlantic States.

WHO WOULDN'T SMILE?

Walter White, NAACP secretary, smiles as he receives a check for $2,500 from John Roxborough, manager of Champion Joe Louis, representing a gift from the Brown Bomber to the association's work. The check was part of the Champion's share for knocking out Max Schmeling June 22.

N.A.A.C.P. SECRETARY TELLS NORTHWESTERN IT CAN STOP JIM CROW

Walter White Makes Statement in Round-Table Talk With Professor

EVANSTON, Ill., July 14—Officials at Northwestern university here have it within their power to stop discriminatory practices against colored students at this school, Walter White, secretary of the NAACP, told 2,000 persons at the First Methodist Church here July 5.

Mr. White made the statement in the course of informal "conversations" with T. V. Smith, philosophy professor at the University of Chicago, in the second of a series of round-table talks for summer school students sponsored by Northwestern university.

The conversations were broadcast throughout the church's auditorium as the university professor "interviewed" the secretary of the NAACP, while the two sat at a table on the platform in front of a microphone.

Pointing out that it was the duty of a university to educate people out of their prejudices, Mr. White said that dormitory discrimination against colored students, discriminatory practices in Northwestern's medical school, and the barring of colored students from the university-owned beach property along the shore of Lake Michigan here was the result not so much of inherent racial antagonism but of the fear and timidity expressed by university officials in facing the problem honestly.

Afterwards Mr. White was informed that the university officials have acted against some of the discrimination and will eliminate all of it eventually.

Questioned by Professor Smith, himself a native southerner, on whether he believed the fear of intermarriage between white and colored people, on the part of certain whites was the result of instinctive racial antagonism, White replied:

"The fact that eighty percent of colored people have an admixture of white blood shows one of two things, either that there is no instinctive antagonism between the races or that there has come among us some latter day immaculate conception."

Walter White to Virgin Islands

NEW YORK, July 14—Walter White, NAACP secretary, will sail with his family today for a vacation in the Virgin Islands. Mr. and Mrs. White, their daughter, Jane, and their son "Pidge", will visit with Judge and Mrs. William H. Hastie. The NAACP executive, who has not had a real vacation in more than four years, is having this rest virtually forced upon him by the board of directors of the NAACP which became alarmed over his physical condition after the hard fight for the passage of the federal anti-lynching bill last winter. Mr. White will return to New York about Labor day.

Patrol Enforces Sticker Rules

Officers of the California Highway Patrol are strictly enforcing windshield sticker regulations, Chief E. Raymond Cato pointed out today in advising motorists of the use of stickers.

Chief Cato explained:

"The Motor Vehicle Code specifically states that no sticker or stickers shall cover an area in excess of seven inches by seven inches in the lower corner of the windshield farthest removed from the driver, and definitely prohibits the use of stickers on either rear or side windows of a car.

LIBRARY BOOK NOTES

By Miriam Matthews

"We Europeans", by Julian Huxley et al was the first of many modern studies on race and race differences, most of which have been prompted by the present racial persecutions in Germany where there is obviously a total disregard for scientific facts. Following close after the publication of "Apes, Men and Morons," by Hooton, the latest in this series of biological studies is "Heredity and Politics," by J. B. S. Haldane, an English professor, which treats of the principles of human heredity, the origin of hereditary diseases, the nature of racial differences and the race problem. Criticism is made of the stringent measures which have been taken in Germany, both for the expulsion of Jews from many walks of life, and for the compulsory sterlization of many Germans, said to be based on biological facts. Mention is also made of the wide powers of sterilization which is being made possible by legislation both in the U. S. and in England before our knowledge of human heredity justifies it. Including as it does, frequent references to the Negro in its racial comparisons, "Heredity and Politics" will prove of interest to students of the Negro problem in the U. S. and elsewhere.

"Interracial Justice", by John LaFarge is one of the many recent publications by religious groups in America dedicated to the improvement of race relations everywhere. A contribution of the Catholics ,this volume points out in its introduction: "One of the most substantial achievements of recent American sociological literature has been to demonstrate that the Negro-white problem is only one of a multitude of similar interracial problems in this country, and, indeed throughout the world. Many a conflict, which at first sight seems purely racial, when more closely analyzed is resolved into economic, educational, political, or other non-racial factors. The work of racial adjustment is simply a part of the great task of harmonizing the various cultures and civilizations of the world in such manner as to achieve cooperation and unity in essentials? without destroying human liberty and diversity of expression. Christianity points the way to the accomplishment of such a task."

New Supply of Boulder Power O.K.'d

Construction of a third transmission circuit from Buolder Dam, thus eliminating from present consideration the building of a steam generating plant which otherwise would have been necessary to avert a power shortage by the end of next year, was assured this week when Arthur J. Mullen, president of the Board of Water and Power Commissioners, and Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, fixed their signatures to an agreement that will enable the Bureau of Power and Light to take an additional large block of Boulder energy under existing options.

E. F. Scattergood, chief electrical engineer and general manager of the bureau, under whose direction the agreement was negotiated, said that, to meet the city's increasing demands for electric energy, the line should be in operation by December, 1939. Hence, he declared, no time will be lost in getting the project under way.

Officials estimate that the new circuit, to cost approximately $13,000,000, will increase the bureau's Boulder Dam transmission facilities by 150,000 kilowatts. Two circuits, in service since October, 1936, are now operating at full capacity.

Civil Rights of Negro in U.S. Improve

NEW YORK, July 14.—The civil rights of Negroes have shown perceptible improvement in the past year, according to the American Civil Liberties Union's 18th annual survey of civil liberties in the United States, just published in the form of a pamphlet entitled "Eternal Vigilance".

"Lynchings have dropped to the lowest record in years", reports the Union, "doubtless due to the fear of the passage of the federal anti-lynching bill. Eight Negroes were lynched in the year 1937—four of them after June 1st. No lynchings have taken place in 1938, making the total for the year June 1, 1937 to 1938 four. A score of threatened lynchings were prevented by increased vigor on the part of law enforcement officers, doubtless an effect of the campaign for a federal law."

While the defense of Negro civil rights is handled by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People the Union occasionally aids that Association or becomes loyally involved in some case. The Association and the Union are jointly attacking the denial of the right to vote to the large Negro population in Wagoner County, Oklahoma. One test case in the federal courts is pending.

WIFE FOR NEW DEAL, HE WANTS DIVORCE

PITTSBURGH, July 14. (CNA)—Wealthy Charles A. Meyer, white Pittsburgh industrialist, cited praise of the New Deal as cause for divorce, here this week.

Life with his wife was a series of embarassing cruelties and indignities, reaching a peak in her insistent praise of President Roosevelt at a fashionable dinner party, Mayer told Judge Thomas M. Marshall.

New Orleans Bars CIO for Organizing Negroes

NEW ORLEANS, July 14. (CNA)—Declaring that "they sent a lot of beef men here from Frisco to agitate among colored people as to their rights," and that "they are preaching that colored people are the equals of white men and should mingle with them socially.", the local authorities this week launched a campaign of wholesale arrest and deportation of organizers of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Several clashes allegedly have occurred between the police and union organizers, the most serious of which resulted in three CIO members being shot and wounded and more than 100 arreseted.

The CIO, through its general counsel, Lee Pressman, has appealed to the Federal Government to intervene in the situation.

Suits to enjoin the Mayor and the Superintendent of Police from further interfering with its rights have been instituted in the United States Circuit Court by the CIO.

JOB COERCION BY WPA HEADS DENIED

WASHINGTON, July 14. (CNA)—"Enemies of the unemployed" are behind the widely publicised charges of "coercion" of WPA workers by the New Deal Administration, President David Lasser of the Workers Alliance asserted this week.

Lasser's statement followed a terrific hubbub about a speech by Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator, to a conference of unions on white collar projects called by the Alliance. Williams had told the delegates: "We've got to stick together. We've got to keep our friends in power."

Remedy Noisy Man-hole Covers

Los Angeles citizens who are annoyed by the noise caused by motor vehicles passing over old type manhole covers for the sewers and storm drains in public streets are assured that the condition will be promptly remedied when complaints are registered with the City, according to an announcement made this week by Adolph W. Hoch, president of the Board of Public Works.

Plans have been made this year for the City's Bureau of Engineering to eliminate this noise by placing silencer gaskets between the manhole cover and its seat. The bureau will welcome requests to silence noisy covers and will make an effort to respond to all calls in the order in which they are received, President Hoch announced.

RAILROAD CLATTER

By: CHARLES L. UPTON

UPTON SAYS—

What's the matter with these high powered politicians this year. Last year by this time I had been invited to about ten good dinners in behalf of the cause of this candidate and that one. Don't they know they can't get elected without throwing a free feed now and then. They sure are getting off to a slow start. Why I will starve to death waiting for them. I am wondering if I will have the opportunity of shoving my feet under a table sponsored by Lawrence LaMar and Loren Miller who are running for Democratic Committeeman. How do they expect a man to help get them elected on an empty stomach? What kind of politicians are they anyway. You boys better hury up and get busy and get some hot dogs or something if you want to ride on my band wagon. Don't you know that I control most of the votes in this town.

Murry was a very busy hostess for the occasion, demonstrated her efficiency in supervising the serving of over 60 guests. All members of the Council did their part, assisting the committee in the gigantic task.

Where Did James White Get the Squabs?

Jimmy White, side kick and pal of Bill Asbury, has yet to explain how he managed to get Asbury to bid on the2 Chicago line so that he would be away from home long enough for Jimmy to pull a dinner off Asbury's squabs. Asbury claims he gave the squabs a count before he left on his trip to Chicago and when he returned he was short about six. The madame says she didn't eat any. His sister says she didn't eat any, but Jimmy pulled a big squab dinner. Where did he get them?

DOWN IN FRONT

By ALMENA DAVIS

On a trip through the print shop to the pencil sharpener the other day, we happened upon a batch of freshly printed stationery spread on the dryer. The graceful figure of a golfer poised in the manner, which either means a sliced golf ball or "Fore", dependent on the calibre of your golf, caught our attention. We had known of the West Coast Golf Club, but we didn't think the organization was as official as the letter-head affirmed.

Not only is the group serious about the business of playing golf but it displayed the proper spirit in ordering its equipment from the West's Best print shop, so, our curiousity aroused, an interview followed over the office till with L. A. Miner, club secretary, who subsequently came in to pick up his printed matter.

Mr. Miner threw away a cigarette stub when I broached the subject, filled his pipe, lifted his eybrows at my naivete about the subject of golf, and otherwise expounded.

Five years ago the boys organized, he said. Dr. Walter Hobson, now deceased, Henry Moore, who retired from actively "swinging" a brassie when the jitterbugs took it up, Monroe Boykin, Oscar Clisby and O. R. Jackson were the early guiding lights. The last mentioned three are still active. Clisby and Johnson, to put it mildly. Those two are numbers one and two respectively in the club, shooting 73-75, which is par golf in any man's language . . not mine, however, since I hardly know what it means, besides being no man anyway. . . .

Miner seems to remember vaguely when Clisby and Jackson, or maybe it was Clisby alone, (enlighten me, boys, was a city tournament. Anyhoo both of them, plus Boykin, Sidney Provost, Johnny Riddle, Marion Forsythe and Dr. C. A. Bradford the president, are entered in the present City tournament, results of which play might be announced elsewhere on this page.

Clisby is 1938 champion of the club, winning from Jackson last week in the play-off at Griffith Park 74-75.

Future activity of the club includes the National Negro Tournament, an open affair to be held August 30 through September 3 in Chicago. Members who plan to go are Clarence Lay, who shoots around 73, Roscoe Jones, 75, Ollie Terry, 84, Hiat Porter, 72, James Buchanan, 75 and Clisby.

Talking right manfully through the pipe clenched between his teeth, Mr. Miner set us right as regards golf being a rich man's game.

"Negroes have the wrong impression," he said. "Golf isn't expensive. For example you can buy a bag and five clubs for $25.00. Current expenses run about $5.00 per week if you are an ardent fan and play at least three times a week. That includes balls, green fees, lunch, etc., and the average player doesn't play more than twice a week, so it wouldn't cost him that much."

Five smackers, eh? No-o-o-o, that's not a fortune . . . ping pong is a nice game, however, or even better is sand lot baseball . . .

Farther up the column I mentioned the name of Johnny Riddle, if you know your athletic history, you remember Riddle. If you know your athcavort about Howard Field with a pigskin under his arms, before the "Take the Next car" sign was hung out for we'all by Howard Jones. Riddle is a draftsman in the office of Paul R. Williams of the Wilshire Williamses, y'know. He we imagine can well afford golf.

The roster of officers of the club reads something like the social register. Dr. Bradford, prexy, is supplemented by Boykin as vice, Oliver Busch as assistant to Miner, Sigman H. Smith, corresponding secretary, Dr. E. W. Hardimon, treasurer, Clarency Lay, parliamentarian, Porter, sgt.-at-arms and professional (that's the guy that points out why you swing wrong when you don't swing so as to hit the ball), Warren Vinston, reporter, Ollie Terry, chairman social committee, Clisby, chairman tournament committee and Henry Lewis, chairman membership committee. There are 45 members, no women or similar pets. Miner said there are three or four women playing at golf, for whom they anticipate organizing an auxiliary.

Although they thus discriminate against the fairer sex, they have encountered prejudice at but one place, the Western avenue golf course. At Sunset, where they swing out regularly, the going is great.

SWINGING ON GREEN

Brassie . . . mashie . . . green . . . fore — it's all Greek to many of us, but the gentlemen in such formidable poses above and to the right, know what it is all about. Members of the West Coast Golf association, they are in their element now as the "green-tee" season reaches its height.

The gentleman in the coat (above) is Oscar Clisby, champion player of the association. And the fellow whose golf club would hit you in the face were he to complete his swing, is O. R. Jackson, whom Clisby defeated for the championship. Ollie Terry, who is hosting the golf club's meeting tomorrow night at his home, 3428 Budlong avenue, poses for the camera on the far right. For further details see "Down in Front" on this page.

CROUCH FAVORS RIGHT HAND, BUT SLASHES OUT WIN OVER BRANDELLI

Lanky Hanky Mobley 'Blows' Decision to Dallas

By J. CULLEN FENTRESS

Crouch, who, it is believed, would make a good foe for Baby Arizmendi, had Brandelli on the floor three times during the 10 rounds. His cool and deliberate boxing skill showed to advantage over the staying qualities of Brandelli who was in his first main event. Charley Randolph was the referee.

Lanky Hanky Mobley, ex-Golden Gloves lightheavyweight champion, blew a 10-round decision to "Texas" Jack Dallas in the second half of the double wind-up. The aggressiveness and harder hitting (when he could reach Mobley) of Dallas caught the eye of Referee Benny Whitman.

It was Dallas' second straight win over local colored boxers. Charley Coates was his previous victim by decision.

In the preliminaries: Jimmy Casino took a hard scrap from Joe Torres; Jimmy McDaniels and Lee Orey boxed a draw; and Bernie Reyes took the opener from Tony Ramirez.

HANKINSON-CROWELL

Next Tuesday night, Hank Hankinson, substituting for Big Boy Bray, who is ill, will meet "Chuck Crowell in the Olympic feature.

Strode Back from Spike Wars in East

Home from the Eastern track wars came Woodrow Strode, U. C. L. A. weightman, last Thursday night. Accompanied by Paul Van Alstine, white distance runner on the Bruin squad, Strode slipped quietly into town at the Central station and out on the Eastside to his parents' home.

An explanation of several things that went on back East where the athlete participated in three track meets, the NC2A in Minneapolis, the Big Ten-Pacific Coast Conference dual affair in Evanston, Ill., and the AAU meet in Buffalo, was forthcoming when an Eagle reporter interviewed the husky youth.

"I found out that I will have to learn the "reverse", Strode, said, in answer to questions as to why he didn't live up to newspaper predictio

COMPLETES CYCLE

He explained that he has been shoving the shot all season without the "reverse" the completed cycle of motion that throws the power behind the iron ball. He found to his chagrin that when he came up against the eastern big guns, to win—he had to be equipped with all that strength and natural ability plus form could give him.

Summary of the Bruin player's performances in the past month follows:

At Minneapolis, fourth in the shot put, failed to place in the discus:

At Evanston, first in the shot-put;

At Buffalo, third in the shot.

After the national collegiate affair Strode said his arm went a bit dead and he "laid off" the discus.

LAUDS LACEFIELD

The Bruin footballer and track athlete was loud in praise of his teammate, Bill Lacefield, who, winner of the national collegiate and the AAU broadjump titles, leaves or has left, according to contradictory reports, for Europe where he will compete for the AAU in the summer European meets.

Strode confirmed the report (see EAGLE July 7) that he, Lacefield, Leonard Spencer of California and Mack Robinson of Oregon left the swank white Sovereign hotel in Chicago for a Southside hostelry after some difference arose.

"They asked us to be served in our rooms one day when they were having a wedding at the hotel. Some of the fellows had reported discourtesy on the parts of elevator operators, so we just thought it best to leave".

Goodman in his first round, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3. Meeting Anderson, a veteran in the second frame McDaniels was humbled 7-5, 6-4.

NBA Ranks Eleven in Five Divisions

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The National Boxing Association on Monday ranked eleven colored fighters among the topnotchers in five of the eight divisions of prize-fighting.

Among these were three who hold four recognized world's championships -- Henry Armstrong, featherweight and welterweight; John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight and Joe Louis, heavyweight.

In the heavyweight group, Roscoe Toles was ranked in the first ten, besides Joe Louis. Next to Louis came Tony Galento, Jersey Italian, whose rating was based on his consecutive knockout records and his willingness to meet Louis.

Among the light heavyweights, Tiger Jack Fox was ranked No. 1 contender for the Lewis crown. He was followed by Al Gainer of New Haven, Conn.

In the Middleweight division, Ossie Stewart, the hard hitting Pittsburgh lad, was given No. 7 post with Freddie Steele, white, recognized as the champion.

The one and only Henry Armstrong topped the welterweight group; his leading contender is Coferino Garcia of the Philippines. Two other colored fighters were ranked in this division--Holman Williams, who is No. 2 contender for Armstrong's crown and Gene Buffalo of Philadelphia rated as No. 6.

With Homicide Hank holding highest honors in the featherweight class, the No. 2 post is held by another colored lad, Jackie Wilson of Pittsburgh and farther down at No. 8 position is Johnny Hutchinson of Philadelphia.

Little Sexto Escobar, Puerta Rican, is recognized as bantamweight king with his countryman, Pedro Montanez in No. 3 position.

LAUNCHES NEW ADULT PROGRAM AMONG BAPTISTS OF NATION

Dr. J. L. Caston, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church and Commissioner of Religious Education for the Western Baptist State Convention of California, was selected by Dr. M. A. Talley and the delegates assembled at the International Convention of Religious Education Workers at Columbus, Ohio during its recent session, to launch the United Adult movement among National Baptists. Dr. Talley who until this year has been Dean of the National Baptist Sunday School and BYPU Congress and who was scheduled to present the new project was unable to be present due to the serious illness of his wife, and Dr. Caston was unamiously chosen in his place.

The United Adult movement is a companion movement for the United Youth Movement among all Christians representing thirty states, one foreign country and sixteen denominations. It had its inception at the Lake Geneva Conference in July 1937 and seeks to meet the need of all evangelical faiths in the training of adult Christians for efficient church membership and leaderships. Dr. Caston called a committee of fifty National representatives to a breakfast conference at the Southern Hotel in Columbus on July 1, and after what was said to be one of the most effective presentations of the convention, the United Christian Adult Movement was approved and the co-operation of the National Baptist Convention urged. Dr. J. Raymond Henderson of New Rochelle, N. Y., suggested a plan of co-operation with the Executive Boards of the Congress. Dr. W. H. Jernigan, president of the National Baptist Sunday School and BYPU endorsed the project and he and Dr. Caston were appointed to work out the details with the Executive Board of the Congress. Judge William H. Harrison of Chicago who is superintendent of the Olivet Baptist Sunday School, Dr. L. K. Williams, pastor, presided at the meeting and assured the leaders of his co-operation as President of the National Baptist Convention.

Dr. M. A. Talley, Director of Religious Education for the National Convention Publishing Board, resigned as Dean of the Congress and Dr. Caston who is an accredited Dean under the International Board of Religious Education has been favorably mentioned for the place, which will be filled at the St. Louis meeting of the National Baptist Convention.

A study decorated with beautiful flowers and a welcome sign hung in the auditorium greeted Dr. T. L. Griffith, pastor, upon his return to Second Baptist church, after a trip to Tuskegee, and Columbus, Ohio, where he attended the S. S. and BYPU Congress, the NAACP and the Inter-national Education Conventions. His sermon on "Thy Kingdom Come" was delivered with characteristic fervor and inspiration. A large audience was present.

In the afternoon the Vesper Choir attired in beautiful new robes, presented the Inter-Church Choir Chorale, of six visiting choirs, to a large audience. Mrs. Morrow, director.

In the evening the American Legion Auxiliary No. 92 Unit 532, held a very impressive Flag Dedication service with sermon by Dr. Griffith and a panel discussion by Atty Willis O. Tyler; Judge Ben. B. Scheinman, John R. Quinn and Mrs. C. A. Bass. Dr. Adams of Brooklyn, N. Y. will be heard the fourth Sunday.

The Big Gospel Tent at 49th and Central avenue, was over crowded last Sunday night as in previous nights and the interest in Evangelist Rodgers picture sermons increases every week. Services are held every night at 7:30 p. m. when the Community sing from the screen thrills hundreds that take part Sunday night the speaker will present "Will thirty dollars every Monday morning bring about Utopia?" This--like all the other sermons will be illustrated by the use of screen pictures. A choir of 40 voices sings every night.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

Jesus' words, from John: "As the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself," constitute the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Life" on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

The Lesson-Sermon includes also these words of Jesus, from Matthew: "Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it;" and these statements of the Psalmist: "The LORD is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? the LORD is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?"

Among the selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, are the passages: "If the disciple is advancing spiritually, he is striving to enter in. He constantly turns away from material sense, and looks towards the imperishable things of Spirit. If honest, he will be in earnest from the start, and gain a little each day in the right direction, till at last he finishes his course with joy."

"The Need of Ideal Values" will be the subject of the pastor's morning message Sunday, July 17, at the Lincoln Memorial Congregational church. This will be Rev. E. E. Lightner's second sermon in a series on "Some Fundamental Needs of Men." The entire day will be known as club day and the Junior Usher Board will render a musical and literary program in the evening.

The Little Minister

(To Rev. Clayton Russell)

"Time marches on", "What ever is, is best".
God smote the shepherd; he lay down to rest.
His protoge, whom he loved, as a lad,
Came forth in tribute, as a son to dad.

The sheep were panicky, with grief and shock;
For twenty years he was their guiding rock
Some oldester said, let's give the youth a try.
With wild relief, the flock did stamp and cry.

The little proxy, child of providence
Began his reign, with poise and confidence.
Each faltering step was made with utmost care.
Each obstacle, was sent to God in prayer.

Ideals preserved; he sought to moderize;
The masses cheered, while vultures criticized.
When greedy tempors sought to turn him fool.
He stiffled them with logic sheer and cool.

His charge is heavy, but his heart is light.
His skin is dusky, but his soul is white
His strength enduring, and his courage bold.
His strides of progress, limitless, untold.

The little minister, patient and kind.
Shares all he has and unto self is blind.
The sick, distressed, and poor under his wing,
Have learned to smile, to laugh, to pray and sing.

POLITICAL POTPIE

By IRA

Supervisor Herbert C. Legg, in his drive to land the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, is no longer marking time by back-slapping and barking over the radio. Monday, the morning sheets carried good, healthy ads setting forth his ideas of state government. So far, Negro newspapers are being overlooked by the whole gang, and if this action is kept up until the eleventh hour, it's going to be just too bad. A candidate who wants the vote and support of the Negro will make it known thru the columns of publications that plead the cause of the group year after year. Candidates too prejudiced, stuck-up or what-not to announce their campaign wares in Negro papers mean the race no good and employ this means of letting us know it.

We've just been told that Central Avenue headquarters of Hatfield-for-Governor will open next week. Hatfield is the most talked-of Republican in the race and old-time political forecasters say he'll be nominated.

xxxxxx

Republicans are slow getting underway on the Eastside, in fact, throughout the state. Plenty of candidates and money but no ballyhoo. What's the holdback?

xxxxxx

Pierson Hall is a hunk of lead around the neck of Sheridan Downey. Mr. Downey is one of the most popular Democrats on the coast and his friends say they are sorry Hall didn't choose some other candidate to slaughter.

xxxxxx

Wood Wilson and Charlie Alston, 62nd District Republican Central committeemen, are big leaguers and doing yoeman service to put over the party program.

xxxxxx

The "grinder" seems to have been unsuccessful in replacing points broken off of chisels two years to the windward. We see 'em riding downtown elevators or standing across the street watching for Mr. Billy to drive up to his office. Too bad boys, but the old-time buttonhole politician is as obsolete as a horse and buggy.

xxxxxx

An ordinance prohibiting operation of one-man street cars in San Francisco has been declared constitutional. These Los Angeles city dads might "talk" passage of such an ordinance, but it would never see the light of day. The tinkling of the guinea will change anything but the moon.

xxxxxx

Percilla Randolph, one of the oldest female members of the Los Angeles bar, is a candidate for judge, office No. 16. She has resided in Los Angeles since 1910.

xxxxxx

Talking with a friend on the Avenue Monday when Albert Williams piloted Spurgeon Jones across the street. "Everytime I see those boys," remarked the friend, "I'm reminded of Williams and Walker. The W. & W. team scaled the top-most peak of the theatrical profession. Who knows but that W. & J. are headed for the big things in politics?" Jones is a Republican candidate for Assembly, 62nd district, and Williams is managing his campaign. A great team!

xxxxxx

John Gee Clark, Democratic Assemblyman, 70th district, would like to serve as Superior Court Judge, Office No. 3. Likely he'll have more details in these columns.

xxxxxx

Austin and Myles, Republican Assembly candidates in the 62nd, are gum-shoeing at present. The boys will don tap footwear shortly.

xxxxxx

Candidates who use Negro papers as an advertising medium realy want and will appreciate your vote and support.

xxxxxx

Clifford E. Clinton, 38-year-old vice crusader, suffered a severe foot injury in a motorboat accident at Lake Arrowhead Sunday. He was treated at Georgia Street Receiving hospital.

xxxxxx

Vernon McCalla and the foxy Mr. Dick Abrams were plotting the defeat of some ambitious candidate Saturday while closeted in Dick's office.

xxxxxx

Titus Alexander, dean of Negro Democrats, is again in circulation, but is locked-up like a clam on politics. Titus will break out before the ball is over.

xxxxxx

John Fowler has gravy that Hatfield will win the republican gubernatorial nomination. He says Olson would have a cinch against Merriam, but admits that the senator would have a tough battle in winning over Hatfield. He's been "spreading joy" up north.

xxxxxx

Judicial candidates will invade the Eastside in quest of votes will find sledding anything but smooth this Year of Our Lord. These dispensers of justice are going to be called upon to explain why Negroes have been excluded from Grand Jury service in Los Angeles County. There's no way to side-step the issue by dodging behind "the other fellow", for each judge has the right to select names for the jury or object to anyone not to his liking. If jurors are excluded because people ask [illegible] places that's a violation of law, so we've beat 'em to the punch again. Come on over, confess your sins, promise and keep it, that it will never occur again and we'll "shake" and be together as of yore.

Two white sailor straws moved along the Avenue Saturday. Under 'em was a white man, the other black. Fine specimens of manhood. Strapping, big fellows, standing well over six feet. They'd attract attention anywhere. We remarked, those birds are either wrestlers, fight moguls or race-horse men. "Wrong, my boy," said a denizen who was here when the Avenue was an infant, "that's Sergt. Sweetnam." Bless my soul, now, if we can only get to "lamp" Tommy Myles, we can pass out of the world feeling we have seen the most cussed and discussed geatry in this district.

This writer calls not on candidates for interviews, as member of committees, nor do we solicit advertising of any character. This is a part of the newspaper game we play not.

xxxxxx

Senator McAdoo is the first to open headquarters on the Avenue at 4255. Manager Bob Strather flanked by the veteran Emery Crane, Fay Allen and Miss Stacher, office steno, are really turning on the heat. "Now, Mr. Pie," Strather said Monday, "tell Mrs. Bass we know that Democrats, black and white, read the EAGLE, and we are going after 'em thru that medium. Senator McAdoo would say we were laying down on the job if we failed to recognize the 'old bird'". O. K. Bob, we're waiting.

Friends of Assemblyman Gus Hawkins say he'll be elected in the primary. Those who believe otherwise and possess sufficient intestines to back their opinion can really make some dough. Odds of 2 to 1 on the Assemblyman are plentiful along Central avenue.

xxxxxx

Hilton Phillips, Democrat of two years ago, says he's on a strike, and don't give an Alabama who wins, loses or draws. Hilt's sore because the big-wigs failed to pass the silver platter his way for services rendered. One of the men kicked against, says Hilt got his out in front. Here's both sides whose the fibber?

xxxxxx

Elias Hawkins is "just around". When things "happen", Elias will out-talk a Dutch uncle.

TELL THE WOMEN!

By POLLY POLITICS

"Tell the women and you tell the world." This tribute to the lady of the house was voiced today by Dr. Walter Scott Franklin, lieutenant-governor candidate, who is telling the ladies why they should vote for him in the coming state primaries.

Women, practitioners of the theory of thrift, appreciate thrift government, Dr. Franklin claims. He cited their record as proof.

"Women spend 80 per cent of the state's income in payrolls. They inherit more than 65 per cent of all estates. They have done a sound jpob in their budgeting and buying. California homes rank first in the nation in solvency, in bills paid and in mortgages cancelled."

With that envious record to their credit, Dr. Franklin stated he believed women could give many government officials an expert lesson in financing.

Practicing what he preaches, the Doctor, who operates one of California's most successful fruit ranches at Santa Barbara, promises that, if elected to the lieutenant governership of the state, he will temper some of man's aggressiveness with thrift, taught him during 25 years of married life.

"Today is the time for Californians to dedicate themselves seriously to the job of putting the principles of home thrift into practice in our state government", Dr. Franklin said.

In closing he explained that cutting the costs, did not mean commencing with the working man, who can ill afford it, but with high officials, who are garnering riches on the tax payers' money.

Dr. Franklin, a former professor at the University of California, is running for the lieutenant governorship on both major party tickets.

Political Ads On City Streets Banned By Law

Candidates for public office at the primary or general elections are being given a friendly warning this week by the Los Angeles Board of Public Works to refrain from posting political cards and advertising signs upon poles, trees or sidewalks in the public streets or thoroughfares of the city. The practice of using public property, or the properties of public utility companies in the public streets, for advertising purposes is a direct violation of a city ordinance, the board stated.

All cards and advertising matter posted in violation of the law are being torn down by employees of the street maintenance department, following a standing order of the board, thereby requiring unnecessary labor and expense in the expenditure of taxpayers money for that purpose.

Opportunity to Attend CMT Camp Increased

A slight quota increase for the August Citizens' Military Training Camp, will permit the enrollment of 25 to 30 additional boys, between the ages of 17 and 24, it was announced this week Already there are 106 boys qualified to attend the Camp.

Because of the very limited time, those boys interested must apply at once, in order to complete their applications and physical examinations, it was stated.

The Camp will be held at Fort MacArthur, San Pedro from August 9 to September 7.

Applications may be secured at the Eastside YMCA.

Elizabeth Ford Appointed Demo Chairman

Appointment of Mme. Elizabeth Ford, well-known civic leader as Chairman of Allied Group, Women's Veterans' Division, Democratic National Committee, by that organization's State Chairman, Gertrude D. Billitti, was acclaimed by a group of Southern California Democrats during the course of a breakfast meeting of the 62nd Assembly District at the Dunbar Hotel.

Mrs. Ford, a native of Albany, Georgia, (her parents were emancipated slaves) was educated in the Albany Normal school, Ethel Colton School of Expression and Dramatic Arts, and the Marshall Steadman School of Dramatics and Public Speaking. At present she is President of the Federated Club of Los Angeles, as well as State Officer of that group.

Early in her career she taught in Public Schools in Georgia and at Talahessee, Flordia. She came to California in 1910, and after the death of her husband, Chief cook for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company) she located in San Francisco in 1926. Prior to Mr. Ford's death she toured the State of California as a successful dramatic artist. Shortly thereafter, she was ordained by Bishop J. W. Martin, as pastor of the A. M. E. Zion Church at San Mateo, California.

Ann went East quite some time ago, and proved beyond all reasonable doubt that if you had the necessary requisites you could be a success in New York. Today Ann is the First Sepia Lady of Buffalo, N. Y. She is civic, social and political leader of her group. Plus the finest producer of theatrical entertainment in Buffalo.

Spurgeon Jones Highlights Background; He's Worthy

By ALBERT WILLIAMS

Interviewed a number of people who are vitally interested in his progress Spurgeon Jones, candidate for the Legislature of the 62nd District, this week revealed the following facts about himself. "I was born in Louisville, Kentucky, January, 1903. At an early age my family moved to Chicago where I attended school. After graduating from a Chicago high school I went to Knoxville, Tennessee and attended college. However, I did not complete my course there.

The first position I had was that of a laborer in a packing house in Chicago. While not very elevating, it was at least a start. Later I became connected with the dining car service on a railroad, making Chicago as my headquarters.

"This type of work did not appeal to me, and I then began studying in the evenings to further my ambitions. Fate was kind to me and I obtained a position in the County Treasurer's Office in Pittsburg, Pennsylvania. I was in that office for a period of five years and while there I held almost every position, even to that of tax collector, etc.

"Later my family moved to Los Angeles--about eight years ago. It took some time for me to make the proper type of connections and for a period of six years it was necessary for me to do domestic work, particularly that of chauffeuring.

"Two years ago I was fortunate in obtaining a position as salesman for one of California's largest home furnishing institutions. While with that institution I studied every make, period and finish in furniture as likewise interior decoration. After acquiring a knowledge of this line of business and having produced as large a volume of sales as the Caucasian salesmen in that institution who were my competitors, I was promoted to the position of sales manager in that institution's store at 45th and Central."

It has been learned that Mr. Jones comes from an upright family with considerable background. His father, Rev. W. A. Jones, is a pastor of one of the oldest churches in the United States. This church is the 5th St. Baptits Church in Louisville, Ky. and is a little over 110 years old. Prior to Rev. Jones' taking over the church as pastor, there were but two pastors in this old institution--Mr. Jones being appointed as the third one since its erection.

It has also been learned that Spurgeon Jones' brother, Paul Ford Jones, is serving as a Judge in the Compensation Court in Pittsburg, Penn. He has held this office for approximately four years and is considered one of the most prominent Negroes in the state.

Spurgeon Jones is married and the father of two girls.

Mr. Jones emphasized his famous "50-50 program", which is a plan whereby business men who enjoy Negro patronage will be persuaded to hire one Negro for each white they employ.

BEATING THE GUN

GETTING BACK TO EARTH AGAIN

Gosh all hemlock . . it feels great to breathe a free breath again after watching Joe Louis crowd every other type of news off the daily papers of the nation during the past two weeks. brown Adonis who within the short space of three years has earned more than a million, and become a name to conjure with far and away greater than that of Babe Ruth, DiMaggio, Dempsey, Braddock or any other sport immortal, whether you are inclined to agree with our veiws or not.

Just suppose we say in writing partial finis to the Louis-Schmeling battle that the bravest, fightingest young man this commentator has seen since we entered kindegarten (30 years ago) was on display at prevailing prices up to thirty dollars, that memorable June 22 nite, in vast Yankee stadium.

Nearly everyone is now inclined to the opinion that Louis overshadows every heavyweight champion that ever lived; that is the divine right of every citizen to think and analyze as he or she chooses. But one thing is certain: it is definitely a direct turnabout from the opinion that existed but a short two years ago when history of a different nature was written in this selfsame stadium.

Qualified experts like my friend and former doubles handball partner (what a player), Captain Wesley Williams took up the angles of the merits of Joe and Max for quite a while just prior to the fight, and not all of them inclined to the opinion that "Joseph-Joseph" would outlive the memory of that inhuman whipping, from from which some men never recover their equipoise.

So long Joe, for a brief spell from the roped arena where not only did you do proud by Joseph Barrow, nee Joe Louis, but to a race of people whose status in world affairs took a jump upwards, and make no mistake on that score whether you ever read sport matters or not in your daily routine.

Efforts are being made in Colombia to standardize the classification of domestic cotton.

ON THE AIR

By Sallye Bell for ANP

The world-renowned "King of Swing", Benny Goodman and his orchestra, whose "Camel Caravan" has been a regular feature over the Columbia network every Tuesday night for more than a year, has been given an extended renewal which was effective Tuesday, July 5. The renewal of the series will coincide with the conclusion of an extensive tour of key cities throughout the country in which Benny and his "Killer Diller" experts have broken personal appearance records with almost the abandon with which they play music.

Featured, as usual, in the distinctive programs, will be the famous Goodman trio consisting of Benny himself at the clarinet, Teddy Wilson at the piano and Lionel Hampton at the vibraphone, aided and abetted by the vocal selections of the Southern songstress, Martha Tilton.

You'll be interested to know--That, according to a tabulation of theme signatures used on various radio programs, made recently by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, more Duke Ellington compositions are played as themes than those of any other writer. Ellington's melodies are heard as themes on 37 radio shows, "Mood Indigo" on 16, "Sophisticated Lady" on 12, and "In a Sentimental Mood" on 9.

That Cab Calloway, with his Cotton Club orchestra and stage show, will spend the next four weeks playing theatres in Texas, which is said to be one section of the country that hasn't heard of a recession. His hi-de-highness of hi-de-ho, in addition to his regular appearances, will play a midnight show for colored patrons in each city. Following a dance tour through the south and middle west, Calloway will return to open at the Cotton Club early in September, where he will also stay during the New York World's Fair.

Here 'N' there 'Bout This 'N' That: Tho we (or maybe I should say "I") don't think she's so hot, Maxine Sullivan was with the "King of Swing" again last week, and is just as "Blotto" as ever in my opinion. I hasten to admit, however, that she must have something, and though her voice is not unusual, still it has an intimate quality that's appealing, especially when she sings. "It's Wonderful" . . . Earl (Father) Hinds was the main attraction at Woodland Lake, Jonesboro, Tenn., last week . . . Don Redman got the call for the Surfside Club, Long Island, opening with the Cotton Club show the 17th . . . Cab Calloway flew from Tulsa, Okla., for the Joe Louis fight, and took a plane the following day to open with his band in Houston . . . Duke Ellington postponed his operation until after the Joe Louis fight, entering the hospital the next day for a stay of two or three weeks.

FOOTLIGHT FLICKERS

By Al Moses for ANP

(For Associated Negro Press)

NEW YORK, July 14—Three hundred and ninty pounds of song wrapped up in nature's brown and we've given you a picture of the Peters Sisters who this past week delighted theatregoers of Harlem at the well known Apollo theatre.

Pigmeat Markham, the funniest comic local theatres have known during the past 20 years, was brought back to the scenes of his greatness by Jimmy Marshall, live-wire manager of the Frank Schiffman house. "Pigmeat" has merely to walk out on the stage with those loose oversized trousers of his and that "Laurel Hardy" facial expression to make his audience feel they've received one hundred cents for their dollar. He's a character who'll live in our imagination always.

Joe Bostic, cleverest young radio announcer currently on the air waves, rounded out his 28th Saturday afternoon broadcast known as "Tales of Harlem." Charming Monette Moore, a girl who sings with the best in the business, has been a featured artist on Joe's excellent program, along with the well known "Palmer brothers." Morgan college turned out a surefire crackerjack when they sent Joe Bostic out into the world with a sweepskin--and how!

Bill (Bojangles) Robinson will bring his million dollar dancing feet into the Apollo early next month. Fans are flooding the manager (Jimmy Marshall) with requests for the cinema idol.

Tiny Bradshaw moved back into New York for a week's appearance and added materially to the heat waves the weather provided. "Tiny" has a way with the gallerites that puts his antics over with a bang.

Chatter and . . . Some News

By HELEN F. CHAPPELL
Society Editor

While everybody's looking for a panacea for the disturbing times . . . and getting all worked up over whither America is bound, there's a woman up in Colorado Springs going about getting out the second issue of a new magazine, "The Free Republic". The magazine is one of the best yet to hit the stands, according to this humble opinion . . . because it doesn't lament the unemployed . . . etc. . . . It gives something very definite for the employed to do about this mess. Little things liket getting your teeth fixed and painting up your house . . . Jobs for dentists and the folks that clean their offices . . . jobs for painters and profit for the hardware store . . . See?

There's a legal looking document on my desk that strikes a happy tone. It's a petition for the adoption of a doll. Picked it up Wednesday at the grand opening of the Avalon Toyrarian No. 33 . . . seeing toys and happy children and folks happily working hard for them isn't an every day occasion. Head of the Toy Libraries says the opening was the biggest ever staged by any toy library in the county . . . which puts feathers in the cap of the sponsors! Saw there Eleanor Coleman, AKA basileus, in a becoming wide-brimmed dark hat with her mater, who has recently returned from a trip South and East . . . and Eugene Hoffman, who tendered me an autographed copy of his collection of homespun humor, "Hee-Hee-Haw" . . . it's a sure sender for the blues . . . also includes the first chapter from a novel scheduled to appear in the spring . . . and judging from the opening installment will be satire imbedded in humor. Different.

KEEPING UP WITH THE JONESES:

Thursday night, the AKA's hosted select guests at a sport dance which will be remembered for its informality and general conviviality. Friday brought a rush from a chatty meeting with pledgees and delicious sherbert in the home of Mrs. Edgar Brown . . . to the Thompson home on East Forty-eighth via Jean Thompson's new Ford given her by fiance Bob Parrish following his return from Australia . . . Went over to Jean's garden to see moving pictures taken by Bob on his tour . . . the most beautiful I've ever seen by an amateur . . . to borrow Urban Sec'y Covington's words, "It shows that Bob is the artist within". Pictures were in black and white . . . the last two reels in technicolor . . . Apparently, Bob didn't miss a thing, boiling lakes . . . the 150th Australian anniversary, etc. Between reels, doughnuts and coffee warmed the guests. Saw Georgia Williams with her Alpha "moment", Nolan Payton; Charles Edwards . . . blustering around as usual . . . Laura Slayton, smart looking . . . and needing a push for her "just over-hauled" car, and Gladys Harris. Bob's mother being mistaken for one of the girls . . . if anything, looking like Bob's sister . . . and a dozen others.

Saturday afternoon was spent with Dayton teacher, Viola Turner, at Carthay Circle . . . blubbering over "Marie Antoinette" . . . gosh, I wouldn't go to see it again for anything . . . what with everybody emoting . . . and such! Later eating dinner in Loggins with Viola and Mr. and Mrs. John Davis of 1608 West Thirty-sixth Place. Saw there Pat Hundley of the Vernon Nursery with a suave date . . . just in from Inglewood race track and looking very much the part of what the well-dressed young woman will wear at the tracks.

CUPID SENDS A SHAFT:

Sunday it was verified at a reception in Pasadena . . . that Miss Gwendolyn Diggs, daughter of Dr. Charles Diggs, is the bride-elect of the popular pastor of Independent, Rev. Clayton D. Russell. The pair will march to the tune of Mendelssohn's famous march in August. They deserve all the happiness I'm sure they'll have together . . . and here's hoping the cup of joy stays filled to the brim . . . always and always.

And Sunday morning while the Women's Breakfast Club considered problems of the day . . . Kappa Alpha Psi fraters took their sweethearts and wives and hied away to Crystal Lake . . . for the day. Sorry, I missed it, but Johnny Brewer, polemarch, says there'll be other doings . . . And come this Sunday afternoon, I'll be rushing to 1315 East Forty-eighth to help Zeta Phi Beta sorors host guests at a garden reception honoring visiting sorors . . . and present themselves for inspection. Later it'll be the Black and Tan Cafe where Club Coterie holds attention with a "Fashion in Cotton" style revue and floor show . . . it's from four to eight.

Recent visits of the Stork left girls at the home of both the William Cobbs (Thelma Lacefield, sister of track star Bill) and Augustine Normans (Ella Mae Hicks). Prominent visitors include: Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Stanton, popular Dennison, Texas couple, are touring the West coast and visiting friends; Prof. and Mrs. E. J. Hawkins and daughter of Fort Scott, Kansas, guests of his sisters at 300 East Fifty-first . . . The Edgar Foleys of South L. A. hosted Miss Ann Beachman, Berkeley; Miss Annie Foster and Atty. John Hill of Oakland . . . who stopped enroute to the AKA confab in San Diego over the Fourth . . . All the Hamptons (the whole shebang) were in San Diego for the week-end visiting brother Charles H., pastor of Bethel Baptist . . . to attend a reception honoring Mrs. Charles Hampton's sister and brother-in-law of Kansas City, Missouri, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Washington . . . Neile Adams and Consuelo Robinson "told it" to friends Sunday . . . and Connie has the third left properly adorned with a sparkler! . . . Catch you next week . . . s'long.

With more than a dozen healthy prize-winning youngstres crying "Ready", the Assistance League of the Outdoor Life and Health Association under the direction of Mrs. Fanny Williams Seth Lee, and Miss Francis Henderson, opened the Better Baby Contest last Sunday afternoon.

First Kappa Caravan Visits Crystal Lake

A high day of fun that began at 8 o'clock Sunday morning when nine carloads of young people pulled out of the Angel City at the invitation of fraters of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity culminated in care-abandoned hours at beautiful Crystal Lake, sixty miles to the northeast. The fifty young folk spent the day in the picturesque setting created by mountain, winding roads, clear sky and crystal water, in swimming, boating, hiking, taking pictures . . . and an old-fashioned picnic spread.

As a special tribute to the memory of James Weldon Johnson, foremost Race educator, author and composer, a memorial service was held at the Scott Methodist Episcopal Church, Sunday, July tenth, at seven forty-five. The invocation was read by the minister, the Reverend Karl E. Downs, with congregational response of Dr. Johnson "In Memoriam" was rendered by Mr. William Stewart, at the close of which taps were sounded.

Readings from Dr. Johnson's "God Trombones" were given by Mrs. Netta Paullyn Garner, concert pianist who recited the poems of Johnson over the network of the British Broadcast-played Debussy's "Sunken Cathsons ago.

The colorful life of James Weldon Johnson was masterfully portrayed by the Reverend Downs. There followed a musical interlude during which Mrs. Garner played Dubussy's "Sunken Cathedral".

Dr. Edna L. Griffin, and other friends of Dr Johnson, gave interesting highlights of the late poet's life.

As a musical tribute to Mr. Johnson, Mrs. Karl E. Downs, employed her beautiful soprano voice in the strains of O'Hara's "Tiste Is No Leath" and a famous Johnson spiritual "When I Fall On My Knees".

The service was concluded with the benediction and the third stanza of the National Anthem.

Public Affairs Meet Hears Plea for Negro

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., —Dr. Belle Boone Beard, white professor of economics and sociology at Sweet Briar College, Sweet Briar, Va., told the Institute of Public Affairs here that making America a real land of opportunity is the individual responsibility of every citizen.

"It seems to the leaders of the Negro race in Virginia that there are many needs for equalizing opportunity. For instance," she explained, "there are cities with a large percentage of Negro population, who employ no Negroes in public service. There are stalwart and brave Negro men who think that they could serve the Negro sections of their cities efficiently as policemen."

RACE SOCIAL WORKERS

She pointed out that there are excellently trained Negroes who think they should be allowed an opportunity to serve on the staff of State institutions for Negroes. There are highly trained Negro social workers who believe they could investigate and treat Negro clients as successfully or more successfully than white social workers.

"There are Negroes", she continued, "who are clean and respectable and law abiding and culture-loving who do not wish to live in unsanitary, disreputable Negro sections any more than white families of a high type wish to live in white slums and yet they are prohibited from buying or renting property elsewhere in the city."

Lydia Foster of Bakersfield Returns to City

BAKERSFIELD (By Jerry Fleming)—Mrs. Lydia Foster returned this week, after spending two weeks in San Francisco and other cities in the Bay Region. While there Mrs. Foster attended the Daughter Elks convention, and her sister, Mrs. Johnson of San Francisco.

Suella Foster is spending her vacation here with her mother, after having residing in San Francisco for the past year . . . My grand pals Johnny and Sammy spent the past holiday week end in Old Mexico . . . Playing the horses in Tia Juana and the dogs in A Caliente, not bad eh . . . a certain young man has been brutally nicknamed "the Stomper", and have been initiated to that royal brotherhood. I would not belong to such an organization . . . but such is life . . . It seems that Billy of S. B. is neglecting someone and that particular is going to be weeping on a rude shoulder, (soon, I'm thinking . . . This column takes time out in deep sympathy for the Herman Keys' family. Herman an outstanding student here at the local Jaysee, passed away last week, after having been ill for the last six months. Herman was well liked by all who knew him, and will be deeply missed in this community.

George G. seems to be in the groove again . . . Bussey is almost earning the title of being the best dressed boy in town among the school set . . . Brantly doesn't seem to think so . . . Why does a certain girl in L. A. named Bernice treat a certain boy in town so mean . . . They tell me he has written four times, but all in vain as no answer has he received. I guess he believes that old proverb of "try, try again". . . . The Swing Club is getting more popular every week . . . Seen at the club some high society mildly sipping cocktails and looking around. No, I'm sorry I can't tell who they were, but they were five ladies who as a rule don't patronize the latin quarters, so thats all gang, and don't say I didn't warn you in time . . .

El Centro Schedules J. W. Johnson Memorial Service

EL CENTRO, (By W. A. Payne)—Rev. Thomas Hughes preached last Sunday for the congregation of the Second Baptist church. The pastor, Rev. I. N. Whitten, was in attendance at the annual session of the Southwest Baptist Association, held in San Diego.

The men of the church will have entire charge of services next Sunday. They will furnish teachers and officers for the Sunday School. Rev. Whitten will preach during the morning worship. A James Weldon Johnson Memorial service will be held during the evening. Selections from the compositions of the author will be sung during the service by a men's chorus. The fifth Sunday, July 31 is designated Women's Day at which time the women of the church will have entire charge of the services.

Dr. H. Francis McClure, Presiding Elder of the San Diego District, A. M. E. Church conducted quarterly services here last Sunday, preaching two inspiring sermons morning and evening. This meeting was the last of the quarterly meetings for the year. The reports show a very successful year with promises of extended growth. During the afternoon services were held in which members of the several churches of this section were present. Rev. Mr. Browning of Brawley preached a most helpful sermon using as his subject "Time". The church has voted a two weeks' vacation to the pastor. Rev. and Mrs. Hayes are leaving this week for Los Angeles and will spend the vacation there and in neighboring cities.

Calvin Mosseau, City Clerk, died suddenly of heart failure during attendance at the United Artists Theatre. His death has occasioned great sorrow among our group. Mr. Mousseau or "Cal" as he was generally know, was the first of anyone in this section to recognize the ability and the claims of the Negro. He was the first to appoint Negroes as registration clerks. Before the redistricting of the city, he insisted on appointing Negroes on the election boards and felt justified in having the mixed racial boards. After the redistricting he appointed full Negro boards in two precincts. This policy of his he followed after his election as city clerk. He made no apologies for the things he did and did not allow himself to be dissuaded from doing the things he believed right. He was a real champion of Negro rights and the members of the race did not hesitate to show their appreciation by massing their votes to return him to office.

Citizens of El Centro are very much interested in the article appearing in this week's Pittsburgh Courier, announcing the engagement and approaching wedding of Miss Gervaise Jones of Berkeley and C. W. Moore of Pasadena. Miss Jones taught in the Washington School here during the past year and endeared herself very much to the patrons of the school. She has the best wishes of her host of friends.

Santa Monica Cosmopolitan Club Begins Summer Season

SANTA MONICA. (By Willie Louise Gilmore)—The S. M. Bay Cosmopolitan club commenced the summer season with two very lovely affairs. This lovely affair was followed by a very successful meeting held at the home of Mrs. Eunice Russell Ward, club president. Mr. Barksdale who was engaged by Alden Prudhomme, gave a remarkable discourse on ancient Negro history.

A committee was appointed to investigate cases of inadequate relief aid that has been reported to the C. C. Many prominent out-of-town guests were present including Miss Antoinette M. Christian, popular school teacher and socialite of Chicago.

The Bay Women's Business and Civic Club met at the home of Mrs. Viola Roberts of 1528 17th street, Thursday evening. This being the regular business meeting plans were made for the annual luncheon and exhibition which will be one of the outstanding social affairs in Santa Monica for the month of July and will be given at the Masonic Hall, 18th and Broadway, Thursday, July 21st from 1-4 o'clock.

Miss Elizabeth White was a pleasing hostess at her home, 1310 18th street last Saturday afternoon honoring Mrs. Minnie Thomas of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Ollye Chavais and Mrs. Clara Trotter with a delightful luncheon. The morning was very enjoyably spent by visiting the picturesque Japanese Gardens and other scenic points.

The LAUNDRYMAN

"Goofer-Dust"

(A short story)

I RECKON everybody has heard the old saying about "Hard times will make a monkey eat red pepper." Well b'lieve it or not, the slump in the laundry business here lately, with so many people trying to wash their own clothes, has drove me to practisin Voodooism. It all come about like this

One morning about two weeks ago I had driven all over my laundry route in Watts trying to collect some laundry bills, and hadn't been able to scare up a dime. I was just about to give up and start back to Los Angeles, when I stopped at a certain lady's house thinking maybe she might jar loose from fifty cents she had been owing me for some time. She's a stout, chunky woman, kinder dark, with pretty white teeth, and she's a stewardess in the Ezra Baptist church.

Soon's I knocked on the door once, she opened it and said real short: "Nothing doing today! I ain't got no change."

I was surprised about her acting so gruff, because she was generally very god-natured, so I asks her:

"What's the matter Miss S.? Did somebody steal some of your chickens last night?"

She untied her face a little and said: "No. I ain't lost no chickens. It's something else that's been on my mind all morning that's got me all peeved."

She stopped for a minute, looked at me real hard, and went on." Where is you from, Laundryman? Ain't you from Louisiana, or somewheres near round there?"

"Yeah, I'm from Bay St. Louis. You can spit from there to N'orleans." I says.

"Come on in this house, feller. You might can help me out. I always did think you was one of them Black Creoles," she says to me.

Well I went on in and sit down wondering what in the Sam Hill it was all about, and she opened up with her troubles. It was about some stockyard feller who had started attending the Ezra Baptist church, and how he'd come to every service on Sundays in his bad smelling working clothes and tak his seat in a chair right next to hers.

"I wants him moved", she says. "And I know that you Black Creoles from down home knows how to lay some kind of DUST round his chair that'll move him."

I loked at her real stern 'cause it hurt my dignity for her to be insinuating that I knowed anything about Black Art, and me having spent two years in college-prep learning to read Virgil, Julius Caesar, and soforth, years ago. I was just clearing my throat so I could get her told good.

In Which We Detect A Seeming Surge of Seriousness On the Part of the So-Called "Young Bloods"

OF RECENT months we have noted an apparent desire on the part of the "young bloods" to get at the bottom of things—things which have to do with their economic, social, religious and political welfare.

We are mindful of the fact that "young bloods" have always been more or less inquisitive about things. But today, these "young bloods" seem to have been bitten by this bug of inquisitiveness on a wide and general front. They seem to want to determine why their economic, social, religious and political well-being is at low ebb, and then to do something about it to make it what it should be.

This desire is not without reason. The "young bloods" are not so easily bamboozled, and not so susceptible to the old palaver that "everything is going to be all right". No, no! These "young bloods" today want to pitch in and MAKE "everything all right".

These "young bloods" of today appear to be the type who know what they want individually and, unlike the "young bloods" of yesteryear, now seem to be group-minded, desirous of going about this business of pitching-in, together.

Economically, they seem to know what it takes, do these "young bloods". They appear to seek those places where they get the best values in return for their money and, at the same time, have an eye on possible employment opportunities in the places of business they patronize. Those businesses whose products are used in large measure by these "young bloods" and their families, are seemingly thought of now in terms of profit-sharing, thru jobs, advertising, and the like.

We detect a seeming increasing job-consciousness, a job-consciousness in which we detect a new angle. These "young bloods" base it on reason. They figure if they spend so many millions a year as a group for products of a certain manufacturer that somewhere along the line of out-put they should have a hand. If a few of these "young bloods" were thinking in these terms this new consciousness might be easily squashed, but it seems to be the new method of approach on a general "young blood" front.

Socially, we detect a seeming inclination on the part of these "young bloods" to create better living conditions which include such conditions as those of recreation, education and housing. They seem to be more interested in securing the more up-to-date equipment and instruction for supervised out-of-door activity. They seem to want to make the most of their leisure time, with an eye on the time when they may have more leisure time than they now have.

In education, we detect a dislike for those methods which apparently thwart their ambitions for studying those courses to which they are inclined. They want to be free to study those things which they fell will be their lifes' work without being advised against it because of lack of opportunity for them for discriminatory reasons.

An increasing tendency to look for the interpretation of the Bible in terms of every-day activity is detected in the make-up of these "young bloods", too. We note a seeming attitude of tolerance, however, for those who dwell wholly upon the glories of heaven and the ingloriousness of hell. These "young bloods" seem intent on securing those messages which throw the light upon their pathway of darkness and obstacles.

These "young bloods", too, seem to be increasingly interested in better housing. A new field, they seem to look upon it as something to be fought for, and won. They see that through it, an increase in values, social and property, is to be had.

Politically, these "young bloods" seem to have taken the phrase, "a government of the people, for the people, and by the people" to heart, to the extent that they want to participate in it in all of its ramifications. If we are not mistaken, they seem to want to use their vote where it will do the most good toward fruition of this end. To accomplish this, they seem to be on the look-out for those office-seekers who are liberal in attitude and sympathetic in nature toward their problems.

This increased seriousness on the general "young blood" front bids fair to bring into clear relief the hopes for what has been termed through the years "a better place in which to live".

Popular Home Economist to Be Featured at Opening

As a crowning touch of perfection to the General Electric Kitchen July 16, at the James H. Coleman electric store, Mrs. Mamie Morgan, well-known Home Economist, will give a special demonstration from 1 P. M. to 10 P. M.

Mrs. Morgan started her present line of work upon the recommendation of a salesman for a large manufacturing firm, when she was employed in a doctor's office, who recommended her to Kate Brew Vaughn, famous cooking expert, and was associated with Mrs. Vaugh for many years. In their line of demonstration work she traveled with Mrs. Vaughn as an assistant all over the United States, including 20 states in the itinerary, working for the various newspapers and spending a period of one week in each city.

Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Vaughn were located at the Evening Express from 1925 to 1928, when that paper closed and they were employed by the Evening Herald until Mrs. Vaughn's death in 1934. Mrs. Morgan then transferred her services from Los Angeles to the school of Mrs. Marian Herbert of the Pasadena Star News.

After her period with Mrs. Herbert she then assisted Mrs. Ethel Rogers who works for the various newspapers and stores, and is now located with Mrs. Rogers at the May Company.

Mrs. Morgan has had routine work with most of the well-known demonstrators in Los Angeles and has proved herself extremely capable and efficient.

From this fund of experience Mrs. Morgan should provide a highly interesting and instructive demonstrator of the General Electric products. She will be assisted by Mrs. Epsie Hayman, Home service for the Bureau of Power and Light and an assistant to Mrs. Morgan for many years.

Assisting Mr. Coleman as hosts will be the General Electric appliance representatives, the Messrs. Cliff Ritchie, Otis Rene, and George Price.

California Federation of Women's Clubs in Meet

The California Federation of Colored Women's clubs, un-incorporated, was called in its final session on June 28 at Zion Hill Baptist church to finish its work preparatory to mergering with the incorporated body on July 26 to 29th inclusive at Second Baptist Church. The one day's session was well attended by enthusiastic workers. Mrs. Mabel Gray presided with her usual dignity and ability.

The Executive Board was called to order at 10 a. m. with chairman N. F. McMickens presiding. Much business was transacted. Highlights: Clubs paying their State and National taxes and the required amount necessary to defray expense of coming united federation. Receiving of accrued bill during fiscal year and recommending of same to open session. Adjourned for lunch.

The afternoon session was called to order at 2 p. m. President Mabel Gray sounded the gavel. Mrs. E. A. Johnson, superintendent of religious work held a timely devotional. Roll call and reading of minutes of morning board and adopted.

Theme of Federation "In Yesteryear"; Slogan: "Love Conquers All". Mrs. Esther Taylor Greenly is given the credit of this well planned program.

Mrs. Beatrice Polk Johnson lectured on Education of Yesteryears and compared it with today's, bringing out many good points. Responded by Mrs. Ada Brownlee stating that if the youth must stay in school until 18 years of age or graduation from high school, they should be given the advantage of the academic cirricular and not spend time just to graduate with the bare necessities for graduation; only to find too late they cannot meet the entrance requirement for college; thereby losing four years of work. Results of poor counseling on parts of paid counselors. We as parents must take more interest in our children preparing themselves for college entrance while being forced to remain in school until 18-years of age, causing time to be wasted. Quoting one writer, "Time is money, it is more than money, it brings what money cannot afford". Why waste their time in school. School was not designed for play but work.

Mr. Floyd Covington of the National Urban League was presented and lectured on "The Vicious Circle". His demonstration were in direct keeping with Mrs. Johnson's lecture. Mr. Covington brought the attention of parents their shortsightedness. He also presented the Mayfield Quartette. Responded by Mrs. Etta V. Moxley.

Mrs. Ardelia Anglin was presented to make her report of financial drive for funds to clear indebtness to California Eagle. Too much praise cannot be accorded this woman for her untiring effort. She like others are desirous of freeing the state of debts, but seem the only active one. With her effort the state will wipe a clean slate before the merger.

The resolution sent by President Gray to the various clubs, recommended by the committee sent to Oakland, Calif. on June 2nd was read and offered for discussion. It was unanimously adopted. Resolution as follows: "It is hereby resolved that we, in regular executive board meeting of C. F. C. W. clubs, have voted to, and are now ready to become an incorporated body at the setting of the convention during the interim of July 26th to 29th inclusive, to be held in Los Angeles, Calif.

Courtesy committee presented 11 new members and friends, each was allowed to express her interest and opinion of Federation.

Housing Committee, Mrs. Ida Ramsey reported progress and asked for more homes opened for housing delegates at coming Federation.

Treasurer reported $185.54; receipts for day with many clubs yet to report adjourned.

The evening session was opened with President Mabel Gray presiding. Theme: "This Is My Story". Various races were represented with their story told in song. The Misses Lottie and Florence Buchanan of Pasadena, Calif. sang their story in "My Desire" too beautiful to express. Miss Joyce Farley a young reader of Pasadena read her story in verse, "My Race with a Corpse." Miss Iola Brister of Monrovia told her story in lecture of the youth conference held in San Francisco and the obstacles met and overcame by them. Time and space will not permit mention of all. Thus closed the 32nd annual convention.

NAACP Will Probe Miss. Mob Murder

NEW YORK, July 14—Frankly skeptical of the reports that colored people had joined a mob in Rolling Fork, Miss., July 6 to lynch a colored man, the NAACP announced here today that it is arranging to send a special investigator into Mississippi to discover the facts.

The lynching of Tom Green, 48, brought forth a sharp telegram from the NAACP to Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi calling attention to his speech in the Senate last winter filibustering against the federal anti-lynching bill.

The lynching of Green was the first during 1938 and significantly enough, it ocurred in the state of Mississippi, which has the worst lynching record, having put to death nearly 600 persons through mob violence.

Last January in a long speech in the Senate, Senator Harrison asserted "most of the mobs that have lynched persons in the South did so to protect her women."

The NAACP telegram pointed out that Green was lynched after having had an argument with a planter over work and wages. In the argument the planter and Green exchanged shots and Green killed the planter.

SIDEWALK--

tiveness of a reform which attacks only the outward symptoms--gambling and corruption--of a deep-rooted economic ill.

WITH "Freedom of the Press" denied in a score of foreign lands, alternately threatened, upheld, and debated in America, and discussed over the Air-waves of the nation--at forums, and in the homes, this is as good a time as any to clarify a bit the newspaper's position--particularly Negro papers--in the set-up of our country.

As with most public institutions, the duties, organization, and policy of the Negro newspaper is greatly misunderstood. Of necessity, the race periodical must serve as an economic, social, and political weapon in addition to its first great duty of conveying the news. And here, to begin with, we have a controversial subject.

Conveying the news. Just what is this? The ideal of journalism holds that news is what is of interest to a great number of people . . .not the paper, its board of directors, or its advertisers. Hence, in order to follow the profession conscientiously, one should not strive to differiate in news stories with an eye to personal beliefs or policies. However, a determined execution of such an idea of impartiality often causes more dissension and criticism among a paper's friends and active backers than any other. Too often publication of a straight news story concerning a rival faction will bring forth heated accusations of treachery and disloyalty from an editor's own political group. So many fail to perceive that a newspaper's duty is first to it's readers . . .that they receive a thorough, impartial view of all the news. Policy and personal opinion is reserved for columns and the editorial page.

However, the treatment of certain broad issues in which racial views are unified . . . such as the anti-lynching bill, or the Scottsboro Case, . . . often includes deliberate coloration. Journalistically, unethical, it is true but here the Negro newspaper is serving its own particular, separated God; it is looking after racial welfare. In such cases there is no petty factionalism . . .every scrap of ink and paper laying claim to the title "Negro publication" is as one on these issues. Without a certain amount of calculated bias in news stories regarding the Scottsboro Boys, the reading public would never be stirred to a point at which it would contribute the necessary funds to maintain the fight for their liberation. Headlines, news leads . . .all must be organized so they inspire necessary action and viewpoints to the success of such a drive. In this sense, the Negro paper is purely a racial instrument.

In answer to the charge that the "Freedom of the Press" is being undermined in America, we state that these accusations are greatly overrated. Newspapers . . barring libel . . . still can print pretty much if extensive government advertising ever comes into being, the story might change. what they please. However,

There is no doubt that the free newspaper is a fundamental cornerstone of democracy. Its degeneration in foriegn lands is symbolic of what is happening in those countries. We learn with profesional horror that there are "Propaganda Schools" in Germany today which teach not the great tenets of impartiality and accuracy—but, instead ways and means of deliberately coloring every news item so that it supports the present regime and in some way throws blame on Jews.

So long as America is free from such schools of journalism, we feel that the "Freedom of the Press" is fairly safe.

JESS LEE BROOKS IN NEW ROLE

oOo oOo oOo

Essays Character of Baptist Negro Preacher

Jess Lee Brooks, whose performances in the Federal Theaters productions "Black Empire" and "MacBeth" drew wide approval of drama critics here, will be seen in a new departure from his former roles when he assays the character of "Rev. Jones", a Baptist Negro preacher in "Run, Little Chillun", Hall Johnson's folk drama with music opening at the Mayan theater July 22.

Brooks' career on the stage has been both interesting and varied since he graduated from Northwestern School of the Drama. He toured the West coast as a concert baritone, joined the Southern Jubilee Singers and established a school of the drama in Seattle, Wash.

Inspired by the work of Charles Gilpin, Brooks expressed a hope to bring finer characterizations to the stage than had been done by Negro actors.

Circumstances forced him to turn to cooking, waiting table, odd jobs and cheaper cabaret work for a living until he joined the Federal Theaters Project as one of the first members of the Negro unit.

Brooks declared that the present production setup for "Run, Little Chillun" is a part of his dream for a Negro Art Theater in Los Angeles.

Stepin Fetchit Featured in Paramount Stage Offering

Tonight the Paramount Theatre will feature a special press preview showing of Paramount Studio's latest production. Rated as the studio's greatest outdoor epic the film brings to the screen a great cast of stars.

Tomorrow the Paramount Theatre has a new program on stage and screen to make one of the gayest and most entertaining shows seen in a long time.

RUBE WOLF

On screen will be the star-studded hit "Tropic Holiday" in which Martha Raye, Bob Burns, Dorothy Lamour and Ray Milland share top honors. Mexico, the land of glamorous senioritas clicking castanets, blood-tingling rythms, bull fights and bull-throwing is the locale of this vastly different and entertaining screen hit.

It is Matadora Martha and Caballero Bob in the picture and these two are kept very busy with ferocious bulls and romance on tropic moonlit nights. Ray Milland is cast as a famed Hollywood author on vacation in Mexico to write a love story. Under the careful guidance of Senorita Lamour he discovers that he never knew anything about love before he ventured on this tropic holiday.

Agustin Lare, Mexico's most famous composer of popular melodies was brought to Hollywood to create the haunting rythms and tunes heard in the film. Arthur Hornblow produced this Paramount picture which was directed by Theodore Reed.

On stage Fanchon and Marco will offer the gay fiesta, "Mexican Follies". A host of entertainers and plenty of girls will embellish this revue. Stepin Fetchit, the laziest guy North or South of the Rio Grande is starred. This great show marks the return of Rube Wolf to the Paramount stage. The Fanchonettes are to be featured in fiery rythm dances.

Insurance--

a total of $14,000 was written by member companies of the association during the concerted week's drive.

In his statement to the Eagle reporter, Mr. Nickerson summed up the work of the convention under three heads (1) officials—managers and salaries, (2) the work of the medical department and (3) the agency division. According to Mr. Nickerson the first item lent itself to liveliy discussion of problems, methods of improvements, reports of experiences and problems in general affecting management. However, it was with consideration of the second point of discussion that he seemed most impressed and when asked his opinion of the good of Negro health week which was reported on in the convention, he said,

"Frankly, Negro Health Week is all right. The only objection, if I must give my opinion, is we do not have enough of it. I think every week should be health week . . .that is we should have fifty-two a year." Here the executive pointed out that most Life Insurance Companies are interested in people living and not so much in their dying . . .that happens only too soon . . no matter what the policy is. "One of the greatest services a life insurance company can render," he continued, "is to exercise necessary influence by advice or otherwise in helping people to live."

The medical reports of the convention found heart diseasees, pneumonia, tuberculosis and kidney diseases to be the most prevlent cases of death.

He cited the rejection of the applicant for a policy by the doctor as a definite service because, otherwise, the person would not know his health was impaired. A warning at the right time conserves life and restores many men to health thus putting off his funeral bill for probably 20 years.

When asked if the National Insurance Association justifies its existence, Mr. Nickerson hastened to reply, "We could not get along without it" and added if the National Association did nothing more than make persons more health conscious, alone it would justify its existence.

CITES PURPOSES OF ORGANIZATION

The purposes of the organization as contained in its constitution and by-laws were cited as encouraging and maintaining the insurance business, up holding correct principles to keep confidence between management, workers and their policy holders and the correction of abuses which may arise in methods of transaction. In coming on them, the Golden State president said, "It seeks to lend sympathetic advice to all member companies on how far to go in its expenditures to keep within the bounds of safety and security. "It encourages better management, making for stronger financial positions and the maintenance of highest grade of security in their portfolios necessary to carry out ends of successfully managed member companies in the preparation of the great ideals of the institution of life insurance. In order that each company may be able to render satisfactory service at all times to all of its policy holders!"

COMMENDS REPORTS

The local insurance magnate spared no words in praising the reports made by various officials attending the session of the N. N. I. A., and said he was especially impressed with the report of Miss Esther O. Tibbs, actuary and statistician of the national body and Asa T. Spaulding, actuary. Miss Tibbs is actuary for the Afro-American Life Insurance Company, Jacksonville, Fla., and Mr. Spaulding serves in that capacity for the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Co., in Durham, N. C.

En route to the east, Mr. Nickerson stopped in Chicago to survey the economic life of the Negro there and garnered some valuable statistics. The study was made to facilitate the establishment of Golden State in Chicago next year.

He also visited in Kansas City, New York, Washington, D. C., Durham, N. C., Atlanta Ga., Tuskegee, Ala., New Orleans, La., and Houston, Texas, and was accompanied by his wife, daughter Eloise, and son Melvin.

MUSICIAN AND ACTORS SHOULD BE REEMPLOYED IN AVENUE THEATRES

SAY IT WITH MUSIC!

The Colored Musician's Local called a special meeting Monday afternoon at their headquarters, to launch a program of support and to praise the EAGLE for the contemplated fight sponsored by the EAGLE in behalf of the local musicians and actors. The Musician's Local went on record to praise the EAGLE for its unselfish efforts in behalf of Negro musicians and actors of Los Angeles.

They had heard of my fight against so-called Negro theatres, and they are Negro theatres in name only as the only thing they want from the Negro is his money. But nevertheless, they are in a Negro neighborhood, so for the sake of identification, we will call them Negro theatres.

Mrs. Fay Allen, prominent local leader in music, social, civic, and political fields and for years a great friend of mine and who, herself, for years played the organ at the old theatre now known as the Florence Mills, put me in touch with Miss Martha Hana, whose father, Mr. Gordon, ran the first Negro theatre. He was a Negro and he shared his profits successfully with Negro actors and musicians.

I know this to be true, for long before most people who style themselves leaders and true Californians, came to this fair city of 'golden sunshine, Los Angeles. My old childhood pal, Lawrence Criner, with whom I used to romp up and down Central Avenue, did our first big flop in this theatre.

Criner was the blackface Bert Williams of our act and your editor was the George Walker. We had another chance at the now Florence Mills theatre and met with better luck upon this occasion.

In the good old days of 1914 and 1915, we could always find work on Central Avenue. That was before the smart gentlemen from the other side of the fence came over on our side. And folks, I am not unmindful of the host of grand friends we have on the other side of the fence. Truthfully, I believe we have more friends on the other side of the fence than enemies. But I am ever mindful of that group who must ever exploit the Negro.

The theatre taught me to be suspicious of those individuals who take our money and use us only as long as we prove profitable, then immediately discard us as soon as we cease to be so.

A SHORT, SHORT STORY

I remember a few years ago, I met two talented and grand young men—one was Duke Ellington, who had come to New York from Washington, D. C. He brought five or six other great musicians along with him. One very outstanding musician of this small aggregation was Bubber Miley, now deceased. This group of talented musicians, after trying several unimportant engagements, finally landed a job at the Club Kentucky.

After that place closed Duke Ellington and the boys would hang out with me at my club, the Golden Gate, at 135th and Lenox avenue. Being a Californian at heart, I had to carry the name to New York. There the Duke would sometimes relieve my piano player who, I am proud to say, was none other than Fats Waller, who I helped a bit on his way up.

Duke Ellington then got an engagement at the then unknown Cotton Club. The new day of radio was here. And into this set-up walked an enterprising young man by the name of Irving Mills. He signed up Duke. Despite public opinion, he didn't "make" Duke; quite to the contrary, Ellington was made by radio. And since we are on the subject, we want you to know that Ellington introduced the type of music that later revolutionized the musical world. And was still later adopted by the late George Gershwin.

Through the prestige that Duke Ellington gave Irving Mills he was able to put under contract great white artists, including the Boswell sisters.

Into this set-up walked Cab Calloway, who like Duke, gave his talent that Mills might grow rich. Today Mills is reputed to be worth many millions. I am certain that we have a number of Negroes right here in Los Angeles who are worth much more than Duke or Cab; for one, Bill Robinson, who escaped their fate.

There has ever been two kinds of managers, the one who was willing to take his fair and just commission and the one who signed the artist for one amount and sold him for another. The latter is the type who grew rich from the talents of the Negro artist and kept the artist poor and always dependent upon him. The other helped the artist to achieve security.

That is why the managers of Duke Ellington, Louis Armstrong, Buck and Bubbles have grown rich, while the persons who controlled the destinies of Bill Robinson, Ethel Waters, Paul Robeson, Marian Anderson were satisfied to let these latter artists secure financial independence along with them. And that is as it should be.

WAS IT GIGGLE WATER???

Arthur Twyne, one of the better known pianists of Los Angeles and accompanist of my child, Jeni LeGon, was injured in an automobile accident when he was enroute to his home after finishing his work at a nitery in Long Beach. The accident occurred in the early morning hours Sunday. He, however, sustained minor injuries and was able to return to work the next evening as per schedule.

Justa Harrison, assistant to Hall Johnson, sustained minor injuries while enroute to make his broadcast with his sextette Sunday. Despite his injuries, which consisted of minor lacerations and abrasions, Mr. Harrison continued to the studio and made his broadcast.

SHOULD BE ON A LOCAL THEATRE STAGE!
These young ladies of the chorus, shown here with Paul Robeson, are the type of entertainer that should be gracing the stage of our local theatres.

I stated last week in my column, "Light and Shade", the terrible economic condition of Central Avenue. I cited that the theatres on Central Avenue contributed no end to the present depression, particularly among actors and musicians. I told you of the employment enjoyed by members of our group before the managers that now operate these places took charge of them. There was a large number of colored actors and musicians working in the majority of these theatres prior to their present management. But the present-day management refuses to share his profits with Negro talent.

A few years ago the man who now operates the Hub theatre, the Florence Mills theatre and, this week takes over the Tivoli theatre, had only one theatre in our community, namely the Hub. Today, because he didn't have to share any of his profits with Negro actors and musicians and other Negroes that contributed to his wealth. He now has a chain of three theatres in our community.

Up and down Central Avenue there are just loads and loads of Negro actors and musicians out of work and I feel sure that if these theatres were owned or managed by members of our group this appalling condition could not exist. The Lincoln theatre, as I told you last week, employed large numbers of musicians, actors under other managements.

For 25 cents admission price you can go to a downtown theatre and see two feature pictures, a stage show and selected shorts. The stage show will consist of outstanding theatrical artists and the stage will include a first-rate orchestra. If a downtown theatre, with its high rate of rents, its large personnel, can offer you this huge program for 25 cents, I feel certain that a theatre considered first rate, as the Lincoln, could offer some stage entertainment and one feature with selected shorts.

The public has been decrying for the past few years the use of two features, for the most part, where one of them is an inferior production. That inferior production could be substituted with some real live entertainment consisting of comedians, singers and dancers, and beautiful girls of which Central Avenue has loads walking up and down the Avenue with no place to employ their grand talent. If these theatres of the past had insisted on pursuing the policy of the present-day theatre managements there wouldn't have been any Bill Robinsons, Ethel Waterses, Florence Millses, Paul Robesons, Millers and Lyles, and all your great Negro stars. Theatres that cater to Negroes gave these artists their first break and sustained them thru many a lean year. What's going to become of our future Bill Robinsons, Ethel Waterses, et cetera, if the present-day operators of theatres in Negro communities deny them work.

What was the use of the Negro men and women of Los Angeles to spend many hard-earned dollars giving your children a musical education when they can find no place to apply that profession. It might interest you Negro fathers and mothers to know that your sons do little or no recording the motion picture studios. It is done by white musicians. So you at least have the voice and money to dictate what you shall see and hear in your own community. A number of theatres in your community offer Bank Nights with prizes sometimes as high as $500 and $1,000. Only one can win this sum out of an entire Negro community. The other thousands must suffer inferior pictures and loss of employment. This amount of money, plus the amount that could be saved by eliminating their second, and for the most part an inferior, feature picture could be used to employ stage entertainment and musicians. So it's up to you to demand that these theatres where you spend your mony give your sons and daughters work.

The California EAGLE, which has more PAID subscribers than all other Negro newspapers combined in this community, comes forward with this statement. It proposes, to first serve its thousands and thousands of subscribers by letting you know that its advertisers do not control the California EAGLE.

This paper can ever be fearless and truthful because we are supported first, by our subscribers with their PAID SUBSCRIPTIONS. So that is the reason the EAGLE has donated this space, ordinarily reserved for our theatre advertisers, to bring home this appalling condition of our Black Commonwealth.

Music is one of the most ancient of the Arts and Music will survive as long as human emotions are left for music to thrill and charm. Music will be created as long as men have souls to receive inspiration for its creation, and we agree that soul and body must be held together.

Recently the 43rd annual convention of the American Federation of Musicians, of the United States and Canada was held at Tampa, Florida, which I attended.

It is generally known that the American Federation of Musicians is comprised of 120,000 professional musicians; musicians who earn a livelihood by use of their musical talents. The keynote of the convention was "Reemployment of Musicians".

There are in Los Angeles approximately 3000 professional musicians who are members of the American Federation of Musicians. There are 400 Negro musicians in Los Angeles, striving to earn a livelihood in the profession of music. The 400 Negro musicians and their welfare concern us today. Parents of these musicians have been satisfied in many instances to give their boys and girls an opportunity for cultural development but find that "Willie plays well" but "isn't payed well". Mamma and papa do not laugh when Willie sits down to play, for Willie knows his instrument. So well and good but "Willie" was given a musical education with a view toward equipping him to face the world and earn a livelihood.

The outlet for "Willie Musicians", seems to have diminished in recent years because of the mechanician of music. All of Willie's chances have been put in "Cans". Canned music today robs "Willie Musicians" of his bread.

Mr. Reader I could write in my humble way a long article about "Willie Musiicans", for I know him pretty well but to get to the point--we want you to help "Willie Musicians" get a job in one of the theatres in our immediate community; a job in one of our theatres which has colored managers who can't manage the owner to the extent that he will give your boys and girls a chance to get a dividend on the many admissions you pay.

We are demanding that the theatres of Los Angeles share a portion of their huge profits with musicians and actors. So we appeal to the fathers and mothers, the brothers and sisters of little "Willie Musician" to support the Eagle's program for re-employment of Negro Musicians and actors in the Negro theatres of Eastside Los Angeles.

Will "Willie" have a chance or Willie not--IT ALL DEPENDS ON YOU!

I was awful glad, after she spoke that way, that I had taken time to clear my throat, and I says to her:

"You sure had the right hunch when you picked me out. Sister S. My great-grand daddy was the best Cunjer Doctor in the whole State of Louisiana. When is you ready to lay this five bucks on the line?"

"Right now, if you'll take the job." And she turned to one side and went down in the First National, and came up with a neatly folded five-spot. I didn't lose no time taking it, 'cause I was broker than the Ten Commandments.

"Peace, Sister" I says, shoving the five spot in my jeems. "Get ready to worship in peace Sunday, 'cause I'll move him if I have to jar the whole building."

She commenced asking me a gang of questions then, about how soon I'd be ready to "Lay this dust" so it would have plenty of time to work before

'RUN, LITTLE CHILLUN' OFFERS STAR TALENT FOR RUN AT MAYAN

Jess Lee Brooks, Ruby Elzy, Cleo Desmond in Stellar Cast; Hall Johnson Directs Chorus; Opens July 22

By FAY M. JACKSON

All Los Angeles is agog over the opening of "Run, Little Chillun", July 22 at the Mayan theater, which brings the largest cast of renowned actors, singers and dancers assembled for a stage production in a long time.

Not since the presentation of "Porgy and Bess" which brought a company of New York players here, has anything approaching the production scale of "Run, Little Chillun" been offered to Los Angeles theatre-goers.

Many of its actors, long established in Negro theatre circles as outstanding thespians of the race, some of whom have starred in Federal Theatres Project splendid productions such as "MacBeth", "Black Empire", and "John Henry" are also prominently cast in this folk drama which tells an exciting story of deep south life with dramatic force and musical excellence.

This play is of especial significance to Negro citizens of Los Angeles in that it marks the first production by Federal Theatres Project under the new set-up with a Negro director and many of its guiding lights members of the race.

Clarence Muse has worked night and day to perfect the technical phases of direction for "Run, Little Chillun."

The large Carlyle Scott Federal Music Project singers, augmented by such noted soloists as Ruby Elzy and others, have been under the skillful direction of Hall Johnson, author of the play and arranger of its accompanying music.

Colorful and spectacular settings mark the sequence which depicts the invasion of a mystical cult, calling themselves "New Day Pilgrims" into an orthodox community of the south. Author Hall Johnson has retained much of the majestic dignity of African worship for his interpretation of cult operations.

Realism in all its most appealing aspects runs through the portrayal of life in Toomer's Bottom, locale of the play and an extraordinary mingling of beautiful imagery, the grotesque, the powerful and the humble spirit of Toomer's Bottom people give an authentic picture of the deep south.

In the cast of 100 players and singers are featured: Jess Lee Brooks as "Rev. Jones", Alfred Grant as "Jim"; Florence O'Brien, "Sulamai", Ruby Elzy, as "Ella;" Arthur Ray, "Elder Tongola," Olive Ball, 'Rev. Sister Strong," Roy Glenn, 'Brother Moses", Gertrude Saunders, Myrtle Anderson, Valena Miller and Eva Grant as women of the Bottom.

Other players include: Cleo Desmond, Thaddeus Jones, Elizabeth Spratley, Bessie Guy, Henry Thomas, Guernsey Morrow, Arnestly Williams, Myrtle Dunham, Florence Johnson, Mable Massengill, Darby Jones, Earl Mitchell, Larry Harrison, Clarence Hargraves and Anna Swanson.

Tickets, priced at 55c and 25c are now on sale at the Mayan Theatre box office. Special rates are given to parties of 25 or more.

Spates Endorses Actors and Musicians Drive for Jobs

Harry Spates, genial owner of the Dunbar Grill, who enjoys the friendship of every actor and musician on Central Avenue and knows personally the great majority of Sepia theatrical luminaries throughout the country, upon learning of the Eagle's militant program for the obtaining of employment of Negro Actors and Musicians in the Negro theatres on Central Avenue, stated in an exclusive interview, "I am heartily in accord with any progressive movement which will benefit the Actors and Musicians especially those of Los Angeles.

"I feel certain that the majority of Negro Theatre-goers have the same attitude as I in this respect. I am quite certain that the Eagle will have the endorsement of every progressive group in the city to aid in giving jobs to many of our unemployed Actors and Musicians."

Mr. Spates has ever been a friends to the members of the theatrical profesion. In an accompanying photo you see the genial host with Little Harry Nicholas of the famous Nicholas Kids and their mother.

Mr. Spates in more ways than one has proven that he is a friend to the Actors and Musicians. Many are the times that he has aided them when they found the sledding a little tough between shows. Harry Spates has even backed shows with his money, which is certainly enough to prove conclusively to anyone that Harry Spates is definitely for the Actors and Musicians.

Leroy Prinz Whips 'Dixie Goes Hi-Hat' into Shape

After witnessing a rehearsal of "Dixie Goes Hi-Hat" that was written by F. E. Miller, who is the author of "Shuffle Along", "Running Wild", "Rang Tang" and other great Broadway shows, wrote the book in collaboration with Charles S. Gordon, is staging the show and also starred with his partner, Man Tan, I find that the authors have gone a bit further in satirizing the heads of the government than its predecessor, "I'd Rather Be Right". Most of you know that this play written by and starring George M. Cohan created a furor in theatrical circles. Though "I'd Rather Be Right" made no attempt to solve our present political problem in it's plot, "Dixie Goes Hi-Hat" solves the problem in ridiculous caricature.

Leroy Prinz who collaborated with Earl Dancer in "Lucky Day" is staging the dances and whipping the show together. Mr. Prinz is a producer and director at Paramount studios in Hollywood. Through the good graces of Mr. Prinz and friendship to Leon and Otis he has consented to lend his assistnace and talent.

'Fashion in Cotton' to Be Featured at Coterie Dance

La Rheeta Clarett will be fashion commentator and Moody Dandridge emcee. Models will include Kathryn Wise, June Baker, Yvonne Aylor-Parks, Jerry Goodloe, Grace Robinson, Elizabeth Lewis and La Rheeta Clarett.

The popular girls' club is headed by Carrie Parks and Celestine Lewis, secretary.

WEDS COLORADOAN

Word was received in Los Angeles this week of the marriage of the former Mrs. Eva Overr Solomon of Los Angeles to William Parks, well to-do business man of Denver, Colorado. Announcement of the marriage, which took place the latter part of June, was made by O. O. Overr of Pasadena; brother of the bride.

Mrs. Solomon, prominent church worker, last affiliated with the New Hope Baptist church of this city, was divorced in 1937 from W. Matt Solomon, California Eagle printer. Mr. Solomon, a former Kansan, is reportedly contemplating matrimony, himself.

Picture—"White Banners"
Place—Warner Brothers
Players—Claude Rains, Fay Bainter, Jackie Cooper, Bonita Granville.

"Sentimental", "hokum" are two of the words Ruth Waterbury of "Liberty" applied in describing "White Banners".

Now then, as with all Lloyd C. Douglass yarns "White Banners" has a message—a philosphy, which one may take or leave —the film also one of the most honest, down-to-earth pieces of work Warner Bros. have ever turned out, aided and abetted by expert direction and competent acting. (Daddy of the "Judge Hardy" series) and certain of the Marie Dressler and Will Rogers pics.

Claude Rains is a small-town professor who raids the family income to purchase materials for his various and unsuccessful inventions. Wife Kay Johnson, yet feeling the after-effects of a recent child-birth, is unable to keep the household running smoothly, is deluged with bills, —in a complete domestic dilemma. Just as the butcher refused to leave dinner's meat sans cash, a door-to-door saleswoman, Fay Bainter happens along. Invited inside of a raging snow storm, she soon has supper preparations utilizing left overs, humming. From then forward the lady becomes a member of the household—in fact, a sort of family Svangali who subtly regulates everything to a happy ending. Claude Rains and star physics pupil, Jackie Cooper, invent a "ice-less ice-box". The idea is stolen by a local establishment, but "Hannah" persuades enraged Rains not to fight the patent, instead to go on with other inventions. Pacified, Rains and Cooper soon envolve a new type ice-box which is better than the old one anyway. Climax is the revelation that Hannah in reality is young Cooper's mother. He was adopted at birth by the town's wealthiest family. Hannah was content to remain in the background until the foster-mother died, then she crashed the Rains domicile in order to discover just what sort of man her son was turning out to be. The rather involved climax occurs when Hannah persuades the boy's real father not to reveal the secret of his (Cooper's) birth. This somehow makes everything O. K. and there is a fadeout of Hannah trudging off in the snow—her work done.

A group of fine actors and an excellent director make this a really memorable cinemoltering. Kay Johnson on the come-back trail, does justice to Professor Rains frustrated wife, while Jackie Cooper proves that former juveniles can grow up into competent actors. Property department also did well by the 1915 small-town setting.

Certificates of achievement were presented to nearly 1,000 Negro students enrolled in WPA adult education classes in five central Texas counties, as some 2,000 spectators gathered with the pupils to attend the second annual interscholastic meet at the O. J. Thomas High school, Cameron, Texas, in June.

To the upper left, Director Carl W. Huser, of the State Education Program of the WP A, is pictured as he presented awards to contest winners and outstanding students at this event. Part of the huge crowd filling the school assembly hall is shown to the upper right. In this photograph may be seen contestants in the spelling matches lined against the wall. The exhibition of homemaking and industrial arts and crafts revealed much ability on the part of some of the 400 central Texas students who took active part in this inter-scholastic meet. A view of some of the work in the arts and crafts is to the lower left. O. J. Thomas, president of the Negro State Teachers' association and principal of the high school, is pictured to the lower right as he congratulates an 86-year-old woman who has been taught to read and write in a WPA class. Inset shows another aged woman who has learned the rudiments of education. (WPA Photos.)

To Keep You Out of Trouble

FALSE IMPRISONMENT

Any confinement or restraint of a person's liberty is an imprisonment. It is the duty of every citizen to submit to an arrest that is apparently legal. If the imprisonment is lawful, no wrong has been done. It is only where it is unlawful that the imprisonment can be said to be false, and the primary right of liberty of the citizen invaded.

CONFINEMENT UNNECESSARY

It is not necessary that any actual physical restraint of his person should be made, nor is it necessary that a citizen should be confined in a room or building.

If a person should voluntarily submit to an arrest and accompany the officer to the police station, and it should turn out that the arrest was wholly illegal, a case of false imprisonment could be made out. He has not been confined, and his person was not touched, as a matter of fact, only the liberty of movement of the citizen is restrained. But it is just as much a false imprisonment as if the officer had forced him along and confined him in jail.

MUST HAVE KNOWLEDGE OF RESTRAINT

The party must be conscious of restraint. It is only where the person is conscious of the fact that his liberty is restrained can the tort of false imprisonment be made out, if the other two elements are present. First, it must be unlawful. Second, there must be a desire to be permitted freedom of movement. Whether or not the person has suffered any actual damages, he may always recover at least nominal damages. If the imprisonment continues too long, he may secure his discharge upon a writ of habeas corpus.

DECEIT

Whenever a party to a business transaction undertakes to make a statement, he must state the truth (nothing but the truth) and the whole truth. Every citizen has the primary right to honest treatment in a business transaction. This duty is owing from every individual and corporation to every other individual and corporation.

To constitute fraudulent representation, the following elements must concur: eight distinct facts must be proved, to establish actionable deceit for which the law will permit the innocent party to recover damages.

1. There must be an intent to deceive. 2. It must be false. 3. The party making it must know it to be false. 4. It must be material. 5. It must be relied on by the innocent party. 6. The innocent party must have a right to rely upon it. 7. The innocent party must suffer damage by reason of such deceit. 8. It must be a statement of fact and not a statement of law.

A misrepresentation as to the law will sometimes give the innocent party a remedy in court for rescission of a contract, but it never gives him a cause of action for damages for deceit. However, a person is bound only to know the law of the place where the transaction occurs. The law is not so unreasonable as to cast upon a person the duty of learning the law of all the foreign countries in the world. So . . . a misrepresentation of a foreign law is regarded as a misstatement of fact.

A misrepresentation of law is this: an agent with intent to defraud a person out of the benefit of a fire insurance policy makes a false statement that the law was such that under terms of the policy, the person had forfeited all claim to recovery because at the time the car was burned, it was not in the person's garage. This is merely a statement of law.

If, instead of telling him the whole story and all the facts, the agent had simply stated, "You are not entitled to any benefit", that would have been a false statement of fact.

PROMISE OR OPINION NO STATEMENT

A promise to do an act, without any intention of performing it, is not a statement of fact. It is a breach of promise, and a statement as to the value of property is not a statement of fact within the meaning of this rule, such a statement is nothing more than the individual opinion of the person making the assertion.

"Hey . . Cholly . . . If a dealer sells me a car and sets the speedometer back and tells me the car has been driven only 15,000 miles, when as a matter of fact it has been driven 50,000 miles, I got him then, ain't I?"

Boy . . . get right out of that seat and come on up here at the head of the class!

Adult Students Undaunted By Hot Weather of Summer

"From the splendid enrollment now in progress at the summer session of the Jefferson Adult Evening School, it is evident hot weather does not stop the adults of this community from studying the subject in which they are most interested", stated Cleon Kersey, principal, this week.

The commercial classes, shorthand, typing and office practice are well attended, as are the music classes covering piano, harmony, voice culture and chorus. Many are embracing the opportunity of reviewing their grade work or their high school English, Public Speaking, Spanish, Mathematics and Science, Kersey claimed.

Vocational and industrial subjects are being offered, such as aeronautics, theory and practice, wood shop and furniture making arts and crafts, such as copper work, wood carving, etc., electricity, radio, power sewing, chef training and popular photography. The latter covers correct exposures, lighting, development, printing and enlarging. There is also a class in cosmetology, specializing in manicure, finger wave, marcel, croquignole, scalp and facials, also the latest coiffures and contour styles.

Special civil service positions and examination classes are also being well attended.

For the home there are domestic art classes, such as costume designing, dressmaking and cooking, as well as home nursing. The women are enjoying health building exercises and games two evenings a week, Monday and Wednesday, in the well equipped Girls' Gymnasium.

RED CROSS AID

A very popular class at this vacationing session is the Red Cross Nurse Aid in which accident prevention, care and resusitation of patients is efficiently and practically taught.

All classes at Jefferson Adult Evening School, located at 1319 East 41st street, are free.

Students are still enrolling. It is not too late to enter the classes, as the summer course continues Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week until August 19th, Kersey said.

Outdoor Life and Health to Sponsor Benefit Track Meet

Nat George, director at the YMCA announced yesterday that his office would be headquarters at which track and field stars will sign entry blanks for the invitational track and field meet at White Sox Park the night of July 28.

Such stars as Cornelius Johnson, Olympic high jumper, Woodrow Strode, UCLA weight star; Earl Meadows, world champion pole vaulter; Mack and Jack Robinson, versatile Pasadena colored stars, the Lankford twins of Jefferson high school and Wilbur Miller, quarter miler of Compton J. C. are expected to compete.

Today it was learned that Ralph Metcalfe, former Olympic Games sprinter and Brice Taylor of Samuel Houston College in Texas would be among those officiating. Both Metcalfe and Taylor are attending summer school at USC.

Kenny Washington, star UCLA football player, has been asked to throw the pigskin in an effort to set a new record in this event.

This will mark the first time that high school stars have had a chance to compete against their collegiate big brothers.

The affair is progressing nicely according to Fannie Willaims of the Assistance League of the Out-Door Life and Health Society, the organization under whose auspices the event is being held.

Reservations for box seats, which probably will be sold out a week in advance of the huge event, are being taken at 1003 East 28th street.

The Market Week Committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce is busy lining up merchants for participation during the "Combined Market Week" to be held from July 18 to 23. At this time fashion designers will show what they have decreed for autumn wear . . . and so . . . we choose some of the things we'd like to see permanently shelved.

In the first place, we're loath and nail for wide and padded shoulders because they slenderize the waistline . . . and since curves are still holding sway over tailored and manish trends we want skirts fitted at the nips and flaring to the flattering length just above the calf. Under no circumstances, would we like to see knee caps bared as in the flapper days of '26 . . We'll concede to skirts that want to strike the calf midway, but call halt if they're an inch longer, because they tend to emphasize ankle sizes . . . and few working women have pretty ankles!

For evening we're partial to fitted bodices and swirling skirts in soft materials; for metallic and threaded ones . . . we vote for the train, long sleeve and high decolletage. We're definitely off fringe excepting for sash trimmings!

And we hope that bright colors will be used to do things to black . . . that the skirt and sweater evening dress will be entirely deleted.

In headgear . . . we predict beanies holding their own and want to see it so . . . As for long heavy veils with conspicuous edgings we say thumb downs . . but will be happy to see the three quarter ones . . . we want off-face brims and brims dipped to one side, six way hats, and deep crowns, but won't string along with poke bonnets should the spring rage carry over into the fall.

Getting down to footwork, straps . . . that is if your budget will afford pumps as well . . . For fall colors, we choose aqua marine, burma brown, black, grass green and those warm and there's little doubt that pumps will lead as all ways, but frankly, we're bidding for more cheerful looking winter friends rust . . . and wine.

We hope the fashion designers decree some of these . . . if they do, you'll know about it.

Seek Henry for Covelli Go in Chicago

CHICAGO, July 14—If the plans of John Ricketts, Chicago restaurant owner, go through, Henry Armstrong, holder of two world boxing championships, will fight in Wrigley Field in Chicago in September following his bout with Lou Ambers Aug. 10 in New York.

Ricketts is the new co-manager of Frankie Covelli of New York, a leading contender for the featherweight crown which Armstrong holds. Ricketts posted a $20,000 guarantee last Friday in an effort to bring Covelli and Armstrong together.

Despite the fact that Henry Armstrong defeated Covelli two years ago on the west coast, Covelli is sure that he can win. Covelli's co-managers claim that Frankie gave the champion such a fight two years ago that Armstrong has been ducking a return bout ever since.

TRAINING FOR AMBERS

At present Armstrong is busy preparing for his coming bout with Lou Ambers the lightweight title holder. Armstrong is the favorite to defeat Ambers in their coming bout. If he does he will be the first boxer in history to hold three titles simultaneously.

In order to fight Ross, Armstrong increased his weight several pounds, and many think that he will not attempt to pare himself down to the featherweight class again.

In that case the title will be declared vacant. It is perhaps this possibility that make Covelli so anxious to become the leading challenger —The New York boxing commission has postponed the Lou Ambers-Henry Armstrong lightweight title match from July 26 to August 10. The bout will be held at the Polo Grounds.

Had Motorcycle, But Didn't Know What to Do With It; Cops Did!

If you steal a motor-cycle, you should display some familiarity with its operation . . . or the coppers will get you.

Two young policemen, Officers Bennie Ayers and Barney Hoskins, thought Julius Jackson, 23 year old laborer of 1565 E. 42nd street, didn't display nearly enough acquaintance with the intricacies of starting a motorcycle when they saw him astride one at 25th and Central avenue, so they walked over to show him how.

Confused replies as to how and where and when he got the machine aroused the officers' instinctively suspicious natures so they escorted Jackson to Newton Street Station, where, SINK ME!--if one Chas. Martin, 1623 E. Vernon avenue, hadn't reported the theft of a similar cycle. So Julius was booked on suspicion of theft and the motorcycle was impounded at the Newton Garage until Martin shall have established claim to it.

ANOTHER "GENTLEMAN'S AGREEMENT"

View it how we will, this is a tough world! Just now and then something transpires to revive our at times tottering faith in human nature and possibilities. There is a surge of something noble in us when little Czechoslavakia defies the threatening cohorts of conceited Adolph Hitler, the world's chiefest power maniac. The erstwhile redoubtable Hitler falters as the Czechs gird themselves for war. The world's greatest bluff has been called, and called by one of the most insignificant nations of the earth, a nation just twenty years old.

The Czechs have blessed the world in a wonderful way. They have shown a resurgance of national courage that slept while Mussolini raped Ethiopia with Great Britian and France looking on; while the League of Nations openly betrayed a weaker nationpllo betrayed a weaker member before the startled eyes of a wondering and bewildered world. Belgium broke the military back of Germany in 1914, and little Czechoslavakia threatened to do it again in 1938. The reason the Czechs could reach for the sword was the support that France and Britian were promising. Czechoslavakia would have been a proverbial "drop in the bucket" had not her powerful allies rallied to her support.

These same allies that deserted Ethiopia rallied to the support of Czechoslavakia, and why? A gentleman's agreement. In spite of the two thousand years of preaching the Christ, we live today in a color struck world where the white skin is an asset and the dark skin a liability. We may explode the Nordic myth all we want, and we may prove the potency of our intelligence quotient, but the stubborn fact remains: we live in a "color struck" world. The Negro press may play up white-black marriages, but the success of such marriages is at variance with the racial ethos of the dominant white man. The stakes in Ethiopia were just as great as in Czechoslavakia for Great Britian and France, and in many ways more so, but because of the Negroid racial affinity of Ethiopia, she was deserted ingloriously. Haile Selassie, white breeches, umbrella and all are now in exile. Even he understands a gentleman's agreement now.

Negroes as a minority group need not take too much inspiration from the Czechs for the gentleman's agreement that saved Czechoslavakia sacrifices the rights of the darker peoples. Why is the wrath of the world being invoked upon Japan for its invasion of China Why is the press of our own nation vitrolic in its denunciaiton of Japan? Why is there a subtle preparation of war with Japan whose cause is as righteous as Mussolini's in Ethiopia?

The world wide propogahda against Japan is part of "another gentleman's agreement" and that is, a united white world against a divided colored world. Germany and Italy are "major world powers" when they launch their armies of conquest; when Great Britian and France send their tenacles of power nearly around the earth, they become the spreaders and guarantors of civilization. When Japan battles for room for her struggling Millions, she becomes the arch proponent of Satanic hellishness. Japan is the "Hun" of the present undeclared war, as Germany was of the World War. Every bomb that Japan throws destroys only "women and children" who are gathered in some sacred place where they go to their death with hands clasped in prayer, etc. The gentlemen" have agreed that the darker races of conquest shall not pass.

Northern and Southern gentlemen agreed that the anti-lynching bill should not pass; and it did not! If the northern gentlemen so often held up as our beloved protectors had been in favor of the bill, it would have passed. They were not. Northern gentlemen may not agree with Southern gentlemen on many issues of politics, but on the Negro question they see eye to eye. And if and when there is an anti-lynching law upon the statue books of this nation, it will be due to a change of heart of Southern gentlemen.

BIG-CITY DILEMMA . . .

Chicago's Only Negro Hospital Cannot Cope With TB

By CARL HARRIS

(Staff Correspondent, Crusader News Agency)

TUBERCULOSIS is wracking Chicago's South Side.

Congestion, malnutrition, poverty—on these the TB germ thrives and takes its greatest toll among the great Negro population.

Chicago's 268,000 Negroes represent one-ninth of the population of the City. Yet 30 per cent of all known TB cases are Negroes.

There is but one Negro hospital in Chicago . . . and it takes no tubercular patients.

But Provident Hospital, in spite of being affiliated with the Rockefeller-supported University of Chicago, is in grave danger of going under. The hospital is now conducting a drive to raise $500,000. This sum will offset its losses for a period of 5 years. Unless the hospital raises these funds its doors will be closed. In spite of the fact that it maintains a high level of sanitation and its equipment is among the best in the city, this only Negro hospital in Chicago has only 190 beds.

I walked through the wards of Provident Hospital, 426 E. 51st street, and found only three TB cases. They were women who were diagnosed as having the dread disease after they had entered the hospital with some other ailment. The Provident Hospital refers all who come to its doors with tuberculosis to the public institutions, Cook County Hospital and the Municipal Tuberculosis Sanitarium.

There are less than 100 beds aliotted for Negro TB cases in all of Chicago's private hospitals. Cook County Hospital has only 100 beds for TB patients. It does not have the facilities for proper treatment of TB, physicians at the institution declared. Patients are practically left to die there and rarely does one come out alive.

LONG WAITING LIST

At the Municipal Tuberculosis Sanitarium, there is also a constant waiting list. And doctors at the Provident Hospital declared that the proportion of the Negro TB cases accepted there are in no proportion to the incidence of the disease among the race.

Provident is making an effort to bring out the nature of the crisis of the Negro and tuberculosis. A pamphlet published by the hospital several months ago called "A Chicago Social Problem," makes a stirring plea for more hospitalization for Negroes. It points out that while the incidence of the disease among whites has decreased during the past ten years, the rate of TB among Negroes remains alarmingly high.

"The nature of the disease," Provident doctors pointed out, "is such that it must be handled on a large scale by public institutions. Long periods of convalescence are required, with expensive treatment. Then, too, the great bulk of the tuberculosis are relief patients."

THE THIRD TERM

The United States is a country situated in North America. It is about three thousand miles cross-wise and somewhat less up-and-down-wise.

In this country there are some one hundred thirty million people, about a million of which are steel workers. Yesterday, four thousands of them sent a petition to the President of the United States requesting that he run for a third term.

Now then, the U. S. has been functioning as an independent entity for some 150 years — in all this time no President occupied the White House three terms. The wisdom of such a policy is explained in that "one-man" government can thus be avoided, since no one ruler can build a political dynasty, no matter how strong, which possibly can endure in excess of eight years. Of course, in these modern times we must realize that such philosophy belongs to the horse-and-buggy age — you remember the horse-and-buggy age, when Presidents didn't let the official affairs go hang while they made long political tours.

There are also many very sincere ladies and gentlemen in the nation's universities who believe, and back up the statement with much illustration, history, etc., that breaking the three-term precedent will be a blow at our democracy.

It is also pointed out that continuation of the President's regime very easily can serve to construct so strong a political machine that future campaigns will be as farcical as a Nazi "election".

Mr. Roosevelt, however, is a man who has close to his heart the tenets of democracy. Even though convinced that his continued rule would be best for the nation, he would not break the dangerous three-term precedent. That is what the President has said, although we must remember that was prior to a petition — signed by four thousand steel workers.

AS USUAL

The muck-rakers are busy scraping the slime from the foul pools of politics in an effort to create discord and dissention, and cause bitterness between friends of long standing.

We can differ in politics the same as we do in religion and remain tried, true friends. After all, what's to be gained? The other fellow gets the office and the fat, juicy salary and, once in, will know you not when there's something to be given out that's worthwhile.

Let's have our differences of opinion and still be friends.

STILL HIGH-SCORER

In a statistical frame of mind, we added up the number of bills and resolutions introduced in the last session of Congress.

It reached the stupendous total of 17,092. Multiply that figure by the volume of pressure exerted by each and every pressure group in behalf of each and every one of those 17,092 measures, and then remember Congress applied the air-brakes to make over 15,000 stop dead in their tracks.

Only one measure in ten ran safely through the congressional gauntlet, making a total of 1700 laws passed. Not all of these would win the blue ribbon of merit, but compared with some of those which were emphatically rejected, it appears that the American Congress is still holding its own among the world's law-making bodies.

What hazards might have been inflicted on the public can easily be guessed if Congress had passed such measures as Senator Minton's plan for government censorship of newspapers, or one bill sanctioning wire-tapping, or another which would have spelled disaster for California producers by destroying the national distributive channels of affiliated retail outlets—a blockade of markets that would build a Chinese wall around every state.

Thoroughly representative-minded congressmen steered clear of such injurious laws. That they killed such dangerous proposals makes a good answer to the alarmists who would alter constitutional government. Among the governments of the earth, democracy is still the high-scorer!

WILL SUCCESSOR TO JUSTICE CARDOZO COME FROM WEST?

Removal by death of Benjamin N. Cardozo, Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, leaves a place to be filled by President Roosevelt, who, it is believed will not make an appointment until the next session of Congress.

The Court re-convenes next October 4, and even with the vacancy created by Cardoza's death Sunday, the so-called "liberals" are in control.

In making the selection we hope and pray the President has profited by the experience gained in the Hugo Black appointment and refrain from going into the Ku Klux infested South for a man to occupy a seat in the nation's highest judicial body.

When the President was casting for a man to fill a court vacancy, the EAGLE advocated a man from the Far West and selected as the best fitted man for the post, Judge Sam Gilbert Bratton, judge on the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals, Albuquerque, New Mexico, and he is still our choice.

Judge Bratton is a scholar and a gentleman of high attainments. He is as free of racial prejudice as is possible for a white man to be and if thus honored he would be a credit and worthy of the high trust imposed.

OUR DISTINGUISHED GUEST

Saturday Los Angeles and the State of California will be honored with the presence of the nation's First Citizen, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who will be our guest several hours before departing for San Diego. During his sojourn, the President will deliver a speech.

Let's make President Roosevelt's welcome such as only Los Angeles can. Make the occasion a holiday and let Old Glory wave a greeting from every house-top in Los Angeles County.

No politics, creed nor religion has any part in extending hospitality to our distinguished guest. He's ours; the President of all the people, and The California Eagle joins wholeheartedly in making the occasion one that will ever live in heart and mind.

HOUSE-CLEAN HIGHWAYS!

Let's clean house by the side of the road!

Other states fall into second place behind the beauty of our thousand roadways, banked by the rugged green of mountain slopes, or edged by the sparkling sands of white beachlands. There's color and beauty a-plenty under California's vast blue canopy. The open roadways which cover this magic domain belong to us. Let us keep them free of unsightly refuse.

Let's clean house by the side of the road!

DROP THAT AXI

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

MIRACLES IN AMERICA

Even in a matter-of-fact world like ours, the seemingly impossible can happen. To cite but two or three instances: for the seventh successive month, the number of our national traffic fatalities is showing a decline. In May, for example, the drop was 27 per cent over last May's, a remarkable record in view of the steadily increasing amount of traffic. The days of man-made miracles are not yet done! Something of a different nature, but equally remarkable, took place near Hyde Park, N. Y., the other day. Committeemen were driving up to President Roosevelt's estate to tender him a check for $1,010,000 — part of the proceeds of the January Birthday Balls. The car had a blow-out so the committeemen had to thumb a ride for the rest of the way. Where else but in America, we want to know, could you pick up a hitchhiker with a $1,010,000 check in his pocket?

WE CHOOSE CHEWS

Or where else but in America could an industry not only take a depression in its stride, but set a record as well? We refer to a peaceful enterprise. Other nation's rearmament programs are, of course, defying slumps with their national budgets allocating as much as 40 and 50 per cent of all government expenditures for that purpose. The industry which has raised flying colors in the face of stormy weather signals was chewing gum. More gum, by value, was sold last year than in any year since 1927, the Commerce Department revealed a few days ago. This value reached $56,721,746, a less disturbing way of reporting that the American public sank its teeth into 5,672,174,600 pieces of gum in the course of the year. Gum-chewing may be a fault. Still, there must be virtue in a product that's elastic enough to stretch its output lest it be stuck with a deficit. A large section of the public seconds it with the affirmation, "We choose chews!"

TOO MANY PRISONERS?

Is it possible we have so much crime because we are sending too many men to prison? This startling question came last week from no soft-hearted sentimentalist, but from Sanford Bates, veteran director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons. It is possible, he believes, that we are over-doing this matter of punishment. We send six times as many men to prison as England does, but is that making us any freer of crime? The nationally known prison director gave, as one basis for these new and searching questions, the fact that the number of prison commitments doubled between 1910 and 1935. Yet in that same period, the rate of recidivism (becoming confirmed criminals) showed an increase. These are disquieting truths.

CRIME CURE

It is the remedy for crime that strikes the notes of discord among the experts as well as the general public. Penologist Bates urges greater development of the parole systems. It is his observation that reformatories and women's prisons, which least resemble prisons, can boast the highest percentage of success with their graduates. But if a better remedy for crime lies in the extension of parole, then we must have more competently administered parole boards. There are few states where the activities of such boards have not brought the word "parole" into disrepute, and by their abuse of the system damaged public confidence in paroling. The restoration of such confidence is essential, if cries of "Let's banish parole!" are not to prevail and block the efforts of criminologists.

Buyers' Guide - By Clarence H. Peacock

When the Colored people of this country learn to use the vast hidden economic power they have, they can whip into line those companies and organizations who do not desire to accord the Negro a right to live and survive in the economic life of this nation. All Colored Americans must cooperate in the use of their purchasing power to gain new employment opportunities for the race.

Colored consumers spend many hundred thousands of dollars a year in their purchase of soap and soap powders. Negroes constitute one tenth of the total population of the United States, yet they buy 35 per cent of all the soap sold in this country. 75 per cent of the laundresses (commercial laundries excluded) in America are Colored.

Four of the larger soap manufacturers spent over $12,000,000 to advertise their products for one year. From my own observations, not one of these manufacturers found it necessary to spend any of this amount in the Negro press.

In 1936 these companies spent the following amounts for advertising.

1. The Proctor and Gamble Company, manufacturers of Palm Olive Soap, Chipso, Ivory Flakes and Ivory Snow spent $5.876.146 for advertising.

2. The Colgate Palmolive-Peet Company, manufacturer of Palm Olive Soap, Cashmere Bouquet Soap, Super Suds and Concentrated Super Suds spent $2, 969, 577 for advertising.

3. The Lever Brothers Company, manufacturers of Lux, Rinso, and Lifebouy Soap spent $2,803,603 for advertising.

4. The Fels Naptha Company, manufacturers of Fels Naptha, Soap and Chips spent $480,719 for advertising.

If these soap manufacturers had spent only one per cent of their advertising in the Colored newspapers, the income of these papers would have been greater by $121,300 in that year. These new advertisers would have had to employ Colored salesmen to back up their advertisements and to promote the sale of their products in this market. The increased revenue of $121,300 would enable the Colored newspapers to give employment for one year to seventy-five or more Colored youths.

About ten years ago the Lever Brothers made a bid for Colored patronage by advertising the merits of their products in the Colored newspapers. They employed Colored lecturers and participated in Colored cooking schools. This company is still enjoying a considerable amount of Colored patronage.

Every Colored housewife is an important buyer of soap and soap powders, for the use of her own home. Those who do domestic and laundry work are also important buyers as they exert considerable influence regarding the brands bought in the home of their White employers.

Patronize your Colored newspapers, watch their advertisements, so that you can do your part by buying only those brands that are advertised in your papers. By spending your money with those companies that invite your patronage, you will derive direct benefits through the increased employment opportunities for the race.

N. Y. PAPERS COMMENT ON JOHNSON DEATH

(Compiled By The New York Amsterdam News)

"Writing editorially of the life and work of James Weldon Johnson, three metropolitan newspapers were in agreement Tuesday that in his passing the nation had lost a great literary and public figure.

Said the World-Telegram:

"He was the foremost American Negro of his day. That title will be granted to him, we fancy, without question. He was a dauntless crusader for breaking down barriers and overcoming the condescension with which Negroes so habitually have been treated. He was a fine creative musician, a poet, a writer of hard-hitting prose, an educator and scholar. He was the first Negro to hold a consular post, the founder of the first Negro daily paper, the first Negro athlete to pitch a curved ball.

"With his excellent mind and diverse talents, Mr. Johnson combined the presence and bearing of the first-rater. He was able in personal contacts to ignore color, to face his fellowmen with naturalness without either subservience or overaggressiveness. For his own race he opened up new vistas of achievement, doing so by heroic efforts, and for the white man he accomplished as much as anyone of his time toward emancipation from prejudice and unworthy discriminations."

The New York Times added: "Few lives are so rich in various experience and accomplishment as his, so tragically ended. Teacher of pupils whose tuition fee was 5 cents apiece, lawyer, editor, poet, maker of songs that were in everybody's mouth, a consul who won the confidence of American naval officers and commanded a detachment of sailors in a Central American revolution, a politician with Roosevelt and Harding, he was to become one of the foremost of Negro leaders. His efforts to end lynching—once he came near being lynched—and his unflagging zeal as an officer of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People are enough to maintain his memory.

"But it is as the writer and the educator and fosterer of writers that he was most noteworthy. His autobiography, 'Along This Way', is full of humor and curious incident. His two collections of 'Negro Spirituals' gave us the strange, impressive rhythm and music of these folk hymns or chants. The titles of some are poems. The words paint the scene with the vividness of hallucination. In 'God's Trombones' he translated into poetry the religious fusion of Negro preachers. There were roots of bitterness in Johnson, but he had good reason for gratification and pride. Before his eyes and in the course of a few years he saw men and women of his race distinguish themselves in all the arts. Actors, singers, musicians, dancers, painters, sculptors, poets, novelists won their way to fame. All the world danced to Negro music. Mr. Johnson was Professor of Creative Literature at Fisk University. He had the good fortune to see a far broader creative movement.

"A student of origins, he reverenced the 'black and unknown bards of long ago.' We can imagine what pleasure he must have had in the appearance a few years back of geniuses like Langston Hughes and Countee Cullen and other artists of the Negro Renaissance."

The Herald Tribune said:

"James Weldon Johnson, who was killed Sunday in a grade-crossing accident in Maine, was, by whatever measure, an extraordinary man. It probably is not too much to say that he was the most distinguished Negro in the United States. A man of great personal dignity, he fought over the long years—never extravagantly but always with reasonableness—for the just recognition of the black race. He believed in the ability of the American Negro to produce genuinely original art and literature, and he wrote and spoke persuasively of the contributions of the black man, particularly in the fields of poetry and music. He was a shrewd politician, and rebelled at the idea that the Negro should be used as the catspaw of any one political party. Negroes everywhere, as well as every white American, have every reason to be proud of this long and useful life.

"To be sure, he had unusual talents. He had many 'firsts' to his credit—the first Negro college student to pitch a curve ball, the first Negro to be admitted to the Florida bar, the first Negro to gain a place on the faculty of New York University, and so on. He could write popular songs, but he also could write moving poetry and a clear and forceful prose, and he was the author of the hymn which has come to be known as the Negro national anthem, "Lift Ev'ry Voice." He and his highly gifted brother, Rosamond Johnson, were popular and familiar figures in Tin Pan Alley almost forty years ago. But James Weldon Johnson was much more than that. He had been editor, diplomatist, lecturer, educator, reformer. There was nothing cringing or apologetic in his make-up; likewise, there was nothing brash. He was a scholarly gentleman whose name will be remembered as long as there are records of th romantic and always poignant story of the black man in America. He understood this story, this struggle, in all its sadness and all its bravery."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Herewith enclosed is the letter that I spoke to you about last evening.

Sincerely,
M. Carrere

Eds.' Note: the following letter was written by Mr. Carrere to the editors of the weekly newsmagazine, Time in protest to a caption on an article in the current issue; "Darkies' Horses".

The Editor,
Time,
Time and Life Bldg.,
Rockerfeller Center,
New York City,
Dear Editor:

On page 26 of the July 11 issue of TIME there is an article entitled "Darkies Horses".

This article is objectionable for more reasons than its libelous and general grotesque representation.

The writer of this article has tried to burlesque the efforts of black people to amuse themselves, on a racial basis. He probably does not know that Negroes, America's largest minority group, are primarily working people, and that they are greater victims of existing economic conditions and the inequitable system that produced such than their contemporary, the working people of America's majority group.

The author of the article in question seems not to understand that the inferior "aping" of "flashy horse shows" by Negroes is due to the same economic impotency that should cause a like showing among a group of white workers similarly situated and identically prescribed.

I have every reason to believe, however, that the writer of the reprehensible article DOES know the general prescription of Negroes but is writing as his superiors instruct. These superiors of his love America so much that they must by all means see that their underling writers practice that 100 per cent Americanism that we hear so much about nowadays. Being the originators of systematic robbery and brutal mistreatment of an American minority group, we certainly cannot permit Adolf Hitler to get ahead of us in his Americanization of Germany.

The Economic impotency of Negroes began three hundred nineteen years ago when, as slaves, they began to lay the foundation for the present day economic development of the United States. By their blood, brawn and brains (yes, brains!) Negroes developed America until two conflicting interests were grasping at each other's throats for economic control and further human exploitation.

By their blood Negroes have built America and by their mark of identity (complexion) it has been comparatively easy to further rob them for seventy-five years after nominal freedom. That mark of identity has given rise to many paid de-humanized writers whose business it was and is, to prevent economic cooperation of the black and the white workers. Thanks, however, to the growing intelligence on the part of both the black and the white workers, the day is not far distant when these amanuenses will have to do something else to earn their living.

We have laws in every decent community against biological abortion. It is a pity that we have not as yet learned to take care of the literary abortionists who peddle their wares of subterfuge and "hemp rope" psychology with impunity in these same decent communities.

Seeing that it is the policy of TIME to feed peoples' mentalities with such obsequious matter, you may discontinue my subscription to TIME. There are only a few issues due me on the present Literary Digest subscription. These you may keep or dispose of them in some other manner.

Very truly yours,
MENTIS CARRERE

Dear Editor:

First I want to thank you for the Eagle which has come to my door regularly for a good many years free, as a contributor and believe me, its growth has been gigantic. Can never forget what encouragement your paper gave me in publishing my feeble efforts at poetry many of which I felt were little more than trash.

Now that I feel my writings are more mature and my friends and others whom I contact keep inquiring why my poems are not appearing in the Eagle, I too have been a bit puzzled as early this spring I submitted several which I thought an improvement over my accepted verse, but find they were not used. This I feel is hardly a complaint for I feel your capable staff knows best but I have been "put on the spot". Many have informed me that they always look for my poems.

Sincerely,

Postal Employe, Prize Winner, Enters Jim Crow Suit Against Turf Club

Rumors of jim crow and discrimination exercised by the Hollywood Turf Club, swank racing emporium in Inglewood, had reached a head today with filing of suit for $5,000 against the club by Rupert H. Lucas, postal employe, living at 1359 E. 43rd St.

Through his attorney, Thomas L. Griffith, Jr., of the firm of Griffith and Griffith, Lucas charged i nhis complaint, "wrongful and malicious discrimination."

The suit grows out of the famed Dauber-Lawrin incident in June when Dauber and Lawrin, renowned race horses were scheduled to run. The race failed materialize, causing an uproar among the spectators.

The Hollywood Park Association invited the public by radio broadcast through Warner Brothers' station, KFWB to send in letters, commenting on conditions at the Park, relative to the incident.

Lucas' letter was one of ten judged the best.

As a reward he was given two tickets to the clu bhouse where the Hollywood movie stars and the elite of Beverly Hills and Bel Air sit, and luncheon reservations. He alleges he was informed of this by mail and invited to come last Saturday.

With his wife, he presented the tickets for admission Saturday, but says he was refused because he was colored.

Martin Turner Strikes Victim Over Head with Milk Bottle in Quarrel

B-U-L-L-E-T-I-N

A coroner's jury last yesterday absolved Martin Turner of responsibility for the death of Stonewall Blair. The jury found that Tupruer struck Blair in self-defense. See story below.

Martin Turner, 56-year old veteran film extra, faces a murder charge this week, result of the death of Stonewall Blair, 56, of 1219 E. Adams boulevard. Blair died Tuesday morning at General hospital from concussion of the brain, produced when Turner struck him over the head with a milk bottle during an altercation last Thursday evening.

The tragedy followed a quarrel over a breakfast table between the two men, who lived at the same address. Turner claims hhat Blair hit him with a baseball bat and he in turn swung on Blair with the milk bottle.

Turner's blow allegedly floored Blair, the bottle breaking to hits about him. Wife of the dead man, Mrs. Blair called the police and he was rushed to the Georgia Street Receiving Hospital. Removed later to the General, he never regained consciousness.

Witnesses to the battle were Sol Peyton, R. Bellamy and Mamie Peyton, residents of the house.

The bat with which Turner claimed Blair struck him was siezed by police and is expected to play the major part in Turner's defense if the case comes to trial. The actor is held without bail in the Central Jail He has engaged Walter L. Gordon Jr., Eastside Attorney.

Oxley Notes Lack of Race Unity in West

Field Representative of U. S. Employment Service Speaks at Church

"From Seattle to Los Angeles I have noticed a lack of racial vision I have found nowhere else in the United States," said Lt. Lawrence A. Oxley, field representative of the United States Department of Labor, in an address Sunday at St. Philips Episcopal church.

Decrying absence of racial unity on the West Coast, Mr. Oxley revealed startling statistics anent the percentage of relief Negroes receive in the nation. He stated that from 30 per cent to 60 per cent of all relief clients are colored, and that in the nation's capitol, Washington, D. C., 70 per cent of all "relievers" are Negroes.

PROBLEM PLUS

Pointing to vast colored population increases in the great metropolises within the last few years, Oxley said that colored people not only have to face "the general economic problem--but the problem, PLUS". In the city of Detroit alone, he said, "the colored population has increased in 15 years from 13 thousand to 116 thousand." Blaming the resulting congestion for the high rate of maternity deaths and disease mortality among the group, Oxley outlined a three point program for recovery.

"First", he stated, "we must keep the jobs we have. Second, reclaim the traditional jobs we have lost: and, third, make new jobs for ourselves." Listing as the three requisites for such a program, Oxley mentioned "physical fitness, mental alertness, and RACIAL VISION", without which, he held, "there can be no advancement."

Quoting Theodore Roosevelt, the government employee concluded "This world cannot be a good place for any of us to live in unless it is a good place for all of us to live in!"

The congregation, augmented by civic, professional, and political leaders of many denominations, although restrained from applause by church custom, appeared immensely impressed with the Lieutenant's address.

Oxley, having already visited more than a score of states, will continue his nation-wide tour within a few days, and will speak in Denver next Sunday.

Judge Denies Bonnie's Plea for Probation

The state of California closed its books for a time at least on the Bonnie Adams case with transfer of the convicted woman from the County Jail to the Women's Prison at Tehachapi last Thursday.

Denied probation by Judge Charles Fricke at the close of the trial on June 27, the former Insurance Company nurse was granted a 15 day stay of commitment in order to wind up her affairs, left at loose ends when she killed Dr. Theodore Banks, her dentist-sweetheart August 14, 1935 and was committed to the insane hospital for three years.

Application for probation was made on the claim that Miss Adams had killed Banks in a blind rage. In denying her plea Judge Fricke up-held testimony of Detective Charles Broady, investigating officer who testified that Miss Adams had told him after the shooting that she had purchased the gun, loaded it herself and went to Banks office with intent to kill him.

BROADY COMMENDED

Broady's work was commended by the jurist as he handed down the final decision in the case. He said:

"In denying probation in this case and passing of sentence I wish to make mention of Detective Broady of the Los Angeles Police Department, who has been in the Department for several years, and with whose work as an officer I have been acquainted for a great many years, and whom I have the most absolute confidence, and consider, regardless of the fact that he is a gardless of the fact that he is a colored man, is one of the finest officers here in Los Angeles, testified that he had a conversation with the defendant in which the defendant stated that she purchased the gun used several days prior to the commission of the crime and also placed the bullets therein. The statement also further stated further details about the case and I am certain that these statements are facts."

County WPA Office to Open Again

Exception to the story published in the Eagle last week to the effect that no coordinating council in the county other than the Southside council, administering to the Eastside, was closed in the surprise action by the W.P.A. last week, was taken last Saturday by Chief Probation Officer Scudder, who allegedly had ordered the council offices padlocked and the administrative officers transferred to a labor crew in Watts.

Scudder attempted to reach the editor of the California Eagle, Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, by telephone Saturday afternon, and upon being informed that she was out, told the Eagle reporter, answering the phone, that portions of the story were untrue and were "causing a confusion among you people down there." He obviously referred to citizens of the Eastside community.

"The entire county set-up has been entirely dropped, from Santa Monica to Pasadena," the Juvenile delinquency head stated, growing ungrammatical in (continued on page 2-A)

Decides to Bathe, But Drops Dead

Telling Leon Perdue, 1360 E. 55th street, that she was "going into the back yard to take a sunbath" Mrs. Margaret Clemons, 65, of the same address stepped into the back yard and dropped dead last Saturday evening. Death was due to natural causes, Newton Street ambulance doctors stated.

Also due to natural causes was the death of Charles G. Mason, also 65, former Post office employee, of 1150 E. 12th street. Mason was discovered by Mrs. Emma Franklin, his land lady, dead in his bed last Thursday morning. She said he had recently lost his job because he was subject to epileptic attacks.

Alibi Fails to Impress Officers

"I always enter my home through the windows. I thought this was my house" naively, George Johnson, 27 year old laborer answered queries of Radio-officers Towns, Kimbrough and Holmes, called to 3506 Central avenue late Monday night to investigate complaint of a "prowler in the house".

The house was the residence of Mrs. Minnie Teed, who called police when she saw a shadow moving about the living room.

Officers evidently didn't believe Johnson's story for they booked him at the Newton Street station on suspicion of burglary after they discovered he wasn't drunk, lived at 2152 W. 30th St., which is several miles from the house he thought was his, and found his shoes and coat hidden behind some shrubbery in the front yard of the Central avenue addres.

Man, 45, Held Not Responsible in Accident That Killed Youth

Not responsible, a coroner's jury decided, was James Owens, 4426 Honduras street, in the death of H. C. Boswick, 25 of 1160 E. 28th Street.

Boswick was killed when he ran his automobile into one dirven by Owens last Friday evening at the intersection of 41st place and Ascot.

Owens told investigating officers Bradford and Washington that he was driving south on Ascot and had nearly completed the crossing when Boswick, driving East on 41st street ran into him. The impact turned Owen's car completely around. Boswick's car continued going about 42 feet then turned over, the driver obviously having last control.

Boswick was rushed to the Georgia Street Hospital where he died. Owens was uninjured.

OFFICERS ARREST MOLESTER OF CHILD

Continuing war on molesters of small children, Officers Earl Broady and Wheeler of the Newton Street juvenile department, Tuesday arrested Joe Lee Conley, 35 year-old car washer of 4315 Compton avenue, for the rape of a ten year old girl, allegedly committed on July 4th at the child's parents' home.

Women Confer with Dr. Parrish

As part of the program of women's clubs to support Dr. eorge Parrish, head of the city health department, in his request of the City oCuncil to give larger apportionments to the Department to aid in their war on disease, a group of colored women conferred with Dr. Parrish in his office last Friday morning.

Discussing the state of Negro health were Dr. Ruth Temple, head of the Temple Health Institute, Mrs. Betty Hill, Mrs. oJ sephine Brown and Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass.

REGISTERED NURSE

"I don't see very much opportunity for advancement of colored nurses at the Los Angeles General Hospital. I see the Rest Home under construction by the Outdoor Life and Health association, and similar institutions, as the way out and upward for the colored nurse who wants to do more than tend patients at the bedside."

The speaker was the very pretty young lady, pictured above. Miss Chystalee Maxwell, interviewed by a California Eagle reporter this week when it became known that she had returned to Los Angeles from training schol in Kansas City, Mo.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Maxwell of 605 E. 53rd street, Miss Maxwell was a graduate last month of the nurse course in Kansas City. She has been attending school there for the past three years on a scholarship and is now in the offices of Dr. A. L. Wallace, well known physician.

WELL-TO-DO FARMER WAS ONE OF 5 NEGROES DRAWN ON JURY PANEL

It's a long way from Scottsboro, Alabama to Los Angeles, a distance of some 2500 miles, taking five days to make the trip. But to L. C. Stapler, at 81 years of age, it is just a summer's vacation jaunt!

Mr. Stapler well-to-do Scottsboro farmer, arrived in Los Angeles last Friday to spend a month with Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Davis, 1472½ E. 25th street. But even if he were not 81 years old and had not made the trip from Scottsboro to Los Angeles alone, he would still be "news" as one of the five colored men drawn on the jury panel that tried the nine, ill-fated Scottsboro boys.

"I was drawn, yes, and I went up to Decatur to serve, but they wouldn't let me or none of the colored men", the octogenarian said, interviewed at the Eagle plant Monday afternoon.

Scottsboro was never greatly excited by the case that "put it on the map" Mr. Stapler said.

The town in truth, had no direct connection only as the place where police and a mob stopped the train and took off the frightened boys, and the girls, whom they were accused of attacking.

The youths had never before been to Scottsboro, coming from Chattanooga, Tenn. The case was tried in Decatur some 60 miles distant.

A-TALKIN' TO YOU Clarence Muse--

"MUSE GOES to a Party" and what a glittering affair. It was held in what we call real "HOLLYWOOD STYLE". Playrooms across the patio, away from the Mansion proper, the kind of good judgment Paul Williams is famous for, BUILDING TO THE PERSONALITY of the owner. The party was at the new home of the great American citizen, BILL ROBINSON. The best has been his watchword, throughout his long career as an ARTIST and that is all you can say about his home and its furnishings. cost has been forgotten and yet great taste is displayed in the development of each and every room. The feeling I got was that it was a premiere of modern art in a quiet home away from the studios, and yet near the greatest camera in the world, the HUMAN eye. It is a source of great inspiration to think that such a magnificent home was completely executed by BLACK BRAINS. Mr. Blodgett, the contractor, employed Negro artisans to fulfill the dream of MRS. FANNY ROBINSON, as set on blue paper by Paul Williams. And now that the entire Hollywood colonly is aghast at this new creation, comes the most sophisticated party of them all. Our social elite wandered about leisurely, and drank the warm hospitality with an ease that made the hours pass unnoticed. And then the master produced a small board specially built for radio and impromptu performances and gave what might be called the BILL AND FANNY ROBINSON HOME SWING, in one of the finest drawing rooms in the city of "Make-Believe". It is silly for me to rave about the splendor of the affair, but I do feel that it is great to CHEER THIS GRAND fellow, who thinks enough of our city to give it the distinction of being his home. Bill has trouped many years, and has been a part of New York for years, but I can safely say as an Actor this is the place to be, when that day comes, that you are TOO TIRED TO GO ON. It must come; Bill can go into his own play-room and play billiards with his friends, barbecue a PIG in the same place, and see his ELECTRIC TRAIN that was given to him as a souvenir, run and run. It is called the "Bill Robinson Special", a fast streamline train that can call at all of the METROPOLITAN CITIES of the world, and he can smile to himself of all the world he has conquered. Always ON TIME! Yes, I went to a PARTY and LEARNED more about the SOUL of a great man.

by c. a. b.

THERE WAS a time when the average Negro believed that political equality would be the "Open Sesame" to complete success and fulfillment as an American citizen. Unfortunately, this belief has been proved false — political power is only important when it can be used to exact economic advantages. The greatest problem the group faces is not social or governmental — it is simply the age-old dilemma of earning an honest living.

During the present administration many labor laws have been passed. Strike-breaking has been prohibited; mediation boards given subpoena powers, and employers may no longer discharge workers for union activities; yet brutal wage discrimination and the absolute barring of Negroes from some industries and professions has not been mentioned. The boss may not fire John Doe because he has joined the CIO or AFL; but if John has a dark face, discharge is thoroughly legal. Hence, we perceive that the cure-all franchise has been of little aide in securing badly needed employment in hundreds of inaccessible industries.

However, the vote has helped immeasurably in assuring employment in government institutions, but such employment is limited to those areas where the Negro political power is sufficient to become a threat. Throughout the breadth of disfranchised black Southland, and even in voting northern metropolises, colored administrative employment is not nearly proportionate to the black populations." Speaking in our own city at a meeting of civic leaders Tuesday afternoon, Lieut. Lawrence A. Oxley, field representative of the United States Employment Service, stated that governmental employment in California with regard to Negroes is on a par with Mississippi.

This, my friends, is a real indictment. We of California, such proud and militant voters, have not taken advantage of the tremendous political weapon in our possession. Nowhere save in government can the group demand economic justice. If private enterprise ignores us, we are helpless. Boycott can be effective only on a limited scale; for, indeed, we should be without the necessities of life. Lieut. Oxley, who spoke Sunday at St. Philips Episcopal church, has laid bare for us a great gnawing disease — at his hint we shall be quick to apply the needed political prescription. Whether Democrat, Republican, or what not, let us voice a variation of the Chinese laundry cry — "No tickee, no shirtee". Let us join in a collective chant of "No jobee, no votee". Having a slight knowledge of politicians and their ways, I feel such a cry would be successful.

However, to secure government employment this is a fairly obvious procedure. The more difficut, more important task is to reach the countless thousands of businesses which, safe from the threat of vote or boycott, go merrily on their way and consistently refuse jobs to qualified Negro boys and girls. In some way the American public has acquired an innate suspicion of an educated Negro. Such a creature, it seemingly is believed, surely must be up to no good. Literature and motion pictures have so endiessly utilized the Negro as a form of idiotic comedy-relief that John Q. Public actually has been convinced that the only position in business, industry, or the professions for which the Afro-American is qualified exists within a little closet marked "Porter". When Paul Robeson portrays an indolent "darkey" in "Showboat", the world forgets Robeson the linguist, master of eight languages — Robeson who was elected to Phi Beta Kappa from one of the East's greatest universities, and was the most brilliant student of his class — forgets Robeson the neighbor and confidante of David Lloyd George and H. G. Wells.

Somehow a wider circulation of works intelligently dealing with Negro culture and advancement must be inspired. Somehow America must forsake the time-honored, crap-shooting, ghost-fearing servant, and focus its eyes upon the Negro, model 1938, boasting both culture and education, and prepared to graduate from ex-slave to executive.

IN DISCUSSING the problems of Negro employment today, there was one phase I did not mention. That is, the power of the Race business enterprises to supply that job demand which outside forces do not. It is certainly a fact that active businesses within the Race could nearly supply the entire demand, however, in such endeavor Negroes have been singularly tardy.

Thus it is with great pleasure we note this week the announcement of Wm. Nickerson jr., president of the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance company, that the National Negro Insurance association will meet in Los Angeles as the Golden State's guest in 1939.

The insurance field is one in which colored business men vividly have shown their great executive abilities. Within the past five or six years, in the very midst of a national economic catastrophe, Negro insurance business has pushed ahead at an amazing pace and set a standard of efficient, secure service which many commercial institutions of white America would do well to mi- (continued on page 2-A)

HUTSLIN' HANK VISITS GOLDEN STATE

Before entraining for the East for his championship bout with Lou Ambers, Henry Armstong, featherweight and welterweight champion of the world, dropped in to visit the home and Los Angeles offices of the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance company. "Hank" is shown in front of the establishment with company executives. Left to right: Norman O. Houston, secretary-treasurer; Geo. A. Beavers jr., vice president; Henry Armstrong, R. W. Smith, assistant director of agencies; A. J. Williams, manager of the L. A. district office; and Edgar F. Johnson, assistant secretary. In an informal talk to the office force, Henry expressed his appreciation for the efficient manner in which the business served its policyholders and said that he was always proud to be able to point to the Golden State as an example of what Negroes are doing in the West. He inspected the entire plant escorted by company officials. Fourteen million dollars ($14,000,000) worth of insurance was written during the National Negro Insurance Week drive instead of $14,000 as printed in the insurance story in last week's EAGLE.

Many have held that Negroes, because of their inferior monetary position, could never compete with whites. They stated that the colored business could fare well only in those fields in which it faces little or no competition from other groups — that is, such types of enterprise as beauty parlors, barber shops, undertaking establishments and so on. However, the saga of American Negro insurance companies has refuted completely this philosophy. Facing the most biting competition — from older, greater, wealthier white institutions, the Afro-American insurance business has come off victorious. And why? Because Negroes support them in preference to other white companies. Certainly not. There is but one reason — a hard, unflinching economic truth — Negro insurance business simply offered the greatest service at the least expense. And it is on this hypothesis that the Negro must invade other hitherto sacred Caucasian fields — with the idea of acquiring patronage because of SERVICE, not racial kinship.

That it will inspire such a view-point on the part of future race business men is the chief reason for welcoming the advent of the National Negro Insurance association convention next year. And, in passing, we must pause a moment to remark upon the tremendous feat OUR Golden State has performed. Rising within little more than a decade, the company stands as a tribute to Race vision and leadership. Next year's host to the national insurance conclave, selling second largest amount of insurance during National Negro Insurance week, the Golden State has cut a dramatic figure in Afro-America's commercial history. Not only that, but almost as an answer to the President's challenge that business suffers from a "fear of fear", the company intends shortly to open offices in Chicago, Illinois.

To those of us who have watched the painstaking development of this institution, such news, indeed, is heart-warming. Here we KNOW that we may "point with pride". The constant, incessant repetition of Negro inferiority on the printed page and silver screen has even psychologized a number of colored into a sef-conscious, wholly unfounded belief that an inferiority does exist. Such institutions as the Golden State and its kindred across the nation, not only serve as glittering economic outposts, but render even a more profound, more subtle influence upon the race — that is, their effect upon morale, so important a factor with any minority group.

Therefore, today, let us salute the coming convention of the National Negro Insurance association.

U. S. Powerless to Act in Lynchings -- Cummings

NEW YORK, July 21—The federal government "is powerless, under the law" to act in the two recent lynchings in Georgia and Mississippi, United States Attorney General Homer Cummings said Thursday.

Cummings made the statement in a telegram dated July 13 which he sent to Senator Robert F. Wagner at Albany, N. Y., where the latter is attending the New York State Constitution convention.

The attorney general's telegram, a reply to one sent him by Wagner July 12, asking the U. S. Department of Justice for an "immediate investigation" of the Rolling Fork, Miss. and Arabia, Ga. lynchings on July 6 and 9 respectively, follows:

"In absence of any federal statute dealing with lynchings Department of Justice is powerless, under the law, to take any action with reference to the deplorable crimes to which you refer in your telegram of today."

Officials of the NAACP here interpreted the attorney general's telegram as showing conclusively the necessity of a "federal statute dealing with lynchings," since the U. S. Justice Department chief admitted that no action can be taken by the government in cases involving lynchings without the authority of a federal anti-lynching bill.

Scottsboro--

the whole affair was regarded as a travesty on justice.

"The lawyers and all", the aged man said, "knew there wasn't anything to those girls' stories, and they said so."

Born a slave, Mr. Stapler is reputedly worth four or five hundred thousand dollars. His money is invested in real estate and in an 197 acre farm, which he "lets out" to tenant farmers, three of them white.

The aged visitor is a Republican, doesn't take kindly to the New Deal and is dubious about a good deal of the farm legislation, initiated by President Roosevelt.

He votes Republican in national elections and Democratic in home polls, "because thre aren't any Republicans running".

Mr. Stapler doesn't complain about jim crow, taking it as a matter of course, and minding his own business to the extent of wresting respect from the grudging whites of that region.

He did cite one case, however, of flagrant prejudice.

He said he offered a white man $2200 for his home recently, was refused and bought it at auction for $1700. Paying $450 down, he awaited the signature of the owner before paying the balance.

The owner said he didn't want no d---- n---- in his home" and refused to sign. Mr. Stapler's $450 and all, are still in escrow.

SCUDDER CORRECT

Investigating, the Eagle learned that contrary to information received at press time late Wednesday of last week, the Eastside council is not the only one which received the executive axe.

Difficulties, believed to be red tape and not lack of funds for carrying on the work of the council as was first stated were believed to have been ironed out this week as announcement was made that the council offices would open about August 1.

Meanwhile, it was reported late yesterday that Ben Ellison, supervisor of the Southside Council, and well known as the man who has done more to make children of the Eastside happy than any 20 other persons, is still shoveling dirt on the work project to which he was ordered with T. Luck, Harry Penn and Ben Shaw, late Wednesday afternoon.

Acknowledged one of the intellectual leaders in the Los Angeles Negro colony, Ellison took his unlucky break with a smile and dug in, having a wife and four children to support, white collar job or not.

Probe of 2 Lynchings Demanded

Senator Wagner Wires Attorney General Urging Immediate Action

ALBANY, N. Y., July 21. (ANP)—Pointing out that 1938's lynchings began only after Congress had adjourned and there was no immediate possibility of passing Federal legislation, Senator Wagner of New York, co-sponsor of the Wagner-Van Nuys anti-lynching bill, Wednesday wired Attorney General Cummings, urging an immediate investigation of the two mob outbreaks at Rolling Fork, Miss., and Arabi, Ga.

"With all the earnestness at my command", his wire said, "I respectfully urge an immediate investigation of these lynchings by the deparmtent of justice to ascertain violations of the 14th amendment. Prompt action in this respect will help bring the guilty to justice and tend to forestall a new wave of lynchings during the adjournment of congress."

Senator Wagner said afterward that experience in 1932, 1934 and 1935 demonstrated that the number of lynchings declined while anti-lynching legislation was pending in congress, only to rise again when hope for the passage of such legislation died.

"This tragic history is now repeating itself", the senator said. "Concurrently with the prolonged struggle for enactment of the bill this year, there was a complete cessation of lynching for six months. Now that congress has adjourned, lynching is again on the rise.

CAN BE STOPPED

"This fatal record shows beyond contradiction that the horrible crime of lynching can be stopped when localities deem it essential to do so. It is a crushing argument for writing anti-lynching legislation into the federal statute books.

"The flagrant denial of the fundamental constutional rights of any of our citizens, whatever their race or creed, is a challenge to our democratic faith. With all the means at our command, we must meet the challenge of the Fascist tendencies manifested in the action of lynching mobs."

Confer With State Officials On Employment Problems

Meeting at the State Employment Service Building 1121 S. Hill, Tuesday a committee consisting of civic, religious, and professional leaders conferred with state officials in an effort to bring attention to the Negro's employment problems.

Most important development of the confab was the appointment of a sub-committee, composed of Floyd Covington, Urban League executive secretary, Miss Dorothy Gwynn, director of the YWCA, and Baxter Scruggs, director of the YMCA, which will petition the University of California and the University of Southern California for information concerning proper methods of conducting a proposed survey of the Negro's employment situation in Los Angeles county. The survey to be similar to those instituted in Chicago and New York City, was advised by Lt. Lawrence A. Oxley, visiting field representative of the United States employment Service, and assistant to the Honorable Mrs. Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, who held that such a move was necessary in order to properly remedy the local economic woes of the race.

Among the other interesting facts brought out at ts meeting was that Negro advisers to the state employment service have been added in New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, and Michigan. It was stated such an appointment is needed in California. Opinions were also expressed that there would be no better time than the present to get funds for the proposed survey. A proposal for a separate project for Negroes made by Jornee White was heatedly opposed by Lt. Oxley.

Present at the confab were Floyd Covington, executive-secretary of the Urban League; Baxter Scruggs, director of the YMCA; Norman O. Houston of the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company; Journee White Mrs. Journee White; Clarence Johnson; Miss Dorothy Gwynn, YWCA director; Dr. John Sommerville, dentist and former publisher; Father Moore, of St. Phillips; Father Williams, of Pasadena; W. R. Carter, Baptist prelate; Major Conley, Wood, and Mathews, Federal officials.

Liberians Pay Tribute to Deceased Former President

MONROVIA, Liberia, July 21. (ANP)—With several thousand persons present, including ambassadors and reprsentatives of foreign governments, ranking Liberian officials headed by President Edwin Barclay and cabinet members and hundreds of this Island Republic's business and professional leaders, final rites were held here Wednesday for Hon. Arthur Barclay, 86, who was president of Liberia 1904-08.

Universally beloved as a steadfast champion of the rights of his people, Dr. Barclay's administration was notable for initiation of a policy of cooperation between the Government and native tribes, and for his efforts to abolish slavery. He was the father of the present ruler of the nation.

MEMBER LEAGUE COMMISSION

In 1931 he was a member of the joint commission of the League of Nations and the United States, which made an investigation of forced labor and slavery in Liberia. He proposed sweeping measures for reform and was the official nominee of Liberia on the international body. Previously (1907) Mr. Barclay negotiated a loan for Liberia from London, but his government ran into difficulties because of foreign debts and its inability to control regions in which foreigners held concessions. Governmental authority at that time was said to reach only 50 miles inland, beyond which tribal chiefs held sway.

The situation came to a head under Mr. Barclay's successor, President C. B. King, when the German gunboat Panther, lay off Monrovia for a month, its guns trained on the Presidential palace. After his term as President, Mr. Barclay became a follower of Marcus Garvey, UNIA head. In 1924 Garvey proposed to send 300 delegates to Africa, his aim being to set up a political independent African republic. President King, then in office, refused to grant visas to the Garvey men and the Garvey plan failed.

Houston Leaves NAACP New York Office

NEW YORK, N. Y., July 21.—Charles H. Houston, who has been special counsel of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People since July 1, 1935, today ended active work in the New York office to resume private law practice in Washington, D. C., with his father, William L. Houston, in the firm of Houston and Houston.

At one time the law firm consisted of William L. Houston, Charles H. Houston and William H. Hastie, but Charles H. came to New York to work with the N. A. A. C. P. Mr. Hastie was named federal judge in the Virgin Islands, and William L. was appointed special assistant to the attorney general of the U. S., leaving the office without senior partners.

During his work the NAACP, Mr. Houston has had supervision over all legal work, with special emphasis upon the campaign in the courts against inequalities in public education. The financial grant to the NAACP to carry on this work was not renewed this year, and although some groups are making special contributions so that the work will not cease entirely, the amount is not sufficient to maintain the legal activity on the same scale as in the past three years.

Mr. Houston will retain his title of special counsel and will continue to advise the NAACP on legal matters, as well as act as a liason officer between the New York office and national affairs in Washington. Thurgood Marshall, who has worked with Mr. Houston on NAACP cases, will have charge of legal affairs in the New York office.

UPTON SAYS

Don't you know it's a rather hard matter nowadays for a fellow to figure out who is who in politics. It's even gittin' so you can't tell a Republican from a Democrat when the President comes to town. I been thinking for many long years that Mrs. Bass was a dyed in the wool Republican but she's got me guessing now or maybe my eyes are growing weak and deceiving me. I may be mistaken but I would swear by all that's holy that I spied a great big white badge on "the Madam" reading welcoming Roosevelt committee. Now a fellow can't be a Democrat and a Republican too even though many of our candidates are running on two tickets at the same time. So I give up and I guess I'll have to let my old friend "Ira" (Political Pot-Pit) answer that one, 'cause there ain't no sun flowers growing in my backyard.

The swell head germ grows fastest in vacant ground.

Birthday Greetings

Many happy returns to the following readers who celebrate their birthdays during the month of July: N. X. Jones, D. Wiley, E. Nash and C. B. Andrews, congratulations.

Pullman Porters Pay Respects At Funeral of A. Graves' Mother

Funeral services were held last Wednesday from the Angelus Funeral Home for the Mother of A. Graves, Spanish speaking Pullman Porter operating out of Los Angeles District for the past ten years. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Prentice and a few brief remarks was made by Rev. Eldridge, pastor and Pullman Porter Instructor. Many of Graves' co-workers attended the services and the following porters served as pall bearers: A. Franklin, Wm. Asbury, L. Dorster, A. Crockett, E. Ollison and F. Williams. Among the other porters who were seen at the funeral were: J. Bell, Sr., C. H. Dickerson, J. W. Richardson, C. B. Andrews. The Railroad Clatter wishes to extend its deepest sympathy to A. Graves and family.

Porters Operating on Room Cars of Lark Get Run-Around in Net Set-Up

Porters operating on the room cars on the Lark were bemoaning the bad deal which they have apparently been given in the new set-up of the famous Southern Pacific Limited. Several complaints have been registered that they are not receiving enough preparatory time to get the cars in readiness and that when all other lines operating on the same train were given an extra night layover in town, the officials seemed to have forgotten them entirely and they must continue to make the trouble-some double. It is claimed that the majority of room passengers order their rooms made down at the ticket office and are some what peeved when they find on boarding the train that they are unprepared because the porter hadn't sufficient time in which to do it. Countless times the porter never sees many of his passengers until he brushes them down the following morning, because he never has the opportunity to receive them when they board the train being always busy on the inside making up rooms while the porter on the other car does the receiving. This set-up is evidently working a hardship on the men who operate these lines, both physically and financially as it is so often that the passenger tips the first porter who receives him unaware that his own porter is inside making up his room. The Brotherhod is taking these cases under advisement and will make a general survey of the prevailing conditions on these lines with the ultimate object in view of securing additional preparatory time.

Birthday Greetings

A number of inquiries have been received on how to get names of readers in the regular Birthday Greeting Feature which appears weekly at the head of this column. Simply mail your name to Chas. L. Upton, 2190 W. 30th street and the month in which you were born and it will appear one week during that month. The greetings are carried for four weeks and if it does not appear the first week it will be published one week during the month. We do not require your age just the month in which you were born. Once your name is placed on file it will appear every year without notification, now mail them in and congratulations.

Harry Lucas, President Roosevelt's Private Pullman Porter, Well Liked

Along with the number one man of the nation last Saturday, President Roosevelt, came the Number 1 Pullman Porter of the nation in the person of Harry Lucas who has been personal railroad servant to every President since Warren G. Harding. Lucas operates out of Washington and his sole duty is to attend the needs of traveling Presidents. He has made beds for Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt. The President thinks well of Lucas and says he sleeps sounder in the beds that Lucas makes, then he does in the White House. The President's special train followed the Southern Pacific Owl all the way from Oakland and the porters on the Owl inform me that everybody from the Train-Master on down was riding with them that night to see that the old bird came in on time. The Owl crew which came in the lead of President Roosevelts Special were Brackett, Busby, Green and Brazley. In an interview with Brackett, he said that when the Owl arrived in Fresno about midnite there was over five thousand people at the depot but the President was asleep. The same thing at Bakersfield on arrival at 2 a. m. The crew claims they are entitled to some kind of distinction or another for being the crew that paved the way safe for the President's Special. I shall have to take that up with my special board of merits at a later date Lucas will take the President's Private car back to Washington.

DOWN IN FRONT

By ALMENA DAVIS

FAY YOUNG, sports editor of the Chicago Defender, in his column "The Stuff Is Here", last week asked support in landing at least two Negroes on the next United States Olympic Games committee, to make the trip to Helsingfors, London or halifax, wherever the next Games are to be held.

He advances as the proper menuvers to accamplishing this, organization of our outstanding track and field athletes, who have graduated or "quituated" from college and thus are out of interscholastic competition, into an athletic club, similar to the New York A. C., or the Olympic club, here on the West Coast.

He proposed that the galaxy of present day stars join up with the Chicago Olde Tymers, which recently won the Central A. A. U. championship, bringing that title to the race group for the first time in history. Such a move would automatically make the Olde Tymers the strongest club in the U. S. and in the next Olympic tryouts, the club would doubtless emerge the team victor, consequently placing its coach and trainer on the Olympic Games committee.

It sounds swell and it can be done. Our best wishes and hearty cooperation to Young. But the Olde Tymers and similar already organized groups are too far away to do us on the West Coast any good, so I offer a similar proposal.

Here on the West Coast we need a club. To my knowledge, none of the athletic clubs out this way admit Negroes, if so, why haven't we seen such greats as Nate George, Jimmie LuValle, etc., participating after collegiate days.

All wisdom and logic is on the side of said organizations. There is no reason why after school days a man, or woman, should park his haunches in a swivel chair, getting muscle-bound and hastening athletic heart.

As to quality, if not quanity, we have as fine an aggregation of track and field stars as the East boasts. Why not band together Corny Johnson, Wilbur Ashford, Wince King, James O'Neal, Jimmy LuValle, Archie Williams, Tom Berkeley, Tommie Nelson, etc., all of whom are ineligible now for interscholastic sports. It is an idea worth working out.

EASTERN papers are making a desperate effort to get one or two or last season's stellar race football players on the All-Star team that meets the Washington Redskins, professional champs in Soldier's Field August 31 in the Chicago Tribune's annual affair for sweet charity.

It seems that Ozzie Simmons to the windward, a Negro has never made the team, which is hand-picked from the cream of the crop.

Last year Simmons, former Iowa backfield ace, turned pro before the game, thus cancelling his chance. This year's eligibles are Dwight Reed, two years end on the Minnesota eleven, Clarence Hinton, Northwestern U substitute back and Homer Harris, captain of the Iowa squad and the first Negro to hold that position.

I DON'T know of what it is significant, but newsreels and stills show the running form of Mozelle Ellerbee and Allen Scisco of Tuskegee to be simply awful. Streaking into the tape, the boys muscles look like a girl scout's knots. Their arms hang level with their knees and their faces look like the rope and faggot are in hot pursuit. Tolan, at his most hideous, never looked like one of these . . . Forever carrying a torch for we-all, the red sheets in the middle west last week charged that "the smell of politics continues to linger around the decision of the Illinois Boxing Commission to bar Jack Trammel, Negro heavyweight, for five years for taking a dive for Jimmy Adamick, protegee of Jack Kearns" . . . The Illinois' commish's decision is effective in California.

The following flatteringly addressed epistle, "Mr. or Mrs. (?) Almena Davis," I have been intending to print for a long time.

Capable of solving the most involved equation at the California Institute of Technology where he does graduate work, Jimmie LuValle, former Westwood Phi Beta Kappa, is stumped by the presence of an obviously feminine name under the caricature of a male reporter on a column on the sport page. For shame, Mr. LuValle.

Columnist Almena Davis:

In your column "Down in Front" of June 23, 1938, you ask why the colleges don't take the Negro athletes who are graduating from high school this June. The answer is very obvious, with almost no exception, they haven't got the grades which will admit them to such schools as UCLA and UCB. Harry Trotter, out Westwood way, would like to have several of these graduates but athletics alone do not admit one to UCLA.

JIMMIE LU VALLE.

P. S.—I can't find one who is eligible to enter UCLA without some work at J. C.

Nat'l Tennis Championships to Be Held at Lincoln Univ.

Tennis fans from all over the nation will swoop down upon Lincoln University in Chester Couty, Pa., the week of Aug. 14-20 inclusive for one purpose, that of seeing whether or not Dr. Reginald E. Weir of New York will succeed in winning the national title of the American Tennis Association, in its twenty-second annual championships, for the fifth time.

Only two players, neither of whom is now active, have been able to win the coveted A. T. A. singles crown four times. They are Atty. Talley R. Holmes of Washington, D. C and Edgar G. Brown, also of Washington but formerly of Chicago.

REPORT ORA OUT

Authentic reports say that Ora Washington will not defend her A. T. A. singles title in the women's singles this year but will compete in the women's doubles paired with Lulu Ballard. However, these reports have been heard before and net addicts are not taking stock in them until the week of the meet. Ora reportedly said she was retiring after her 6-1, 8-6 upset by Miss Ballard of Wilberforce in 1936, but she came back last year and captured the crown from Katherine Jones after a scare by the Eastern girl.

Weir's title must be defended this year against an array of celebrated stars who have shown continual improvement. Among these feared rivals are Ernest McCampbell, winner of the N. C. Open a fortnight ago; Richard Cohen, winner of the Prarie View Open this spring; Tommy Walker, the southpaw stylist who upset the Defending Champion Lloyd Scott at Tuskegee last August; Harmon Finch four-time runner up in the nationals; Warren Weaver, 1937 CIAA champion; James Stocks of Pasadena, '37 quarterfinalist in the Nationals and co-holder of the A. T. A. doubles laurels with Tommy Walker.

Metcalfe to Be Heard Here Sunday

Ralph Metcalfe, athlete and 1932 Olympic champion, will appear as Ralph Metcalfe, educator, Sunday afternoon at Hamilton M. E. Church, 18th and Naomi at 3 o'clock, when he responds to the introduction of visiting teachers in Los Angeles--a feature of the mid-summer educational program sponsored by teachers in Los Angeles schools.

On the program, which will become an annual summer event, will appear Dr. Walter F. Dexter, Superintendent of Public Instruction and Director of Education, State of California, who will be this years guest speaker. Lieut. William Powell and Madam Minnie Albritton, widely acclaimed on every program they appear, will be the soloists. The Teacher's Octette, a very popular singing group, will render four numbers, one of which will be J. Rosamond Johnson's "Since You Went Away". This number will be sung in memory of the composer's brother James Weldon Johnson, educator and scholar, who met an untimely death recently.

Professor C. L. Eason of the Los Angeles City Schools will act as Master of Ceremonies.

Louis Favors 'Frisco Bout in 1939

CHICAGO, July 21. (ANP)—Mike Jacobs seems to have finally become convinced that John Roxborough and Julian Black meant it when they said Joe Louis would not defend his heavyweight title any more this year.

Last week Joe made a hurried trip by plane to New York and talked to Jacobs, then flew back here next day. Louis is understood to have said that he was ready and willing to fight anybody anytime, but Mike would have to see his managers.

Thursday Julian talked by telephone to the boxing promoter and reiterated his statement that they didn't care to have Louis fight again during 1938.

Roxborough said. "He has defended the championship three times this year, and we feel he deserves a rest, Mike wants to arrange a Max Baer-Louis contest in Chicago or New York for September, but we believe such a match would be a bigger attraction in San Francisco next April. Jacobs seemed satisfied with this plan."

The champion left Friday for Flint, Mich., to referee a series of amateur contests that night and Saturday went to Toronto where he had been scheduled to appear at the Detroit-Toronto police field and track meet.

The Ross Snyder Club and the Crown City club from Pasadena will meet Sunday on the Snyder courts.

Edgar Foley, secretary of the Snyder club, which is host to the Pacific Coast matches, stated this week that no new action had been taken on the projected courts at Snyder, which have been promised in time for the tournament.

Bishop Shaw Hits Current Trends of Hero Worship

Stressing the need of heroism in the upper brackets of Christian living, Bishop A. Preston Shaw of the Methodist Episcopal church, Sunday hit current trends of the peoples of the world to worship so-called heroes.

Guest preacher at Hamilton M. E. church, East 18th and Naomi Ave., of which Dr. S. M. Beane is pastor, Bishop Shaw presides over the New Orleans area of the M. E. church and is a former pastor of Wesley M. E. chapel, here.

The type of worship that makes heroes of the Amelia Earharts, the Joe Louises, the Babe Ruths, the Lou Gehrigs, and the Howard Hugheses, was assailed by the Bishop as a false type of worship.

Explaining that at this time when the nations of the earth are practicing what he termed "jungle ethics", the eminent prelate said the world needs a type of hero who can solve the problems facing humanity.

Using as his subject, "It's All Yours", Bishop Shaw told the capacity audience that the Bible offers the true Communism, as against that order practiced in Russia of God-lessness.

He was accompanied on his trip here by his wife and children.

At the regular quarterly Convocation of People's Independent Church of Christ, 18th and Paloma, last Monday night, Rev. Clayton D. Russell, minister, was unanimously voted the power to select a special committee to raise funds to send three worthy students to the University of California at Los Angeles, beginning with the fall semester of this year, as part of the scholarship program of the church.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Truth" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist. The Golden Text is from the Psalms: "Teach me thy way, O Lord: I will walk in thy truth: unite my heart to fear thy name."

One of the Bible selections in the Lesson-Sermon presents these verses from Proverbs: "By mercy and truth iniquity is purged: and by the fear of the LORD men depart from evil. When a man's ways please the LORD, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him....A man's heart deviseth his way: but the LORD directeth his steps."

The Lesson-Sermon includes also this statement from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The divine demand, 'Be ye therefore perfect,' is scientific, and the human footsteps leading to perfection are indispensable. Individuals are consistent who, watching and praying, can 'run, and not be weary;... walk, and not faint,' who gain good rapidly and hold their position, or attain slowly and yield not to discouragement. . . . When we wait patiently on God and seek Truth righteously, He directs our path."

The discussion will culminate the day's program under the general theme of "Youth and The Christ-tion Community" which will be launched in the morning from the topic of "Christian Cooperation." The morning topic is designed to present youth as a definite part of the Christian community and the evening subject to consider beenfits and failures not commonly observed.

Los Angeles and Pasadena Society . . .

By GEORGE GARNER

Sorry no end to have had to miss going on, last Thursday, to the pristine white manse of Bill and "Little Bo" Robinson . . . where Southland eclat gathered for one of the far-famed Robinson soirees . . all of which must have been as close to perfection as possible . . . especially when one considers the Robinson home . . . all a-gleam from without . . . a veritable showplace in Westside . . . with its wealth of Victorian and modern furnishings . . . above all an atmosphere ideally adaptable to entertainment in the inimitable Robinson manner.

And out from the New York noises . . . the screech of sirens, the rumbling of the subway, the dismal moan of the fog horn . . comes soignee Mrs. Louise Fisher Morris, a relative of Mrs. Cornelius N. Bradford . . . on Thursday, Mrs. Hazel Whittaker entertained at bridge and luncheon to honor Mrs. Bradford . . . covers were laid for about forty feminine members of the "beau monde" . . . both Mrs. Bradford and Mrs. Whittaker are godmothers to the Cornelius N. Bradford's infant daughter, Anne Louise.

Tonight, Thursday, the MA PO FI Souvernir Sport Dance is to hold forth from the Recreation Center at 1880 North Boylston . . there is to be bridge starting from eight o'clock with dancing from ten o'clock and on . . . . the government and city employes as well as the prominent professional people who are members and honorary members of this important organization are foremost in the ranks of Southland club hosts . . . equally recognized for their not infrequent and elaborately scaled dancing parties.

Members of the Women's Auxiliary to the Pasadena Community Sing Association . . . Mmes. Pearl Fairfax, chairman; Anna Baptiste, treasurer; Mrs. Gillem, Mmes. Gertrude Wiggins, Belle Doston, Joseph Mims, Albertine Pickens-Glenn, Paullyn Garner, Susie Newsom, Mrs. Robert L. Keys, sponsored a successful dinner-dance on Thursday evening of last week, in the hall of the Garner Community Center, 470 Blake street . . . other aides included W. Howard McMickens, John Nelson, Audley Cole and Don Butler.

To honor Mrs. Lillian Dinkins, directress of Friendship Baptist church's senior choir, members of the choral group entertained on Friday evening last with an elaborate buffet supper party . . Mrs. James Woods, wife of the prominent mortician, opened her handsomely furnished home for the occasion . . . Mrs. Dinkins, already an accomplished musician, leaves shortly to further her musical studies in an Eastern conservatory . . . she plans to be absent from her many Pasadena friends for at least two months . . . following dinner, with Mr. Mr. J. G. Sims, president of the choir acting as toastmaster, the remainer of the evening was spent in the exchange of felicitations to the honor guest . . . . gifts were also presented to the departing Mrs. Dinkins . . . . . among the forty or more guests present was Mrs. Rux, relative of the well-known Mrs. Rosetta Stewart . . . Mrs. Rux is visiting here from New York.

And speaking of visitors . . . may I here make mention of the Southern California invasion of a most important-Chicago social favorite . . . I refer to Mrs. Cora Rollins . . . whom most former Chicagoans will immediately remember . . . she, the mother of Chicago politico Mouvoleyne Carpenter, is perhaps one of the most colorful of Chicago society hostesses . . . her parties, lavishly given, have been the talk of Windy City smart people for many a season ;and her home in Champlain Avenue is an especially favored rendezvous . . . a center of the city's sacrosanct club life . . . while here Mrs. Rollins will reside in East 51st street, Los Angeles.

Mrs. W. Howard McMickens of Pasadena, prominent in Eastern Star Lodge activities is in Riverside attending the Grand Lodge sessions there . . leaving Mr. McMickens to manage their North Lincoln Avenue menage.

AROUND AND ABOUT IN PASANGELO

Zooming down to the beach at Castlerock in Mrs. Kenneth Mack's new Pontiac (a birthday gift from spouse Kenny), went a party of youngerset members last Sunday . . . as a part of the all-day celebration in honor of Esther (Avery) Mack's birthday . . . later returning from the beach to change into gadabout clothes at the home of Herr William Long, Jr. . . . and even later . . . the entire party's appearance at a double table in the Dunbar patio . . . Esther seated at the head of the table and wearing a devastating, demi-crowned black cartwheel . . . . Kenneth seated just to her left . . . the zestful "Jo" Williams, laughingl ygaily with William Long, a shiny hat of black baku slanting backwards from her curls . . . Margo Collins, wearing a beige and Paisley tailleur, was with Stan Williamson . . . Marcia Mack in black and aquamarine, engaged in much conversation with Clyde Porter . . . and later yet . . . Emily Brown, niece of the J. Rufus Portwigs, appearing with Wardell Jackson, and having their chairs brought up to join the gay group . . . to continue the natal day celebration, the Macks and their party went on to the Spanish manse of the Marshalls in Eastside where daughter Zodelle, aided by her swain, George McGruder, was entertaining after the al fresco manner . . . having converted the wide, wide expanse of the garage into a dance pavilion . . . there to have cocktails and hors d'oeuvres until nearly two o'clock . . . Ivan and Nettabelle Cannady, also in the party at Castlerock beach Sunday afternon . . . ditto for Cy Westbrooks and Clarence Mack . . who, incidentally, had taken time out from their newly pursued endeavors as yacht builders in the Clyde Porter shipyards . . . An impromptu party at Brookside . . Saturday last . . . to bid sad adieu to the lovely Ethel Ransome . . . recent graduate of Muir Tech in Pasadena . . . Ethel will visit indefinitely in Kansas City . . . among those down to see Ethel depart and to engage in sets at tennis meanwhile, were: "Jo" Williams, Merleen Ballard, "Snookie" McAfee, Percy Mae Crawford' . . . and Ethel's erstwhile male admirer . . . saw Joe and Myrtle Cunningham at the Santa Monica playgrounds Sunday . . . their fast-growing youngster having the time of his life . . . Mrs. Sawyer Hall Nichols, motor-bound in company with her mother, Mrs. Eugene L. Flewellen, the other day . . . Dendell Franklin at the "Die Waulkere" Hollywood Bowl presentation.

Chatter and . . . Some News

By HELEN F. CHAPPELL
Society Editor

A good way to kill one's popularity is to "jump on" a popular cause especially when it boasts the earmarks of a charitable one . . . that demands you jam hands in pockets and throw thin dimes into a hat . . . to make someone a little happier. Well, since my popularity depends on whether or not I make you that way or conversely, . . . here's taking a long chance that, on second thought, isn't such a long one at that. Several clubs are voting out dimes and individuals are getting their names in the papers for contributions for a new chair . . . and a new rack for Gracie. Gracie, you know, is the invalid who sits day after day in a wheel chair between Forty-second and Forty-third on Central . . . selling candies and sundry knick knacks.

Now here goes: . . . I'm not for the dime movement to buy the new chair or the new rack because I don't think Gracie should be kept in a spot on a busy street for children to pass and look at bewildered at first . . . a little pityingly later . . . and finally with a shrug; and for elders to pass by without a glance, or to pause and purchase her wares to satisfy their ego that they're doing their bit for the stricken. I don't believe it! The movement misses its goal if it makes one person happier and hardens minds that are not yet able to grasp the meaning of suffering . . . or of happiness. There're institutions for people like Gracie that your taxes support where she'd be happier . . . Now, go ahead and cuss me out.

LOVE'S A FUNNY THING:

Witness: Dame Rumor with her feet solidly on the ground swears that pretty Eunice Patterson and Wilbur Ashford are definitely heading the way marked "To Mr. and Mrs." . . . that makes Eunice's ex-boy friend her coming spouse . . . and her boy friend an example of the erstwhile popular "Out in the Cold . . . Again?" You see less than two weeks ago Tillman Thomas was hosting Eunice off to the Kappa Caravan; a month ago, he was the man of the hour, of the day, . . . you figure it out . . . I can't.

Another scoop . . . Rhetta Jean Boswell is spending the summer in Chicago . . . she's engaged to one of Chi's swains that attended the " 'Force" with her . . . according to Eastern dispatches. Well, grass isn't growing under Victor Nickerson's feet . . . Ernestine Beasley is wearing his frat pin. Seems to me that "Apes" are supposed to object to that practice, but I guess on the Coast it depends on the girl . . . Alphas, enlighten one beyond your realm. . . Arthur McNeeley and Cecelia Dye are reported victims of the Santa Ana fever. They married in that popular Gretna Green Saturday morning and they say McNeeley "took it like a man." . . . Tycine Randolph and Melvin Webb, who've been married since April, are receiving congratulations Sunday at a reception. Tycine finished Chapman in June you know.

Everybody's getting out the best togs and doing consulting with the favorite beautician because this week-end is full to the brim. STYLE NOTES

Style News this week takes on a glamorous aura . . . because we go to the cause of the loss of many a throne and many a man's head . . . Next to herself, the average social climber loves jewelry. We're not being vulgar when we say social climber . . . but if you must have it in proper parlance, we'll say the socially prominent. At any rate knowing when and just how much jewelry to wear is an art that marks a woman's smartnes like no other item of dress. In the first place, you don jewelry for one or two reasons . . . either to bring out other details of dress or for the distinctive attractiveness of the ornament itself in contrast to your apparel.

Never was there more need for discretion being used in jewelry than the present . . . what with costume ornaments featuring everything from spiders and bugs to crosses; with dull gold vieing with gaudy stones, ... it's high time that every woman asked herself: Will this bring me out or relegate me to the ranks of those who draw frowns and whispers. The cardinal principal of jewelry like that of every garment of your wardrobe begins and ends with the individual . . . Soft and lovely youth needs little decoration and ripe old age looks foolish when straining after brillance . . . Yet one brilliant note, one sparkle placed deftly in the right place can transform a quiet unnoticed wallflower into a beaming personality . . . just as one subdued ornament can color age with softness.

The fall trend promises radiance in evening shoes that will be repeated in a single piece of jewelry . . . therefore, if you're including studded shoes of the clodhopper style in your wardrobe, you'll need earrings or necklace or tiara . . . you won't need all three. An unobtrusive bracelet, however, will not be amiss. Fresh flowers will continue to hold their place and scented corsages will be just as popular. You won't need brilliant jewelry . . . if you wear corsages well and can afford them.

KENANSVILLE, N. C., July 21. (ANP)—Last Monday, while funeral services were being held for his two brothers, a sister and neighbor, all victims of a bolt of lightning, Rodney Harper died in a Kinston hospital of injuries received from the same messenger of death.

A crowd of 3,000 said to be the largest funeral gathering in the history of Duplin county attended the rites, held at the Harper home. Those killed were Asa I. Just a few minutes before, the Harper family had been publicly praised by the Rev. Mr. Eubanks, pastor, as outstanding citizens of the community. Miss Ada Harper was teaching a class on the back porch when the lightning spread terror among the worshippers. The bolt leaped from room to room, tore away huge portions of the building, killing four persons outright, severely injuring ten others.

Re-emphasizing the major planks in the platform on which he is running for assemblyman from the 62nd District, Spurgeon Jones this week stated that he is not affiliated with any political machine in his fight for election.

"I had no idea of entering politics until a group urged me" he said.

Mob Slays Texas Oil Well Owner

MINEOLA, Texas, July 21. (ANP)—After running amuck and killing his wife and a white man and wounding two others, R. D. Register, 40, wealthy owner of several oil wells in East Texas and reputedly one of the wealthiest Negroes in the state, was shot and killed Wednesday night by a mob of irate citizens on the outskirts of the town.

Register was at home when his mind seemed to snap. He seized a 30-30 rifle and shot his wife at their home then turned the gun on Leonard Huey, a farm employe. Huey was not expected to live. The demented man then started walking toward Mineola with the weapon in his hands. Spying a white man, Newell Ellison, driving his cows home from a pasture, Register killed him without warning and continued toward town.

KILLS DOG

As he neared Mineola, Roy Allen, white, former postmaster, and his wife, passed Register in their automobile. Register fired one shot, the bullet shattering Allen's arm and killing a dog in the car.

News of the crazed man reached Mineola before him, and as Register crossed the railroad tracks, a hastily formed mob opened fire. Register returned the first volley, but failed to hit anyone. A bullet said to have been fired by John H. Smith, white, a store owner, killed him.

Justice of the Peace A. B. Humphries said he was not certain that what caused the oilman to go insane but had been told there were several deaths recently in Register's family.

EARL WARREN

Earl Warren in Race for Atty. General

Among the offices to be filled at the coming election is that of Attorney General. The Attorney General is the lawyer for the State of California. He represents the State in all its litigation. He advises the various State officers, boards and commissions what in his opinion they can and cannot do. He is a member of such bodies as the Districts Securities Commission, the Advisory Pardon Board, the Commission on Qualification of Judges and other commissions. He is the chief law officer of the State--the adviser and leader of local peace officers and the coordinator of their statewide activities.

If we are to have fair and impartial administration of our laws, it is essential that we elect an Attorney General who is qualified. For many years, the office has been most capably filled by U. S. Webb, who is retiring. The best qualified of the many aspiring to be his successor is Earl Warren. Mr. Warren has been District Attorney of Alameda County for thirteen years. During that period he has made an enviable reputation as a prosecutor who is fearless, efficient, and fair to all.

Mr. Warren has been president of the District Attorneys' Association of California, and he is an honorary member of the Peace Officers' Association of California. He has been the legislative representative of both of these associations since 1927. He was a member of and a speaker at the Crime Conference called by President Roosevelt in December, 1934. He is a member of the Council of the Section on Criminal Law of the American Bar Asosciation. He is Vice-Chairman of the Committee on Administration of Justice of the State Bar of California.

Earl Warren was born in Los Angeles March 19, 1891. He received his preliminary education in Bakersfield, and then attended the University of California, receiving his law degree in 1914. After three years of private practice, he joined the army, and in December, 1918, was honorably discharged with the rank of first lieutenant. In 1919, he was first Clerk of the Judiciary Committee of the California Assembly, and then a deputy city attorney of Oakland. He entered the district attorney's office in 1920. He is married and has six children.

The satisfactory discharge of the widely assorted and complicated duties of the Attorney General calls for an officer specially qualified by education, experience, temperament and general character. With his eighteen years in law enforcement work, his popularity with his fellows, his active interest in movements to improve the administration of justice, and his reputation for fairness to all, Earl Warren is the outstanding candidate for the office.

ASIDE FROM POLITICS

If you want to run into impudence, discourtesy and gall, drop into Major Market in the morning when the colored lad in the grocery Dept., is out. Seems that he's never at work till noon or after. The short, fat youngster who operates the registers, doesn't know—or just just doesn't give a d--- whether you get what you want or not. Ask him where certain articles are and he'll answer gruffly "It's back there, find it yourself. I don't know anything about it". We'd heard people complain about their change, and that also that he openly stated that he'd rather be at a store operated by Major in a white district.

It's different across the street at the E. F. Smith market. A dozen courteous, Negro boys are at your beck and call to direct customers, and if you have a list of purchases, hand it to one, go where you like, and when you return your goods will be wrapped and waiting. Negroes act as cashiers, but I have never seen one fingering the register at Major.

Embassy Employe Duped of $240

WASHINGTON, July 21 ANP —The old shop-worn handkerchief trick claimed another victim here last week when Gilbert Brown, 32, colored employee of the Italian Embassy was "taken" for $240 by three colored men he met in the street.

As they approached, the men told Brown they had found a large sum of money, showed him the handkerchief containing a "roll of bills" and asked him if he would hold it for them. The obliging Brown was more than willing to do so, but the strangers told him he must first put up his $240 to "show his good faith" Brown did. Several hours later he opened the handkerchief. The "roll of bills" turned out to be an empty cigaret package wrapepd in brown paper.

Order Closes Sessions in San Diego

SAN DIEGO, July 21,—The Grand Lodge United Brothers of Friendship and Sisters of the Mysterious Ten has just closed one of the most interesting and inspiring sessions in the history of the Order. It was one of reconstruction and a retracing of steps to find impediments that has so hindered the progress of the Order. Under the careful leadership of Grand Master, E. W. Fisher and Grand Princess, Mary McAdoo, we were able to so carefully weed out obstructions and place the Order on higher ground with the confidence of the membership at large restored and the outlook very promising.

Our Relief Department showed a marked improvement over the last few years with a margin of more than Three Thousand ($3000.00) Dollars increased funds. The Lord had blessed us, we had only Six (6) deaths throughout the Jurisdiction this year. All claims have been paid according to the schedule, and we are marching on.

The attendance was large and the association with each other a pleasure. Many things relative to the operation of the Order were changed to meet the present day demands. These things called for fearless leadership, and we consider ourselves fortunate to have it. Out of the depression came the impression. Our forces are well organized and we certainly have no fear of defeat.

San Diego Temples, Mt. Olive, No. 6; Goddess of Hope, No. 15 and Rose Bud, No. 25 were hostesses to the Grand Lodge, and showed us how well they could take care of the situation. They were not found wanting in anything; in fact, we did not have time to enjoy all the things they had planned for us.

The Grand Royal House, under the leadership of Mrs. Myrtle B. Hill, as Most Excellent Grand Queen, also had a wonderful session.

The Grand Present and Past Princess Council, under the leadership of Mrs. LaGulia G. Shaw as the Grand Empress, came in for its share of praise. This Council made a donation of Twenty-eight ($28.00) Dollars to the relief Department.

The Grand Juvenile Department, under the leadership of Mrs. Geneva I'Hara, as Grand Mother Matron, showed marked improvement. The children putting on programs that were a delight to all who heard them.

The unanimous election of officers was as follows:

Thus closed a most inspiring session in the city of San Diego, Calif. June 27-28-29, 1938.

Miss Cameron has enlisted the aid of Eagle readers in finding her pet, lost on July 4.

Patsy is 6 years old and is classified as an American Pit bull terrier. She is white with brindle spots on her sides, ear and tail.

The pup and her mistress were well nigh inseparable and we imagine it would be of mutual benefit if the pair was united.

A liberal reward and no questions is offered the finder, who can call HE--4995, or write Miss Cameron at 1660 S. St. Andrews Place.

A newsdealer in El Paso, Texas has invented a merry-go-round that patrons can revolve with their hands to display newspapers and magazines.

Sold in powder form for making solutions, a ne wdeveloper for photographic negatives and prints is asserted by its inventor to do its work in 90 seconds.

The LAUNDRYMAN "Goofer-Dust"

Well, as I was saying in last week's conclusion, I come on into town from Watts and stopped on the corner of Vernon and Central, wondering where I could get hold of some Goofer-Dust. Whilst I'm standing there up a tree along comes a cute little N'orleans Satin-Brown that I knowed. I stops her, and asked her confidential could she give me a line on getting hold of some of this dust. You see I figured she ought to know something about "Laying Dust" or something, 'cause she's been out here over nine years without no husband, and ain't never hit the first tap of work long as I've known her.

I barked up the right tree too, 'cause she laughed and asked me what I wanted with it, and told me about a certain place on Central Avenue where I could buy anything from Humming-bird tongues to Bumble Bees' Ankles. I beat it right on over to the place and told the man what I wanted, and he sold me two-bits worth of the stuff and told me exactly how to use it.

About nine o'clock the next morning I called up Sister S. and told her that my Dust was all ready, and asked her could we get in the church around twelve o'clock that night. She said yes, that she had a key to the pastor's study (I dunno what she was doing with it, an' her posing as a model young widow) and that we could get in through that way.

Sure enough she met at the pastor's study at twelve o'clock sharp and we eased on through there into the church. It was blacker than a coal-mine in there and we was scared to turn on any lights. It was nearly ten minutes before she located the chair what this stock-yard feller had taken to sitting in, and then I taken out my package of Dust and started to do my stuff.

This Goofer-Dust what this guy had sold me looks just like red dirt, but when you stick a match to it, it flames on and off like one of them Neon signs. I put a big spoonful of it in a baking powder top I had brought with me, lighted it, and shoved it under the back of this stock-yard feller's chair.

"What did you light it for? I, though you was sposed to sprinkle that stuff?" Sister S. said in a low whisper.

"Sprinkling's out of date now. This here's the fastest way", I whispers back.

The guy I bought the stuff from had told me I was supposed to recite some kind of lines while the stuff was burning, so I commenced mumbling some Latin Proffessor William Pickens had made me waste time learning, years ago.

"Arma -- virumque -- cano-, Troiae -- que -- primus arboris," I chants. The Goofer-dust sputtered, went out, and flashed up again, throwing some funny looking shadows on the dingy church walls.

"Hic--Italian--fata--, sic wolvere parcas." I moans again. Sister S. crept up closer to me --we was both on our knees-- and whispers:

"Hurry up Laundryman! I b'lieve I seen something moving up yonder by the pulpit." I looked where she was pointing, and sure enough it did look like something was squatting down on the left side of the pulpit, and it made me real nervous.

"All right," I says, making a quick sign of the cross; "just one more line. It always takes three lines to make a good job."

On account of seeing that thing up there by the pulpit, I couldn't think of no more lines from Vergil to save my neck so I finishes up with these well known lines from college graduating exercises:

"Cum laude--cum laude--cum laude." Then I grabs up the baking powder top, catches Sister S. by the arm, and we came out of that church in one nothing.

Well, Sunday come and went, and come again, and I ain't heard nothing from Sisters S. To tell the truth, something had told me to change my laundry route from that street where she lived. You know how women folks is, so hard to please, and always wanting so much for their money, and I didn't want to have no words with her about that measly five dollars she had give me.

But one day when I was about nine blocks away from where she lives, she come up to my laundry-wagon just as I was getting out of it to go to a customer's house.

"Where you been so long? What's the reason you ain't been by my house," she says.

Her voice sounded real stern, and I looked at her good and noticed for the first time how big her arms was, and how powerful she looked.

"I been down sick in bed. This is my first time out this way in over a week," I says, edging away from her.

"Well I've been trying my best to find you. I got you another customer. She wants you to move her Star Roomer away from her house. I told her what a good job you done for me," she said.

My mouth fell open. "So that stockyard feller moved, huh?", I stammered.

"He didn't miss it. When I got to church that Sunday he was sitting so far down front till I had a hard time locating him. But after this, always burn that stuff in front of a chair instead of behind it, so it'll drive 'em out of the building", she told me.

GAB STUFF

By J. CULLEN FENTRESS

In Which We Admit We're the Guy Who is Always Missing Something Which is the 'Best Yet'

WE ARE the unlucky guy who is always missing something which, after it is all over, was the best this-or-that ever held. Whether it is some social function, a meeting of some sort, an athletic event, or anything else, and we don't attend as an inner-voice says we ought, then that thing is apt to be a world-beater. It never fails. And of course, the inner-voice comes up with, "I told you so", a very irritable habit of the inner-voice.

An example of this was a few days ago when a group of men who make up the Los Angeles Fellowship league, held their annual breakfast down on Municipal Pier in Venice.

The first report we got of the affair told us that everything was perfect — the weather, the food, the program. The second report went more into detail, but fundamentally was the same as the first. Anytime any group can give anything at all that finds the weather, the food and the program perfect, well, we wouldn't be in on it. We're unlucky that way.

Besides, at this particular breakfast a few days ago, the speeches were great! Now, if you ask us, that in itself is sufficient to warrant breaking of a leg to get there.

Of these great speeches, the greatest, we hear, was the one made by Bill Robinson, the man who raised the status of hoofing to the art of tap-dancing.

We would have liked to listen to "Bojangles", from his wealth of experiences, interpret this business of life as he sees it and feels it. We understand he did just that, laying down a law of conduct that works, because it has worked for him.

With Lauretta Butler's Kiddies, a group of dancers, gazing in wide-eyed seriousness, Bojangles told his hearers that early in life he was always "ready, willing and 'able" to use his fists if his rights were being trampled upon. But now, experiences have taught him a new way, the best way, to merit and keep those same rights — by maintaining one's own self respect at all times, standing up for his rights under the law.

Bill Robinson has merited the respect of the world. And as a small token of this respect the Fellowship League presented him with a gold plaque upon which are inscribed the words, "Good and great — he maketh the earth wholesome". Fine words, those.

When a social function is given and the inner-voice says "Go" and we don't, that's the very time the crowd is congenial, and the music very, very good. If we stay away from the fights, fed up with a succession of putrid performances under the head of boxing, that's the very night when all the bouts, from curtain-raiser to time for exit are slam-bang with a possible double knockout, to boot. If we stay away from a football game that will be the day some gridder will tuck the pigskin under his arm and scamper some 90 yards through the opposition to a touchdown. And, if we stay away from the race track, that's the day when all of our favorites come romping under the wire in front.

If we go to any of those attractions the opposite is most likely to occur.

And so, for fear of missing the Bill Robinsons, etc., in the future, we are going to furnish the inner-voice with sound system so that we might hear it to the exclusion of all else. We'll get the type that is used on some of these sound trucks we see and hear rolling along Central avenue.

Predictions: Our small-sized penny goes on John Henry Lewis to decision Tony Galento in a Philadelphia ring next Wednesday night . . .

Biography of Hunton, 'Y' Leader, Released

The struggles and sacrifices of a crusader to better the conditions of his race are revealed in the biography of William Alphaeus Hunton, just written by his wife, Addie W. Hunton, and published by Associated Press. The biography is being released in connection with the Fiftieth Anniversary of the establishing of colored YMCA work, of which Hunton was the founder. The movement, led by Hunton for over 25 years, has since spread to 76 cities and 140 schools and colleges in America.

William Hunton was called to take up the secretaryship of the first colored YMCA in Norfolk, Va. in 1888. He displayed such talent and leadership in launching this Association, that Richard C. Morse, general secretary of the International Committee, drew him two years later to New York to head up work for colored men and boys throughout the United States.

10 Lb. Baby Boy Born to George Hollands

Buxom to the full extent of the word was the ten pound, three ounce baby boy born on July 7 to Mr. and Mrs. George Holland, 10603 Gorman avenue. Mother and baby are doing "fine".

I ain't throwing no bouquets at myself, folks, but if any of you-all need some moving done real confidential--and can lay down some DOUGH--write the Laundryman in care of the California Eagle.

REV. T. L. GRIFFITH

'Significance of the American Flag'

A patriotic sermonette printed by special request, delivered at Second Baptist church, by Rev. T. L. Griffith, pastor of the church, in connection with the Flag Dedication ceremony held under the auspices of the American Legion Auxiliary Sunday evening, July 10.

"Numbers 2:2--Every man of the children of Israel shall pitch by his own standard.

"This text is used for this occasion because it reveals that something akin to a flag has been in use among the nations from the earliest times, and that these ensigns have had some special significance for the people who used them. In the Scriptures they are designated as standards, as ensigns, and as banners.

"When the Israelites had halted in the great desert after they left Egypt, they were host larger in number than the present population of the City of Los Angeles. In the center of their great encampment was a beautiful Tabernacle costing possibly one and a half million dollars. In the curtains of this Tabernacle were deep colors of scarlet, or red, of white, of blue, of purple. The twelve tribes were arranged about this Tabernacle in groups of three, and in front of each of these groups was a standard or flag, thus making four separate flags for these wandering people. Each man was therefore placed in a certain special station in relation to the flag of his particular group of tribes. A specific instruction is given for each and every man of Israel: 'Every man of the children of Israel shall pitch by his own standard'. Before Israel started on the exodus there were standards in Egypt, and the great nations of ancient, medieval and modern times have all used them.

"When the American colonies were established in the Eastern section of this country, they used the English flag, and this was the sign of their loyalty to the English crown. And when, later, these colonies announced their independence they began the use of flags of their own. At the first Northern colonies had theirs, and Southern colonies theirs, the designs of each being different one from another. In brief the American flag was approved by the Congress June 14, 1777 by the adoption of the following resolution: 'Resolved, that the flag of the United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white, in a field of blue representing a new constellation.'

"New states came into the union, and on March 25, 1818 the law was amended so that as a new state should come into the union, a new star would be added to the flag. And thus today we have those same thirteen stripes, and forty-eight white stars in a field of blue.

"In considering the significance of this American flag, let us ponder, first, the colors; second, the stripes; third, the stars.

"First—The Colors—

"The colors are: Red, White, Blue.

"The national colors carry the mind of the Christian to these colors which added to the picturesque beauty of the Tabernacle--but these three were outstanding in religious ceremony. When one looks on these three deep colors, and ponders them in connection with our flag and the tabernacle, he comes to feel that religion is fundamental in the American nation. While the Constitution of the United States does not mention the name of God, and while the Constitution provides that Congress shall make no law regarding the establishing of religion, it certainly was not in the mind of the founders of this republic that this should be a land of no God and of no religion. The early settlers sought freedom in religion—not freedom from religion—They brought to this country the Christian religion and proclaimed it—Let the colors of the American flag remind us of the need of a deep faith in God, and of our duty to give our personal support to religion.

"We all realize that there is far more in these colors than an appeal for religion—

"Think of these colors one by one:

"RED

"Red reminds us of blood—Every human being has red blood.

"Bear in mind that whatever differences there may be among men of various race types there is no fundamental difference in the blood. Red becomes the sign of racial unity, and men of all races have their part in the ensign of the nation.

"And—in a sense the blood of the individual belongs to the nation.

"One of the greatest misfortunes and curses of the ages is war—But whether we like it or not war always has been. One hates to feel that it always will be. There are people saying today that they will never take part in any war. That is going too far. Your blood belongs to your country—and when you swear allegiance to your flag, you are really offering your blood when your country needs it.

"And—by the way—we might as well to understand that if another great world war should ever break out America can never keep out of it.

"Fair minded people, it seems to me, cannot favor the useless outlay of money to enrich the coffers of munition makers and propagandists, under the pretense of a danger which does not exist;—but when the exigencies of danger do call a nation to arms, the blood of the citizens belongs to the nation.

"Blood reminds us of kinship. Under this red color all groups, rich and poor, black and white, brown and yellow have a kinship of interest and affection. Inequalities in human relations exist among men. Men who justify these inequality show a contempt for the kinship typified in the Red of the flag.

"The red of the flag is in the stripes. Seven stripes of red. The outside stripes are red. Because of this, the flag is more visible than if the outside stripes were white. The red stripes help you to see the flag and they seem to invite you to look at it.

"Put the flag where men can see it. It waves over all government buildings of nation, state, county and city. It waves over all our schols. It ought to wave somewhere about all our churches. And sometimes at least about all our homes. 'Every man of the children of Israel shall pitch by his own standard.'

"WHITE

"White may symbolize many things—I like the symbolism which the first president and father of his country, George Washington gave to it. He said that white represented liberty. We sometimes say that white represents purity—but you know there is no impurity in any one of those seven prismatic colors.

"When men see those six flowing stripes of white and those forty-eight stars of white, they ought to realize that the white stars and stripes representing liberty can not have the stains of human slavery upon them.

"It ought to be said of America as a proud Frenchman once said to me of France: 'The very land of France is free; whenever a slave steps on the soil of France he instantly becomes a free man.' Whenever I go into our Southern states, I stop and listen, and I seem to hear the groans of the slaves, coming across the decades from the old plantations and cities and towns of Dixieland—Slavery had to go from that land, but slavery could find no justification under this flag.

"We shall some day see a larger liberty in this nation. Every jim-crow law curse must and will go. Oppression of labor by capital, and oppression of capital by labor both must go. The white emblem of liberty in the flag can bear no stain upon it.

"BLUE

"The field in which the white stars are laid is a field of blue. Blue calls our minds to the dome of the heavens, and the expanse of the seas—off into the immensity of the eternal.

"The nation has survived for a century and a half and it has only begun to live—The foundations of a democracy properly laid shall bear the strain of the storms of unrest and the earthquakes of injustice and of war, ages after those now living shall sleep beneath the sod. Deep Blue. True Blue—The Blue of the eternal.

"Second—The Stripes.

"There are thirteen stripes—seven red, six white. Thirteen colonies became thirteen states—and thus our nation began—

"Those thirteen stripes forever recall to mind the landing of the early settlers: their struggles to maintain their homes and to build a nation.

"In brief those thirteen stripes seem to say to the nation 'Remember the depths from which you have come.' The people must not become vain glorious over present achievements in the field of science. There could be no such a present apart from the accomplishments of those early builders of the thirteen states.

"The white stripes are larger than the white stars in the flag. It may not be that a stripe is of more historic importance than a star—it is posibly only an artistic or ornamental necessity that it be so. But this is true—the past of those thirteen states is forever linked with the present of today, and of any present that is yet to come.

"Third—The Stars

"One star represents one state. Forty-eight stars represent forty-eight states. These forty-eight states make one complete nation. And if still other states shall yet be added, there will be more stars laid in this field of blue.

Forty-eight states comprise one complete nation! Each one of those forty-eight stars in the symbolism of this flag blazes forth in the white light of liberty whether it is Maine or Mississippi, whether it is New York or Texas.

"Behold the flag—Thirteen colonies with which the nation began: forty-eight states of which it is composed today. One nation of the past—one nation of the present—one nation of the future—

"We call the flag Old Glory. One man so named a flag which relatives and friends made for him—

"We need never be ashamed of Old Glory. It stands for ideals. Men may live far below those ideals. May we not go down to the low ideals of individual men, but rather up to the idealistic symbolisms of Old Glory.

"Every man of the children of Israel shall pitch by his own standard."

LIBRARY BOOK NOTES

In "Rachel's Children" Harriet Hassell writes a story of selfish mother love. Defeated of happiness in her youth, Rachel Isbell fastened her hope for future contentment on John, the only child who remained to help her farm five hundred acres while the other children went off to school. Making him promise never to leave her, Rachel deeded him the farm because she loved him best. A short time later John broke the spirit of his promise by bringing home a bride and his mother was furious. A conflict ensued which was further embittered by the greed and envy of his three brothers. After mounting to a tragic climax, the story presents a evry unexpected ending for John, his wife and his sister, Martha.

"High Tension," by William Wister Haines is a live-wire book filled with excitement which will please a large masculine audience. Built like its forerunner, "Slim" which was also made into a picture, around the job of stringing wire, this book glorifiies that little known group of danger-lovers-the linesmen. It matches the wills and desires of men against men as together they labor to harness the deadly force of electricity. Written with high-powered speed, this is definitely a book for adventure lovers.

Did you know to dream of eating soup and making a prodigious noise portends unusual good fortune? Or piloting a airplane points towards achievement? Or to dream of reading a mortgage is a sign of excellent prospects of love? Belief in the significance of dreams is nearly as old as dreams themselves and therefore Edward Frank Allen's newly published "Complete Book of Dreams will no doubt prove popular with those who are interested in discovering the meaning of dreams from the earliest times to the present.

Novels to enjoy during the summer months include Kathleen Norris' "Heartbroken Melody", the story of a business girl who fell in love with her boss, a married man, and found out how unsatisfactory office love can be; Alice Grant Rosman's "Unfamiliar Faces", a fine character study of an attractive English widow in Switzerland and the widower she meets there; 'High Bridge' by Ethel Hueston, the story of a lovely girl from Iowa who arrives in New York with a broken heart and there finds two young men who help to mend it for her; and "The Wall", by Mary Roberts Rinehart, a new detective story laid in a fashionable Maine summer resort which is guaranteed entertainment for your summer vacation.

A Chunk of Cheese

When you get that old feeling.
Your hunger to appease.
It stuns you, when your ice box yields,
A stony chunk of cheese.

Life does seem so enchanting.
Arrayed in camouflage.
And often what seems ice cream,
Is just store bought blanc-mange.

Oft times, in matrimony,
We hope, we pray, we tease.
But find we've united.
To a handsome chunk of cheese.

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

LIGHT and SHADE

By EARL DANCER

LOS ANGELES proves beyond all reasonable doubt that it wants stage shows. For weeks we have been nammering away that theatre owners of Central Avenue should put in stage shows, because the public wants to see them and because the actors and musicians need to be employed.

This week, Sunday to be exact, a musical production, "Dixie Goes Hi-Hat", which starred F. E. Miller and Mantan Moreland and a cast of 65 people, opened at the swank Wilshire Ebell theatre. This musical comedy suffered many backstage headaches during rehearsals, which lasted six weeks. Three times the play was scheduled to open and three times the show failed to open on the scheduled date.

Then last Sunday, with little or no advertising, and mind you, with three disappointments to the public, the show opened. The house was more than three-quarters filled. And they have a gallery to this theatre.

Then last Monday, all the members of the cast trooped into the theatre with high spirits. They knew they had a hit. They were jubilant. They hastened to get into their costumes; so happy were they that they whistled and sang backstage. An occasional peep through the scenery revealed to them that they had a full house.

But you can always expect trouble when things begin to run smooth. The owner of the theatre got the idea that he should take all the box office receipts and used that as rent from the show.

This left the musical troupe without the necessary money to pay the musicians, a thing they had to do because of union rules. Now all their hopes had fallen. The show would not open. Then they admitted defeat and told the audience that the show would not open.

One enterprising young man in the theatre sprang from his seat and shouted to the audience: "We came here to see a show and I believe it is a swell show." He raised his hat and placed a bill into it. It caught on like wildfire. The audience went wild and began to cheer as the young man went through the audience. People who had already paid to see the show began to chip in five, ten dollars, one dollar, until they had raised enough money to pay the orchestra.

The young man danced upon the stage triumphantly, paid the business agent of the musicians union, and said, "Let them play this show down."

The stage hand union head, who was also present and other technicians seeing this spirit manifested by the audience, then said, "Get to work boys, let's have a show. We won't be that mean."

And the curtain went up and how those people danced, sang and gave them a show that was worth the money, the extra money they had paid to see the show.

Then Leroy Prinz, dance director from Paramount Pictures, after the show had finished, jumped upon the stage amid the cheers of the audience and announced that the troubles of the show were over, that he would take the musical revue under his wing and produce the show next Wednesday at the Vine theatre in Hollywood.

Such a spirit of cooperation on the part of an audience proves conclusively that the public is tiring of an entire film-fare and want to see vaudeville on the stage.

Go to your theatre on Central Avenue and tell them that you want to see stage shows.

MODERN ABOU BEN ADHEM

LOS ANGELES is the fifth largest city in the United States in population and the largest in area. It offers the Negro unlimited opportunities, particularly in the Trade. A few Negroes have made the most of these advantages. Outstanding among them happens to be a young man that answers to the name of Gibbs.

He came in this community and opened a modest little restaurant. Sensing the Avenue's need for a restaurant of this type, he immediately (in spite of a load of opposition) made this one of the most successful places on Central Avenue. He then bought the gas station which was next door. Today, I doubt seriously if you can find another station in all Los Angeles that competes successfully with Gibbs' Service Station. As his service station is the TOPS, so is GIBBS. No other single person has done as many unheralded good deeds for the Negro Actor and Musician as Gibbs. He refuses to take bows for his many grand charities. I know of many actors and musicians that not only tab their meals (credit, per se, on the cuff) but to whom he has given money to pay their room rent. The actor is never allowed to be embarrassed by the courteous waitresses in the Gibbs' restaurant because Mr. Gibbs will give the actor the money out of his pocket to pay for everything he receives.

I know Gibbs will be plenty peeved when he reads this, because he doesn't want his pet charities known. I am not unmindful of his other charities, such as taking groups of children during the vacation periods and holidays away for honest-to-goodness picnics, which include bus rides, swimming and real clean kid fun. This has been his yearly gift. I doubt if any single person in L. A. has given more boys memberships in the YMCA than Mr. Gibbs. Gibbs hates the spotlight. He, like Abou Ben Adhem, can tell the angels, "Write me as one who loves his fellow man".

But believe me, with the old wishing post now moved to the front of the Dunbar Hotel, where all out-of-work actors and musicians hang out, it is gratifying to know that so many of them have been helped on their way by Gibbs.

Picture: "Love Finds Andy Hardy"

Players: Mickey Rooney, Lewis Stone, et al.

Place: Lowe's State.

"Love Finds Andy Hardy" has found great jubilance in hearts of the boys who count sheckels in the great movie palaces of the country. Climax of the "Hardy Family" series, the picture possesses such an aggravated case of B. O. (o-day, not body odor) that it can only be compared with such monetary triumphs as "A Yank At Oxford" and "Test Pilot". The film also has made a star of Mickey Rooney, who gets top billing over Freddie Bartholomew in "Lord Jeff."

The picture really is good, honest entertainment and a fitting vehicle thru which John Q. Public may voice disapproval of the recent screw-ball cycle.

Admitted sensation of the picture is Master Rooney. It is he who "steals the show". However we would like to point out certain things anent his performance. Thus far, Mickey has maintained a rather steady rating as a competent child actor. Usually found in secondary roles, his natural roust-a-bout adolescent has become known and loved from coast to coast. In our opinion, his best piece of work was in "The Devil is a Sissy"—starring Freddie Bartholomew Jackie Cooper. In that his restrained sensitive portrayal all but over-shadowed Freddie and left friend Jackie far behind in the histronic race. (It was about this time the the Master Cooper was engaged in "slipping"—Jsince then, however, his position has changed). Mickey Rooney in "Love Finds Andy Hardy" turns in a delightful piece of over-acting. Whereas smooth, natural performances, in the past have elicited long-remembered chuckles—the new Andy Hardy is a riot. But, there is one unavoidable fact: Mickey's comedy is not longer natural. No adolecent acts that cracked! Master Rooney's facial contortions are hilarious, but unreal. Such a characterization, because of sheer impact, might be effective in one or two films; but we suggest an immediate return to less incredible facial gymnastics.

Lewis Stone's Judge Hardy is easy and believable as always. Judy Garland proves she is one of the few singers who can successfully manage a "story song" and not over-do it, while her acting is evidence that "Everybody Sing" was no accident. Durbin had better look to her laurels. Billy Burrud, whose play-actin' in "Of Human Hearts" turned out one of the few credible aspects thereof, does an excellent bit.

"Love Finds Andy Hardy" is the kind of picture you can take the children to see and not have to explain things. Fine entertainment.

NEW YORK, —Ralph Cooper, the man who chased the word "opportunist" for a seat among the mighty in the nation's center of motion picture industry, is coming back to his own this month. Playing the lead role in Hollywood's first musical drama with a hand-picked all-colored supporting cast, the former Appollo theatre master of ceremonies rides back on a swell vehicle tagged "The Duke Is Tops." For one week, beginning July 15, Ralph will appear in person at the Apollo theatre, the auditorium that houses America's finest colored stage shows.

Lena Horne, that lovely-luvelee, who starred with Noble Sissle's orchestral unit prior to her marriage, has been given the feminine lead role and it's worth the price alone to sit and look into the limped orbs of this peach complexioned beauty.

Eddie (Ethel Waters' spouse) Mallory, dapper wizzard of the baton and a musician who rates the best extant, moved into the playhouse managed over by Jimmy Marshall last Friday morning.

Apollo audiences know just what to expect when the posters streamline "Mallory Week", for this intelligent and creative young bandsman who understudied Cab Calloway at the Cotton Club, lives his profession every waking second.

Maxine Sullivan, fresh from her conquest of Hollywood, came to town Friday, and that is exactly what we mean to convey, folks—"Came to Town".

The sophisticated lassie who turned the ballads of immortal Scotch strains into catchy swing harmonies, ranks with the foremost performers of her day, and finest of all, she carries these honors as nicely as she did before her big moment hove into sight. From West 52nd Street (ye olde Onyx Club) on through the purple clothed lanes where the "Park Avenooers" speak only Laurence Criner, Neva Peoples, to the Lodges, worship at Maxine's shrine of Swing Singing. FLASH—Maxine, on each successive daily appearance, has been forced to run right thru her reportoire of SIX songs before dashing off to a cooling tub. Laurence riner, Neva Peoples, Willie Covan, the "Cats and the Fiddle," and the celebrated "Basin Street Boys" also appear in Hollywood's thrilling new photo-dramatization, "The Duke Is Tops".

Joe Wong, Chinese crooner with the Bing Crosby voice and the Earl (snakehips) Tucker dance technique, is back in Harlem again and clicking in approved fashion.

From Special Wire by Al Weston.

When Ralph Cooper, str of "The Duke is Tops" stepped through the curtains on the Apollo Theatre stage in New York last Friday night the deafening roar of prolonged applause that greeted him rivalled any that arises at the appearance of President Roosevelt.

This spontaneous outburst set the scene for a real homecoming to this real, well loved son of Harlem who had returned to the scene of his former stage triumphs to make a personal appearance after making motion picture history in a little over two years on the west coast. The crowd, of both old friends and new showed a fine sentiment and race pride in honoring the man who had pioneered in a trail-blazing venture by organizing Hollywood's first permanent Negro managed company for the production of modern Class-A, all colored cast pictures. Three of these have been released. They had seen "Bargain with Bullets," and "Life Goes On" and were about to see "The Duke Is Tops", with Cooper in the role they knew him best in a long stage career, that of a singing, dancing, fun-making entertainer.

Cooper's stage performance drew intermittent salvos of applause all during the show, surpassing the acclaim with which the film itself received. He was supported by a fine, well costumed Leonard Harper revue with the funny "Pig Meat Markham" comedian, and other principals. Two of Ralph's burlesque impersonations threw the audience into paraxysms of laughter, paticularly that of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" with wide sailor hat with long ribbons, a velvet short pants suit, and large flowing red tie.

The famous star was to have followed the New York engagement with appearances at Washington and Philadelphia but because om the rapidity with which the three films already on the market are being booked he must hurry back to Millon Dollar Studios and get the new one "Gang Busters" ready for the exhibitors. EAGLE'S STAND ON MUSICIANS, ACTORS VINDICATED BY "DOWNBEAT"

Booking Concerns Make Definite Steps to Sign Up Colored Bands, Mag Says

Following the battle-cry of the EAGLE that Negro orchestras be recognized by booking agencies, we are happy to learn that large booking concerns are making a definite step to contract colored bands. We are re-printing an article from the current issue of "The Downbeat" magazine, a publication devoted to the musicians.

I and my colleague, Earl J. Morris, motion picture editor of The Pittsburgh Courier, have pointed out for weeks and weeks the fertility and potentialities of the Negro orchestra as definite box office.

Weeks ago we pointed out to you how much Duke Ellington had earned and others, with the majority of this money going into the pockets of the managers. Week after week, Morris and I have in our respective newspapers hammered away at Hollywood producers until we got them to agree they would use Negroes in pictures as something besides "door pullers" and "tray carriers". They now use them in the capacity of artisans, etc.

Now I am concentrating most of my activities on a local problem, that of getting the owners of the theatres along Central Avenue to give work to Negro actors and musicians.

The EAGLE publishes this article to prove to you that the Negro artist has value at the box office and that those on the other side of the fence are beginning to recognize the fact that the Negro is a money-maker. Also to show to you how much money, as we have pointed out weeks and weeks ago, that the name colored bands have earned at the box office and made their managers rich, while the orchestra leaders would be on relief in three months, if they lost their jobs.

Written by Helen Oakley, the article in "Downbeat" titled "Black Bands Who Made Over $1,000,000 Arouse Interest of Big Bookers", is re-printed in part, as follows:

"Until recently, few prominent bookers have been interested in the colored-band field as a profitable medium. The sole agent who made himself a name as being identified with colored attractions was Irving Mills, head of Mills Artists. Mills developed the Duke Ellington and Cab Calloway attractions and built them up into substantial box-office draws. He identified himself with colored talent in the recording and song publishing fields. He further signed up other colored bands, such as Fletcher Henderson and the Mills Blue Rhythm band. He derived for himself, eventually, from this field, a very substantial income.

"The colored market was considered limited, however, and it was generally conceded that Irving Mills had the situation pretty well tied up. There were one or two other agents who handled an attraction here and there, such as Tommy Rockwell (Mills Bros.) and Harold Oxley (Jimmie Lunceford), but on the whole the colored band-market was not considered to be a potential money-making field open and profitable to the big booking firms. There were no offices maintaining exclusive colored departments. This situation has been slowly undergoing change, and today there is considerable interest generally manifested in the color situation. At the present time band booking agencies are seeking to beat each other off to a head start in this field.

DUKE ELLINGTON
"Has Immense Draw"

COLORED BANDS DO BIG BIZ

"A survey of financial returns derived from sepian talent covering a period of from five to 15 years shows ample reason for the current interest and activity in the colored field. Estimating a take of $5000 a week, 52 weeks a year, Cab Calloway between the years 1932 and '38 has grossed $1,500,000. The same figures can be applied to the Ellington attraction, considering only the box-office-take and omitting the immense royalties derived from song-publishing and recording. An idea of the draw of the Ellington band may be gleaned from the Duke's first appearance at the Oriental theatre in Chicago. Sold in at a flat rate of $3000, the band grossed $49,000. The total income earned by Louis Armstrong over a period of about ten years is conservatively estimated as over $1,500,000. Armstrong, when playing tours of Texas and other southwestern states, has grossed as high as $12,000 for the week. Other colored bands who have had extraordinarily high grosses for several years have been Fats Waller and the Lunceford band. Fats has earned around ¾ of a million and Lunceford, close to $250,000.

"Noble Sissle, who was a partner in the song-writing team of Sissle and Blake in 1922, and who has since traveled all over this country and Europe with his own orchestra, has amassed over a period of 18 years close to $750,000. Fletcher Henderson's is another band whose total intake has well passed the ½ million mark.

"These financial returns have brought about a very radical change where the color situation is concerned. Colored attractions are now definitely in demand throughout the entire country, and they have become unmistakable box-office draws with which to be reckoned.

OFFICES TAKE ON MORE COLORED TALENT

"At the present time nearly every important booking office is taking on more colored talent.

CAB CALLOWAY
"$1,500,000 for Him"

Scouts are searching for new, fresh and unexploited units. The latest innovation will be the rumored inauguration of a colored band department by Music Corporation of America, which, up until the present, has dealt almost exclusively with white attractions. It is said that MCA intends to build band units around Teddy Wilson and Lionel Hampton, both of whom are now with the Benny Goodman quartette. Recently brought into New York from Kansas City by MCA, were Pete Johnson, boogie-woogie piano player and Joe Turner, famed blues singer, who are apparently to be built up for bigger things with the start of the fall season. It seems the firm had something very definite in mind when hiring booker Harry Moss. Moss has had excellent experience in the colored field, having been formerly associated with NBC, CRA and more recently having headed his own booking organization.

"Entrance of MCA into the colored field will stimulate the market to an even keener competitive spirit. The William Morris Agency, important vaudeville bookers who are inaugurating their own band-booking department, will also look for colored attractions."

Plan More Toy Loan Libraries

More toy loan libraries may be established during this fiscal year, is the opinion of Supervisor Gordon L. McDonough, who favored this activity of the County Probation department at its inception last year and watched the growth of the toy loan movement with considerable interest.

Because these toy loan libraries have brought so much happiness to children, especially those who would otherwise be deprived of toys, McDonough declared that the Board of Supervisors has approved an item in the 1938-'39 Public Works program to continue this program with the Federal Government's cooperation.

Thirty branches are at present maintained throughout the county, including one at Avalon Christian church, 43rd and Avalon boulevard.

Prominent Broker Acquires Building

Walter L. Gordon, well known Central avenue real estate broker, indicated his faith in the future of Eastside real estate last week when he closed a deal for the purchase of the building at 4065-67-69 S. The property has been owned by Mrs. Wilhemia Winter (white) for a period of over fifty years and is located adjacent to the the California Eagle Building.

The purchase marked Gordon's second holding of Central Avenue frontage. He told the Eagle that he is grateful to the public for the consideration shown him in almost two decades of business dealings.

Rev. Russell Confers with Police Heads

For the purpose of encouraging more effective cooperation between the churches in the Eastside community and the neighborhood police department, especially in the matter of juvenile problems, Rev. Clayton D. Russell, pastor of People's Independent Church of Christ, 18th and Paloma, visited Newton St. police Division last Thursday and held a confab with Captains Wehrle, Garrott, and Sergeant Earl Broady.

The young churchman told the officials that he believed the church and the police should work harmoniously together, since both are institutions designed for the highest good of the community.

The officers welcomed his attitude and expressed the desire that more ministers in the community follow his example, saying that it would make their job much easier, especially with young people.

Rev. Russell invited the officers to visit the morning services any Sunday, and he would give them an opportunity to talk two minutes on the elimination of juvenile delinquency. Sergeant Broady addressed the young people at their regular Tuesday evening assembly this week.

ON THE AIR

By Sallye Bell for ANP

James Weldon Johnson Memorial Broadcast

Participating on the James Weldon Johnson Memorial broadcast, aired last Thursday at 10:15 p. m. over station WEVD, New York, Dean William Pickens read a life-sketch of the brilliant author, and closed his paper with a sentiment that could apply to any of the loved ones who preceed us on life's journey:

"James Weldon Johnson would not choose 'mourners' for his funeral. He would think of excomrades and grateful people going forward with the work in which he so honorably shared for so long a time. Natural as they are, there is no logic in tears; no plan nor purpose in grief. Men learned to sorrow because they knew not what else to do. We now know something better to do than to sorrow merely, when we lose a great fellow worker. There's still the work to be done."

The program lasted half an hour, with music furnished by the "Cabinaires," a group of 16 mixed voices under the direction of Millard Thomas, and the "Pioneers", a male quartet.

This listing is in effect for the week of July 24 to 30 only! All time shown is Eastern Daylight Saving Time. Subtract 1 hour for E. S. T. and Central Daylight Time; 2 hours for Central Standard; 3 hours for M. S. T. and 4 hours for P. S. T.

Negro Players in New Theatre of the Air

With interest growing in the portrayals by Negro actors in the various Federal plays that have proved a success, the recently instituted Federal treatre of the Air is also building up a large following behind its Negro players. "A Cappella in Brown" is the latest of these. Heard over station KMPC, Los Angeles, it is done by Charles Hawkins, widely known character actor, John Criner, son of Laurence Criner, and Lillian Bremont, excellent soprano singer.

Paul Lawrence Dunbar's immortal poems are featured, with Hawkins and Criner alternating the recitation and announcing. The readings are interspersed with vocal numbers by Miss Bremont, and some of the poems are dramatized.

Remember Sabu, the Indian lad who scored a hit in "Elephant Boy?" Well, I know you'll be interested to know he is now starred in Alexander Kodra's "Drums", and is at school at Beaconsfield, leading the life of an average English schoolboy. Having proved himself bright at English, he is now learning French, and his spare time is devoted to Horatio Alger stories schoolboy thrillers, horse riding, driving a car, playing hockey and learning bridge.

Station reports say they pay two-bits a week for "tap-in" rights on the single juice source. (You can believe that if you want to.) . . . That on his first appearance after leaving the Cotton Club, Duke Ellington drew more than 6,000 patrons into the Rhode Island auditorium at Providence, topping all records there with the exception of Rudy Vallee's . . . Arrest Youth Who Sold Supplies Worth $155 to His Victim for $5!

Those "taking ways" that landed Charles C. Malcom, 23, in a Huntsville, Texas jail to do two years, still rise up to trouble him today, almost two years after he was released and came to California. Today Malcom faces a suspicion of burglary charge and a term in San Quentin.

The youth was arrested this week by Newton Street officers after he had sold $155.00 worth of clothing and barber's tools for $5.00 to the man from whom he stole them!

It sounds fishy, but it reads just that way on the Newton Street detective records. Jim Mathis of the Personality Barber Shop, 4213 Central Avenue, was the man so offended. He was informed by a friend, whose name is being withheld by police that the fellow who stole his possessions was willing to sell them back for $5.00. Mathis went to Malcom's home at 897 E. 41st place and bought the property, then informe the police, who did the rest.

Repentent now, Malcom told officers "I know I'm sunk if those finger prints at the shop check with mine."

THE PRESIDENT'S ARRIVAL

While telegrams and other forms of communications floated through the city upon the eve of President Roosevelt's arrival denouncing Senator McAdoo and calling upon the President to withhold any endorsement of the California Senator, it was observed that McAdoo was in the President's arms all during his brief stay in the southern section of the state.

One man wrote: "I like you but can't stand McAdoo". Perhaps memories of the Reorganization Bill have antagonized the Chief Executive in the matter of telegrams.

Although President Roosevelt mentioned a few political aspirants all the way from Washington to California, he seems, at present, more interested in catching fish than votes. Yesterday, off Cocos Isle, although his 38-pound yellowtail catch placed him only second in honors, he hopes to do better tomorrow. There is some sense in the combination of ichtheologist and politician, however —for in each case "fish" are caught.

OXLEY'S VISIT

The visit of Lieut. Lawrence A. Oxley, field representative of the United States Employment Service, has been both instructive and refreshing. Instructive in that Mr. Oxley's complete knowledge of FACTS with regard to the Race have been a striking contrast to the conjectures, verbally picturesque and thoroughly inaccurate, of other so-called "government experts".

Mr. Oxley's simple, three-point outline of a Negro recovery policy has been of great interest. It is that (1) Negroes must lose no more jobs; (2) keep the jobs they have, and (3) seek employment in hitherto unexplored racially, vocational fields.

Mr. Oxley's presence has been REFRESHING in his seeming complete ignorance of the word "politics". Truly remarkable in the national scene is this presidential appointee who stresses "RECOVERY", not "VOTES".

HUGHES AND CORRIGAN

While the whole world gazed in admiration at Howard Hughes and his four assistants who set a new record in flying in an elaborately equipped silver monoplane, an unsophisticated mechanic doffed his frayed cap to a few friends and took off from New York to ride home to Los Angeles.

Corrigan's plane was of the cracker-box type and personally constructed. But once in the air the curious thing hopped an ocean and landed on another continent.

Now, whether or not he is hailed as a hero or is said to have set a new record — in errors, this man Corrigan has done something out of the ordinary — and we say hats off to the Angeleno!

WEATHER PILOT

A dangerous occupation, the weatherman's? Sounds like sheer nonsense! But ask the weatherman who has just finished one of the most hazardous jobs in California—meteorological observer for the Oakland, Calif., airport.

Every night at midnight for the past two years he has climbed into the cockpit of his plane, sent it roaring upward into blackness toward the freezing atmosphere of 16,000 ft., in weather fair or foul. Last winter apounding storm tossed his plane about like a toothpick in a hurricane, but he landed safely in a Central California potato patch. Once an angry wind sent his plane dancing giddily over Carquinez Bridge but the Night Owl won.

This week the weather bureau's Night Owl passes into history. Henceforth his place will be taken by a meteorological balloon which will check air-currents, barometric pressures and wind velocity just as the sky pilot did. The march of science has made our hazardous occupations one the less.

The weather man may disagree with that. Until he can knock off forecasts 100 per cent perfect, he may claim his job is always hazardous. Many's the Monday after a week-end he has combed the pieces of brick and broken glass out of his hair, flung at him by rain-soaked picknickers.

QUEST FOR A THIRD TERM

In campaign quest for a third term, President Roosevelt swept thru California and received a welcome second to none by milling millions. Perhaps the largest and most enthusiastic reception in his sweep across the country was in Los Angeles where two million thronged gaily decorated streets and thoroughfares to pay homage to America's foremost citizen.

With the Democratic politician he was like unto the Savior — believing that to touch the hem of his garment or to receive a nod of recognition as he stood on the platform of his special would heal all political ills and land in the desired position sought at the hands of voters. They felt that the touching of hands, nod of the head, or knowing smile was tantamount to nomination and election.

The political-minded suffered kicked shins and trampled corns as they milled for a vantage point at the station and stood breathless as the President appeared on the rear platform from which he spoke.

"Was he going to say it?"

"Whom is he going to bless?"

"Lord, is it I?"

Well, he did say it. He threw his arms around "Dear Mac" and invoked political blessing upon the smiling Tennesseean who represents California in the United States Senate.

President Roosevelt was seeking a similar blessing from the people on his pulse-feeling expedition for a third term. We can't say that the President has lost in popularity, but rather think that his last raid upon the public treasury under guise of a "Public Works" program — a million additional Americans forced to seek relief — have no doubt enlisted under his banner a great number. However, much water will pass under the bridge twixt now and 1940, and the next Congress will gain sufficient strength to stop the wholesale plundering of the treasury by the New Deal.

It's an ill wind that blows no good. We find great consolation in Roosevelt's visit to Texas, even if he did appoint Gov. Allred to a federal judgeship. The President's visit to the Lone Star state was to block the presidential aspirations of John Nance Garner, his 69-year old vice. In this he put over a job for which he is to be commended, for we have contributed six long years praying and hoping that Roosevelt's life be spared and thus the Texan be kept off the throne.

The President has come and gone. The people have heard his protestations of affection. It was indeed comforting; thank you, call again, Mr. Roosevelt.

STREAMLINING THE OL' BUS

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

POPULATION PRODUCER

Sometimes it looks as if we Californians were the victims of our popularity. What Horace Greeley helped begin with his celebrated advice in the 19th century, we ourselves carried to new heights in the 20th. Even when a depression sent figures plummeting earthward everywhere — in investments, sales, employment — the figures of migration into California kept rising. The heights they reached made them stand out against the national skyline like a monument on a desert. We are the producers of fabulous figures — in size, in per capita wealth, in resources, in production. The National Resources Committee, in a report issued a few days ago, showed us in plain terms how California has also produced a population problem second to none, or more aptly, how vast inflowing tides of people helped produce the problem for us.

MR. GREELEY RETIRES

In Mr. Greeley's time, California offered handsome cuts of pie to whoever could come and get it. And they came, by the hundreds of thousands! The pie is scarcer now, but who can blame the desperate jobless, the anxious disinherited, for hoping to find some tasty crumbs that others may have overlooked? Specifically, the National Resources Committee revealed that the population, both American and foreign-born, which swept into California between 1920 and 1930 was the greatest influx ever recorded for any state in any decade. It amounted to nearly two million persons! Of this number, 1,600,000 came from other states. The remainder came from foreign countries. What these figures say is that the West as a safety valve for excess population elsewhere exists no more. They also say that the Federal government is well aware of it. California has a right, then, to expect immediate Federal cooperation in sharing and solving the burden of our indigent population. Today Mr. Greeley's advice is out of order.

FORTUNE AND MISFORTUNE

Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow still has her two-year old son, her millions, and all the fame she could ask for. She would probably be well content with less if she could get hold of what all mortals are after — less worry and more happiness. But a millionairess, it appears, is more apt to hold a mortgage on the former than on the latter. The seers and sages who have bent their thoughts to the problem often say happiness lies in owning and having nothing. The socially-minded economist wants a higher living standard to open the gateway to contentment, the doctor finds its roots in sound health, the psychologist in harmonious relationships between our environment and our fellowmen, while others assert the magic sesame lies in the accumulation of wealth. Personally, we prefer equal parts of each! Countess Babs' fortune has thus far only helped wed her to misfortune in all its guises. We suspect that the five-and-ten store girls are getting a better deal from life than the five-and-ten store heiress they work for. Kidnap and murder threats do not haunt their lives!

A NEW REFRAIN

Not all Americans want a home where the buffalo roam, but a remarkably large number do want a home where the dandelions roam on the front lawn and where their street address is shared by no one. Federal Housing officials today estimate a one billion dollar residence building outlay by the public this year — twice the sum expended in 1937! Once "the little home in the West" was just a popular ballad. Now, better still, it has become a popular program, with California — be it noted — leading the new refrain.

Use the Tools in Hand

Now that the Negro's vote is less predetermined than it used to be, there is more talk of the balance of power which he is in many states. Since power presupposes intelligence, the statement that new importance has come to the group is an admission that black voters are using their heads.

Undoubtedly that is true. But Negroes are still falling short of their possibilities in public affairs. Smaller groups than they get more for their votes. Since no man deliberately sets out to get less rather than more, it follows that judgment is at fault. It is not the intent.

Being children in citizenship, Negroes easily make mistakes. Between a nickel and a dollar, a child never hesitates to take the nickel whose buying power he knows. In like manner the Negro in seeking reward for his political support, has not advanced beyond direct action Jobs for votes and votes for jobs is the simple formula by which he works.

Sailing ships teach the lesson which Negroes must learn before they make faster progress. The ship sailing dead ahead, with all the power of the wind straight behind it, has not as much speed as if it angled across the wind. Results in politics gotten indirectly can be greater than the direct ones. The jobs great and small which are the Negro's goal today are on the public payroll. It is private industry which offers the better pay and the more secure employment.

Having made one step in their interest, Negroes will make another as soon as they realize that in exchange for their votes they can ask politics to see to it that they get employment wherever public money is spent. As things are, public officials buy with no thought of whether the industries patronized employ Negroes. In many cases cities enter into contract with private businesses knowing full well that the owners discriminate against Negro workers.

Yet Negroes get no relief from taxes because they have a harder time finding employment. A commonwealth lets a contract for a public building, require every citizen to pay his share of tits cost, but raises not a finger to see that Negroes earn those taxes.

The limitation on the Negro is his to remove. It is nobody's business as much as it is his. He has the power—it is inherent in his ballot. He can make it impossible for firms to bet either profitable contracts or official permits. This thing of businesses enjoying official sanction when they discriminate against citizens is Hitlerism here in America.

But why blame others for following custom? Intelligent use of the ballot—if Negroes have the balance of power credited to them—can make those businesses which discriminate reform their labor policies.

As for the young man wisdom is the supremest of quests, so for the Negro the removal of the color barrier in employment is the big objective, a goal toward which politics can help him.

BUYERS' GUIDE by Clarence Peacock

Last year, colored Americans spent over $1,000,000 for cosmetics. A large part of this amount was spent for hair preparations. In the same year, manufacturers of hair dressings and pomades, spent over $90,000 for advertising their products in the colored press. An additional $25,000 was spent in this market for miscellaneous advertising in the colored sections.

Many colored consumers, in their purchasing of hair preparations, are blindly accepting substitutes in place of standard advertised brands. deserve your patronage. They do not use objectionable and offensive advertising copy. Their advertisements are made up with the colored consumer solely in mind. These advertisers paid over $400,000 in salaries to colored employees, last year.

Unfortunately, there are many parasite firms who employ cheap help, and who manufacture inferior and sometimes harmful hair preparations for the colored market. These products are often sold for a few cents less than the cost of the standard brands that you find advertised in the colored papers. These parasite firms often put their inferior products in attractive cans and jars, to imitate the package designs of the better advertised products. Unscrupulous jobbers, druggists and retailers will push these inferior products because of the increased profits.

For example, Vaseline has many substitutes. Vaseline is a pure product whose standard never changes. It is highly refined, and its melting point remains constant, as it contains no wax. Many other well established brands, advertised in the colored papers, such as Apex, Black and White, Murray's, and others, also have many cheap imitators.

When the many millions of colored consumers read the advertisements in their papers more thoughtfully, they will know how to discriminate in their purchasing. This will be not only to their own advantage, but also to the advantage of the whole race.

Colored people are at present half-heartedly supporting these manufacturers of hair dressings who spend $90,000 yearly for their patronage, and who pay over $400,000 in salaries to colored people. Let us give these companies our full support, an dincrease the purchasing power of our race by $250,000 or more, a year.

Read our race newspapers, and patronize their advertised products, for economic security.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

I attended the meeting conducted by the club women and was very much interested in a talk on "New Methods of Education", given by Mrs. B. Johnson. It reminded me of a conversation I had with a young Negro girl about to finish High school. This girl holds a very high scholastic record and I asked her what she planned to do after High school.

Her answer was "I would love to be a teacher but I would have to leave my mother and brothers who are younger than I"

I asked, "Why leave".

She answered. "They only employ a few colored teachers out here."

I told her we have probably 20 teachers in the public schols in Los Angeles and she said "O. I heard we have two in Jefferson High and a few in the elementary school."

Now, Mrs. Bass don't you think it would help this girl and others to name those who hold positions as teachers in the Los Angeles schools, also the schools in which they teach and any other information? I enjoyed your practical talk also.

Yours,
A LISTENER

HOLLYWOOD OUT-FIT

Dear Editor:

I sympathetically agree with you in your feelings toward Negro women who are being duped by, according to your column, the Hollywood Apartment Service Outfit.

But if this be true it is no time for sympathy. And the way you describe this deplorable condition, it is merely a "flag stop", unless they become organized at once. Co-operate is the word!

It is a cinch you could use all the printers ink and paper in town and nine to one these domestics, unless she has been stung on the loser, wont spend five cents to buy a California Eagle, or she would be wise to that service outfit.

Organize into a union affiliated with the A. F. of L. and get recognition.

I'll bet you, not all, but 75 per cent of these women can find 5 cents for a dance tieket, where they can act a fool and wear out shoes, clothes and body until 2 a. m., but just ask them to pool one dollar initial fee for formation of a sound protective order; which receive fair wages and hours, order will see to it that they besides good working conditions.

Do it now! Or suffer eternally.

William L. Gamble

Mr. dear Mrs. Bass:

Just a little note to tell you how much I appreciate you helping me to do practice work in your office.

I have been employed by Mr. Robert Strather to do typing and various work for the coming campaign.

The experience I have gained from working in your office will help me solve the difficult problems that may arise in the routine of his office.

If at any time I may be of service always feel free to call upon me.

Thanking you again for your kind consideration, I remain,

Respectfully,
EVELYN STASHER

SAGACIOUS SAYINGS . . .

Walter White, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People,

"Not only Negro America, but the entire nation has lost in the tragic and sudden death of Mr. Johnson. Few Americans have matched his unselfish and brilliant contributions towards wiping out race prejudice and the adding of beauty to a world torn by racial hatred. Through his written and spoken word he was a brilliant and uncompromising interpreter of and spokesman for Negro Americans."

Oswald Garrison Villard, member of the board of directors of the NAACP and former editor of The Nation,

"He was a scholar, a patriot, a literary man of great distinction, a leader whom I have always delighted to honor. I shall cherish his memory and shall never forget the value of his fine service to all Americans."

Colonel J. E. Spingarn, president of the NAACP: "I was simply stunned and horrified at the news of Mr. Johnson's death. He was not only a great race leader, but a great man and one of the most distinguished authors of our time."

Eugene Kinckle Jones, secretary of the National Urban League: "The tragic death of James Weldon Johnson removes a character which America could ill afford to part with. His contributions in prose and poetry, and his work towards establishing the principles of democracy will be of everlasting value in helping to keep American ideals alive in the world."

Dr. Louis T. Wright, surgical director of Harlem Hospital and chairman of the board of directors of the NAACP: "He represented one of those unique and rare individuals who are irreplaceable."

Carl Van Vechten, author of "Nigger Heaven,": "I feel a selfish grief over the death of James Weldon Johnson, because one of my dearest friends has passed away, but, more than that, it is easy to realize that the world has lost one of its great men. He had a genius for thoughtful discussions and on many occasions his mere presence was to make new friends for his race."

B. W. Huebsch, vice-president of the Viking Press, publishers of six books written by Mr. Johnson:

"Professor Johnson had such a natural gift for friendship that one thought of him first of all in the relationship of man to man. He was "hail-fellow-well-met" with those whom he liked, yet a certain dignity marked even his familiarity. The manner that public men seek to affect, was spontaneous with him; he did not have to try to seem to be a poet, musician, statesman—those aptitudes shone right through him."

CALIFORNIA EAGLE

VOL. 59—NO. 16 LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, JULY 28, 1938 PRICE FIVE CENTS

on the sidewalk

WITHIN recent months there have been many articles appearing in nationally distributed magazines which have each selected some particular flaw in the nation's set-up and forthwith blamed the entire economic and moral upheaval of the day on this thing. Some, instead, have pointed to various elements which imminently endanger the welfare, peace, and prosperity of the land. In one case a congressman has written that the next half-century will be a dire one in America's history because of the lack of a sense of responsibility in our children. Others wail loud and long that foreign spies are working all about us and have no other design but our complete destruction. One states that the imbibtion of liquor by women will so seriously impair the next generation's health that no salvation, economic or otherwise, will be able to save the United States from rack and ruin. Still another claims that ruination will come through an overwhelming invasion of termites.

Among all this confusion of fact and fancy, theory and imagination, I do not believe we can find any one thing upon which we may place blame or credit for our present doubtful national situation. All proposed destroyers of America in these articles are pictured as actual, tangible things--spies, or termites. However, it is my belief that the one thing which might cause our nation's downfall is neither visible or touchable--instead, simply an attitude--a state of mind. Throughout America's long history this attitude of which I speak has been a prime force —formidable and ever-present. My friends, I refer to intolerance.

When the first American settlers embarked upon an unchartered sea they did so in order to escape religious persecution--the form of intolerance popular in that day. The Pilgrims, known now as founding fathers, would have remained in England--safe and snug--had it not been for the bigotry of a relentless monarch. Strangers in a foreign land, these first pioneers found it difficult in the beginning to collect food enough to remain alive. Soon, however, life in the new country became less an ordeal. Soon, surrounding Indians were pacified--made friends, and the Pilgrims' children settled into a peaceful rural setting.

Against such a background were the first great examples of American intolerance portrayed. The myth of witchcraft became suddenly a stark reality--and people were hung and burned on the slightest evidence of "traffic with the devil". Those who had crossed an ocean, severed all accustomed relations in protest against bigotry, were now themselves bigots.

So through the centuries. Thirteen hating colonies became a single nation when unfair taxation and royal despotism oppressed them. Thousands of men died--and greater still--lived for the ideal of liberty. Battles, triumph, and defeat, all in a cause unheard for a thousand years--freedom. And the statesmen of the time met in a solemn convention and wrote momentous words--"a government based on the theory that all men are created free and equal". A noble phrase, indeed,--one hardly expected from a nation whose entire economic order was built on the enforced servitude of a million slaves. And here we see intolerance in its favorite role--supposedly fighting to the death wrongs found in others, and gently ignoring its own hypocricy.

When, finally, slavery fell, intolerance was present--singing of its own nobility and generosity and all the while entangling newly liberated men in a web of economic bonds twice as fearful as chattel slavery itself.

Today we find this same sanctimonious bigotry in our great battles--Democrat vs. Republican, Union vs. freedom of contract, Labor vs. Capital.

Great Corporations, with tremendous reserve funds, have instantly discharged thousands of faithful employes at the slightest industrial slump, unmindful of the little mouths to be fed, the home and car installments, yet to be paid. And Labor itself will march through the streets, holding high banners of protest against inhuman persecution in Spain, and yet maintain a stubborn refusal to suffer any portion of the ill effects involved in an economic relapse.

So, we conclude that, our greatest present day enemy is this intolerance, with us from the beginning, yet developing today at a new speed. All the idealistic young men tempted to charge wind-mills in Spain and China had best remain at home and join in a great peace-time crusade against this poisonous mental attitude. And in such a battle a man will find the most difficult victory, the greatest conquest--himself!

Statements from the State Board of Equalization received by the EAGLE yesterday definitely asserted that the appointment of Miss Geneva Mae Bass, organist of the Vesper Choir at 2nd Baptist Church, as a secretary in the department will be confirmed Monday.

The young college graduate, who received a Bachelor of Music Degree from U. C. L. A. last semester, is regarded as one of the most talented and industrious of the city's younger generation. For the last few years organist at 2nd Baptist Church, Miss Bass is a cousin of the late editor, J. B. Bass of the California Eagle.

Yale Man Sails to Train Preachers in South Africa

NEW YORK. (C)—Rev. J. Roosevelt Coan, former professon of theology of Morris Brown college, Atlanta, Ga., and holder of the M. A. degree from Yale university, sailed on Wednesday for Cape Town, South Africa, from where he will proceed inland to Wilberforce Institute, the AME school at Evaton, near Johannesburg, to become dean of the School of Theology. The Institute is under the principalship of Prof. Amos J. White, Harvard graduate and former Wilberforce university instructor, who sailed last June a year ago at the request of Bishop R. R. Wright, Jr., who supervises the AME work in South Africa. Bishop Wright was notified by Rev. Coan early in May that he would go to the African work.

In seeking to build up Wilberforce Institute in South Africa, Bishop Wright says that the high cost of sending African students to America for education has made that plan impractical. It costs about $1,100 for one student to come from Africa to America and spend a year in study, while that sum will educate ten students in South Africa.

Extras Demand Regular Rate of Pay

By EARL DANCER
Drama Editor

Seventy-five Negro extras, called Tuesday for scenes in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Too Hot to Handle", became too hot for studio officials to handle when they declined to work for less than $11 a day.

The extras insisted that they were asked to perfom maximum work for minimum pay. The scenes allegedly called for singing, dancing, shooting with bow and arrows, rowing boats, etc., work for which the rate of pay is assertedly $11 to $16 instead of $8.25 they were asked to accept.

Calls assertedly had been placed on $8.25 check, but it was claimed that the extras had been paid part of the $11 check on interview and when they went to work were told they would be paid the minimum, $8.25.

Protests are said to have been lodged with Screen Actors Guild by major producers over recent similar actions of several junior guild groups.

The demand of the 75 extras, followed by debate, was settled temporarily when E. J. Mannix, Metro general manager, directed that $11 scale be paid under protest. It was reported that the matter will be taken up later by adjustments committee of studio and guild.

Many observers are agreed that the action of the extras, called for scenes in "Too Hot to Handle" is an outgrowth of general dissatisfaction over the way Negro extras are handled by the Studios and Guild. It was pointed out that Negro extras must pay regular joining fees of the Guild, plus monthly dues, and yet fail to work as often as other extras.

It was intimated that Metro heads would institute suit against Screen Actors Guild for losses in time and money incurred by demands of the extras.

Refusal to Serve Man Beer Upheld

The law furnished no redress to Jerry Shepherd, who sought $2000 damages from H. A. Wylie, proprietor of a beer parlor, because Wylie refused to serve him a glass of beer.

Ignoring the implications of color, Shepherd is colored and Wylie white, Judge Ray Brockman of the municipal Court handed down a decision last week upholding Wylie's action.

A licensed liquor dealer has the right to refuse the sale of liquor to anyone at any time without giving a reason and without being required to suffer the expense and vexation of a judicial review of his conduct, Judge Brockman decided.

Shepherd, represented in court by John C. Campbell, white attoney, claimed that on rApil 20 and 21st he went into Wylie's cafe and asked for a glass of beer. Both times he was refused, he claimed.

Jailed for Passing Counterfeit Bill; is Money - Maker

MEMPHIS, July 28. (ANP)—When Steve Brewer, 46, was arrested Tuesday on charges of passing a counterfeit $5 bill at a drug store, Secret Service Agent Austin Suttereld uncovered a money making machine used by confidence men at Brewer's home.

The machine has two hollow rubber rolls. A flim-flammer feeds good currency into one roll before starting out on his business trip. It holds six bills. The machine is so constructed that blank pieces of paper are fed into one of the hollow rolls while the other feeds out real currency. The confidence man demonstrates this to the prospective purchaser, who believes this will go on forever. After the machine is sold, say for $2,000 or so, the victim sits down joyously to get rich--but after the real money is exhausted, he will get nothing but blank paper.

Brewer is not charged with using the machine. However, he was held to the grand jury under $1,000 bond on the counterfeiting charge.

"One of the best pistol shots in the Nation" is the title proudly worn by James W. Hunt, 34, of 300 No. Bonnie Brae street, a janitor in the Hall of Justice.

A county janitor for 11 years, Hunt has won marksmanship, sharpshooter and expert distinction for target practice on Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz's range under the direction of Sewell Grigger, ace shooting deputy.

The fourth medal is a gold, distinguished expert's badge, awarded because Hunt had scored 295 points out of a possible 300 points on three occasions.

Not Enough With Intellect to Serve On Polls, is Claim

"It is too difficult to find Negroes with intelligence enough to serve on the polls" said George A. Green, secretary to Supervisor John Anson Ford, when petitioned by Temple Street District citizens for the employment of more Negroes on the election polls. Mrs. Hallie Pow, 2808 Glassell Street, and Mr. Mathews at 2700 and Hyams.

Gentlemen:

Please let me say a word to express my gratitude to the Company during my hours of bereavement. It was a great shock to me and very hard to bear, but the Company did its share to lighten the burden.

I am very well pleased at the promptness with which my claim was paid. I sincerely appreciate the encouraging remarks from the Superintendent of the San Diego District and every member of his staff. The Golden State was the last claim sent in but the first claim paid.

You have my very best wishes and whole-hearted cooperation for a highly successful future.

Mother Puts Son, 3 Kiddies On Sidewalk

Mother owns house . . . son lives in it . . . son can't pay . . . Mother sets son, wife and three small children on sidewalk!

That is the essence of the story reported to the EAGLE Tuesday by Mrs. Edgar Pendleton, 10914½ Compton Avenue. Pendelton, a WPA employee, stated that his mother ordered himself and his family into the street when he failed to pay rent. He claimed that the $43.00 monthly salary he now receives from the government had been augumented by a $16.00 "rent check" until it was discovered that the house in which he lived was the property of Mrs. Alice Jones, 10612 Crosus Street, his mother monthly salary he now receives from the government had been augmented by a $16.00 "rent check" until it was discovered that the house in which he lived was the property of Mrs. Alice Jones, 10612 Crosus Street, his mother.

Pendleton is the father of three children: the latest 5: the youngest 14 months, and another 3.

FLASH! Minutes before press time EAGLE reporters succeeded in obtaining a statement from Mrs. Alice Jones, dispossessing grandmother. She stated, "The boy (Pendleton) is no good. He's been in juvenile court since he was sixteen. That cost me plenty. When he married he lived in my house; for the last four I haven't received a penny. The government took his "rent check" from him when they called me up and asked if I were his mother. Itold them "yes". I wouldn't lie for nobody. He got mad because of that and they treated me so bad, and talked to me so bad hardthat I just got tired. I am an honest, hard working citizen."

BILL ROBINSON HURT RUMORS UNFOUNDED

Very much whole of body and bone is Bill Robinson, world's foremost tap dancer, despite reports circulated this week of a broken arm, hospitalization and telegrams of sympathy from Shirley Temple.

Robinson was reported, by the Associated Negro Press, in the Hospital this week, his arm broken and other injuries in the process of X-ray revelation.

A call to Mrs. Robinson quickly dispelledd these rumors however and explained their source as the over-zeal of a reporter who saw the dancer in the Hollywood Hospital taking electrical treatments for an injury to his arm, actually sustained in a fall last year . . . but on the slippery sidewalks of New York.

Robinson, in fact, is in perfect health, his wife, explained and is keeping his arm in shape for throwing speed balls, or maybe "spit balls" in the annual Comics versus Leading men, movie Baseball classic on Saturday.

Say Lynchings Prove 'High Civilization Still is a Dream'

NEW YORK, July 28.—Southern senators who filibustered the federal anti-lynching bill to death during the last session of Congress received recently, at the hands of the Baltimore Evening Sun, what is probably one of the most stinging rebukes yet published by a southern newspaper.

Commenting on the recent Georgia lynching, the second of two in 1938, the Sun, speaking in a strong satrical vein termed the revival of lynching in Georgia an indication that the South was "Back to Normalcy".

With this title over an editorial published July 11, the Baltimore paper, itself opposed to a federal anti-lynching bill said, in part:

"Well, southern newspaper editors can now relax and return to normal. There was a lynching in Georgia Saturday.

"As early as last May some Southern newspapers remarked on the singular scarcity of lynching news in 1938. As June came on, the lack of mob-murders became more and more conspicious until on the last day of June Tuskegee Institute . . . was able to announce that the first half of the year had passed without a single lynching.

"The news aroused plenty of comment, but it was of a curious sort. It was, for the most part, subdued and strained. Southern newspapers received the report with satisfaction, but they were obviously afraid to be jubilant, lest they tempt fate.

"Well, the strain is over now. Georgia which has dripped blood before, splashed a large, red stain on the record of 1938. The South is herself again . . . which is to say, really high civilization is still a dream."

The second parley will be an International Relief Conference for aid to Republican Spain under the general direction of the International Coordination Committee and the Central Sanitaire Internationale.

Erase Scottsboro Injustice, Demands Alabama Paper

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 28.—(CNA)—Alabama's best known newspaper the conservative Birmingham Age-Herald, in an editorial entitled, "Justice Moves Forward," last week cheered the commuting of the death sentence of Clarence Norris and declared "this whole blot upon Alabama justice" must ultimately be erased.

The commutation of the death sentence was "an enormous, a onetime almost unbelievable advance in the cause of human justice and in the name of Alabama," the editorial said.

"But this case is not yet ended. It is unthinkable that this progress should stop. There are too many reasons why the complete freedom of four of the defendants and the long term imprisonment of four others leaving out of consideration the sentence of the ninth for an attack on a officer are incompatible as a final settlement of the case . . ."

The editorial referred to "the widespread contention and conviction that no adequate case has been made out against any of these Negroes by Victoria Price's asault allegations" and expressed "the hope that in time this whole blot upon Alabama Justice may finally be erased as completely as now is possible."

Clarence Muse-- A-TALKIN' TO YOU

THERE WAS a great big party LAST WEEK and the Golden West Lodge 86 gave it. It was not AT TOM'S house but on Stage 6 of the Warner Brothers Studio, in Hollywood, and everybody was there. Some of the most beautiful gowns seen this season were worn by our ladies of the "EXCLUSIVE" six hundred or "Park Avenue", if you please, and HOLLYWOOD stood back amazed and delighted. Mrs. DeCoursey Paige headed a distinguished patrons' list, while Bobby Gwynne paraded thirty of the most beautiful colored girls I've seen at ONE PLACE at the SAME time, especially in HOLLYWOOD, the city of beautiful girls. Of course, "HOLLYWOOD met HARLEM" and SAW BIG APPLE dancers that HAD SOMETHING different; BUT the joy of it all was not who was there and who was not there, EVERYBODY was there. HIGH HERBERT expressed the whole thing: "THESE FOLKS HERE TONIGHT know how to have a good time." And I'll go him one BETTER, those who did not, the colored Ladies and Gentlemen SOON taught them the JOY OF BEING OUT at a PARTY. The most democratic affair! White folks, colored folks, Indians, Hawaiians, Chinese, Japanese and all RACES of the globe, DANCED with the ELKS, while J. Finley Wilson, the GRAND EXALTED RULER of 400,000 members, greeted the 3100 persons who came to see a BALL HELD for the first TIME ON A REAL SOUND STAGE in a studio. Louise Beavers, LOVELY at all TIMES, bowed to applause as the CAMERAS snapped her, while IVY ANDERSON, CHARMINGLY paid tribute to the beautiful girls who were a SENSATION. Mr. Maizlich, the STUDIO manager, and Al Painter of the Rollerdrome, spent nearly TWENTY MINUTES the next morning explaining to JACK WARNER what a great party he missed; SID Grauman said to THOMAS Griffith, the president of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION for the ADVANCEMENT of Colored People, that he at last found out WHAT THEY MEANT by the "ADVANCEMENT of colored people. It was TOO BAD many more WHITES were not there to get a LESSON in TRUE ADVANCEMENT," and it was over forty per cent WHITE. THAT'S something toward this THING WE call CONTACT. Ernest WHITMAN learned the BIG APPLE and the entire HUNGARIAN GROUP, under the leadership of GENE NEUWALD, came to the party and met Mrs. MARVOLENE CARPENTER, recently secretary to MAYOR KELLY of Chicago, and now she is TALKING HUNGARIAN. Folks from everywhere took the STARS' names off the BOXES as they left, and CENTRAL AVENUE IS A LITTLE closer to Hollywood today. (Copyrighted by Clarence Muse - 1938.)

CLARENCE MUSE

M. G.—I am a constant reader of your column and am applying to you for help. Should I forget this man and look to someone else for friendship or should I believe him?

Ans.—I vision this gentleman bearing the initials of J. T. as being very much sincere in his affections to you. Continue your friendship with him and give him a chance to prove his love.

M. B.—Will I have another child?

Ans.—By taking the proper care of yourself and seeing a doctor and following his advice you will be blessed with another advent in the future.

E. M. S.—Will I be sucessful?

Ans.—You will not attain much success while you are young. Your success will come gradually through a hard struggle. You will be at the height of your success when you are middle aged. You have magnificent powers and usually this will enable you to carry through your undertakings, but it is true you will delay and put off matters on the slightest pretext whatever. Try to overcome this in the future.

H. V. N.—Will there be any success with what my husband and I are about to do?

Ans.—By all means do what you are contemplating upon. It will enable you to settle your difficulties and will gradually work into a financially successful arrangement for you both.

J. W. R.—Would it be wise for me to buy these formulas and start in the business I have in mind?

Ans.—Put forth all your efforts during the coming months in saving your money to buy these formulas. This manufacturing business will enable you to better yourself socially and financially.

C. M. W.—Will I receive this position I am expecting this fall?

Ans.—This teaching position you are looking forward to will take continued effort on your part to obtain. You will receive work early in the fall although it will not be exactly what you are expecting it will help you financially.

T. M. N.—How can I get my mother to move from where she is living?

Ans.—An opportunity to move will present itself in the near future. Wait until then and matters will adjust themselves.

F. G.—Who is the party that put the letter in my mail-box?

Ans.—This party that did this is one that used to frequent your home with your husband. I vision him as being tall and dark of skin. Due to some disagreement your husband had with him last week in the yard, he is using this means of getting even.

J. L.—Would it be wise for me to join this man in Chicago or stay here?

Ans.—I would advise you to stay where you are and forget this man. I see this man J. K. as already being married and this would surely cause trouble for you both. This other gentleman W. L. whom you are going with now is the one to concentrate your efforts on. He means well and will bring you much in the way of success and happiness.

D. M.—Will my son get out of this trouble?

Ans.—I vision your son as having to serve a small penalty for this trouble he was in. However he will come out soon a much better man and will be one that will make himself worthwhile.

ON THE AIR

By Sallye Bell for ANP

"Slim and Slam" dapper funsmiths of radio who have the nation at large beating out that catch number, "Flat Foot Floogee, opened Friday nite at the Cafe Martin, and the reports state the boys were a five-alarm riot call. It marked the first appearance of this nationally famous duo in night club circles, and the salary—well, it'll keep a whole pack of wolves away from the door for at least ten or more seasons.

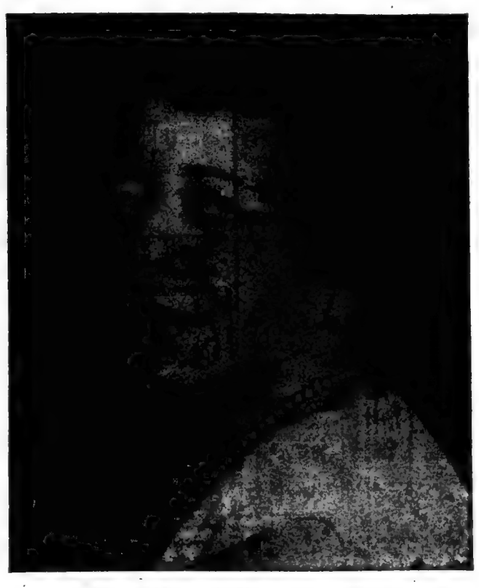
Bob Robinson, comic of no mean ability, headlined the sepia cast that opened (Thursday nite) with the "Village's" spanking new Pepper Pot Club.

The musical section of William Hearst's American Journal had this to say of our own Count Basie: "Swing Lane hummed with praises today for pianist-composer Count Basie whose orchestra mounted the Famous Door bandstand for an unlimited stay this week".

The Count famed for his lightning like piano solos, is also well known as a composer.

Judging from the contributions amassed for this week's radio column, there wasn't much on the air last week beside static. It's a sad collection, of three small items that can't possibly be stretched to even a half column. But this lack of interest in sepia radio affairs is understandable at this stage of the weather and season, because yours truly has been so busy frequenting the summer resorts and beaches that she hasnt had time to turn on the radio except to find out what time it was.

My experience along the lines of radio entertainment this week are therefore nil, and I am ill prepared to discourse at length on the worth of our sepia stars and starlets. However, I shall rally my forces to make these three aforementioned items as interesting as possible to you. So, here goes:



From Montgomery, Ala., we have a reprint from the July 3 issue of the "Mongomery Advertiser" bewailing the mispronounciation of the word Tuskegee. The author of the article is Bob Phillips, sports editor of the Age-Herald who caught a radio announcer red-handed calling Tuskegee Tusky-jee. Tsk, tsk, and tsk.

Evidently incensed by such a gross lack of feeling for the finer things by the poor guilty announcer, the 'Advertiser" scores with the following observation: "This is not the first time that an Alabama name has been mispronounced by an outsider. But surely one would have thought that the name of so well known an Alabama town as Tuskegee and of so famous an institution as Tuskegee Institute would be familiar to all Americans by now, and especially to radio broadcasters, since more than once the Tuskegee Institute Choir has sung over national hook-up."

The occasion of the radio announcer's unpardonable error was the results of a national track and field meet, in which Ellerbee of Tuskegee won the 100-yard dash.

From Variety, by way of comparison, we find an interesting item about Maxine Sullivan. Less than two years ago, she was singing at the now defunct Benjamin Harrison Literary Society, Pittsburgh, a privately chartered club where she sang for tips. Last week she returned to town for the first time since she left to headline the bill at Stanley theatre, a Warner Brothers deluxer, at $750. It's her last date in the East before she returns to the Coast to go into Paramount's "St. Louis Blues."

Our "Wings Over Jordan" program for Sunday, July 31, will bring us Rev. E. Raphael Michael, pastor of the John Wesley AME Zion church at Attleboro, Mass.

PRESIDES OVER PBWA CONVENTION

MRS NELLIE V. CONNER, national president of the California State Department of the Progressive Women's association who will preside at the organization convention on Thursday at the Masonic Hall, 1050 E. 50th street.

ST. PAUL AME

The services at the St. Paul AME church were largely attended, lots of visitors being present. Mrs. Harris of Kansas City, united with the church.

The Rev. T. A. Patterson left for San Diego to attend the session of Grand Lodge of K. of P., being the grand prelate. He was scheduled to preach the sermon.

Tribute to the memory of Virgil Rhetta, who was killed in action in Spain, was paid in a special meeting at the Trinity auditorium last evening.

Rhetta, a Los Angeles Junior College graduate and a civil engineer was killed two months ago on the Teruel front. He went to Spain early this year, spending nearly five months in the front line trenches.

Thomas Ford, Assemblyman John Gee Clark, Screen Writer Sam Ornitz and Hy Roseman, returned veteran of a year's fighting in the Loyalist army, were speakers.

Roseman was a buddy of Rhetta's while both were members of the Abraham Lincoln Battalion, American unit of the Spanish Republican forces.

Masons and Eastern Star to Meet in Oakland in '39

RIVERSIDE, July 28—Oakland was selected as hostess city to the 1939 convention of the Golden State Grand Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star and the Grand Lodge of Masons, which met in this city last week.

One of the most successful annual confabs in the history of either organization was that four day session held July 17, 18, 19,

THEODORE MOSS
Re-elected Grand Master

and 20th at the University Heights Junior high school. This was the 57th annual convention of the OES and the 84th grand session of the Masons. Orange Valley Lodge was the host.

Opening session of the Masons was called to order Monday morning by the R. W. Grand Deputy R. C. Broyles with 56 members, 41 past masters and 23 lodge representatives present. When the convention closed a total of 189 delegates had been in attendance.

After opening ceremonies the affairs of the Convention were turned over to Grand Master Theodore Moss. Business of the opening session included the 8th annual report of the Grand Master. In his remarks, he paid tribute to 20 members of the order who have died since the last convention session. He pointed out the solvent condition of the order, financially, noting in particular that the Oakland property had been paid for in full, as had holding of the Order in Bakersfield and Los Angeles.

Grand Master Moss was returned to his post by a unanimous vote in the election of officers held Wednesday morning. Also elected unanimously were Grand Deputy R. C. Broyles and Grand Senior Warden Robert Fisher, John B. Frierson, Grand Treasurer, Grand Secretary Nathan Hardy, and Grand Lecturer S. J. Hopkins.

Sessions for the transaction of business were presided over by the Grand Worthy Matron, Mrs. Pauline Dupee. The Grand Worthy Matron's reports of the work for the past year gave evidence of the fine and harmonious progress the organization has enjoyed.

The exemplification of the work by the Juveniles and by the drill teams from the East Bay and Los Angeles Past Matrons and Patrons Councils was among the highlights of the session.

The annual scholarship was awarded to Miss Irma Tyrrel Reid of San Francisco, California.

AKA Sorority to Renew Health Clinic

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 28. (By Edna Over Gray for ANP)—The fourth annual Mississippi Health project of the Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority will be conducted in Bolivar county, with headquarters for a third time at Mound Bayou, from July 19 to August 5. This year the staff of twelve workers will be led into the field of operation by the national president of the sorority, Mrs. Margaret Davis Bowen, principal of Gilbert Academy, New Orleans, La. The project again will be directed by Dorothy Boulding Ferebee, M. D., of Washington, D. C., chairman of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Health committee.

The project, which is financed, sponsored, and administered by the sorority, has the cooperation of the United States Public Health service, the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor, the Health Department of the State of Mississippi and the Health Department of Bolivar County. In addition to this, the officials of Mound Bayou and its citizenry again extended their facilities and assistance for the successful conduct of the work.

The 1938 program of the project will include health educational lectures in conjunction with the direct service activities; a continuation of Diphtheria and Smallpox immunization of children under 12; and a newly launched limited service of venereal medication for indicated pre-natal cases.

Recall Insull's Benefactions to Negro; Quietly Gave Help

CHICAGO, July 28. (ANP)—The death in London last week of Samuel Insull, public utility magnate and financier, brought expressions of regret and sympathy from Negroes of Chicago where Mr. Insull had his principal career. While he had not been known as an ardent champion of racial interests, he had quietly extended help to a number of Negro organizations and individuals.

Insull started the Southside Boys' club here in Chicago in 1924. L. A. Meyers, present chairman of the board of trustees, tells the story that the club was really started in the smoker of a train travelling between Chicago and New York. Meyers was with Insull and the magnate turned to him and said:

"Lou, I get a lot of requests for contributions to boys' clubs, but nobody seems to be doing anything for the colored boys. I would like to start something for them if you will be the head of it." Thus was started the first and only club for colored boys in the Middlewest.

Insull not only contributed largely, but was never too busy to talk about the affairs of the club or to attend meetings of the board to plan for its welfare. The new swimming pool which was erected in 1929 was his own idea to give an all-year-round program to the club, and he had mentioned to associates that his next plan was to secure a site for a summer camp.

His direct interest in the welfare of colored boys was shown in the fact that he selected one of the members of the club to receive a scholarship to the University of Illinois to study civil engineering. The young man made such a fine record that Insull expressed his hope that the director of the club could find many more such boys that he might give them similar opportunities.

AIDED EVANTI

Although it is not generally known, Insull had provided the means through which Mme. Lillian Evanti, the noted singer, was enabled to study extensively abroad.

Mme. Roberta Dodd Crawford, soprano of this city, was another whose studies in voice in Paris were financied by Insull. She later married Prince Kojo, an African prince who was heir to a chieftanship in West Africa, but who resided in Paris until his death two years ago. Bertha Moxley, a Chicago ballet dancer, was another. Miss Moxley had won the interest of Mrs. P. D. Armour while a manicurist. Mrs. Armour sent her to Europe where she studied and danced in the Folies Bergere. Insull provided further study. Miss Moxley is said to be now conducting one of the swankiest millinery shops in Paris, where she is known as an Alsation.

Dr. Alfred Xuma, now a famous physician practicing in Johannesburg, S. Africa, was another student whom he aided. Xuma, an African boy, graduated at Tuskegee institute and then, through the friendship of Bishop Nicholson of the M. E. church, continued his study in medicine at Marquette and Northwestern universities. Later, Insull arranged for him to study in Vienna and Edinburgh. He is now one of the ablest physicians in South Africa with a clientele of both races.

BOOSTED DEPRIEST

Interested in politics in Chicago, Insull and his attorney, Daniel J. Schuyler, joined hands with Oscar DePriest, to develop the voting strength of their group among colored people in Chicago. The trio bought Unity hall, a $75,000 building at 3140 Indiana avenue, and turned it into a community center. For a number of years, Isull supported the institution through his personal gifts and those of the gas and electric companies which he controlled. DePriest was in charge, but it is recalled that during that time, when Edward H. Wright was in his zenith and in control of the second ward, not a single election effort was won by the Insull-DePriest partnership. The now defunct Chicago Whip newspaper also benefitted through affiliation with Insull.

It was at this time that Melvin J. Chism, widely known publicist, was introduced to Mr. Insull by DePriest, whom he promptly succeeded in Insull's favor. For a number of years, Chism was employed by Insull as an efficiency expert. One of the choice stories of that regime revolves around a meeting of Negroes which Chism invited Insull to address the only time it is known that he spoke to a gathering of colored people.

CHISM

The occasion was at a meeting of the National Negro Press association of which Chism was field secretary. Unity hall was the scene of the lecture, but due to faulty publicity, when the time arrived for the meeting, there were but a baker's dozen in the hall.

Insull arrived promptly at 7:45 fifteen minutes before the meeting. Ten o'clock came, and still there was no crowd. Insull fumed and fretted. Not to be outdone, the resourceful Melvin went downstairs where a meeting was in progress of red fezzed "black Moors," a radical and queer religious sect. Chism whispered to the chief Moor and for a price of 50 cents per head arranged for him to transport his followers up to the Insull meeting. Some 60 Moors with their red hats perched on their heads marched solemnly in and sat down.

Mr. Insull began his speech, but in his foreword, he told his audience that he was a busy man, that he arose at five every morning, and that they had wasted two precious hours of his time.

"I am convinced," he said, "that if colored people are as late in getting to heaven as they are everywhere else they go, when St. Peter sounds the trumpet, the white people will all be inside and the doors closed before you get there."

Nat'l Health Parley Favors Nationwide Health Slate

WASHINGTON, July 28. (ANP)—Three Negro organizations were represented at the National Health Conference held in Washington last week by President Roosevelt's Interdepartmental Committee to Coordinate Health and Activities. The conference which was attended by some of the most outstanding medical men in the country as well as representatives of organized labor, agriculture, women's clubs, civic groups and other lay organizations, heard Dr. George W. Bowles, president elect of the National Medical Association, T. Arnold Hill of the National Urban League and Dr. Louis T. Wright of the NAACP, each of whom spoke during its session on Tuesday.

The conference had been called to discuss the report of the President's Interdepartmental Committee. The committee is recommending expenditures for a public health program which by the end of a ten year period will reach the total of 850 million dollars a year. The Federal Government will expend half of this amount and the rest is to be provided by local governments provided the plan is approved by Congress at its next session.

The position of organized medicine has not been crystallized. Dr. Irvin Abell, president of the American Medical Association promised "the whole hearted cooperation" of that organization while Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the American Medical Journal and usually the spokesman for the doctors of the country was inclined to question the whole program. Dr. Fishbein charged that the program was based upon the assumption that there still would be as much unemployment and inability to pay for medical services ten years from today as there is now, a viewpoint which he challenged.

The attitude which the colored doctors of the nation would take was not finally stated although Dr. Bowles expressed the appreciation of the need on the part of the National Medical Association members. Despite the fact that in proportion, Negroes are more generally the recipients of public medical aid than other groups, some 35 or 40 per cent of Negro patients being cared for by public agencies, the position of Negro doctors who have felt the depression keenly and who might stand to be affected in income more than other doctors must needs be considered.

Zion General Conference May Go to Boston in 1940, Belief

BOSTON, Mass., July 28. (ANP)—From action taken here today, it seems that Boston will be assured of the General Conference of May, 1940. The General Conference committee of New England met in final sessions to hear reports from the sub-committee and ratify plans for the formal invitation to the denominational General Conference committee. The meeting was presided over by Dr. H. R. Jackson, the presiding elder of the district.

Dr. W. D. Battle, pastor of the Columbus Avenue AME Zion church, was enthusiastic about the General Conference coming to Boston, inasmuch as the New England Conference is the second oldest one in the connection and has never entertained a session of the General Conference. Neither Drs. Jackson nor Battle would make further comment regarding the plans until the formal presentation at the Cincinnati meeting. It is rumored that the Goveror of Massachusetts and several other influential citizens arae backing the committee.

The following ministers were present and participated enthusiastically in the discussion: Drs. H. R. Jackson, presiding elder, W. D. Battle, pastor of Boston, J. W. Watson, Bridgeport, Conn., R. B. Hurt, Worcester, Mass., J. A. Clement, Cambridge, Mass., Jacob W. Powell, Malden, Mass., J. A. B. Johnson, Providence, R. I., E. R. Mitchell, Attlesboro, Mass., and Rev. C. H. Foggie, Providence, R. Beauticians to Meet in Sept.

CHICAGO, July 28. Morning meetings will include practical demonstrations of all phases of beauty culture by experts, and by a forum type of discussion in which ideas, criticisms, suggestions and experiences will be shared. Evening sessions will contain features of special interest to the general public. Chicago business and community organizations are cooperating to make the convention a success, declared President Joyner.

BROOKLYN PASTOR AT SECOND BAPTIST

Dr. J. B. Adams, pastor of the Concord Baptist Church, Brooklyn, N. Y. will preach at Second Baptist church Sunday morning. Miss Nannie Burroughs, unable to speak last Sunday, will be heard soon it was announced.

Houston On Housing Project Here

Norman O. Houston, secretary-treasurer of the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance company, and Mrs. Edith Jones were named by Mayor Frank L. Shaw to the vacancies on the City Housing commission. Mrs. Jones is the wife of Atty Clarence A. Jones and is active in civic and community affairs.

The City Housing commission, not to be confused with the City Housing authority, will serve in an advisory capacity to the housing authority which is charged with the duty of carrying out the 25 million dollar slum clearance program that is expected to get under way in the near future.

Plans are under way to locate one of the new slum clearance projects in the colored district and rumor has it that the project will cost in the neighborhood of five or six million dollars.

The housing commission was created by the city charter and has functioned since that time as an advisory body in affairs relating to housing problems. The new slum clearance program portance than previously, and Negro membership on it is expected to provide a means for Negroes to make known their wants in the new program.

An electrically operated device has been invented to detect as little as one part of hypo in 10,000 parts of water remaining on photographic prints after washing.

Every Porter A Reporter

UPTON SAYS:

Adolf Hitler continues his persecution of the Jews in his crazy effort to purify the German race, killing them by the hundreds, robbing them of their life's savings and driving them out of the only home they know. I am beginning to wonder how long such a cold-blooded individual will live and rule his people. Now he has succeeded in starting old man Mussolini on the same kind of a program. He has, I have been led to understand, the same kind of a dish cooked up for the Negro providing he can spread enough Nazi propaganda in the United States. Many times over his swastika organizations have been exposed, but the American people seem to be too busy trying to make money to take any action or pay any great amount of attention to them. Some day, and not in the very far future, I'm afraid we will see our mistake when it is just too late. Just jot this note down in your little black book and when you go to your grocer to buy some limburger cheese and German rye-bread don't fail to read it as follows: Exterminate the Jews Eliminate the Negroes; Hitler's Motto.

He Who Most Loves Rest Should Give Himself The Hardest Labor Since Rest Is Only In Proportion To It.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

Brotherhood Vice President C. L. Dellums Arrives Los Angeles Monday For Series Of Meetings

Los Angeles Pullman Porters were making great preparations at their headquarters on E. 20th street this week for the arrival of their Pacific Coast Zone Supervisor and 4th Vice President C. L. Dellums. Word was received by the secretary, W. B. Holland that the Chief would arrive some time Sunday night, and would be at headquarters Monday morning to prepare for a series of meetings. Dellums will, among many things, assist in outlining the plans for the 13th Anniversary Dance of the International Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters which will be given at the Elks Auditorium on Thursday evening, August 25. He will also hold meetings for the members to outline their program for delegates to the convention in Chicago on September 19. W. B. Holland, Secretary-Treasurer and H. L. Armstrong, Vice-President, are the duly elected delegates and will make the long trek to Chicago. All members will receive notices by mail of the dates of the meetings. Tickets will also be placed in the mail some time next week. This will be the first visit of the Nat'l Vice President of this Division in over three months and also the last before the convention. Every porter in the District should make a special effort to attend these meetings and hear something worth while.

Mrs. Chas. L. Upton Will Attend Women's Economic Council And Int'l Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters Convention

Mrs. Chas. L. Upton, wife of the President of the Los Angeles Division of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, will leave this city the latter part of next week for Lexington, Ky. to visit her sister. After several weeks' visit in Kentucky, she will return by way of Chicago to the Brotherhood and Women's Economic Council Conventions. Mrs. Upton is an honorary member of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and has been through the heat of the battle in organizing. She will return to this city the last of September. And in the meantime the writer will be a lone bachelor and perhaps a very hungry individual at times.

A. Noel Edits Scab Column In New Age Dispatch—Spreads Protective Association Propaganda

Still at his old tricks, and still the mouth-piece of the defunct scab organization, the P. P. P. A. Alonzo Noel turned up last week as editor of a Protective Association Column in the New Age Dispatch and the first article Alonzo Noel wrote was against the only Negro Labor Organization in the world that can make his job a decent and safe one with sufficient wages to enable him to be a typical Uncle Tom. He starts out to say that the contents of his debut article are not only distasteful but frightful in its portentions. Well all the boys are saying with a twinkle in their eyes THAT THIS IS ONE TIME A. NOEL IS RIGHT. THE ENTIRE COLUMN OF PULLMAN PORTERS' NOTES IS DISTASTEFUL AND FRIGHTFUL IN ITS PORTENTIONS. We know that this new column, whose mission is to endeavor to belittle The International Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, is going to get every vote of the Pullman Porters and Maids Protective Association, WHICH NUMBER ABOUT TWELVE IN Los Angeles, for the Hon. Fred Roberts for Congressman. The RAILROAD CLATTER will keep a watchful eye on all future editions of this Eastern Propaganda weapon and will ever be on the alert to defend A. Philip Randolph who has accomplished something against the CATS-PAWS who have accomplished nothing.

The statistics were the result of a recent survey, prepared for the National Health Conference called by President Roosevelt's Interdepartmental Committee.

The Health Service declared that least 23,000,000 Americans are suffering from chronic diseases, orthopedic impairments or serious defects of vision, or hearing. Rheumatism led, the count with 7,000,000 victims.

Among the relief population chronic illness ocurs 87 per cent more often than in the upper income groups.

Sorors Give 50 Booklets to Sick

ST. LOUIS. (C)—Xi Zeta chapter of the national sorority, Zeta Phi Beta, won commendation at the recent central regional conference in Indianapolis for its community activities at home. The chapter, only three years old, won additional praise from local citizens when it gave fifty booklets, "Messages of Cheer for Shut-ins", to the People's hospital, and made contributions to the YWCA, NAACP, Flood sufferers, and Dickson Recreational center, and gave a scholarship to Willie C. Davis at Lincoln university. Three members of the local chapter are national officers, Lou Swarz, in charge of public information; Audrey Anthony, director of the Central Region, and Elsie Gearin, Missouri deputy.

'400' Rocked By Servant Trouble

NEW YORK, July 28. (CNA)—The Four Hundred was on a spot this week and biting its well-manicured finger-nails over the "new freedom" of domestics who like to go out at night and dance.

The whole mess came out in court when Raymond Maurice, wealthy white, appeared to answer a summons served on his wife by Pansy Kennedy, a former servant. Pansy wanted $10 in back pay.

Magistrate Burke, before whom the hearing was held, joined with Maurice in bemoaning the end of the good old days before the WPA. The magistrate held the "easy availability of relief money as the cause.

"They don't worry any more," he said, "because they know that if they lose their jobs they can always fall back on relief. Yes sir, relief money enables the hired help to put on the ritz."

Pansy was accused of "waltzing off" on Sunday without permission.

P. S.: She got the $10.

FINE CAFE MANAGER $25 FOR JIM CROW

BOSTON, July 28. (ANP)—Racial prejudice in Massachusetts was dealt a decisive blow last week when Judke Gershon Hall in First District Court of Barnstable, found Charles R. TRACK AND FIELD STARS DO BIT FOR CHARITY TONIGHT IN MEET AT WHITE SOX PARK HERE

Outdoor Life and Health Ass'n to Benefit

Definitely done until next Spring will be the long-drawn-out track season after tonight when athletes from up and down the West coast do their bit for "Sweet Charity" in the Outdoor Life and Health Association meet at White Sox Park, 41st and Compton Ave.

10 per cent of the gate will go to the Association, bringing the organization closer to completion of the tuberculosis sanitarium, which has been under projection for five years or more, at Duarte.

Almost 75 athletes, realizing the worth of the Health Association's cause, are participating absolutely as amateurs, foregoing even the customary expense money to and fro the meet. General admission tickets are 40 cents, with even the press expected to pay.

KEEN COMPETITION

Even though the meet comes on the fag end of the track and field season, Nate George, supervisor of entries, promises keen competition. Promoters of the event have obtained A. A. U. sanction, which means any marks set up--stand as good, and plan to make the meet an annual affair, calling it the Eastside Track and Field championships.

Let by Olympic stars Cornelius Johnson and Ken Carpenter, the meet will break precedent in permitting high school athletes to compete with college stars.

Thus the Langford twins, sprinting sensations from Jefferson High School, will meet Bryant Allen, Wilbur Miller, Peyton Jordan and Adrian Talley in the dashes.

Tom Direaux, prep champion shot putter, graduate of Jefferson High School last month, steps into big time competition who he puts the sixteen pound shot against the best of the collegiates, which is Woodrow Strode of UCLA.

Strode, himself, will have his work cut out in the discus, where he meets the Olympic title holder, record holder and what have you, Ken Carpenter, in the discus.

Leaving track and field, Strode's buddy, Kenny Washington, passing half-back from U.C.L.A., will attempt a world record in the football throw. Kenny is aiming over 100 yards, which is a good distance.

440 DUAL

Additional interest centers about the quartermile in which Archie Williams and Wilbur Miller, both champions, are prime opponents. Archie, who holds both the world and Olympic records, made a successful comeback, after a back injury, last month at Princeton, where he won the invitational quarter.

He is gunning for Miller's scalp, having been defeated by the Compton Jaysee sprinter, in the Compton Invitational meet early in the season.

Boomed as a grudge event also is the mile run, featuring

SWAN SONG?

Rumors are prevalent that tonight's appearance at White Sox Park of Cornelius Johnson, world's greatest high jumper, will be his last in amateur sports. Out of collegiate competition, having competed in two Olympic Games and having seen almost every portion of the globe, Corny, it is reported, is contemplating settling down.

Howard Gridders Face Hard Task

WASHINGTON, July 28—Faced with a strenuous nine game schedule the 1938 Howard U football squad will aspire to that which no other Bison aggregation has attempted in the past seven years. Meeting nine perennially strong elevens, the Bisons have high hopes of completing a successful season.

Howard will meet Morgan at Baltimore, Virginia State, at Petersburg, Hampton at Hampton, West Virginia State at Washington and Lincoln at Washington. Other opponents are Miner Teachers' College, Shaw University, St. Paul Normal and Industrial School, and Cheyney Training School. The first game is on Sept. 25.

Last Fall saw the ancient Howard-Lincoln Classic regain its former popularity as some 15,000 fans witnessed a battle between two evenly matched teams at Philadelphia. 1938 finds the two eleven meeting in Washington where the time revered classic always reaches its peak.

In 6 ft. 1in., 195 pound, left end Robert White, of Indianapolis, the Blue and White feel they have a suitable team captain. The giant flanker has three years of experience to help him live up to his rating of All CIAA and All American end.

Track Meet Sponsors Laud Gold's

Dr. Leonard Stovall and Mrs. Fannie Williams, prominent leaders in the Assistance League and the Outdoor Life and Health Association, are enthusiastically expressing their sincere appreciation for the hearty cooperation given the Eastside Track and Field meet being held tonight at the White Sox Park.

"The Gold Furniture Company, our community's reliable friends at Central and Washington", said Dr. Stovall, "have again shown their interest in the youth of our district by donating all the 32 prizes to be given the athletic stars of the meet. The Gold Furniture Company extended this aid to us quickly and cheerfully, as usual, and so made it unnecessary for members of the Assistance League to seek a number of donors in quest of the prizes."

Morris Gold, owner of the popular home furnishing company that has flourished for over twenty years at Washington and Central, stated that his firm would always be interested in furthering and aiding clean, amateur sports, and such worthy organizations as the Assistance League and the Outdoor Life and Health Association, and congratulated them on their good fortune in enjoying the splendid leadership of Dr. Stovall and Mrs. Williams.

Big Boy Bray and Crowell Top Olympic Bill Tuesday

Postponed once, a match featuring Big Boy Bray versus Chuck Crowell tops the Olympic program next Tuesday night.

ARIZMENDI WINS

With a possible shot at World Champion Henry Armstrong in the offing, Baby Arizmendi easily decisioned Jimmy Vaughn in a 10-round battle at the Olympic last Tuesday.

Arizmendi took all of the 10 rounds, Vaughn's best weapons proving impotent. A possible date with Armstrong is being drummed up for the winner. The world champion may show at Gilmore stadium the latter part of next month.

In the preliminaries, Jimmy Casino edged out Al Hagar; Jimmy McDaniels TKO'ed Johnny Lamarr in the fourth; Jack King lost a TKO decision to Georgie Leetch; Ernie Carter outboxed Matt Karping and Don Brooks won the opener from Walter Pirog.

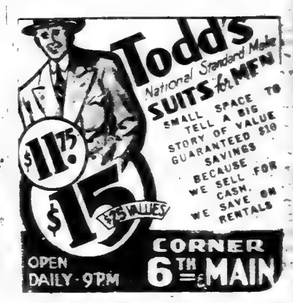
The Bray-Crowell shindig is a natural. Odds will probably favor the Big Boy who forced postponement of the last engagement because of a stomach ailment. Matchmaker Waterman has lined up a good supporting card.

Griffith Park to Be Scene of Coast Tennis Play

Griffith Park will definitely be the scene of the Pacific Coast Tennis tournament to be played here in September, it was announced today.

Until last week officers of the Ross Snyder Tennis Club, hosts to the Tournament, had held out for new courts on Ross Snyder playground on East 41st street, in order that the tournament might be held in the heart of the Eastside. The courts, promised by the Playground Department, however, will not be ready before mid-winter, it is believed.

Tennis players from all over California, plus the Pacific Northwest states are expected to enter the matches, which will be held three days, September 3rd, 4th, and Labor Day.



Leonard Spencer, California at Berkeley distance runner, and Seward Mounday, former Compton Jaysee ace, now of Idaho State.

A parade and serpentine will start the ball rolling earlier this evening. Marchers and buglers will file down Central avenue from 12th to Slauson, over to Compton and down to the park.

INTER-CLUB TENNIS TOURNEY AT JEFF

The evenly matched Apex Club of Pasadena and the Clover Leaf club of Los Angeles will meet in an inter-city tournament on Sunday afternoon on the Jefferson High School tennis courts, it was annouced today.

To save amateur photographers the expense of elaborate lighting equipment an inventor has inserted reflector and lens in a spotlight bulb that can be screwed into any socket.

(For A. N. P.)

Those club owners and executives of the two big Negro baseball leagues, the National and the American, who warble the blues because of an apathetic public and therefore little operating capital, might do well to turn their gaze inward, for there is the seat of the trouble.

Much of this trouble is caused by the officiating. In the first place, there is a scarcity of good umpires, and in the second place, little effort is made to encourage those capable officials who thoroughly know their jobs.

Conditions are not nearly so bad in Chicago as elsewhere, but even in this Negro American league city there are still nothing to cause bragging. The six umpires who work the American Giants games have formed the Union Umpires association with Roy Young as president. "Dean" of the association, through five years experience, is Virgil Bluett. Other members are Normal Peterson, B. L. King, Carl Ashey and Jim Armstrong.

That represents just about as much organization among arbiters as the league can boast. There is no general league-wide association, nor is there a chief umpire for the entire league. It's a case of every city and every team for itself with no centralized responsibility, nor is there a disposition on the part of league officials to back the umpires.

The result spells chaos. Players have been known actually to attack the boys who call all shots, they argue and bicker constantly, sometimes refuse to leave when ordered out of the game, and on more than one occasion managers have taken their teams off the field when they disagreed with an official decision. It is no secret that managers have asked umpires to give the home boys the breaks on close plays, contending that on the road all the breaks go to the home teams.

Could you conceive of this happening under Ford Frick in the National league, Will Harridge in the American, or even in the minors?

This acounts for the way in which cash customers go elsewhere instead of to Negro league games. Many whites who recognize that some of the world's greatest players will have to be seen in Negro league games or not at all, and many dusky baseball lovers remain away--because they love baseball. When they pay in their money, they want to see baseball and not a lot of trivial arguments or even violence between players and umpires.

COLORFUL PLAYERS

Here is a thought from Virgil Bluett, Chicago umpire. "We have some of the most colorful and best players in the game today," he said last week. They are capable of drawing big crowds of both races--if they stick to baseball. And if ever Negro baseball gets to the place where it is efficiently managed and controlled and crowds are drawn, you may rest assured that the big magnates who now are indifferent or hostile to colored players on their teams will do a speedy about-face. Show them that fans are going to the Negro parks to see Negro players, and owners will see to it that these fans can see these same Negro stars on the major league teams."

Virgil Bluett believes that much of the game-killing controversy that characterizes Negro baseball could easily be stopped.

"If the club owners would order their managers and players to abide by the umpires' rulings, much of this trouble could be avoided," he said. "Players run out threateningly toward the umpires and the fans, naturally, take their cues from this. League officials will have to stand by the umpires, just as is done in white leagues, and then the players won't try a lot of things that they now can get by with. And, of course, there will have to be a standard of umpiring established instead of the present situation where an umpire with little experience or ability will be called on to officiate."

DON'T FORGET TO DUCK, CLARENCE!

"You stayed ten rounds with Joe Louis, Mr. Bob Pastor, but me and this baseball bat will take you in four rounds", yells Clarence Muse to Bob Pastor at a practice game for the "Comedians" versus "Leading Men" charity ball game Saturday at Wrigley Field.

Muse will play for rthe "Leading Men", while Pastor will play for Joe E. Brown's "Comics" team. Bill Robinson will pitch for the "Comics", it was reported. Tickets are on sale at Wrigley Field.

Kingpin of City's Golfers to Be Determined by Eagle

Who is the City's best golfer?

That question will be answered when the outstanding mashie wielders engage in the first match-play tournament of the current season. Tentative plans have been made by the Eagle sport department to stage the first amateur golf championship at the difficult Pasadena Municipal Links August 7th and 14th.

An 18 holt qualifying round will be played in the morning of the first day of the tourney, according to plans projected by Warrent Vinston, tourney chairman. The players will be bracketed in divisions of eight, according to scores. It is likely there will be four flights of eight players each. Following the qualifying jaunt, the players will be matched for an 18 hole duel in time afternoon. Winners of all first round tagles will compete in the semi-finals Sunday morning, August 14.

Much speculation is afloat as to who is the kingpin of Negro golfers since Oscar Clisby won the West Coast Golf championship and Roscoe Jones the recent open tourney.

Others expected to enter are O. R. Jackson, Monroe Boykin, Herman Woode, Oliver Busch, Dr. C. N. Bradford, Archie Henderson, Sam Smith, Johnny Riddle, Clarence Lay, L. A. Miner, and Dr. Hardimon.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"The Lord is good to all: and his tender mercies are over all his works." This verse from the Psalms is the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Love" on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

A Scriptural selection includes these words of Isaiah: "Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the LORD, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of his understanding. He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might he increaseth strength. Even the youths shall faint and be weary, and the young men shall utterly fall: But they that wait upon the LORD shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint."

One of the passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, states: "We should relieve our minds from the depressing thought that we have transgressed a material law and must of necessity pay the penalty. Let us reassure ourselves with the law of Love. God never punishes man for doing right, for honest labor, or for deeds of kindness, though they expose him to fatigue, cold, heat, contagion."

ASSEMBLY CANDIDATE RELAXES A BIT

Paul Newell Candidate for Assembly

PAUL C. NEWELL

"California needs fewer and more carefully considered laws. Its prime legislative needs are measures that will cut governmental costs and measures that will assist agriculture, industrial, mining and mercantile business to provide more employment at a decent wage scale for all classes of labor regardless of creed or color".

This is in substance, is the platform on which Paul C. Newell seeks election to the State Assembly from Kern County.

Newell, who is publisher of the Kern Herald in Bakersfield and a prominent figure in Kern County affairs, offers a platform that embraces the following legislative needs:

Employment—To provide work for California citizens by expanding the market for state products and by bettering the conditions under which these products are manufactured or grown.

Water—To seek further state and federal assistance for water conservation and flood control, particularly on the Kern River and in Kern County.

Migrants—To resort to all practical measures to stem the inflow of indigents migrating to California from other states, in order that California's wage structure may be protected.

Education—To maintain and advance California high educational standards.

Social Legislation—To foster all carefully considered and financially sound measures to promote public health and safety, give adequate care for the needy aged and protection for the unemployed and their families.

Conservation — To encourage the conservation of California's wild life, both in forest and stream, and to further protect California's forest areas against destruction from pest and fire and from injudicious lumbering.

Highways—To maintain California's fine highway systems, and to keep gas tax funds exclusively for highway uses.

Economy—To advance measures which will cut governmental costs by cutting governmental extravagance and bureaucratic tendencies.

So. Carolina Rules Out Negro Demos

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 28. (ANP)—Although it is estimated 8,000 Negroes are "quietly enrolled" over the state for the Democratic primary, none will be allowed to vote if the ruling of Lane L. Bonner, secretary of the state executive committee, is carried out.

Replying to charges made by Cole L. Blease, gubernatorial candidate and Negro-phobist, in a speech last Saturday at White Rock, Bonner said that rule six of the state party, amended at the last state convention, limits party membership to "white Democrats." This action eliminated the previous provision which entitled Negroes who voted in 1876 for Wade Hampton to wield the ballot.

After asking, "Are the colored people who are enrolling on the Democratic club rolls going to be allowed to vote in the Democratic primary August 30 for county, state and national officers?" Blease demanded that the state executive committee take some action so that the election managers "will know what to do".

CLEVELAND, July 28. (C)—Using his best "sepia Winchell" style, Ted Yates, former Harlem newspaper man, admitted last Tuesday that his marriage to Iona Morris on June 19 had "frigidaired." The bride left the "tall, tan" Harlem groom on the second night. Yates mentioned "mental cruelty" among the things that caused his second marital venture to hit the rocks. Yates was first wed to Willis Owens of Lawrenceville, Va., but was granted a divorce from her last April 14 and rushed into wedlock with Miss Morris shortly after. Yates had settled in Cleveland, but now his plans are uncertain. He may return to Harlem, he said.

Reveal Negro Supplied Sen. Bilbo 'Back to Africa' Plans

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 28. (ANP)—Although much has been said about the bill recently introduced in the U. S. Senate by Senator Bilbo of Mississippi, wherein two million Negroes could be sent to Africa at the expense of the United States Government, it has been revealed here that Negroes are behind the movement and that the Bilbo bill, which was just a "feeler", was instigated by a prominent Detroit lawyer, head of the "Negro Nationalist Society." Other information has also revealed that a prominent man believed to be high up in the Liberian government, recently on a visit to this country, has a hand in this "back to Africa" movement.

The Negro Nationalist society has been taking shape quietly in Detroit for the past several years, during which time various U. S. Senators and congressmen have been approached on the subject, among them Senator Vandenburg of Michigan. An authoritative statement here has it that the real bill, known as the Greater Liberia act, a 27-page typewritten document, which has found favor with Senator Bilbo, who is now studying it, will be introduced in the next session of congress.

INCONCEIVABLE

This "Greater Liberian Act", which is tremendous in scope, is almost inconceivable, as it would cost the American government millions of dollars to carry it through to completion. It calls for Negro nationalization on lands on the Western Coast of Africa, known as the Gold Coast, adjacent to Liberia, which are to be obtained through war debt negotions and sponsored and financed by the government of the United States, the same as England has sponsored and backed the nationalization of the Jews in Palestine.

It calls for surveyors and engineers, the building of highways, railroads, telephone and telegraph systems. The draining of lands, building of homes, an army and navy, and the guarantee of protection by U. S. military forces for a period of ten years are likewise included. This bill, which is said to have been drawn up by Ramon A. Martinez, a Detroit attorney covers almost every conceivable idea for the complete rehabilitation of lands and the nationalization of a race.

In his plea to the various senators and congressmen for the consideration of his plan, Atty. Martinez is reported to have written, "The Negro must plan, create and work for an achievement of his own scheme of things, with all the instruments of social, political and economic power and control over it, firmly clinched in his own hands.

"The first and most fundamental instrument of life and of power that God gave to man is land. From the land he must feed; on the land he must build; into the land he must dig for his wealth; on the land he must develop and grow; on the land he must fight and organize his own life, for the race that does not control the soil from which it feeds and the land on which it stands does not control its own life."

Federal Funds to Develop Civic Center Sought

Immediate steps to assure Los Angeles County's receiving available Federal funds to develop the Civic Center was strongly advocated Tuesday by Supervisor Gordon L. McDonough in approving the comprehensive improvement plan of the Civic Center-Union Station committee.

McDonough emphasized that he favored application for Federal funds and the proposed project on condition that only Los Angeles County residents are employed and that this county's industrial plants provide steel, cement, lumber and other essentian materials. He also demanded that prevailing wages must be paid.

Venezuela on July 1 launched a three-year program for expansion of agricultural and industrial production, increase of public health and education facilities and stimulation of selected immigration and colonization.

POLITICAL POTPIE

By IRA

Each tick of the clock brings Primary Day closer, and so far the Democrats are shooting all the fireworks. In every district you'll find headquarters filled with earnest workers directed by trained medicine mixers. Contact men and women are ringing doorbells, dispensing the gospel of Democracy as laid down by Thomas Jefferson and put in force by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Along the "straight and narrow" charted by the Republican party we meet only now and then a traveler. No candidate, big-time or what-not, has ventured this way to open headquarters, and the field boasts no workers. Negro publications carry no advertising matter from G.O.P. candidates, so just now it looks as tho the boys are going to give up the state by being absent when the case is brought before the bar of Public Opinion.

The insult to the Hon. J. F. T. O'Conner at a beach outing by an official of the breakfast club is deeply regretted by the members as well as Negroes throughout the state, regardless of political affiliation.

Bob Strather, kingpin of the Eastside McAdoo headquarters and his righthand man, Emery Crane, were waging a hot fight for their man. "We make the assertion"...said Bob in answer to a question by ye scribe, "and can produce proof that Hall's flatfooted refusal to appoint a Negro in his office was a contributing factor in the rift between Senator McAdoo and Hall. Right now Mr. Harrison, Hall's successor, at the request of the Senator, appointed young Proileau, a race lad, to an $1,800 year job in his office. And when the smoke of the impending campaign clears away, you'll see a Negro attorney in that office."

Fred C. Williams is slated to begin a publicity campaign for Dockweiler this week. Fred's a veteran newspaperman, knows how and when to smear Printer's ink.

Talk about a red-hot campaign—wait until William D. Campbell and Frederick M. Roberts open up in quest of the Republican Congressional nomination in the 14th district. Seasoned campaigners and thoroughly schooled politicians, the boys are going to give an exhibition of political strategy that will live long in the history of local politics. Go to it! We're waiting

While its a thankless job entailing the expenditure of personal cash for transportation, loss of time from business pursuits, etc., the County Central Committee is the hub and backbone of any political party. It's a sacrifice that very few will make, and willing, hard-hitting workers like Charlie Alston, Wood Wilson and Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass should receive the unanimous vote of the Republican party. They've really accomplished things for the party in the 62nd district during the past two years.

Win, loose or draw the age pension schemes have made Father Time look like a piker. When that cruel, heartless old critter dobs on a wrinkle, powder or paint can't remove the telltale smack of his handiwork. And the white powder sprinkled by the old cuss that changes raven locks to silvery grey is a cinch for the dames to beat. But nothing but a frank, open admission of age backed by records can stem the tide of pension seekers. Women we knew when they were kids--hitherto calling themselves 35 or 40--are loudly owning 50, 60 and over. Didn't realize there were so many aged dames till the advent of Dr. Townsend.

Amos Black and his organization of youngsters are slated to open headquarters for Daniel C. Murphy, San Francisco Democrat, who wants to be governor.

Marge Shannon Hamington, Democrat, is making a strong bid for secretary of state.

She's said to be friendly with our group and her supporters say she'll give us recognition in that department of state government if elected.

If expressions heard on all sides are to be considered, Hatfield has the Republican gubernatorial nomination in the bag. This is bad news for John (Spreading Joy" Fowler. He says Hatfield will be a tough man for his candidate, Culbert Olsen, to beat.

It's reported from a very reliable source that plans are under way to start a write-in campaign for A. Hartley Jones for Assemblyman 62nd district, Republican ticket, and that newspaper advertising to that effect is to appear.

Met our fine friend, Dr. Frank Whiteman, a few evenings ago. Asked about politics, he said "Ira, you know I'm a Republican, but other than a voter I'm out of it. It would mean, if I entered politics, that I'd have to give up or neglect my splendid medical practice".

July 29th the "Senate" will hold a Democratic pow-wow at Wadsworth School. After the meeting, a big eat-fest will be held at the Club Alabam. According to Gilbert Banks, president and Dick Abrams, secretary, the affair will excell anything ever held in this district.

One or two successful civil service candidates from our group are being considered by Sheriff Biscailuz for service in his department. We think the appointments will be announced in a few days. We should keep this able, fair-minded official on the job.

GETTING AWAY FROM POLITICS

That Major market is still on our list. Next week we'll tell the story of refusing to put Negroes on the "check" stand, how they are used only to lift boxes, unpack goods, etc. Also we'll look over an incident wherein a new white man was made cashier. Upon his advent the store's olive oil began disappearing in gallon lots. Negro help was threatened with wholesale dismissal if the thefts didn't stop. No accusing finger was pointed at the whiteman, although he was later found with the goods on him.

Government has its "price tag", Railroad Commissioner Ray L. Riley said last night, and at the present price it's no bargain.

Commissioner Riley spoke in the William Penn Hotel at a meeting of the Federation of Retail Trade Associations of Southern California. More than 40 groups of independent merchants were represented at the meeting.

The "price tag" on federal government in the fiscal year 1937 was more than $254,000,000, as far as California was concerned, Riley said. "That was the amount California taxpayers paid to the federal government, according to statistics of the California Taxpayers Association.

"That $254,000,000 was about one third of the total federal, state and local tax load in California for a year," Riley declared. "When the statisticians reduce our total tax bill in this state to a basis of cost per family they arrive at the more understandable figure of $456.

"If we could cut the cost of government one-third--as I am advocating particularly for the Federal government--California families could spend the $152 annual saving in your stores."

Riley showed by tax studies that the federal government collected more taxes in California in 1937 than it collected in all 48 states of the nation in 1909. And federal tax collections in California have more than trebled since 1932, rising from $76,000,000 to $254,000,000.

Edward S. Shattuck, past state president of the California Junior Chamber of Commerce, also past president of the California Republican Assembly and of the Los Angeles County Republican Assembly, yesterday endorsed Lieutenant-Governor George J. Hatfield for Governor. Shattuck made the following statement of endorsement:

"Faced with vital problems that demand a capable and courageous chief executive, who will give his full attention to being governor instead of politician, California is indeed fortunate this year in having as a candidate for Governor such a man as Lieutenant Governor George J. Hatfield.

Amos Black is flatting his boot heels making the rounds in the interest of Dan Murphy, one of the gubernatorial candidates . . . Amos wants you to meet Mr. Murphy Friday evening at Legion Stadium.

Mrs. Johnson Withdraws Support of Dockweiler

Local political circles quivvered this week with the news that Mrs. Faustina Johnson, militant leader of the Women's Breakfast Club, has withdrawn from the Dockweiler for Governor ranks.

Explaining her stand, Mrs. Johnson hearkened back to a meeting under Dockweiler auspices held last February to which she had been summoned under the understanding that it was a "Women's meeting". A member of the Coordinating Council of the South Los Angeles District, composed of all races and nationalities, Mrs. Johnson escorted two fellow members, one white, the other colored. Upon arrival at the "Women's meeting" Mrs. Johnson states, she found that only Negroes were present. She immediately protested to Bob Brown and Mrs. Wilcox, white sponsors.

"Mr. Dockweiler is a native of California and has never lived below the Mason Dixon Line, hence I cannot understand how the broad principles of Californian political custom have been over-looked by him in establishing a seperate Negro women's unit." Mrs. Johnson stated at that time.

Assertedly assured tha the situation would be remedied, Mrs. Johnson remained inactive until it became clear that no steps were being taken. At this point the fiery women's leader contacted Mrs. Dockweiler, explained the situation, and was again assured of action. After much "delay and confusion", Mrs. Dockweiler finally informed the Breakfast Club official that the women in the segregated unit "were satisfied, so why should there be any change?"

YOUTH DELEGATE

WENDELL GREEN, president of LAJC Associated Men Students, has been elected to represent West Coast Negro youth at the World Youth Congress at Vassar College on August 16 where delegates from all over the world will assemble to discuss ways and means of solving youth problems of peace, jobs, security and promotion of interracial understanding.

Only sixty delegates can represent the United States and Los Angeles youth leaders and groups are appealing to citizens and organizations to contribute funds for defraying Mr. Green's expenses. Clarence Johnson, 1158 East 12th street, is offering the facilities of his office at that address for receiving contributions. The telephone number is VAndike 9007.

The plan, sponsored by the California Pension Plan, will appear on the ballot of the November election as an amendment to the State Consitution.

Dockweiler was the first candidate for Governor to endorse the plan which provides for payment of $30.00 a week for life to all eligible persons of 50 years of age or over who are residents of the State.

Professional Pickets Draw Leaders' Fire

A blast at "harum-scar um. salaried pickets" was hurled Tuesday at high noon by Mr. Van Nostrand and Fred Whitman, representatives of the Southern California Cooperators, at a luncheon in Carr's Cafe, 4756 So. Central Avenue.

The speakers pointed out that they favored collective bargaining and picketing by actual strikers, but that their stand proposed Picketing Ordinance that come up at the special election on Sept. 16, was in favor of some regulation in regard to hired, "professional pickets".

Present at the affair were: Dr. Claude H. Hudson, Atty. Charles Alston, Mrs. C. A. Bass, Fred L. Buford, E. V. Crane, Norman O. Houston, William Thistle, Mrs. Daisy P. Williams, Fred C. Williams, Mr. Van Norstrand, and Fred Whitman.

SAN DIEGO, (By Mrs. F. B. Wesley)—American consul for Liberia at Los Angeles, Hugh E. Macbeth, and Senator Ed Fletcher are scheduled speakers on the monthly program of the Race Relations society, to be held here Sunday evening at the Mexican Presbyterian church, Sampson and Harrison avenues, commencing at 7:30.

Rev. L. H. Owens, the energetic young pastor of the Bethel AME church, paid a short visit to Los Angeles early this week.

Samuel Cook, popular young citizen, spent several days in El Centro last week, the guest of relatives. Miss June Alexander is a recent arrival from Tulsa, Okla. Mrs. Minnie Lewis and her little grandson, James Anderson, were visitors at Lake Elsinore last week.

M. of the local chapter, Mrs. A. A. Knight, chairman of the Finance Committee, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Botts, Mrs. Ada Cleveland, Gus Thompson, Thos. On Sunday afternoon, July 24, in the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis V. Allen, 2844 Franklin avenue, the Beta Mu Chapter of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority entertained with a tea honoring Mrs. Vivian Osborne-Marsh, Grand President of the Sorority. The home was decorated with beautiful cut flowers carrying out the club colors of red and white. A photographer from one of the leading local newspapers was present and took several pictures of the entire group present. The Deltas proved themselves most gracious hostesses and the guests were all delighted to have the privilege of meeting Mrs. Marsh.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY DINNER

In the very attractive patio of Mr. and Mrs. S. Baker, 2084 National Avenue, Mrs. Florence Hawkins was pleasantly surprised with a well appointed birthday dinner given by the Bakers. BRIEFS

Judge Allen, one of Bakersfeld's leading citizens, will leave this week for his native home, San Antonio, Texas, to visit there with his children.

I know the reason why Charles goes to 'Frisco so often . . not bad, Chuck . . . Hazel is back in town after a three month sojourn in the tropical southland of Oaklahoma. This should be good news for one particular party here in town . . . They tell me that Jimmy Bickers is quite a duker. I thought so myself until last Sunday nite, when the battle of the week ocurred between Jimmy and Beatrice Blackshire. Well anyway a good run is better than a bad stand . . Who said R. C. was hen pecked? Well I saw him out at the Jitterbug club Sunday nite, but not for long. I don't blame her a bit with all this charming girls from out-of-town here every Sat., and Sun., especially from Visalia . . Lathan Ellis has a niece here now from Kansas City. All I can say to that is she upholds the eastern tradition of charming girls. They say with these initials B. B. are making the rounds. I wonder if Lucky, Bailey or Pappy will be reached soon.

Even in this profession in some localities there are a few who go to the other race for service--this is very rare, however, because for the most part, we do patronize our undertakers.

VOL. 59—NO. 16 LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, JULY 28, 1938

The LAUNDRYMAN

Hello, everybody. I want you to take "time out", drop down in your old easy chair and go with me to the Mayan theatre and see "Run Little Chillun", a play written by Hall Johnson, Negro composer.

I went there tired out, jaded, and low in spirits last Friday night, but came away feeling like a new man. I was somewhat late (no, not as usual) and missed the first two scenes, but caught the rising curtain on the 3rd, which portrayed a gathering of "The New Day Pilgrims", a new religious cult.

This scene was brilliantly staged as far as the singing, costumes, and stage effects were concerned; and the metaphysical outpourings of Elder Tongola, cult leader, as given out by his "mouth-piece", Moses, were of a high order, tending to arouse abstract, speculative thought in the minds of the audience. But suddenly, just as the cogs of one's mind began to mesh in rusty, little--used grooves, for no apparent reason an African Sex-dance was introduced, and the scene terminated with most of the performers indulging in a wild, lust-crazed, Jungle Rhumba.

It was dis-appointing, and somewhat disgusting. More especially so by reason of the lofty metaphysical philosophy which immediately preceded it. It was exactly like being suddenly whisked away from the majestic calm of a Catholic "High Mass", and dropped plump into the middle of a honky-tonk cocktail parlor, at the precise moment when the nickelodeon machine was raucously bleating the strains of "She's My Flat Foot Fleusy".

I had just about definitely concluded that "Run Little Chillun" could keep on running--the farther the better, as far as was concerned--when the next scene opened and, after a bit, Florence O'Brien stepped forth in the role of "Sulamai", Scarlet Letter hussy of this small-town drama of the Deep South. And Was-She-Good? Say, that girl is an artist to her fingers-tips. She possesses the allure of Cleopatra, the insousiance of Ouida's immortal heroine of Ouida's immortal novel "Under Two Flags", and the a-ban-don of "Sadie Thompson" in "Rain", all compressed in one vibrant little body. She epitomizes, dramatises sex, that stark life current which so often sweeps away the feeble dyes of smug Morality, and leaves Polite Society gasping for breath. She disgusts you, repels you, attracts you, almost in the same breath. In the end she hypnotizes you and hold you spellbound. A superb artist without doubt, and one who should have a great future before her.

After her, come the inimitable "Protracted Meeting" scene at the small-town Baptist church, a marvelous bit of realism. Honest, it was so real, folks, that it carried me back forty years to my boyhood days in the Old Southland. The singing was so superb, and the acting so realistic in minutest detail, that I forgot I was witnessing a play, imagined myself in church and actually began to join in the singing.

Imagine my chagrin, when a white lady sitting just behind me, touched me on the shoulder, and said indignantly: "Please shut up, you're not in the play".

All in all, whether you like this sort of play or not, "Run Little Chillun" is a superb, finished, work of art, the best—of its type—that I have ever witnessed. It is a credit to the artistic genius of the race, and to its talented author, and musical composer, Hall Johnson. Save a few of the nickels that you place daily in nickelodeons to hear "Flat Foot Fleusy", and go to the Mayan theatre this week and enjoy "Run Little Chillun."

Opening at Coleman's Scores Hit

The long-awaited opening of the General Electric Studio Kitchen July 16, in the Jas. H. Coleman Electric Store located at 4750 S. Central avenue, lived up to all expectations and proved to be a success with the attendance of a record-breaking crowd all day.

The store presented a festive air with numerous sprays and bouquets of flowers sent by many well-wishers for the opening. Starting at nine P. M. thirty prizes were given away with the capital prize of a General Electric radio won by Mrs. Arthur Williams.

Mrs. Mamie Morgan, well-known Home Economist, and Mrs. Epsie Hayman, Home Service agent for the Bureau of Power and Light, conducted the demonstration from 1 to 10 p. m., concocting delectable refreshments for the audience.

On prominent display also was the Metropolitan Dealer Trophy won by the Coleman organization for the month of June. With the combined efforts of James Coleman, Cliff Ritchie, Geo. Price and Otis Rene, the James H. Coleman store led all the rest of the Metropolitan dealers in sales for that month, it is claimed.

The kitchen is now on display permanently and is open for inspection daily.

In Which We Have Reason to Believe the "House of Benefit" is Being Built on Firmer Foundation

WHITE SOX Park, an enclosure which has housed everything from midget auto racing to professional football, not to mention regular Winter League baseball, is the scene of a track and field meet tonight featuring Negro stars competing against white satellites for the glory of the "House of Benefit".

The "House of Benefit" is an old house which has tasted some awful treatment in the past at the hands of would-be proprietors, and would-be beneficiaries, also. Tonight, however, the "House of Benefit" will probably receive good treatment from the inmates.

We must make ourselves clear, however, about this "House of Benefit". The idea for building such a house was thought up a long time ago, we imagine. We have no proof of that, but building had to start at some time because it is now recognized as an institution.

You see, the "House of Benefit" was apparently built to aid the needy, hungry, sick, ailing, etc., to offer them a haven from the hardships of a cruel world and the don't-care-ness of a world of people who thought only of self.

Some thoughtful people must have gotten together and said, "Look here, we ought to do something for these people who are less fortunate than we, so let's begin the building of the 'House of Benefit'." And so they started. The movement, this thing of "Houses of Benefit", may be world-wide as well as national.

The building has been slow and tedious because some of those who gave the impression that they wanted to do something to house the less fortunate in the "House of Benefit" actually wanted to use the materials received to build their own "House of Self". So naturally, many who really desired to see the less fortunate put up in the "House of Benefit" became skeptical of the would-be proprietors and were a little hesitant in responding as generously as they might.

Everyone is mindful, however, of the good purpose intended for the "House of Benefit". They find that the "House of Benefit" has proved, at times, to be a worthy haven for the less fortunate. It is only when the proprietors of the "House of Benefit" are a little shady of character, intent and purpose that the would-be Samaritans become skeptical of the uses to which the materials they so freely give are put.

For our columnar purpose, we might say that the current proprietors of the "House of Benefit" have proven themselves to be on the up-and-up in more than one instance. Of course, we might add, that whoever the proprietors, if they show themselves as willing to do what they say they will, they always get the support of the Good Samaritans, the cash customers, who, believe it or not, are fairly numerous considering it isn't going too well with them either.

Whenever the proprietors are found not to be all they say they are, they never get the chance to "milk" the Good Samaritans a second time. It's too bad there ever has to be a first time, as we see it.

Tonight, out at White Sox Park, the proprietor of the "House of Benefit" is the Assistance League of the Outdoor Life and Health Association. Proprietor Assistance League, which represents the OLHA, is of worthy character, of good intent and purpose, and will undoubtedly be supported to the fullest by the Good Samaritans all over the city.

The OLHA, which, in turn, is headed by Dr. Leonard Stovall, highly respected and learned medico, is attempting to carry out the dream of its head to build a home for tuberculars, people less fortunate than some of us. The Assistance League, as a unit of the OLHA, thought of the idea of using the "House of Benefit" as a means of attracting the Good Samaritans. Just as Proprietor Assistance League of OLHA thought it a good idea, so did the cream of the Negro and white track and field athletes. And when the proprietor looks over the books for the night, we feel quite sure the Good Samaritans will prove they thought it a good idea, too, because the "House of Benefit", which, after all, is the place through which the needy and ailing may be helped, will be resting on a firmer foundation.

Column Note: Next week, the column will be conducted by Brice Taylor, former USC all-American gridder and sprint star, now coaching at Sam Houston college, Tyler, Texas.

LIBRARY BOOK NOTES

By Miriam Matthews

The well balanced person is usually one of great personality. But what does it mean to be well-balanced? It is defined by one writer as the ability of an individual to adjust himself adequately, suitably, with ease and poise to his infinitely varied and exacting element, namely, to life and living.

The increasing recognition of the importance of "balance" or natural hygiene is attested by the popularity of the many books on the subject which range from the get-personality in ten easy lessons type to scholarly volumes full of technical terms and references. Such books as Carnegie's "How to Win Friends and Influence People," "Wake Up and Live", Wright's "Getting Along With People," and Hillis' "Live Alone and Like It" have served to interest a wide public in the subject of self-improvement. While popularized applied psychology is helpful, the reader will be wise to remember that nothing worth while can be obtained without concentrated study and work.

Ernest Groves in "Understanding Yourself" declares the purpose of mental hygiene is to increase the reader's "successes and satisfactions." He stresses the point of mastery from within; it is there we make or break ourselves. In "Managing Yourself," Milton Wright gives both practical and inspirational advice on overcoming that tired feeling, learning to concentrate, strengthening the memory and using the imagination for success in business. Robert Thouless has written a cogent book, "The Control of the Mind" which presents a sane discussion of the emotions, habits, dreams and reality, as well as inferiority and dominance problems. In another readable book, "The Business Man and His Health", Dr. Jesse Williams makes some excellent suggestions about mental hygiene in business which should prove profitable to many individuals.

James Mursell, the author of "Streamline Your Mind" asserts that you can completely reorganize yourself, once you realize that it is not by repetition but by digesting what you learn that you will find the way to self improvement. Ethel Cotton's book, "Keeping Mentally Alive," shows how you may enrich your life by getting more out of books. She thinks that sharing interests with individuals in different walks of life is the best soil for individual cultural development. In similar vein is Frank Bond's "[illegible] Yourself Background" which shows how you can use your public library, your newspaper, and your radio as your college instructors. It suggests methods of study, based on current psychology, which may be applied to the whole

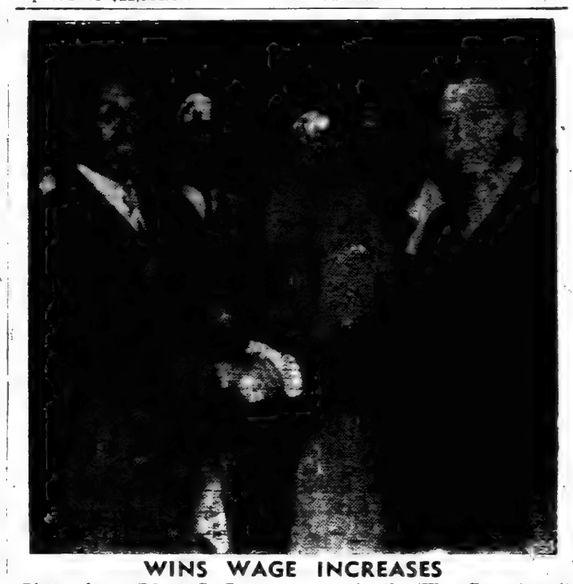
Song of Praise



While others sing of Corrigan,
And flying Howard Hughes,
Let's add a tune for Negroid men,
Like gifted Clarence Muse;
An actor, vocalist and scribe,
Who does his numbers well.
Enter with me the fistic ring,
'Tis now time for the bell.
Our Joe Louis and Henry Armstrong
With their accent to fame,
Have placed us firmly on the map.
Each coined himself a name,
So, should you miss me, one of you,
(I am so puffed with pride)
Say: "Her zeal reached such magnitude.
That she bursted and died".

The most recent victory of the U. G. The theatre is, I daresay, the most glamorous and yet the most fickle of all professions. Yet, once that you are in it you find it very tough to get it completely out of your system. Having known and lived in the theatre most of my life, I find that I am a bit critical of most things pertaining to the theatre. I find that I expect too much from it, and often I am disappointed.

These reflections were written because I saw "Run Little Chillun" last Friday evening at Mayan theatre. "Run Little Chillun" was like a marvelous tonic taken after one had been in a run down condition for months. I left the Mayan theatre with a NEW FAITH, and A NEW HOPE for the NEGRO in the THEATRE.

I have always believed that when a truly great Negro show would ever be produced it would be DONE by NEGROES. Hall Johnson proves that decisively with "Run Little Chillun."

Those of us who witnessed the performance of "Run Little Chillun" saw a different Negro. Not the Nordic man's, or the Jews' idea of the Negro, but the Negro as he actually is. Hall Johnson has painted the most vivid portrait of a lovable carefree and "Amen Corner" Negro ever presented on the American stage.

He also has the intelligent Negro who receives his degree from the University of Oxford in England. Then there was Salome, called Sulamai. She was just about the most seductive and enchanting yet at times tender and sympathetic, in all a most contradictory personality. I may here predict for this youngster, Florence O'Brien, great things.

The locale of this play could have been any small and impoverished Southern Hamlet where work and religion is of cardinal importance to the humble folk who live there. I spent most of my early childhood in just such a church enacted on that stage, I knew all those characters intimately. Possibly as no other person, save one like myself who had lived in just that same atmosphere.

Never has the devout faith of the Negro been so beautifully told as Hall Johnson tells it in "Run Little Chillun." Former plays of this type were the white man's conception of darkie religion and for the most part a horrible caricature. It has always seemed very strange to me that the white man in his religious plays only picks the Negro to portray, which invariably turns out to be something that was repellant and blasphemous. Hall Johnson whose American folk-lore is a most noteworthy contribution to the musical world has always been able to get beneath the surface of superficialities. Johnson in conceiving the idea of "Run Little Chillun" was motivated with a desire to enlighten the world of the actual origin of the Negro spiritual.

Hall Johnson with his magic pen told the story of spirituals being more than just songs. It is the epitome of the Negro's struggle. He must have felt that they were a sort of sign language of a group of people who were compeled to be secretive of every move and gesture. He was very aware of this wealth of material handed down for generations by an oppressed people of which he was a direct descendant. He took these same songs that his forefathers had used to communicate from one plantation to another. He made these same songs tell his story so beautifully in his play.

I have seen no actress to date that was more convincing in her use of dialog than Ruby Elzy singing her spiritual of a woman wronged by a man and her belief that her man would return to her and his church than she did with the use of the same old spiritual sung by my grand mother, "Nobody Knows The Trouble I See."

No actor on the American stage has ever had lines given him by authors that was as compelling as the prayer and spiritual of Jess Lee Brooks playing the father to an erring son enslaved by the wiles of a modern Salome. Jess Lee Brooks' performance as the good shepard to his little flock must be chronicled in the theatre as one of the truly great performances of all times.

But as great as these characters and as flawless as their direction by Clarence Muse. And of Clarence Muse we can't say enough, when we know the material that he had to work with he didn't have the host'of greats and near greats to choose from still was able to fashion such a grand production. In London I saw the Monte Carlo ballet, also the Russian ballet which is reputed the world's greatest ballet and I can't remember one ballet I witnessed there that thrilled me there as much as the Pilgrim's ritualistic moon dance.

Contrasted in this play is the good old time religion and that of the "Pilgrims" which is an odd mixture of paganism, mysticism and voodooism. This cult is just as orthodox and just as fervent in their worship of the moon and its astrological effects on its members, mixing idealism, with hope) as the members of Elder Jones' flock.

It is hard to determine why Hall Johnson threw in this weird form of worship which causes one's mind to wander to Darkest Africa.

Where with pomp and savage ceremony the members of this new day religion, the Pilgrims, worship at the shrine of beauty and nature.

Probably Hall Johnson in his subtle way was showing a touch of the primitive, mingled with the intellect of the white man's knowledge from the universities. The realization that with the cumulative knowledge of these institutions of learning that sin was not sin in fact, but rather caused by the violation of established rules. That all primitive people worshipped nature. It was their supreme evidence that Supreme Being existed.

While we are unable to fathom the mystery of this strange and weird form of religion we have to admit that this section of the play was one of the most interesting bits that we have witnessed in any theatre and that its fantastic theme while not comprehensible nor reprehensible, along with its entertainment value gives rise to a new thought.

We herewith reprint Hall Johnson explanation:

"The Elder Tongola has spent a hundred and fifty years in all parts of our world that they sorely needed a new religion based upon and developed out of their own essential nature and not grafted on through contact with other peoples. He tells them that God is not an old super-man living somewhere above the skies, but that he is all powerful manifesting himself through nature. Man, the human being, is a part of that nature, he is supported by that power, and the realization of this truth must inevitable bring joy. In effable joy of life and nature, not tears of remorse and repentence, is the sign of the divine touch. Sin has no existence as fact, but is only a sense of guilt inoculated by wrong education. The human body is not an object for shame or concealment but should be regarded in the same way as one thinks of a trunk and the branches of a beautiful and fruitful tree. There is nothing obscene about a tree. All of which does not mean that man should content himself on the plane of the lower animals. On the contrary the very presence of laudable ambitions and right desires, is proof of the owner's capabilities to realize them, but he can only do this by working with, not against, nature. The same law that produces great trees, develops great men and there is joy always, ever increasing joy."

NEW TITLE FOR SHIRLEY

The newest Shirley Temple musical which the Number One Box Office Star completed just before leaving on her-transcontinental vacation trip, will be titled "Just Around the Corner." The film marks a major comeback for Charles Farrell who plays the male leading role, opposite Amanda Duff.

"The World Dances" presenting native dance melodies from all countries of the world was resumed over Station KNX and the coast-to-coast Columbia network, starting Sunday, July 24, to be heard from 4:00 to 4:30 p. m. PST weekly. Lud Gluskin and the CBS orchestra are featured in the series.

Flo O'Brien Wins Acclaim in 'Run, Little Chillun' Role

Florence O'Brien, who plays one of the leading roles in "Run, Little Chillun", which opened at the Mayan theater last Friday night, established herself as an outstanding actress of the all-Negro unit of Federal Theaters Project.

This is the first dramatic part Miss O'Brien has been given since she came to Federal Theatres. Her selection for the role of "Sulamai" was made after more than a dozen girls had tried out for the part. All were declared excellent but Miss O'Brien had that extra dash of versatility which decided in her favor. She is a dancer by profession.

"Sulamai" was played by Fredi Washington when "Run, Little Chillun" ran for 126 performances in the Lyric Theatre of New York.

Brown pixie of Toomer's Bottom, impish Sulamai is the disturbing element in this Negro folk drama that depicts the struggles and conflicts, the passions and superstitions, hopes and aspirations of deep south people. Around the little firebrand revolves most of the exciting business of "Run, Little Chillun."

It is through her wiles that "Jim", played by Alfred Grant, deserts his family and orthodox Baptist teachings to follow the "New Day Pilgrims", a weird, nature-worshipping sect that invades Toomer's Bottom. How her debt to the simple folk society is paid marks one of the dramatic highlights of "Run, Little Chillun."

The play will run through August 14 at the Mayan theatre.

Gertrude Saunders turns in a splendid performance as "Mag of the Hall Johnson folk drama, "Run, Little Chillun," which opened Friday night at the Mayan Theatre.

No novice to the stage, Miss Sounders has a long record with Negro musical comedies and was the only Negro ever featured in the Hertig and Seamon shows which played an Eastern burlesque circuit.

She starred in "Shuffle Along" as a leading character, did specialties in "Runnin' Wild", "Bleckbirds of '29" and also starred in "Liza" and "Lucky Sambo".

On the Pantages circuit, Miss Saunders included Clarence Robinson (producer of Cotton Club shows) and Bert Adams in her act.

She figured prominently at the "Boop-a-Doop" trial of Helen Cane and Betty Boop, both of whom claimed to have originated the funny twist which became a radio rage, for Gertrude declared that it was she who actually started "boop poop-a-dooping" before either of them.

Prior to coming to the Negro Unit of Federal Theatres Project, Miss Saunders was a feature attraction at the Hollywood and Kit-Kat nite clubs. She is remembered on the Eastside as a star of the Apex and Alabam nite club shows.

SHE'S POPULAR

ETTA MOTEN, lovely concert singer, who was voted one of the most popular of the past season's crop of radio stars in a recent "Radio Guide" poll.

Miss Moten, a comparative new-comer, although well known on the stage and screen, was featured on the Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour variety program, and will return to the air with that show in the fall.

FOOTLIGHT FLICKERS

By Al Moses for ANP

NEW YORK, July 28—Jimmie Lunceford passing through Georgia (Thomasville) had some interesting photos made with Victor Green, the first colored man in the South to promote, as well as manage, white boxers (Believe It or Not, Ripley). My friend, Jimmy, suggested to Victor that he contact me regarding cuts and mats for release on sporting and theatrical pages throughout the country, by Associated Negro Press.

Ugly echoes of that "Make Believe Ballroom" contest that crowned Benny Goodman's orchestra as the top among swing bands, finds some 30 letters in our mail pouch, casting their vote for Duke Ellington.

Billie Holliday, the girl who gained her stage fame with genial Count Basie, still causes her large Harlem following to tune in over the radio at every broadcast. Definitely, Billie gets along despite the fact that 90 per cent of her listeners frankly remark her lazy type of crooning leaves them bewildered at times.

Edgar Hayes, suave maestro of the piano, was cheered wildly at every performance opening this Friday's bill at the well known Apollo theatre. Hayes bows to few living swing pianists.

By JOHN KINLOCH

PICTURE: "Tropic Holiday"
PLAYERS: Martha Raye, Bob Burns, Dorthy Lamour
PLACE: Paramount.

Martha Raye in a bull-fight and the singing of Tito Guizar are about the only things worth metioning about the much-publicized "Tropic Holiday".

First a bird's eye view of the so-called plot: Ray Milland is a Hollywood scenarist, who has gone to Mexico to get "atmosphere"—which turns out to be Dorothy Lamour (who apoligizes for the absence of a sarong by sallying forth i na bathing suit at the slightest provocation). Screen-star fiancee of Mr. Milland (Binnie Barnes) gets wise to her betroth's amorous activities, flounces in on him and demands that they wed—but instantly! Everything is fixed when she sees, hears, and is conquered by ranchero Tito Guizar.

Bob Burns as a candidate for the U. S. Senate "backed by 10,000 Indians who've heard a rumor that the government's going to give the country back to them" helps out in the comedy line; ditto Martha Raye, whose antics, however, are becoming a bit familiar.

Laboring under the illusion that it will do for Mexican music what "Waikiki Wedding" did for the Hawaiian, much of the film is wasted on long arid sketches of latin melody—with close-ups of Mexican pusses looking moved, happy, or sad, as the case may be.

Best crack in the picture is accredited to the High-lama of Bazooka. In the accepted heroic fashion, Burns has dashed into the arena where the girl-friend, Martha Raye, is having trouble as matedor in a bull fight. A la cow-boy, he grabs the beast by the horns and "throws" him. A little later, impressed Martha shrieks "Oh, my hero. How you threw the bull!"

Senatorial candidate Burns drolly responds "Guess I think I'm already elected."

On the stage Rube Wolf, Kenny Gardner, new crooning find, and Stepin Fetchit keep things moving at a rapid pace. Despite imitators, Fetchit still rules supreme in the field of indolence.

PICTURE: "Lord Jeff"
PLAYERS: Freddie Bartholomeo, Mickey Rooney
PLACE: LOWE'S STATE

"Lord Jeff" is the same old baloney about the spoiled brat becoming reformed, confessing the dirty work blamed on another, leading dear old Alma mammy to victory in the big boat race, etc.

Through expert performances and a tidy little Script the thing is kept from going overboard and is not bad entertainment at all. Turned noble, Mickey Rooney contributes a fine, natural characterization; and even handles the Irish accent with considerable skill. Freddi Bartholomeo, expert actor that he is, turns in a flawless performance; while little Terry Kilburn is almost as appealing as MGM press releases would have you believe.

Among the adults, Charles Coburn and Gale Sondegaard stand out in portrayals which did not draw too much upon their fertile talent.

PICTURE: "Port of Seven Seas"
PLAYERS: Wallace Berry, Frank Morgan
PLACE: Loew's State

More baloney. This time the illegitimate child angle. Young-man John Beal and Middle aged man Frank Morgan are in love with Maureen O'Sullivan. When Beal sails away, leaving only a short note of apology, neither he nor Miss O'Sullivan know that she is in "trouble". Learning of her condition she marries Morgan to give the coming child a name. Later, Master Beal returns to claim the woman and child. Miss O'Sullivan realizes the goodness of her husband, his generosities, etc. etc., and decides to stay with him despite her great love for the younger, prodigal lover. Berry is the young sea-rover's parent and close friend of Morgan. The film's chief asset is the continual squabling between thetwo men.

Miss O'Sullivan is beautiful and acts with restraint. Mr. Beal is not so beautiful and acts with considerably less restraint.

Herein James Whale, whose "The Road Back" was a directorial mess, proves that he can "meg" a well-knit, moving little drama.

Floyd Ray and Les Hite to Meet in Band Battle

News that startled the Dance World this week was the announcement by Gordon and Nickens and the Modern Misses Popularity Girl's Club that Floyd Ray, sensational swingster, and his great Orchestra will positively meet Les Hite and his orchestra in "A Great Battle of Music", Thursday night, August 18, 1938 at a location yet to be announced.

Music critics and dancing enthusiasts will receive tinglings over this meeting because of the existence of genuine, unsynthetic "Bad Blood" between the two orchestras.

Floyd Ray and his orchestra are very much concerned over Les Hite's recently procuring a contract at the Orpheum Theatre for the week just prior to the scheduled battle.

Reginald Marshall, manager of Floyd Ray and Orchestra, in a public statment, made the announcement that he felt his orchestra was certainly entitled to the engagement.

Les Hite and the members of his orchestra ridculed such presumptions on the part of Ray's group.

Floyd Ray in a statement to the press, said that Hite's orchestra stood little chance of winning the battle because it lacked such thrilling artists as the great romantic tenor, Joe Alexander, formerly a Wiley College Student, who literally stands dancers on their ears with his soul stirring torchers. The little maestro concludes his eulogy with a toast to his girl trio, Ivy, Vern and Von.

Hite became very much incensed when he learned of Ray's statements and stated that he and his orchestra was literally going to blow Ray out of the hall when they meet and that Hite's orchestra was conceded to be superior when he landed the contract at the Orpheum over Ray's bidding.

Dance lovers should have the treat of their lives at the forthcoming affair, Thursday night, August 18, 1938.

There will be, very few intermissions and two fine, hot, swing orchestras will be fighting for the crowd's appreciation and recognition.

LIGHT and SHADE

By EARL DANCER

After witnessing that grand performance of Hall Johnson's "Run Little Chillun" I've come to the conclusion that the theatre can be used as a definite instrument for the church. I'm sure that everyone who saw the performance Friday night left the Mayan theatre with a new and more correct idea of the Negro's faith. A faith that brought our forefathers through slavery, the faith that carried us through the Reconstruction Days.

Clayton Russell

Even we people of the Theatre have always kept near our church. It is something that is born in us no matter how much outer sophistication we acquire. If one scratches that thin veneer of cynicism they will find beneath just another humble soul who would prefer to believe as his father and mother before him believed. It is with this thought of that grand performance, "Run, Little Chillun" and the knowledge that a great number of the theatrical profession are members of the Rev. Clayton D. Russell's church, that we invite the Rev. Clayton D. Russell to our column "Light and Shade".

By CLAYTON RUSSELL

Pastor of The Peoples Independent Church of Christ

The questions uppermost in our minds today are: Is trade safe? Is our government safe? Are the NRA, WPA, RFC, FHA, TVA, SRA, AAA, NYA, the WPA, the PWA, the HOLC and all the other complicated conglomerations of the alphabet safe?

Is society safe? Is the church safe? Friends, there are those who feel that what society needs most is a revival of trade, a revival of good government, a revival of civic reform, a revival of the church. To be sure, we do need a church revival, but the revival society most needs today, and the question that should be uppermost in the minds of the people today, is the revival of an institution which is older than all these, more important than any and all of them combined, and which if permitted permanently to suffer eclipse and decline, will seal the doom of human progress — I refer to the HOME. The revival society most needs today is the revival of the Christian home.

The interests of the home are more important than the interests of trade. The discipline of the home is more important than the discipline of good government, because the discipline of the home is essential to good government. You cannot make good citizens out of people who have never been taught obedience.

People talk about safeguarding marriage relations with a physical examination. Why? Because the marriage relation itself has been so abused, ignored, and defied that society is paying the price.

The interests of the home are higher than the interests of the school. A revival of the home is more important than a revival of the church. For in God's plan, the home is older than the church. The home is basal. The character of the church is fixed by the home. There is not much future for any church which does not have behind its altar a fireside.

The church is more important than the shop, the school or the state, but it is not more important than the home.

That the Christian home is in a state of decline is evident to anyone who knows what a Christian home is, and who pauses to investigate present-day conditions.

The home as an institution is fighting for its life. The high cost of living, the rush of modern life, innumerable fads which claim our time promising much and giving out nothing, the speed mania, the dance mania, recreation mania, and even in some instances, the church mania, are all a menace to the quiet and simplicity without which true home life has not the ghost of a chance.

The unity of the home is difficult to maintain. The table used to be the social center where all the family met at meal times. Nowadays they straggle in as the exigencies of social or other engagements may permit. Thus the bond of the common life in the home is broken.

Two facts force themselves upon us as we think of the family. One is that it is an institution of divine appointment; the other is that the strength of a nation is to be found in its homes. One of the root causes of the downfall of every great nation in history is the corruption and disintegration of the family. This was true of Rome . . .

It is a trite saying that times have changed. This has probably been said during every civilization in the history of the human family. Recently archaeologists discovered a pamphlet in Babylon with the following inscription: "Alas, times are not what they were". This tablet is estimated to be five thousand years old.

The American home has also changed. The old American home has gone. No one can stem the tide which has brought us to this new day. This is due to the fact that the regard for the sanctity of the marriage vow is declining. Christianity stands for the sanctity of marriage. Two miles out from Nazareth to the north one enters the village of Cana. This town will always be remembered because Jesus graced a wedding feast with His presence within its borders. When Jesus is present at the wedding, you may be sure that the persons concerned are not thinking in the terms of a trial marriage.

Marriage is not a sacrament, but it is sacred. Marriage has been fearfully cheapened, and in many instances nothing more than legalized prostitution. It is not only entered into lightly and indiscreetly and irreverently, but also it is lightly, indiscreetly and irreverently set aside. Divorce may be had for any whim, such as the husband being a poor bridge player or cutting his wife's ace, or whipping her dog, throwing the cat out of doors; or disliking the fact that she has company all day and most of the night; or because she wishes to run the street all day; or because her husband doesn't like some friends who visit the home.

Public sentiment on the subject has fallen so low that some people are brazen enough to advocate companionate marriage. The decentralization tendencies of the modern home create a fertile soil for the philosophy of the companionate marriage. Companionate marriage is neither practical nor in keeping with the best that is in human nature. Scientists tell us that is not even practiced by members of the ostrich and lion families.

These things may be shocking, but the proposal of so indecent a thing shows that public opinion has reached the dregs. Marriage is a moral act, made so by God, and human law never can make moral what divine law has made immoral. The irrevalent low views on marriage are a feature of the decline of the Christian home. As the foundation of the homes of our nation are being shaken, the continuity of our nation as we have known it is being threatened.

If the home in the great City of New York had been today what it was in its early development, it would not have been necessary for Mayor LaGuardia to condemn 9000 homes that were unfit for a rat to live in. If the Christian home had been the ideal in Chicago, never would it have become the prey to racketeers that plunged it into debt, and produced such arch criminals as Al Capone.

If, right here in our own Los Angeles, we had the homes of the padres — not the adobe huts — but that sustaining religious influence, we would not today be in the midst of a trial that is shaking the very foundations of the City Hall, climaxed by an attempt to recall the mayor whose capability we approved of at the last election with an overwhelming vote.

The majority of our juvenile delinquents coming from broken homes . . .

There is also a decline of parental authority. Christianity stands not for parental servility but authority. To every child, the command is, Honor thy father and thy mother. Parents are not to be arbitrary. They are not to warp or repress the child's individuality, but the first lesson any of us needs to learn is that of submission to authority. The secret of self-control is lodged in the thought of being controlled.

What is the situation in the average home? Parental authority is a joke. It has been reduced to a shadow. Children from early ages go and come when they please, talk and act anyway. Many of them have no manners whatsoever. When children are not taught to respect others, they will soon lose the respect for their parents. Children have got beyond their parents, and parents have been weak enough to permit it. It is bad for parents, but worse for children. No colt ever broke itself to harness, and there is trouble in the world for any boy or girl until he learns to respect life's harness; until he has a sense of the value of authority and restraint.

There is a decline in religious instruction that affects the safety of homes. The most important element of a Christian home is the atmosphere of reverence. Reverence is to the soul what sunlight is to the flower. Religion puts the home on a basis of sincerity and earnestness. It rules our shame; it slays artificiality. It is not possible to overestimate the value of all this. No child's soul has a fair chance who is not taught prayer. It is in the home where the child should first learn "Now I lay me down to sleep, I pray Thee, Lord, my soul to keep . . ."

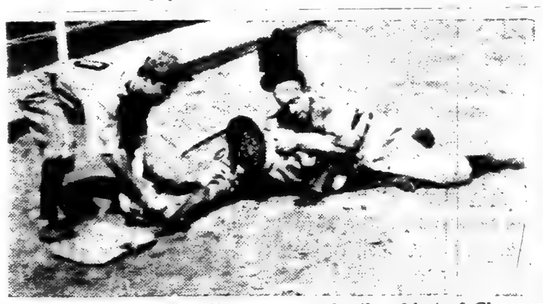
In the home the child forms its first habits, first impressions, and speaks its first words.

What is the religious life of your home? You provide for the physical wants — do you provide for the spiritual needs? If not you are sending your children on a journey across the desert stretch of sterile sand with nothing for the journey. Is a blessing asked at your table? Is the Bible taught in your home? Does your family kneel in prayer with mother leading the prayer, or kneel beside father as they did in days past? Do you sit down and have a fireside discussion with your children concerning the pitfalls of life?

If you care anything for your home, for the character of your children, for their present and eternal welfare, beware of a prayerless home.

The Christian home is needed for the sake of the nation. We are fighting some great battles for human rights here in America. America is crying for high type citizens — men and women with high ambitions, lofty ideals, courage, unselfishness, who will place the interest of humanity before the interest of self. America needs leaders and citizens who will fight — yea, die — for the principles of right. But such citizens and such leaders will not be developed in broken homes, prayerless homes, immoral homes, filthy homes, Godless homes, hellish homes. They can only be developed in homes that are actively Christian. As has been said — no race is greater than its womanhood, we might paraphrase this statement — no nation is better than the home life of its people.

Yes, the church has its place in society, but the church must depend on the home. Why is that young men are not anxious to become ministers? Why should they be, when there is no reverence in the home from which they come? Religion is oftentimes made a mockery, rather than a holy calling. When I was a young lad starting in the ministry I frequented the homes of many people who in front of their children, would attempt to discourage the ministry or any holy calling, saying that children should have their fun. And then, settle down in later years. But seeking God doesn't quell anybody's fun. As we look at the great throbbing mass of mothers children, how our mothers would fight for them, plead with them, die for them, if need be. Are you doing that which is best for them? Are you a Christian example before them? Are you sending them into the battle of life fortified with Christian teachings, so that when the evil hour of temptation shall come, they may be able to stand?



Perhaps you opine that providing them with money is the best that you can do. But money is the least thing that they can give them. Money oftimes becomes a curse. Religion has never been a curse. It is more than money, mothers. Children need character, faith, habits of reverence, habits of devotion to duty, and a trust in the Almighty God. God help us to save our homes.

If I had but one message, the chance of but one word to the nation and the age. If I were preaching my last sermon, it would be a plea for religion in the home. It is likewise necessary that Christ be a constant guest in the home as at Bethany. In the Metropolitan Museum in New York hangs a remarkable picture. It is by the French artist, L'Hermitt, and is entitled, "Christ Among the Lowly". At one end of the table sits the mother with a babe on her bosom. Just behind her stands a father with a child on his arm. At the other end of the table sits the grandmother and grandfather, while occupying other positions in the picture are the rest of the children. But Jesus is the center of attraction. One hand rests upon the modestly spread table, while the other is uplifted in the attitude of blessing.

If the family is a divinely appointed institution, if for this cause a man and woman leave their respective homes to become one flesh, then certainly it is fitting that Jesus should be the constant unseen guest within its life.

Well might Whittier's prayer ascend from every American fireside:

"O thou whose graciousness blest the home at Bethany
This shelter from the world's unrest,
This home made ready for its guest,
We dedicate to Thee.
We build an altar here,
And pray that Thou wilt show Thy face.
Dear Lord, if Thou wilt come to stay,
This home we consecrate today
Will be a holy place."

"Run, Little Chillun" in effect seems to be the object of Clarence Muse here as he preps for the all-star baseball game Saturday.

Gossip of The Movie Lots

By Harry Levette for ANP

EIGHT YEARS AGO IN PICTURES

History is always interesting, so let's turn back the pages over which time has galloped (not marched) for the past eight years and take a glimpse at what was going on. Have only time for a small sample though for we must hurry back to the studio news of the day.

Eight years ago "talking pictures" as they were advertised then had just become a reality and the Negro voice rated as the best of all races for recording on the sound strip, was being heard for the first time. "Hearts in Dixie" which started preparing at the end of 1929 was finished after steady shooting all thru February and March and theatre audiences were seeing Clarence Muse in a picture made in Hollywood for the first time. Fox studio sent for him to replace the late Charles Gilpin who unfortunately had run afoul of Director Sloan's strict department rules. He had been summarily fired after Bishop Scott and several parties of distinguished visitors both colored and white had waited for his belated arrival in order to witness some filming scenes at the invitation of the studio. George Reed, veteran silent film player was tested for the part, that of "Uncle Nappus" meant at first to be the star role. It was when he failed that Muse was brought from the East and made good. However, thru the unforseen vagaries of the public mind, Stepin Fetchit in the comedy role was acclaimed as the star. "Hearts in Dixie" also brought the salaries of film players up into the higher brackets for the first time. Gilpin was engaged at $1,200 per week; Rex Ingram then known as Cliff was getting $100 per week, as was the late Mildred Washington in a rural wedding bit with him.

"Hallelujah" at Metro Goldwyn Mayer which had also started in the fall of 1929 shortly after "Hearts in Dixie", had also finished with Nina Mae McKinney skyrocketing into stardom at 17 years of age. She too had ridden in on the "all kind that blows somebody good" when she was substituted for Honey Brown when Miss Brown was confined to her sick bed at the Sommerville hotel now named the Dunbar. Daniel Haynes had made a great hit with his robust voice co-starring with Nina Mae as "Zeke". The beautiful Nina will be remembered for her quiet, modest, almost timid demeanor at that time. Fans raved over her glorious limpid, expressive eyes.

The first unpleasantness also cropped up during this period. Some certain players seemingly spoiled by sudden affluence gave Director Sloan at Fox studio plenty of trouble with quarrels and insubordination on the set. But at MGM most of Director King Vidor's troubles came from the colored fans after the picture was released. During the summer and fall of 1930 his desk was flooded with letters from colored fans denouncing the picture and declaring it was a disgrace to the race. They were too impatient to wait for that day which has not arrived yet, that of such a change in the souls of white fans that they will be willing to see Negro actors depicting professional and business men and women, making love, etc. They also failed to retaliate by pooling their nation-wide resources to build some studios of their own, there to make all-colored cast pictures of real Negro life and supply them to rapidly to the colored audiences that the brand of pictures to which they objected would be crowded off the screen.

Of course King Vidor looking director Mendez, also "Night Court" under Director Cromwell. Fox Studios had completed "Women of all Races" under Director Walsh with 11 of the tallest colored actors he could find for some important scenes. Paramount was shooting "Anybody's War" starring the two famous black-face comedians Moran and Mack with over a hundred colored extras and "Sir players" as world war soldiers. Over a hundred other men and women and equally as many whites were being used in street scenes. Oscar Smith was acting as the technical director. MGM had finished "Never the Twain Shall Meet" using 50 Mexican men and girls as Hawaiians after trying out 25 men and 25 girls of our group with light complexions. Only one was kept when Director Van Dyke's lack of fervor they put into the native dances. Noble Johnson had just completed "Moby Dick" and "Beau Geste", both silents. Rex Ingram also worked in Beau Geste. Meanwhile all the world was excited over the new sound pictures; theatres were rushing to put in the latest equipment; the studios were tearing down old frame stages and building mammoth new sound stages while great stars of silents were being dropped out of pictures because their voices heard for the first time just wouldn't do. Others sensing their shortcomings hurriedly employed vocal teachers and studied voice and expression. In the silents all gestures were exaggerated, and so the film players had to practically start all over again and learn how to act for the talkies.

Ge whizz and dangblast it how "Tempus does fugit" but you didn't mind did you, our jaunt among the long gone highways and byways of eight years ago? It all has a bearing on the present days affairs around the movie sets. I forgot to mention that Al Cornelie with Spencer Williams as scientist and technical director was just preparing to make a series of 40 all-colored cast comedies at Metropolitan studio from the stories by Octavius Roy Cohen. Four were made and released "Melancholy Dame" starring Evelyn Preer with Edward Thompson. Clas Olden and the Lafayette players in the cast included Robert Hyson and other well known local players. Others were "Off in the Stilly Night" "Lady Fare" and at it from the white man's standpoint was really surprised, as he had filmed scenes such as one actually sees yet in the rural districts of Texas and other South-states. For instance there are cabins back a few miles from Moss Point and Ocean Springs, Miss., where all the meals are cooked in Dutch ovens in big open fire places similar to those used back in the old ante-bellum plantation days. Of course billing it as a "cross cut of Negro life" was incorrect, but in order to express his good will towards the race, Vidor had invited Oscar DePriest, then Congressman, to visit the lot. "Yours Truly" had the honor of piloting the party around on the various sets and stages explaining the intricacies of picture making. Titus Alexander, the late Editor J. B. Bass and other leading local citizens were included in the party. High officials of the studio escorted the party and helped make their two hour visit a pleasant one. Hence when these denunciatory letters came, Vidor declared that if that was the way the colored people felt about it he would never make another all-colored cast picture.

TANTALIZING TANYA ON WAY UP!

Tantalizing Torso twisting Tanya as a solo continues on her way to the top with the reported signing of a contract for the Fall Cotton Club Show.

Just about this time Little Farina, star of "Our Gang" comedies at Hal Roach studio, had finished in "Fly My Kite" Paramount had made "Kick In" under "Music Hath Charms". The latter starred Roberta Hyson and Spencer Williams with Jesse Graves playing "Lawyer Lucius Chew" and Harry Tracy playing "Florian Slappey" both famous characters of the Christie books. And now for a quick look at the present.

Ralph Cooper, famous star was to have followed the New York personal engagement with "The Duke is Tops" with appearances at Washington and Philadelphia but because of the rapidity with which the three films already on the market are being booked he must hurry back to Million Dollar Studio and get the new one "Gang Busters" ready for the exhibitors. When filming and cutting is complete on this he will return to these and other cities where personal appearances had been scheduled. The "Duke is Tops" has been screened at over a hundred theatres already to well pleased audiences, and it is to open in an equal number within a few days.

FILM ON JITTER BUGS

"Jitter Bugs" which will deal with the current swing music, is being prepared as a feature for early production by Warner Brothers.

"Hold that Coed", the lavish college feature will definitely not be a musical.

UNIFICATION

For several years the Women's Federated Clubs of the State of California, north and south, have been separated. The meeting of the organization in our city this week will see a determined and, by all intentions, successful effort at unification.

The first gun in the reconciliation campaign was fired Tuesday morning at the elaborate breakfast in the home of Mrs. Eliza Warner, 1st state president of the association.

Mrs. Eliza Warner

The unification of this great Negro organization is something greatly to be desired. Not only will it serve toward a more harmonious, efficient execution of the clubs' policies, but will stand as an outpost of solidarity and sanity — an inspiration for similar steps by other warring Negro organizations. In a day when a united front of Negroes is most important to our welfare as American citizens, no more welcome news can find space in this publication.

Particularly fitting is Mrs. Warner's participation in the Federated Clubs unification movement. Her years of leadership, her gentleness and wisdom will aid in planning a new arrangement of lasting peace for the organization.

If the race could boast more Eliza Warners — who preach the gospel of unity — our economic and social position in the nation would be a hundred-fold more secure. Many of us have the false conception that leadership must dictate — must build its own separate altar at which the followers may kneel. Hence, when a person of ability or influence appears in our organizations, in many cases, that leader, instead of working for the good of the general body, immediately draws aside his or her contingent and sets up separate headquarters.

Mrs. Warner, Mrs. Mabel Gray, present state president, and Mrs. Ardelia Anglin, who almost single-handedly has drawn the association from the financial rocks, have shown that true leadership, unselfish and generous, leads in paths of unity.

DEMOCRACY MUST RECOGNIZE ALL MINORITY RIGHTS

The message to the 29th annual conference of the NAACP which opened in Columbus, Ohio, on the 28th inst., by President Roosevelt was indeed inspiring and will do much in our struggle for social and political justice.

The message:

"Dear Mr. White:

"I am happy to extend to the twenty-ninth annual conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People cordial greetings and best wishes for the success of their efforts in advancing the interests of the Negro race and bringing about that cooperation and understanding between the races so essential to the maintenance of a vital democracy.

"I have watched with interest the constructive efforts of your organization, not only in behalf of the Negro people in our nation, but also in behalf of the democratic ideals and principles so dear to our entire nation. For it is evident that no democracy can long survive which does not accept as fundamental to its very existence the recognition of the rights of its minorities.

"I wish you a most successful meeting.

"Very sincerely yours,

"FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT."

RECALL OF MAYOR SHAW UP TO VOTERS

A target for the "outs" from the first day he was sworn in as the city's chief executive, Mayor Frank Shaw withstood the foulest, and most bitter campaign ever waged against a man in public office. In the face of this stubborn opposition he gave the city an administration that met the approval of the progressive citizens which was attested after four years of splendid service by his reelection. The Mayor received nearly 200,000 majority, this showing beyond all doubt the people were satisfied with the conduct of affairs from that office.

This, however, only spurred on a more determined fight to oust Shaw from office and heap disgrace upon the administration.

The Mayor's actions were clean, honorable and above board; the scavengers could find naught to bring against his character as a citizen and public official. These assasins left no stone unturned in quest of some act that could be laid upon his door-step. His citizenship was questioned, he having been born in Canada and brought to the States by his father when a mere child. Men were sent to Washington to search thru the records to find something by which Shaw could be proven an alien. All of this failed so the dogs of war were put on the trail of his brother, Lieut. Joseph Shaw who was his private secretary. Joe Shaw was accused of committing every crime in the decalogue, but no one could unearth any evidence to support this contention, but a steady fire was kept aglow on this line of warfare until certain influential ministers and churchmen swallowed the stories as cooked up without a thorough and impartial investigation and as a result an organization known as the C.I.V.I.C. was able to induce 63,197 misguided souls to attach their signatures to a petition calling for recall of the Mayor to be submitted to the voters at a special election Sept. 16th.

John C. Porter, former mayor, was a victim of the same condition and faced a recall and was reelected by a handsome vote, and we predict a similar fate for Mayor Shaw. Many persons, no doubt, who signed the petition and others who dislike the Mayor will vote to retain him in office. To put Mr. Shaw out of office at this time would retard the progress being made by the city and bring things to a complete standstill. A new man to take over the office now could not get things re-shaped and a program underway before time for the regular election, and thus the present fine program of expansion would be junked because of a few sore-heads on the outside trying to break in. No, we do not believe the intelligent citizens of Los Angeles will subscribe to such a foolish, unwarranted thing.

Negro citizens have no fight on Mayor Shaw. His administration has dealt liberally with the group. Places of trust, with good salaries, have been liberally passed out to those competent to fill them, which never before has happened in the City of Los Angeles under any previous mayor.

Colored girls are filling positions of stenographers, clerks, typists, playground directors and other high places because of the fairness of Mr. Shaw.

Turn him out? We say no! and to do so the Negro would be sawing off the limb upon which he is safely perched.

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

THE EARTH GROWS SMALLER

Now that Howard Hughes has flashed around the globe, cutting the world on corners, the earth has taken another big notch in her belt. His amazing flight is more than a spectacular tribute to American men and materials. Daring trailblazers like Lindbergh, Post, and Hughes chart out the sky-paths which commercial planes will soon after follow on routine schedule. The airways over the vast wastes of the Pacfic and of the Caribbean are already traversed regularly as clockwork. Soon innumerable flight tests across the Atlantic will culminate in the launching of permanent air service bringing Europe within a day's sky journey of America. Hughes' speedy flight round the northern zones of the earth is a significant herald of the day when America will be linked with the countries of North Europe and Asia through the far shorter Arctic routes cutting over the North Pole. His resourceful and admirably managed flight is something in which America takes just pride!

RIOT AND ROUT

Infuriated citizens of Westwood, Calif., routed a band of unionists last week amid fierce rioting and shooting in which 2000 men fought each other with rifles, pick and ax handles. That, of course, is one way of settling a dispute. Its chief drawback is that it fails to settle anything. It merely spawns new hatreds and worse grievances. The action of the Westwood citizens is understandable. Their chief livelihood is drawn exclusively from the lumber mill which union action had closed down. Naturally, the citizens wanted the mill open, their jobs back, and bitterly disliked the union's intrusion. However, if it did nothing else, this unfortunate episode clearly pointed to the urgent need in California of a more sane and temperate method of settling conflicts. Employment relations must be clarified, and codified through our law-making machinery if violence is ever to be halted!

NO OLYMPICS

It takes money, steel, concrete, and the good will of nations to stage a successful Olympic Games tournament. Japan is shy on money, her industries are shy of steel and concrete, and her military men are shy of good will. In fact, America was rather shocked to learn Tokyo militarists were scared town to their boots the Olympics might taint Japanese youth with good neighborliness! Now that the government has called off the games, Japan can concentrate on chasing the Chinese, an even more harrowing sport.

A DOG'S LIFE

They say truth is stranger than fiction. Now we can believe it. Here's the American Veterinary Medical Association, meeting in the East for its 75th annual convention, reporting that city dogs live longer than country dogs! In other words, the urban pooches who amble on hot pavement, circumnavigate the 9x12 expanses of city apartment rooms, and inhale rich, bracing, steam-heated air, live two or three years longer than their country cousins. The veterinarians are handy with reasons to explain this. The poor country dog, it seems, is afflicted with all sorts of grief — to much exposure to the sun, climatic changes, irritations from contact with vegetation. This may be true, but we'll leave it to the humble pooch himself to decide. And we'll give odds any upstanding animal would prefer to frisk over the country fields and lanes, even if it does give him fallen arches and deep circles under the eyes!

The Beautiful West

All this time I've been searching vainly for some term to describe the beauty of the west, so that those who have not seen, and some who may never see, might somehow comprehend what glories nature holds near the setting sun.

A native westerner, or one who has spent years in such a place as this, might waste time listening to tales like these. But those who have not seen, and I must say those who live among such beauty, unaware should finad a charm so sweet they must look again and make sure they are not dreaming.

As I pause along the corners of your busy streets, I cannot help but miss the proud and stately towers of the Eastern metropolis. They have their charm for those with curious-like minds. But as I behold your mountain towers, built by nature on whose summits snow is so carefully preserved, and when I see the crude workmanship, and rugged sides leading upward to almost endless heights, some uncontrollable forces seem to get the better of me, as all by unauthorized opinions of beauty yield their languished hopes, and within me every atom of intellect poins in harmonious mutuality, that none can compare with the beauty of the west.

Alas! dear western world I know I've failed as have all others to define or give you justice, but one thing I shall add to this idle treatise which might half-way support my contemptible absurbity. Notwithstanding we know our skillful artists have all made futile efforts to deal you fairly, for each delineation we saw upon their frail easel seems now as done by some apprhensive youth demonstrating his first paint set, and our most gifted poets, song writers as well, have made you appear scarcely half-way what you are, but you know we did our best as your unheard beauty reaches far beyond our foolish words. We hope indeed that you'll accept our vain endeavor when we say: Ad infinitum. Which is to say (To infinity).

How's Your Smile?

Big business which has to be efficient in order to stay big, realizes the important part the worker is in its machine. For the purpose of making him all that he can be, it has devised regulations which go into the most minute detail. His appearance down to the shine on his shoes is commanded. Then it concludes, "How is your smile?"

There is something! Negro business which is small might take that leaf out of the rules laid down by those who are successful. Maybe it cannot furnish uniforms, marked with its name. Its limited capital may not qualify it for competition in price. Small volume makes delivery difficult for it. Yet it can smile!

The human side of selling will always cut a figure. Whatever the goods the customer responds to pleasant salesmanship and resents the lack of it. The smallest restaurant, the one-chair shining parlor, even the craftsmen, who depend for growth of their patronage on how they serve will help themselves mightily by a smile.

All to frequently Negro business feels that the race should patronize its own without regard to price and service. With such a thought in mind, it easily falls into a resentment when its public patronizes competitors. Hence its surly "What you want?" and its unsmiling attitude.

A hideous mistake! It is sugar not vinegar that attracts. The smile with the sale or service is the attractive wrapping that makes the customer come back. Furthermore the patron who comes in is not the one who causes the business management's resentment. It is those who go elsewhere. We must learn to get out of bed on the right side and smile and smile and smile!

BUYERS' GUIDE by Clarence Peacock

If the many millions of Negroes are to gain the full benefit of their huge purchasing power, they must band their forces together, by buying from those firms that are willing to give them a equal chance with all ohter Americans, for economic security.

Last year, Colored Americans throughout the country spent approximately $240,000,000 for liquor, wine and beer.

This is a tremendous amount of money for a minority group at the bottom of the economic scale, to spend for a commodity that is not an absolute necessity. It is my belief that this amount could have been spent for more fundamental needs which would have been of greater benefit to the individual Negro, and of lasting value to the race. But, if we are to make any rapid economic advancement, we must deal with the situation as it is, and not as we would wish it to be.

The consumption of liquor and wines in Harlem, is perhaps typical of Negro communities throughout the country. In 1937, Colored consumers in Harlem spent over $22,000,000 for liquor, wine and beer. In this locality, there are over 225 bars and grills, of which 46 are owned by Colored People. There are approximately 50 retail liquor stores, three of which are owned by Colored men.

There are about 110 salesmen to service these retail establishments. Only 15 of these salesmen are Colored. The tital sales of these salesmen was approximately $22,000,000. On a basis of a 4 per cent commission, their combined salaries amounted to $880,000 for that year. It is an actual fact that in this same year the combined salaries of the Colored salesmen did not exceed $22,000.

If the Colored people of Harlem, and in all the Colored communities throughout the country would support those companies and those retailers who employ Negroes, a much largere percentage of the $240,000,000 now spent for liquor, wine and beer, would remain in these commuities, and would return to Colored hands.

All of the Colored, and a number of the White proprietors of bars, grills and package stores in Harlem, are giving their full support to Colored salesmen. It is up to the consumer to do his part, by patronizing Coolred-owned establishments, or establishments employing Colored people.

The Schenley Products Company (distillers of Old Quaker, Cream of Kentucky, Schenley's Red and Black Labels, and others) was the first liquor to employ a Colored representative, and to advertise in the Negro press.

The response of the Colored consumer to the Schenley advertisements was so great, that competing liquor companies came into this market, bidding for Colored patronage. Among these companies are National Distillers (distillers of Windsor, Town Tavern, Crab Orchard, and Wilson Whiskey), Calvert Distillers Corporation (distiller's of Reserve, Special and Old Drum whiskeys).

The Calvert Corporation has recently appointed Mr. Eneil Simpson as their National Negro Representative. The Pabst Brewery, the Pfeiffer Brewing Company, and other breweries have recently appointed Colored representatives to service the Colored trade in their communities.

Read your Colored newspapers, support your Colored salesmen, by buying only those brands advertised in your papers.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

VOLUNTARY NEGRO

Dear Editor:

Walter White's article, published in a recent publication on "How It Feels to Be a Negro," contains many worthwhile facts which should be as interesting to his Negro readers as to those of the white race.

As one who, in a manner similar to Mr. White's, moves back and forth across the color lines, my opinion is that Mr. White is scarcely the man to write about the subject which he has chosen. It is utterly impossible for any "voluntary Negro", whose color fails to identify him as a member of a prescribed race, to know just how it feels to be a Negro. He can but give abstract conclusions gathered here and there from observation and the experiences of other Negroes.

He may know the temporary embarrassment of riding behind a Jim Crow sign, feel the sting of prejudice and discrimination while in the company of his obviously colored brethren, but he knows that five minutes later, under different circumstances, he can have whatever accomodations his purse pays for.

Mr. White is privileged to travel to and from his speaking engagements on the fastest planes available; he often visits the scenes of lynchings, gets the low down on the white mob's thirst for blood, but how can he tell what is going on in the fearful, trembling heart of the victim? He is accorded every courtesy, often believed by some to be a white crank, fanatically interested in propaganda, and materially concerned in profiting by the unrest between the races.

I believe Mr. White to be a Christian gentleman with a crusader's heart, actuated by human symbathy for a minority and underprivileged group tic, it is God-like zeal, tic, it is God like zeal.

There are some of our brown brothers who have had experience enough and are endowed with the intelligence to put those experiences in searing words, but would they? Would their pride allow them to tell the world what is going on inside of them? Some of them have built a defense mechanism so solid that they actually believe that they avoid white people because they dislike them--they say they prefer other amusements to the theatres--they express an aversion to municipal grounds and buildings which their taxes help open--all along they know that they are avoiding unpleasant, often serious encounters.

It is true that some Negroes blown away their hurts and acquire a reputation for having a sense of humor, but none of us knows what goes on when that same man is alone with himself and his God. Possibly he would never admit that he smarts under the oppression meted out to him by the self-elected "superior" group, that he sighs for the chance to live as a man in a man's world. The problem then, here in America at least, is not racial, but a matter of color, after all.

The trial and conviction of a Negro, though innocent, was quaintly reported in these lines: "They found their brother guilty of a skin not colored like their own."

Golden State to Open Office in 'Chi'

Company Receives Authorization from State of Illinois; Expanding

Exactly 13 years from receipt of certificate of authority to operate in California, the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance company received a similar authorization from the State of Illinois, it was revealed this week by the secretary-treasurer, Norman O. Houston.

The certificate received on July 23, marks the first out of state venture of the company and gives it the right to issue life, health, accident, and funeral benefit policies. Its establishment there will offer citizens the first opportunity to secure policies on a monthly plan in which Golden State has specialized since its organization. The proposed benefits came upon the recommendation of Walter C. Green, consulting actuary of the firm of Conover and Green, Chicago.

Plans are now under way to organize policies in accordance with the laws of Illinois, in order

McDonough Urges Economy

Determined to keep the new county tax rate as close as possible to that of 1937-38, Supervisor Gordon L. McDonough yesterday emphasized his demands that economy must be the watchword in deciding the necessity of every item requested by county departments.

McDonough said he would closely scrutinize every item in the proposed budget and would not permit any extravagant ideas to creep in which wouud result in an additional levy for unnecessary funtions. There are a number of items he said which can be stricken from the preliminary budget without impairing the normal operation of county government.

Public hearings on the 1938-39 budget are underway today by the Board of Supervisors and will continue for two weeks.

Medic's Wife Dies of Rare Disease

Autopsy Shows Prominent Church, Y Worker Victim of Ailment

Believed at first to have been caused by some form of food poisoning, an autopsy of the body of Mrs. Stella E. Harris, prominent church and YWCA worker, who died Wednesday night, revealed that death had been due to a white cell anemia, a condition she had suffered over a period of years.

A rare ailment, there are only two other like cases on record at the General hospital where Mrs. Harris died.

Mrs. Harris was stricken Sunday of last week. She was 60 years of age and the wife of E. D. Harris, local pharmacist.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon in the chapel of the Angelus Funeral Home and were widely attended by church and Y groups with which she had worked during her 17-year residence in Los Angeles. Interment was in Evergreen cemetery. The Rev. E. E. Lightner, pastor of the Lincoln Memorial Congregational church, of which Mrs. Harris was an active member, assisted by the Rev. L. G. Robinson, officiated.

A native of Barnesville, Ga., Mrs. Harris was well known in the East and South. She had distinguished herself in social work in Los Angeles and was chariman of the executive board of the 12th street YWCA.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Nancy, a student at the University of California, a son, Thomas Reid, two brothers in Los Angeles, and a sister in New York.

Murderer of Grocer Still Sought

Police this week are sifting suspects, searching for the hold-up murderer of Tom Samouelian, Armenian grocer who died at the General hospital early yesterday morning of gunshot wounds, inflicted last Thursday night.

Samoullian staggered to the sidewalk in front of his store at 2822 S. San Pedro street at 9:45 p. m. Thursday night. With gunshot wounds in his left hand and through his neck, he stumbled on a few steps, in pursuit of his assailant, a Negro, who was running East of 29th street. Falling and before lapsing into unconsciousness, he told police and bystanders, "A Negro tried to rob me, but he got nothing".

Rushed to the Georgia Street Receiving hospital and later removed to the General hospital, he rallied once or twice, then failing, died at 3 a. m. yesterday. An inquest will be held today (Thursday) at 2:30 p. m.

The crime was one of many that have centered about the small business places on lower San Pedro and Central avenue in the last few months, the only recent one with fatal results. Newton Street police rounded up several suspects and loafers in an attempt to get a line on the parties who have been "pulling the jobs". Detectives Bradford and Washington are assigned to the above case.

No Apparent Sign Of War Strain In Japan, Says Bunche

Elect Beatrice Sellers to Fraternal Office 5th Time

At the close of the 17 annual session of the Grand Order of the Calanthe Knights of Phythias, Mrs. Beatrice Sellers of West Los Angeles was elected Grand Worthy Councellor to serve a fifth term.

Mrs. Sellers, having been a member of the order since 1911, has held many positions of honor and trust, although she accredits much of the Court's progress to the inspiration of Mrs. L. A. Brown, charter member. Before serving as Worthy Councellor, Mrs. Sellers served as Grand Registrar of Deeds. When she took over the juvenile section there was only one member; today there are seventy.

Mrs. Sellers' long and successful service as member and office holder is due to the fact that she joined the court while quite young and became interested in the potential economic and social value of such an organization.

During her four terms as head of the Court of Calanthe, the organization has moved forward steadily, advancing financially and in membership. Today it is recognized by the Research Dept. of the Chamber of Commerce and has a deposit in a local bank of over thirteen thousand dollars.

Mrs. Sellers, whose husband, Wilson Sellers, is a city employe, is the mother of two children who attended the public schools of Sawtelle, yet finds time apart from her home duties to serve the public in many useful ways. In 1935 she attended the national session of the Knights of Pythias and Court of Calanthe at Rochester, N. Y., and was elected to the Supreme Office, bringing this honor to California for the first time.

BEATRICE SELLERS

Hailing from the Sunflower State, Kansas, this young woman's steady strides in the building of a state organization has attracted not only the attention but the admiration of the people.

Mrs. Sellers is the only daughter of Mrs. Dora Gamble of Sawtelle, Grand daughter of the late J. R. Bass, famous Methodist preacher of Pleasanton, Kansas, and neice of the late J. B. Bass, who attached the title "soaring" to the California Eagle.

Dr. Bunche will appear on the Negro Newspaper of the Air Wednesday night, August 10. This will embellish a "scoop" week for the program which is carving a new niche in Radio journalism. Miss Nannie Burroughs will appear on Tuesday, August 9th.

"Ethiopia is not conquered" . . . "The people of Africa, the Dutch East Indies and Japan have a great knowledge of the American Negro" . . . "There is no apparent sign of war strain in Japan".

These are a few of the sensational statements made by Dr. Ralph Bunche, anthropologist of national repute and former UCLA basketball star, in Los Angeles this week after a two-year journey thru Europe, Africa and the Orient on a fellowship of the Social Science Research Council.

Dr. Bunch, a professor at Howard university, received the fellowship two years ago when he was selected on the basis of college records and writings among eleven of five-hundred of the nation's leading young scholars. Four years previously, in 1932, he merited a Rosenwald Fellowship, which sent him to Europe and North, East and West Africa.

Unable to get about because of an infected leg and a general run-down condition--result of a five thousand mile safari in the heart of tropic Africa — Dr. Bunch has refused several invitations to speak in Los Angeles.

In recounting incidents of the recent two-year trip to an EAGLE reporter, Dr. Bunch explained that he first visited several of the European nations, including Holland, Belgium, France and England. Although he had a visa for entrance to South Africa, South Africa House in London informed him that it was not sufficient. Supervisor Ford Endorsed As Opponent of Mayor

Endorsing Supervisor John Anson Ford to oppose Mayor Frank L. Shaw in the "Recall Election" despite his flat declaration that he "would not run", the Federation for Civic Betterment last night was the scene of hours of heated debate.

With Baron Lawson, Democratic Big Wig" Checking credentials at the door", many Negroes were present among them — James Jones, late of the American Advancement League, Mrs. Beatrice Reaves, R. J. LaMar, and Amos Black, political leaders, Ira Smith, Mr. Ingram, and Sid Dones, prominent realtor and ardent supporter of Mayor Frank L. Shaw.

Only contender for the endorsement beside Ford, who denied it, was Judge Fletcher Bowron, sponsored by Clifford E. Clinton, vice-crusader. The assemblage, however, was near unanimous in its desire for the Supurvisor.

Ford based his refusal to run o nthe fact that the county, soon to be without Supervisor Legg, who is running for Governor, is in need of him. It was believed that he felt corruption identical to that alleged in the city would come about in the county were he to leave.

Death Claims Father Divine-ite

Death, despite the dictums of Father Divine, cult leader who claimed indefinite life for his followers, came to Violet Ray, 83-year old follower of the cultist.

Mrs. Ray, who formerly lived at the 2600 S. Central avenue Peace Mission, died at the home of Truth Gladness (Georgia Owens), 1006½ E. 18th street, late Wednesday evening of a heart attack.

Sons, morticians, in charge. The eulogy will be delivered by the Rev. J. D. Gordon.

2 Attempts at Suicide Fail

Two attempted suicides were ineffective here this week with the victims apparently little the worse for their experience, recuperating in the General hospital.

After a quarrel with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Ann Dorcey, 722 E. 53rd street, 19-year old expectant mother, swallowed the contents of a linament bottle Saturday morning. Rushed to the Receiving hospital, she was treated and transferred to the maternity ward of General hospital, the baby almost two weeks due, authorities said.

The "insides" of James Johnigan, 33, of 1412 E. 15th street, must be nearly as white as snow today after he drank half a bottle of chlorox, a fluid used to bleach clothes.

Johnigan had quarreled with Miss Ethel Wright of 1508½ East 15th street at her home Sunday afternoon and attempted to take iodine. Frustrated in that, he dashed in the bathroom and drank the bleach.

FEDERATED CLUBS FAIL TO RE-UNITE AS PARLEY ENDS IN CONTENTION

BOTH DIVISIONS WITHOUT PRESIDENTS AS INCUMBENTS ACCEPT PAST PREXY KEYS; ACTION BELIEVED "AN OVERSIGHT"

Purportedly the result of a completed agreement to "bury the hatchet" and definitely unite sessions of federated club women of the northern and southern parts of the state, the United California Federation of Colored Women's Clubs ended here last Friday without election of officers and without reaching a decision on the status of either division in relation to the other.

Technically speaking, each division is without a head since both Mrs. Mabel Gray and Tarea Hall Pittman of the southern and northern group respectively, accepted past president keys in an elaborate program Tuesday evening. Rumors were rife throughout the sesion that there would be no election of officers but did not come into prominence until Thursday afternoon when the executive board asked for dissolution papers of the northern corporation.

When approached for a statement, Mrs. Eliza Warner, president emeritus, who presided during the sessions, could make no statement other than that she was waiting for the decision of each group. Both bodies were allegedly waiting to hear from Sacramento on the standing of the northern group. However, it was learned through an official that a telegram received from the California Secretary of State's office reported the northern organization in good standing and that the state office had received no word of election to dissolve.

Mrs. Billie McFarland of Los Angeles, general chairman of the convention, said, "I think it was

THE SIT-DOWN strike of seventy-five Negro extras at one of the motion picture studios Tuesday is among the most important labor developments to occur in the motion picture industry since the Screen Actors Guild came into being.

Strikers claimed that they were being asked to do work for which the regular salary is $11.00 to $16.00 per day at a price of $8.25. Assertedly included among the things expected of them was singing, dancing, and shooting bow and arrows. They stated that they had been promised the eleven dollar rate when interviewed for the jobs, but had found the three dollar pay reduction upon reporting at the studio. Officials of the picture concern, fearful of costly delay, acceded to the strikers' demands under protest.

These events are only the culmination of rumored dissatisfaction of Negro Guild members existing over a period of months. Controversy has raged on many points — one of which is that Negro workers, finding studio employment but half as often as whites, must pay the same dues as others. If they fail in this, studio work is completely taken away. Colored employes have stated that the Screen Actors Guild, while boasting of great fairness and interracial justice, practices the same unfair methods with race members as do other unions outside the industry. It is held that two prices exist in Guild offices — one for Negroes, the other for whites; that colored extras and bit players, usually called upon for special performances of some kind, are paid even less than the plain, "atmosphere" extra of the other group. Some even hint that Guild officials bargain with producers in "selling out" colored motion picture talent. These, however, are the extremists.

Of course, as in any argument, there are two sides. Negroes officially connected with the Guild organization have expressed themselves as extremely regretful over the strike incident of Tuesday afternoon. They point to the record of non-segregation and racial equality in the Guild administration. While confessing that the studio was underpaying the seventy-five extras, they hold that the men acted unwisely in taking matters into their own hands. Logically, they point out that contract violation invariably works to their disadvantage — for, then, producers are justified in committing similar breaches. Although the Negro group is not the first Guild affiliate to take independent action, many claim, "We do not want it to be said that Negroes broke the Screen Actors Guild and thus took away protection from thousands of studio workers". According to these critics, the extras should have taken their grievance to the Guild and acted for action through that organization. Although it is said this measure was taken, Guild supporters state that the union had not sufficient time to make the necessary contacts for adjustment — even say that a meeting WAS scheduled to arbitrate the very issue.

Such objections are dealt with in clipped sentences by strikers, however. They contend, simply and firmly, "What do we care for the Screen Actors Guild? Since the organization has accepted our money and yet failed to protect us, breaking their contracts with producers does not worry us in the least".

As the situation stands — Guild and studio resentful, and strikers bitter — there is benefit for no one. Negro extras cannot progress, since they are such a distinct minority, without the support of some great labor organization; the Guild cannot hope to survive if its contracts with producers are constantly broken by independent groups; and the loss of time (of utmost value in the studios) by producers will be tremendous if some more efficient arrangement is not forthcoming. Hence, it is plain that every effort must be made to bring about some sort of amicable settlement between all parties. Although it is conceded that breach of contract by labor is never advisable, the power displayed by seventy-five black extras may serve well as an indication that the Negro does not intend to be excluded from Guild benefits. Indeed, the strike, ill-advised as it was, might perform a great service. It is recalled that the New York City race riots of a few years ago, though regrettable in themselves, effected sweeping reforms which arbitration, protest, and petition in the past had failed to accomplish. However, at this point it is best to impress all concerned that sanity and understanding must be had. The display of power is complete. Now is the time for careful consideration and cautious advances. Force, like drugs, may stimulate in small quantities, but in excess may be fatal!

JUDGE RAY Brockman of the Municipal Court handed down a decision last week which holds that: "A licensed liquor dealer has the right to refuse the sale of liquor to anyone at any time without giving a reason and without being required to suffer the expense and vexation of a judicial review of his conduct".

The case came up when Jerry Shepherd, colored, sought $2000 damages from H. A. Wylie, proprietor of a beer parlor, because Wylie refused to serve him a glass of beer. Judge Brockman based his adverse decision on the fact that the multiplicity of liquor laws regarding ages, not serving Indians, and so on, make the dealer's situation so complex that he should not be forced to give an accounting for his actions in refusing anyone, regardless of race, color, or creed.

Undoubtedly the liquor dealer, if he is to remain within the law, IS called upon to perform some very delicate discrimination. There is no question that he is often in an embarrassing position as a result of the complicated legislation concerning the exercise of his business. However, it is my belief that removing an obvious injustice from the path of the liquor dealer, has incurred even greater unfairness in allowing him such sweeping powers of discrimination. Whereas the predicament of the liquor dealer involved only tangled legislation, the present state of affairs can lead to the most outrageous and un-American segregation. Here there may be direct violations of citizenship guarantees in the California state constitution. Here citizens may be denied service without the slightest legal recourse; unable to voice any legitimate complaint. Supposedly protected by a law which states that no citizen shall be discriminated against in any public place because of race, color, or creed, members of minority groups must now swallow the ill-effects of this decision in utter silence.

The legal knife of Justice Brockman has cut deep into California law and extracted one of its fundamental guarantees.

WITH THE Recall excitement at highest pitch, it is best to remind Negro voters of several pertinent facts. Although the California Eagle is opposed to any civic corruption or graft, such as has been charged to the Mayor, we must point out that Shaw has given the Negro more recognition in the matter of employment than any other Mayor the City of Los Angeles has

Clarence Muse-- A-TALKIN' TO YOU

TO LISTEN to the raves of many LOYAL LOVERS of art, about the beauty of the girls who appeared in the recent BEAUTY CONTEST, I am compelled to pay tribute to Mrs. TOMMIE CROSS SIMPKINS of the Colonial beauty shop for the use of Lady Ebony Make-up, and the artistic application by ALBERTA GOWER and THELMA BROOKS. The interest in Hollywood is still heard in many quarters and the beauty of our girls is a constant discussion in artistic and social gatherings. I am glad of this because, our beautiful Colored girls have been neglected in PICTURES and if this continues some WISE PRODUCER may find the opportunity to EXPLOIT NEGRO BEAUTY as well as their other CHARMS. And speaking of other ARTISTIC attainments, among the girls, I must speak of a very UNUSUAL MUSICIAN, who is slowly climbing to the very top as ONE OF THE GREAT COMPOSERS of the day, MISS EDNA Rosalyn Heard. She works daily on themes that have a definite AFRICAN BACKGROUND and to hear her scores you feel as if some native AFRICAN has set down melodies of a thousand years ago. FOR MODERN ORCHESTRAS. Still I am upset in my DEDUCTIONS by the fact that she is a native CALIFORNIAN and her MOTHER established the first colored church IN SANTA MONICA. But there must be SOME BLOOD CONNECTION with Africa, because there is a certain SINCERITY in her work THAT MAKES you believe it. I look at her FROM HEAD TO FOOT, trying to find the answer. SHE looks LIKE AN AFRICAN QUEEN, with a superior mental attitude that COMPELS your admiration, and when you LISTEN TO her ARIA from her operetta "KING IN AFRICA", libretto by an Englishman, there is BUT ONE ANSWER, EDNA ROSALYN HEARD is a GENIUS. The orchestra plays this masterpiece during the intermission at the MAYAN of "RUN LITTLE CHILLUN". So many of the LISTENERS are exited about this WORK OF ART, I think it time that the GREAT LOVERS of music begin to WORSHIP at her shrine. Afunny thing, art, shows up sometimes in PERFECT BODIES, especially in YOUNG WOMEN, other times, hides away in a MODEST person that you would pass in a STREET CAR, as just an IMPORTANT LOOKING WOMAN, who might be busy at anything. It happens SHE IS EXTRAORDINARY, a MASTER CREATOR, of music!

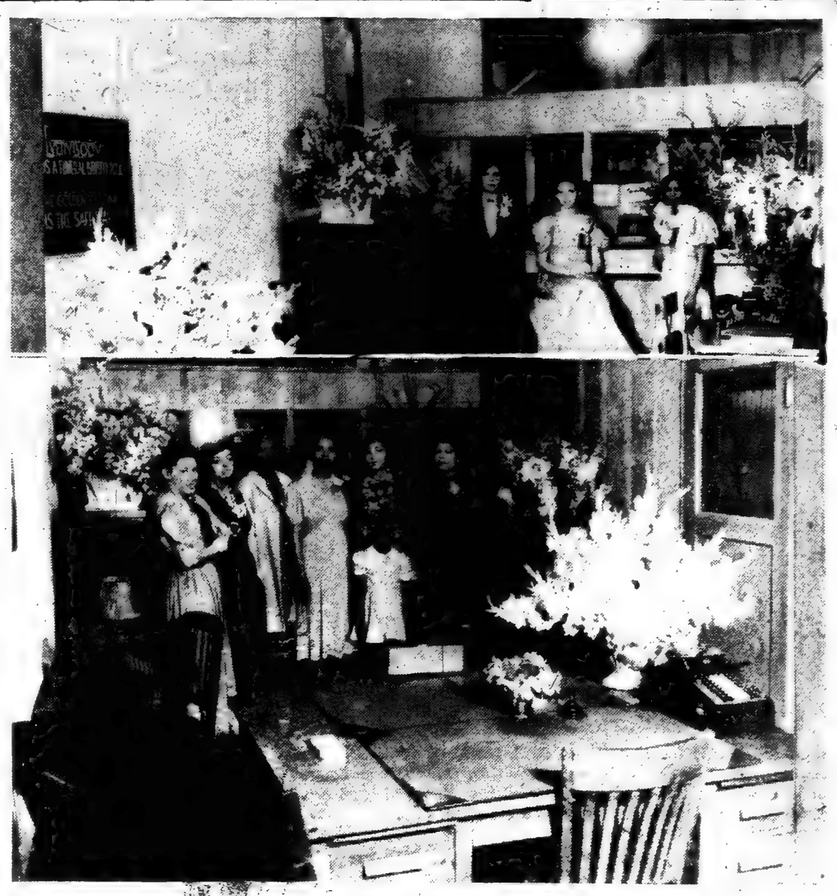
Golden State Expands in Oakland to establish the Chicago branch sometime in the fall.

Another step forward, almost simultaneously, was the recent opening of new quarters in the Loving Building in Oakland at the intersection of Eighth. West and Market Streets, main artery of the San Francisco bridge and adjacent to the proposed Federal Housing project.



The general reception was attended by 2,000 policy holders and friends in the Bay area as well as from Sacramento to San Jose and permitted the public to inspect clerical, agency and managerial offices. Many floral tributes were received and displayed. The offices are under the management of U. S. Griggs and were originally established in one small room in the rear of the Hudson Funeral Home.

Participants included Mr. and Mrs. George A. Beavers, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Norman O. Houston, Att'y and Mrs. L. M. Hudson, and Att'y Walter Gordon, chief counsellor, and wife. Messrs. Beavers, Houston, and Hudson are vice-president-director of agencies, secretary-treasurer, and director respectively.

Fourth from right, in the second row is Walter Gordon, chief counsellor for the company. To his right are L. M. Hudson, director; Norman O. Houston, secretary - treasurer; George A. Beavers, vice president-director of agencies; and U. S. Griggs, manager of the Oakland office. Seated in the center front in afternoon dress are Mrs. Ruth Mays and Miss Josephine Lewis of the office staff, and Mrs. Griggs, wife of the manager, who were official hostesses.

THE FEMININE TOUCH

From 2:30 to 7 in the evening, two thousand policy holders and guests visited the opening reception of the new Oakland offices of the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance company. Their inspection and stay, which culminated in refreshments, was made all the more pleasant by the graciousness of the ladies in the top picture shown in the midst of some of the many floral contributions received from friends of the company. Below they are shown with ladies who have toured their offices. One of the hostesses, Miss Josephine Lewis, who is a member of the clerical staff is at the extreme left.

Spauldings Back in L. A. After Motor Trip East

Making the trip from Chicago to Los Angeles in 72 hours, Mr. and Mrs. H. Spaulding, their neice and nephew, Ruth and Vernon Spaulding and Mrs. A. Bradford well known Angelenos, returned home Saturday morning after a five week's motor tour, which took them 9,000 miles through the South and the Atlantic Coast.

The party left here June 28 and went directly through the central Southern states to North Carolina where a family reunion was held in Durham on July 6. Mr. Spaulding is the brother of C. C. Spaulding, wealthy head of Carolina's largest insurance company, the Mutual.

From Durham, the motorcade traveled up the Atlantic coast as far as Canada stopping in the principal cities. In New York, young Spaulding met Bill Lacefield, UCLA broadjumper, who hase since sailed for Europe as a member of an A. A. U. track team.

From New York the cavalcade went to Chicago and thence home through the Middle Western States.

Young Spaulding, former Polytechnic High school athletes, said he believed Negroes in the South were farther along socially and economically than in the East or West.

He was impressed by the number of young people who have college degrees and by evidence of success in the large concerns and business places operated by Negroes in the South. However, he expected Oklahoma and parts of Arkansas, where he said the majority of colored people seemed in destitute circumstances.

Memorial for Johnson is Impressive

Under the Master of Ceremony hand of famed architect, Paul R. Williams, the Memorial evening services for the late James Weldon Johnson, Sunday last at the Trinity Baptist church, were hailed as one of the finest such programs in local history this week.

Featuring songs and poems by the great writer, the meeting was attended by a representative gathering of the community's populace.

"Going Home" considered one Johnson's most important musical contributions, was sung by Joseph James, of the Hall Johnson Choir. Many stated that the rendition revealed rare control and artistry on the part of Mr. James, who was acompanied by his wife.

A reading of the famous "Go Down Death" was had from Mr. Archie Thurston, who impressed it is stated, with quiet dignity and force.

Editor-publisher of the California Eagle, Mrs. C. A. Bass, contributed a biographical sketch of the colorful poet's life. The editor is being urged to repeat it on her weekly appearance with the "Negro Newspaper of the Air", Thursday evening (tonight) at 8:25.

Prayers by Rev. J. L. Caston were notable for depth and restraint opined the congregation.

Former War Officers Plan L. A. Reunion

As the date draws nigh which will bring thousands of legionaires to Los Angeles from all over the country for the American Legion convention, local colored citizens become more and more conscious of the important part Negro doughboys played in the great war .The fact that there were many colored officers in command in various divisions will be more graphically brought to light than at any past gathering since the armistice was signed.

This will be brought about by Chapter No. 1 of the Officer's Association of the 92nd, and 93rd divisions composed of former colored officers of the A. E. F. now making their homes here. In order to keep green the memories of those days at the front when they shared the dangers, privations and later honors with their men, this group is making the first attempt after 20 years to get as many former officers from all over the country to come here for the great meet which convenes on September 18-22. Previous to this, however, the state legion convention is to be held on September 15 and 16.

The commander, is Lieut. Norman O. Houston, adjutant of the association with a number of local ex-service men who also wore the bars of officers. Mr. Houston was with the 317th ammunition train. A few of the other members of the local chapter are Lieuts. Curtis C. Taylor, A. J. Booker, Curtis Carpentier, Bennis Matthews, Captains Frank Pearl, Thos. Owen, George Allen, Edward Spearman, Chas. Owens, and others, 35 in all.

U. S. Teachers Hold Meet at Tuskegee Inst.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Aug. 4, (ANP)—Highlighted by an address of welcome by Governor Bibb Graves of Alabama, the American Teachers' Association, formerly the National Association of Teachers in Colored Schools, opened its 35th annual session last Tuesday at Tuskegee Institute, with several hundred teachers, college officials and faculty members in attendance. The session closed last Friday.

Prominent among the subjects discussed at the meeting was the theme "Negro Youth Looks at Occupations in America", which for the past year has engaged the attention of the teachers' body. The National Teachers' Association has 5,000 members.

Kin of Booker T. Washington Weds Pa. Man

YORK, Pa., August 4. (ANP) —At a quiet ceremony attended by a few relatives and held here Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Mitchell, brother and sister-in-law of the groom, Miss Fannie Virginia Pittman, grand-daughter of Dr. Booker T. Washington, and Leonard Carl Mitchell, prominent York business man and musician, were united in marriage.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Portia Washington Pittman, Tuskegee Institute, Ala., came here for the wedding. Well known in music circles, the bride was honor student at Detroit Conservatory of Music and the Damrosch School of Music in Manhattan and for two years studied privately under tutelage of Hazel Harrison, famed concert pianist. Prior to her marriage she assisted her mother at the Portia Washington Music Studio, Tuskegee Institute. The happy couple will live in York and will be at home to their host of friends after September 1.

Oust Johnson from AFL Meet

Local Union men are questioning the right of the American Federation of Labor Political League of Santa Barbara to oust Clarence R. Johnson, executive secretary of the Dining Car Cooks and Waiter's Union, from a meeting held there last week.

It was learned that the basis of their opposition to his presence, although he is a member of the federation, was given that he is a supporter of Labor's nonpartisan league. Johnson has been an outstanding labor leader in this community for many years. His supporters declare the A.F. of L. is mixing too much politics in its affairs.

Father Divine Gets 'Heaven' Near FDR Home

KINGSTON, (N.Y.), Aug 4,—A grudge against President Roosevelt netted Father Divine and his followers a three mile summer camp, equipped with fifteen buildings and numerous boathouses and docks and located directly across the Hudson River from the President's Hyde Park home.

The site forth $50,000 was presented the cultist Thursday by Howland Spencer, wealthy New Yorker, who doesn't like Roosevelt.

Making no secret of the bitterness which inspired his action, Spencer said—"Father Divine's ideas will triumph over Roosevelt's. Last week I was offered $50,000 for this estate, but because of the work Father Divine is doing, I have given him my share which is the largest portion of the land involved.

23 of Divine's followers signed the deed and told reporters that Father's followers will come here on specially chartered excursion boats on August 8 and 9.

Spencer's desire to "get even" with the president dates from four years ago. Since the days of Henry Hudson the promontory on which Spencer's estate is located had been shown on the maps as Krum Elbow, later changed to Crum Elbow. In 1934 Roosevelt expressed his interest in the name and the department of the interior's committee on geographical names transferred the name of the President's side of the river, and merely designated Spencer's side as Spencer. Spencer once offered to share the Crum Elbow name, but his offer was rejected.

CHEROKEE INDIAN REFUSED WPA JOB

Seek Jail for Cops Who Killed Man

CHICAGO, Aug. 4,(CNA) — Prison sentences loomed this week for four suspended white policemen acused of fatally beating John Robinson, 33 year-old West Side Negro to death.

Leaders of the West Side Citizens Organization sought indictments for manslaughter against the four officers, John Bowen, Bernard White, Edward Brown and Fred Herman all of Maxwell Street Station—after the civil service commission took under advisement charges that the policeman assaulted Robinson on April 2.

Every Porter A Reporter

Well folks, I see where Mr. Howard Spencer, eastern millionaire, has been kind enough to give the President a flock of votes if he decides to embark on that third term. Old man Spencer donated a vast strip of shore-line and a gang of houses to Father Divine and his good angels to spite the President. The land runs directly in front of the President's estate and Mr. Spencer figured that all them black angels would be an eye-sore to the President. Not Mr. Roosevelt — Jim Farley wired the President and said — Chief we can't lose your state with half of Father Divine's kingdom voting for you. Old man Spencer has played right in our alley. The more angels we get the more votes we will pile up. Enjoy your fishing because it's a sure land-slide. Thank you, father.

Many men whom failure could not hurt are ruined by success. Birthday Greetings

Many happy returns to the following readers who celebrate their birthdays during the months of July and August: H. J. Mingleton, Richard H. McKay crack lounge car porter operating on the Southern Pacific out of the West Oakland commisary; R. Hicks, Eddie Nash, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Blakey and Mrs. Anna Danforth, congratulations.

C. L. Dellums, 4th vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, arrived in the city last Sunday night and started the week with the first of a series of meetings for the members at the headquarters of the organization. The meetings have been crowded each day and much interest and enthusiasm was manifested among the members. Dellums leaves for Oakland, his headquarters, Saturday night. A special meeting for the ladies was held Tuesday night with quite a large attendance. Plans were outlined at this meeting for the delegate to the Women's Economic Council convention late next month.

Members of the Brotherhod of Sleeping Car Porters take this means of extending their sympathy and condolence to the family of Mrs. S. E. Harris and their member and fellow co-worker, James White, her sister. See else where in the issue for story.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Fletcher Donate Piano to Brotherhood Of Sleeping Car Porters

A beautiful up-right piano was donated to the organization last week by Mr. and Mrs. C. Fletcher. Mrs. Fletcher is the president of the Women's Council and Mr. Fletcher is a member of the Brotherhood.

Another Country Heard From

Greetings: H. O. Philips, we thought that when you resigned as an officer of the now defunct Pullman Porters and Maids Defective Association that you were going to be a good little boy but apparently in that little story of the Mystery Of A Lost Half Porter you colaborated with the King Fish, who is the self styled leader of about 24 lost half porters, making in all about 12 whole porters minus BACK-BONE. It certainly should not take a Philadelphia lawyer to figure out how far 25 cents a month will carry any kind of an organization other than a small size pokeno club.

The King Fish is dissatisfied because the Brotherhood made it impossible for him to pick the best cars over the rest of the porters who didn't have the back-dor key and seasame to the Pullman office.

We fully realize that the extra board is pretty tough pickings for the King-Fish right now because he must take his turn. Well I'm sorry I cannot waste any more space on the Fish this week. The Porters want news. However, I do think you should change that title to the Mystery Of The 24 Lost Half Porters, they are the ones to be pitted.

Los Angeles Division of Brotherhood to Give Annual Dance August 25

The Brotherhood is well underway with the 13th annual anniversary dance plans which will be given at the Elks hall on Thursday evening, August 25. Tickets have already been mailed out to all the members and many have sold them and returned for more. Arrangements have been made to have Benjamin's Ebony Serenaders, a crack ten piece dance orchestra which has been playing the largest majority of dances this year. If you have ever heard them you will not miss coming this time, and listen girls if your boy friend is a railroad man you will be sure to see him at the Pullman Porters' Dance.

Funeral Rites Held for Rev. Caffey

Buried Tuesday afternoon in the Lincoln Memorial Cemetery, the Rev. John B. Caffey, 55 year old minister, carried to his grave the exact circumstances of the heart attack that caused his death.

The Rev. Caffey died Tuesday afternoon behind the steering wheel of his car, which had crashed into the traffic on Ventura blvd., hitting a Plymouth coupe head-on, and injuring its occupants, Edwin W. Schwartz, white, the driver, 4508 Longacres, Van Nuys, and his wife, Mrs. Evelyn Schwartz.

Although the coroner held an inquiry, no conclusion was reached as to the exact instance of the minister's death. Either he fell asleep at the steering wheel, the coroner reported, and was seized by an attack when he awoke to find his south-bound car moving into the center of a mass of northbound automobiles or he suffered a heart attack while driving, and the uncontroled car, going at 25 miles an hour, drifted to the opposite side of the road.

Caffey was slumped lifeless in his seat when officers and bystanders reached him. There were no visible signs of injury. Schwartz and his wife were treated for minor injuries at the Van Nuys Receiving hospital.

Funeral services for the minister, who lived at 1432 L. 54th street, and pastored the Pacoima Baptist church on San Fernando Road, were held from the Second Baptist church with the Rev. J. A. H. Eldridge, pastor of the McCoy Baptist church, officiating. Conner-Johnson Co. was in charge. The minister is survived by his wife, Mrs. Estella Caffey.

By ALMENA DAVIS

Almost everybody who is anybody attended the First Annual Eastside Track and Field meet at White Sox Park last Thursday night, and performing on the field, there were almost as many Olympic champions as gather at Randall Island in the flush of the track season.

But there weren't enough people who are nobody in particular, mainly you and me, to hand the boys who promoted the affair an even break. And there weren't enough of the rank and file athletes to form a chorus for the prima donnas.

You may gather from the above remarks that the meet was a flop in every way . . except one.

After Kenny Washington had thrown his 71 yard pass and trotted off the field, I went down to offer consolation to Norman Hartford, guiding genius of the meet, consolation that was a bit cramped because I offered also a bill for printing the programs.

Hartford was taking it like a thoroughbred as was the fat Mexican gentleman, Rod Castillo, with whom Hartford was pooling his private resources to pay expenses after handing over 10 per cent of the gross to the Outdoor Life and Health Association.

The respect in which the meet was not a flop to might be all my idea, and maybe I am fatuously happy because the gents came through with our printing bill and since I didn't pay to get in anyway. But I felt that the meet was a success in a SPIRITUAL SENSE.

To the observer who lives at number Now Norta Here street, to plagiarize Edna St. Vincent Millay, the meet was a failure. . . Negroes won't support their own. There were more white people present than colored . . .the field, itself, was contemptible beside the well-curried surface of the Coliseum. . . dignified officials like Dean Cromwell, Ralph Metcalfe, Brice Taylor, Jimmy LuValle, had to place and remove hurdles, chart the course, even rake the broadjump pit behind the jumpers.

But in my spiritual sense all this assumes its proper perspective. So many people united that it could be done, progressed almost to a word the very things that happened . . . But there was THE MEET in the shabby White Sox Park . . . recognized by the social climbing A. A. U. . . Metcalfe and the like on the field and celebs in the boxes with more prizes and medals than there were athletes . . and next year, if the errors of this year are remembered and remedied, the second annual Eastside track and field meet should be as great Greater, possibly the GREATEST of the "community Olympic games."

Now having been quite Pollyannish, I will point out some of the contributing causes to the financial flop of the meet, made by the fat and now Mr. Castillo and the very nice Mr. Hartford.

It was July 25 when all this happened, and track and field is hibernating on the West Coast by June 21. And on the field there was a group of untrained, probably over-worked youths, pluckily performing for sweet charity, many of whom might have done themselves a mighty strenuous activity in the exhibition.

I sat in the bleachers among a group of boys who declined to participate. Clem Hicks, Leonard Spencer, etc. Foolishly I persuaded little Jimmie Lawson, 880 ace of Compton jaysee, to run, even to borrowing shoes and trunks from a non-combatant. Lawson went out and reeled off the half mile in something over two minutes, annexed his gold medal and merchandise order from the giver of gifts, Bill Schroeder of the Helms Athletic Foundation, then came back to the stands, admittedly feeling a bit woozy in the head and chest.

I haven't heard of any serious consequences to this, but I realize now what an awful chance the youth took.

Organization is what is needed if the meet is to be success next year. In fact if promotional sports on the Eastside are to amount to anything at all, there should be some organization of interested persons. None should be more interested than Olympic and world champion high jumper Corny Johnson, who told Hartford that he wants to aid the promoter next year.

A working organization could get together enough money to condition White Sox Park. The track was about as fast as the sand-lot you played baseball on as a kid. I am dubious about the distance Mack Robinson ran to win the quartermile. He ran one and a half times around the track, a distance that, to the eye, seemed a bit lengthy. The runners lost considerable time on the curves that were almost as sharp as the corners of a square. Jackie Robinson, Mack's younger brother, won the broadjump at something over 22 feet. If he jumped any farther, he probably would have broken his leg, the pit seeming to only reach that far.

Whoever laid out the 100 yard dash straightaway had an excellent idea, however. It was placed across the field proper, so that the runners faced the grandstands. It was thrilling to watch Mack's powerful stride as he came hurtling down the stretch almost into one's face. He was the strong man of the evening, winning the 100, 220, 440, and taking third in the broadjump.

Before closing, a word has to be said for the splendid performance of Seward Mounday, former Compton ace, now running for the University of Idaho. Mounday, absolutely out of shape paced McNabb of Occidental in the mile and almost took the race from the white boy.

Another very fine sport was James O'Neil, one-time Jefferson and U. C. L. A. star. Big James, the brunt of the spectators' "funning", ran the 100, put the shot, took a turn about at the broadjump and capped it all with the 880 yard run, (that was a "killer") in which he placed third, (there were three runners) and got his Gold Furniture company merchandise order.

Louis Asks U. S. Ambassador to Protest Films in Germany

DETROIT, Aug. 4. (ANP)—Hugh Wilson, United States ambassador to Germany was cabled Tuesday by John Roxborough, co-manager of Joe Louis heavyweight boxing champion, and asked to protest the showing in Germany there of a "patched up" motion picture version of the Louis-Schmeling fight.

Roxborough's cable read:

"According to information and reports received concerning showing of Schmeling-Louis fight pictures in Germany, I wish to inform you they are not true pictures taken of the fight in Yankee Stadium, New York, June 22, 1938. They have been deleted, cut, and combined with pictures of first Schmeling Louis fight to the advantage of Schmeling.

"They do not show any of the left hooks landed by Louis to the stomach, nor the head punishment he dealt Max in the first round of fighting. They do not show Max crumpled, helpless over the ropes, before a so called "illegal" punch. The don't show any of the three knockdowns scored by Louis' clean right hand punches to the head, nor the helpless condition of Schmeling after the first solid left hook to the head landed in the opening exchange.

"The pictures don't show Max deliberately turning his body to avoid stomach punches and thus leaving himself open to the perfect punch which Schmeling now claims was illegal. He entered no protest while in the ring, despite what his version of pictures show.

"Out of the same spirit of fair play and good sportsmanship which Joe Louis always has shown in the ring, I am sending you this cable asking you the protest against the showing of the film. The good boxing fans of Germany are entitled to know the truth."

N. Y. Vacates John Henry Lewis' Title

NEW YORK, Aug. 4. (ANP)—Although John Henry Lewis is scheduled to defend his light heavyweight title this month against Al Gainer in Pittsburgh, and Gainer holds a recent decision over Tiger Jack Fox, the New York State athletic commission vacated Lewis' title Wednesday because the champion would not fight Fox, ranked in this state as the No. 1 challenger. In their only meeting thus far, John Henry kayoed Fox.

The state commission plans to conduct an elimination tournament between Fox, Gainer and two white fighters, and recognize the survivor as champion. Mike Jacobs will probably arrange the matches.

Lewis has long complained of prejudice against him and his inability to get well-paying fights because he refuses to "sell his soul" to Mike Jacobs, czar of boxing. What would have been his biggest earning to date failed to materialize when Tony Galento, whom he was scheduled to battle last Tuesday night, became ill with pneumonia.

NBA Won't Recognize Lewis Dethroning; Champ May Sue N. Y.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4. (ANP)—Chairman John Phelan and the New York State athletic commission drew the ridicule Thursday of Edward C. Foster, executive secretary of the National Boxing Association, for dethroning John Henry Lewis, as light-heavyweight champion in the state.

"Lewis rightfully retains his title, he declared. "Why, only three months ago he successfully defended his crown against Emilo Martinez in Minneapolis. This is another of Phelan's mistakes.

It was learned in Pittsburgh that Gus Greenlee, Lewis' manager has instructed his attorney to file suit in federal court for $300,000 against the New York commission for depriving the champion of his title.

Hank Bears Down for 3rd Title Go

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Promoter Mike Jacobs insisted this week that the Lou Ambers-Henry Armstrong lightweight title bout will be held August 10, which is next Wednesday night. Reports that Jacobs would ask the New York state athletic commission to change the date because of conflicting sport events scheduled for August 10, were denied.

Ambers is at his training camp at Summit, N. J. He told reporters that he had no plan of battle, but he thought he might use a left hook to bring Armstrong out of his crouch and then flatten Hustlin' Henry with body and head blows.

Armstrong, at his Pompton Lakes, traing camp, bore down in earnest last Saturday, entering the last lap of training. The double champion is expected to enter the ring at 133 pounds, which is his best fighting weight.

Plan Charity Grid in Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 4., (ANP)—What is described as a "charity football game between the Chicago Bears, champions of the Western Division of the National Professional league, and a team of Negro stars selected by popular vote" has been scheduled for Sept. 23, at Soldier's field, it was announced last week.

Proceeds will be distributed between three Chicago charities, Lincoln centre, Hull House and Chicago United Charities. Those elected to the team will be brought to Chicago two weeks before the game, have all expenses paid and will receive $100 each for playing, the sponsors announced.

Colored players will include those from Negro colleges as well as gridsters from mixed institutions such as Don and Ozzie Simmons of Iowa. Voting is expected to follow the general pattern laid won by the Chicago Tribune in the annual all-star charity game held at Soldier's field in August. The squad will consist of 30 players and will be coached by E. P. Hurt of Morgan college who has not lost a game in six years.

Q. Tony Galento, who goes in for belittling Joe Louis, recently bursted in his saloon that the N----- didn't live who could stand ten rounds before him. Does his record bear out such a remark? Luke Nelson, Newark, N. J.

A. Galento, throwback of J. L. Sullivan's bare fist days, of guilty of uttering the alleged remark, has a very short memory. Fans the country over known that 2-years back of the Louis-Schmeling fiasco Al Gainer, colored lightheavy, spotted the husky Italian 45 pounds weight difference . . . AND THEN GAINER KNOCKED HIM OUT.

Johnson Leads U. S. Team to Win

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug 4.—Ben Johnson, Negro star and Ray Mallott of Stanford and the Olympic Club led a team of United States track and field athletes to victory here at the opening of the three day international meet this week with athletes from all over Europe. The Americans took five of the seven events.

Johnson won the 100 meters in 10.4, beating his nearest competitor, Stenquiest of Sweden, by three-tenths of a second. Mallott set a Swedish record for 400 meters in defeating Baumgarten of the Netherlands in 0: 47.8.

To Limit Players in Tennis Tourney

Players in the Pacific Coast Tennis Tournament at Griffith Park September 3, 4, and Labor Day will be limited to two events of the possible three unless they sign an agreement, showing their willingness to play successive matches.

This conclusion, suggested by Mrs. Josephine Brown, field secretary of the American Tennis association, sanctioning the tournament, was reached at a recent meeting of the Western Federation of Tennis clubs, of which Clarence Mills of Pasadena is sponsor.

Possible events a player may enter are: singles, doubles, and mixed doubles.

BRAY DROPS CROWELL FOR NINE-COUNT, LOSES HAIR-LINE VERDICT

By J. CULLEN FENTRESS

Big Boy Bray and Chuck Crowell fought to a standstill Tuesday night at the Olympic auditorium in a 10-round fistic duel that had the customers standing on their heads. Bray, a coming heavyweight if there ever was one, had to be content to see Referee George Blake raise the tired mitt of Crowell in token of victory after ten of the most thrilling rounds cooked up by big fellows for local fight-bugs in many, many moons.

It was a hair-line decision. No one would have been peeved if it had been called a draw.

Bray fought a heady fight. Starting slowly, he was content to let Chuck take his best shots in the early rounds. The second round found Crowell trying for a kayo, tiring himself out as he did so.

Evening up the milling, Bray caught the lanky Chuck with a right to the jaw in the seventh canto. Chuck sashayed over to the ropes, apparently looking for a place to fall. As he fell, his arms draped over the top strands and he sank slowly to the canvas. Blake reached nine before the long lad from Artesia could rise.

Crowell came back in the eighth and took the play away from the Big Boy who seemed to lack power to stow Chuck away. Bray took the ninth and Crowell had a shade in the tenth.

Chuck used a long left to effectively hold Bray off, all the while throwing a long right to the body. Bray had all the better of the infighting and with the exception of combating the Crowell left, used as a measuring rod, outmaneuvered his conqueror.

Hank Mobley punched out an easy four-round decision over Soldier Eddie Aune, dropping his foe for nine in the second: Odell Polee had little trouble with Hugh Glass, TKO-ing his opponent in the third: "Silent" Joe Hill kayoed Lee Terrill in the first; George Leech outboxed Johnny Stein, and Jack Wofford took Charley Johnson.

An electric flatiron has been invented that contains a reservoir for water, which issues in the form of steam from the point of the device to dampen clothes being pressed.

Brazil has restricted the use of the word "silk" and its compounds to designate yarns, fabrics and articles made from products and byproducts obtained from silkworm cocoons.

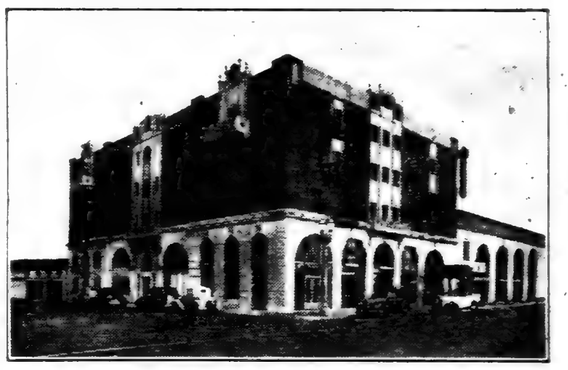
Golfers Tee Off Sunday in Quest of Amateur Crown

A brilliant array of golfers will tea off Sunday morning at the Municipal course at Pasadena in quest of the Los Angeles amateur championship, a competition sponsored by the California Eagle.

The tournament promises to be one of the most keenly contested match-play events of the season. In the first place the championship class will consist only of eight players, the smallest number yet to form a division. In order to qualify for this class the players must negotiate the first 18 holes in smart figures.

Prize sand trophies will be placed on exhibit at the West Coast Golf association headquarters, 4302 Central avenue, Warren Vinston, tournament chairman, this week announced that players may register with Monroe Boykin at the golfers' headquarters. Registration and $1.00 entry fee will be acepted at the tee. Players must be on the green at 8 a. m.

Crouch to Box at Olympic Tuesday



A double wind-up features next Tuesday's card at the Olympic auditorium. The top ten-round features Georgie Crouch, classy lightweight, against Tony Milo, and Babe Brandelli is pitted against Wally Hally in the second ten.

Crouch, admittedly the best of the local lightweights, slashed out a convincing win over Brandelli his last time out.

A thrill-packed supporting card is promised by Matchmaker Joe Waterman.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Spirit" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist. Paul's words to the Ephesians, "The fruit of the Spirit is in all goodness and righteousness and truth," are the Golden Text.

Among the Bible citations in the Lesson-Sermon are these verses from Paul's letter to the Galatians: "For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary the one to the other: so that ye cannot do the things that ye would. But if ye be led of the Spirit, ye are not under the law"; and the Lesson-Sermon includes also these words of Jesus, from John: "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, presents the statements: "Rise in the strength of Spirit to resist all that is unlike good. God has made man capable of this, and nothing can vitiate the ability and power divinely bestowed on man."

This afternoon (Thursday), from 3 to 4 o'clock, Rev. Clayton D. Russell, will deliver a special message to women only in the main auditorium of People's Independent Church of Christ, 18th and Paloma.

All women throughout the city are invited to be present to hear the popular young minister deliver an address that will be of unusual interest to them. The service will last for only one hour.

Ervin, president of Jarvis Christian College, Hawkins, Texas, will be ordained at the Birch street Christian Church, 1401 East 14th street Sunday afternoon at 3:30. MINISTER'S MORNING SUBJECT:—"Meeting The World's Need—Service."

Chatter and . . . Some News

By HELEN F. CHAPPELL

Friday afternoon was as amusing as it was disappointing . . . as revealing as a Chinese crossword puzzle . . . it brought to mind the question the late Will Rogers had his spirit character of George Washington ask on a visit to highly civilized twentieth century America after he had seen so many bath-tubs: "What got 'em so dirty!" . . . We want to know about this business of dissolutions and agreements, ad infinitum . . . that turned the much heralded convention of the UNITED California Federation of Colored Women's Clubs into a heckling stew that petered out in a loud hush . . . Satisfactory to no one . . . "What got 'em so bungled". Probably the progress of the organization.

There were some life savers in the uncomfortable situation: Mrs. Eliza Warner, who called all the diplomacy and sweetness in her to the fore and listened graciously to all sides without carrying the battle into any camp; the very fine spirit of the junior organization whose one-day session culminated in a grand program and reception under the leadership of Vassie Reese and Vivian Osborne-Marsh and the hospitality extended to all guests.

STORY FROM THE ALABAM:

Bill Robinson, guest star on the American Legion at the Club Alabam Sunday night, stole a march on one of his artist guests, pretty Jeni LeGon of stage and screen note . . . It was requested that Maxine Sullivan and Miss LeGon render a song and dance respectively . . . whereupon the latter waxed a little on the dismayed side . . . for she was wearing shoes with high heels in which she cannot dance and was certain that she could not oblige. However, when Miss LeGon was announced, "Bojangles" calmly presented her own dancing shoes . . . and the show went on. Bill came by them through the courtesy of radio officers Arnold Towns and Benny Ayres who rushed to Jeni's home at 1:30 in the morning, aroused her mother with flashlights and imposing uniforms . . . and obtained the petite dancer's shoes. Bill's other guests were Ivie Anderson, Louise Beavers, the Willie Covans and Harvey Brookses . . . His lovely wife shared the honors.

Earlier Sunday it was enjoyable to meet and spend a goodly number of minutes chatting with Adolphus Trailor, medical student at Meharry in Nashville, Tenn., and glow over mutual friends . . . and the attendant joys of sitting at the feet of Negro professors who "know their stuff". After church, there was an afternoon to spend at the bedside of J. D. Crawford who has miraculously recovered from a siege of double pneumonia . . . and is being spoiled by the lovely women of the Crawford household, mother, pretty sister Charley May, aunt and all the family friends. J. D. promises to wear an overcoat from now on . . . to come home early nights . . . and is quite anxious that all his friends do the same. "Thing I used to do . . . " . . . Seriously, it was good to see a happy-go-lucky person with laughter in his eyes again and to hear all the plans . . . even out of sickness, there comes some good.

Mrs. Lizzie Forsythe is dangerously ill from injuries received in an auto accident . . . we hope she pulls through . . . She's the mother of Marion, postal clerk, and Harold Forsythe, musician of much note.

There seems to be a rain and reign of them . . . June evidently stands much danger of being usurped of its romantic reputation by mid-summer and early twilights . . . Jessie Mae Nickerson is flashing one of the most beautiful ones I've seen . . . received Tuesday from Houston Pillow . . . no date for the minister's words has been set, but it'll probably be "sometime soon" . . . both are Golden State employes. Another Golden State romance will be climaxed on August 15 when Inez Johnson's diamond will be supplied with its companion band of gold by Cecil Davis . . . here's luck to them . . . Theo Hampton and Howard Washington have found a house on Forty-first between McKinley and Avalon . . . and can hardly wait until September. Monday evening, Mrs. Mable Massengale and Lorenzo Jordan Cole are showering Grace Fisher in the Massengale garden at 2033 East 120th street . . . Grace will be Mrs. after August 28.

Lone Wolf gossip via Wallace Smith (keeping myself in the clear) has it that Ben McJones has been so completely "bowled over" by Alma Ferguson, visiting Atlanta teacher, that it's almost a certainty he's convinced her that Atlanta's not the place for her . . . and that McJones added to Ferguson isn't a bad bet . . . Be seeing you, Ben.

For the week-end: There's a dance of some kind to help get Wendell Green off to the World Youth Conference . . . at the 28th St. Y Saturday evening . . . He's scheduled to leave for Vassar college around the 14th . . . Saturday night will also find the Doll league Cabrillo beach bound for a weiner bake . . . and Sunday night the Ross Snyder Tennis club dancing at the Camille Den from eight to 12:30. Sunday afternoon, the Whit-Delphi Married Ladies' club will present artists whose names make news at their popularity tea: Clarence Muse, Ruby Elzy, Marguerite Chapman . . . Mrs. C. A. Bass will be the speaker of the afternoon The tea will be at 4216 North Commonwealth from three to seven . . . You are invited!

MISS MARYNETTA H. WILSON, pretty daughter of Mrs. Emaline Bordreaux and a graduate of Oakland Technical High school, who will be married to Lewis McKenzie in late August.

dull Hull, U. S. Secretary of State, and a delay of three months, that Bunch was allowed to procede.

Once in South Africa, however, he was quick to begin study of native life and habits—prime object of the world-trek. He revealed that segregation and discrimination there is worse than in the depths of Mississippi or Alabama. Natives are not allowed to live in cities and a movement is on foot to remove the "colored". He explained that a division, similar to the Creole-Black one in New Orleans, exists in South Africa: the colored non-indigents to the Dominion and until recently possessing a franchise, ad the natives, given to political or economic consideration whatsoever. The famed Howard instructor expressed the opinion, though, that the "colored", because they are so greatly out-numbered by the whites on one hand, and the natives on the other, would destroy themselves ultimately if they continue the present "superiority" policy. He noted that a feeling of unity was coming about between the multitudinous African tribes, and that this development would end finally in some sort of determined contest between government and nationalists.

Pointing out that African mines and other industries are worthless without native labor, Dr. Bunch outlined the method through which White South Africa has sought to force natives into labor. He stated that, contrary to general belief, "the native of South Africa was a peasant class, owning and operating traditional farm-land. With the means of sustance in his own possession, then it was a difficult job to attract him to starvation wages in gold and diamond works. Hence, the government simply took away ancient land of the natives and gave it to whites—instituted the notorious taxation system." This is taxation not to raise revenue, but to force natives into work for white men, since it is payable only in silver. The tribesman, although he possesses sufficient land and goods to feed and clothe himself, must work away from the land in order to pay silver taxes. The penalty for non-payment, by the way, is a jail sentence.

Despite the disadvantages of non-existent political and economic power, Dr. Bunch noted rapid progress among natives.

You students of history return to your books and discover just how many civic employes outside the realm of porter and janitor were appointed from the group prior to the Shaw administration. Today we have an acting police captain, a head of the juvenile department, radio officers, a policewoman, jail stenographer and several detectives and patrolmen. Likewise in the Fire Department. Usually when Mayor Shaw has been approached to give Negroes their just share of the city's governmental employment, he has responded generously. Let us not forget the lean days of Snyder, Cryer and Porter, from whom a Negro appointment was as rare as a blizzard in the midst of a mid-summer heat-wave.

Paul Williamses Fete Nolle Smith at Bon Voyage Party

By GEORGE GARNER

Hawaii and Honolulu called . . . to islander Nolle R. Smith . . . and to assuage him until the liner "Matsonia" docked at Wilmington . . . came forward inimitable host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Williams . . . to fete with a bon voyage party of the sort that dreams are made . . . a Polynesian party with all the langourous sensuousness of the paradise of the Pacific . . . of nights aglow with the almost painful beauty of tropical moonlight . . . playing, as it does upon the oily motion of the water . . . of glistening silvery beach . . . and then came strolling Hawaiian players at the Williamses' party to conjure up more mental pictures . . . of such days as the "Lotus Eaters" must have enjoyed . . . an abundance, there was, of native delicacies and viands, to make one think of similar dishes with which Polynesian "children of the sun" have gourmandized at native feasts . . . all in all, it was just as prediction gave it to you last week . . . the Williamses, as ever given over to entertaining in a manner at once lavish, and yet colored with that necessary insinuation of cultured restraint, spared nothing for this, their latest social triumph . . . Among the top-flight Southlanders present were Messieurs et Mesdames:

LES EXCLUSIVE FEMMES FROLICK AT WEINER BAKE

In search of relief from the heat, members and friends of Les Exclusive Femmes, well known girls' club, frolicked at a weiner bake Monday night on the sands of Castle Rock Beach.

Wading in the surf, with a venturesome few breasting the waves, roasting weiners and conversation occupied the hours until well past midnight. There were approximately 50 persons present.

Recognized in the glow of the fire by an Eagle reporter were members and guests, Connie Robinson, president of the club, Max-

Estelle Sherwood, 1164½ East 52 Street. Guests included Mesdames Louise Hill, Hazel Whittaker, Sarah Wallace, Lorenzo J. A delightful luncheon was followed with prizes going to Mrs. Clarke and Mrs. Hill. Many lovely gifts were received, including one from Spokane, Washington, sent by Miss Helen Dundee.

Wade, who is represented by Atty. Walter L. Gordon, jr., is accused by the District Attorney of having shot Culpepper three times in the back. He escaped death despite the serious nature of the wounds. The altercation is said to have developed over Culpepper's attempted beating of Miss Estelle Walton, 1203½ E. 20th street, in which Wade interfered. Culpepper and the Walton woman were former sweethearts.

POLITICAL POTPIE

By IRA

It won't be long now. The campaign (if such it can be called) for places on the several party tickets will pass into history and leave in its wake many sadder but wiser men and women. Many who could see themselves counting sheckels raked in for service rendered the Dear People, will busy themselves trying to figure out how so many liars could congregate in such a small space as California. They have always been here, always will.

Albert Williams pulled a fast one for his candidate, Spurgeon Jones, when he jockeyed him before a great congregation at the Second Baptist Church last Sunday. Young Jones ably presented his case as a legislative candidate on the Republican ticket.

The candidate who wants and will appreciate colored votes will ask for such support through the columns of Negro publications. Scan the columns carefully and use your own judgement.

Speak up Mr. Fred Roberts—

This I believe is the second trip you have made to Chicago within the past few months . . . What are you Big Wig Republicans "cooking up" in the Windy City. If you don't let us eat something now, we may not be able to digest it later.

H. R. Collins says he is out to lick the hide off Judge Rubin Schmidt for the Judge seat in Department 3 of the Superior Court.

Say what you will or may, Bob Strather and Emery Crane are really making it known that Wm. Gibbs McAdoo is in the race for U. S. Senator to win. Their avenue headquarters is a busy place and always filled with information seekers and enthusiastic workers.

Clarence Muse is too busy directing a gigantic theatrical production to fiddle in politics. He remains a Democrat,--though not averse to eating Republican chicken.

Gus Hawkins is unopposed in his party ticket. Leaders in the Hawkins camp say that "Sid" Dones, foxy realtor on the Progressive ticket, is the only obstacle to overcome to keep him from going over in the primaries. Gus is also on the Progressive ticket. It is said that many voters changed registration in order to give Sid a vote. The count will tell, despite the attractive odds of 3 to 1 on Hawkins.

Handbills will be passed out at a meeting from here on in asking Judical candidates why Negroes are not called on Grand Juries. Sol Kline, candidate for office No. 1 declares from the plaform that, if he's elected, this rank discrimination will cease.

Gilbert Banks, Mrs. Terry, Roscoe Howard and Charlie Beckman are really laying down a foundation for Candidate Olson in the gubernatorial fight. They have live headquarters at 43rd and Central.

Atty Herbert A. Greenwood, State Liquor Control office, is the best campaigner Bill Bonelli's got. Herb, a popular Democrat, draws from all groups and is considered one of the best middle-of-the-roaders in the field. His thrilling speech before a crowd of 200 at the Marine Stadium at the Murphy-for-Governor meeting was a steal for Bill Bonelli.

Brothers and sisters, when Gabriel toots his horn to rally all humans in Grande Finalle, they'll still be peddling the bull as in days of yore.

Despite the nearness of the final march to the polls, the Republicans are marking time. No blare of trumpets or clang of symbols announce their presence in the 62nd district (the key spot of the state), and to a man up a tree it appears like they just don't give a d--- about the votes of those who inhabit this particular area. No headquarters have been opened as yet and meetings are practically unknown. Even Wm. D. Campbell and Fred Roberts, candidates for Congress, are conspicuous by their absence. The County Central Committee is hitting on all cylinders and we just can't understand the why-o of it.

Fred C. Williams, mayor of the Eastside, and big-league newspaperman, says the Pie-mixer put in the wrong dope when we said last week he was to open up for Dockweiler. We stand corrected. Fred.

Laurence LaMar, newspaperman and law student, Loren Miller, lawyer and newspaperman, are candidates on the Democratic ticket for places on the Central Committee. We wish 'em luck, both are fine boys.

Where is—

Dr. H. Claude Hudson, Lloyd Griffith, Dr. Eva Young, and several other Republican militants? We miss 'em sorely, especially at this time when they are so badly needed. What's the holdback?

Those who want your vote will tell you so through the columns of your newspaper.

You may not know it, but John R. Quinn is a candidate to succeed himself. Just discovered his candidacy one day this week. John R. is well and favorably known among the group and we're surprised not to see his name in the ad columns of Negro publications.

Sheriff Murphy, Democratic gubernatorial candidate was the victim of a gigantic meeting in his honor one evening last week. Amos Black and his organization of youngsters sponsored the gathering. Candidate Murphy was well received.

Hatfield seems to have an edge on the Republican nomination for Governor. He's a fine fellow and promises a new deal for the group if successful.

Governor Merriam's supporters report no gains in his fight for re-nomination. Broken promises with the race are a sore thumb at every turn of the road.

Where is that two-masted schooner Tommy Miles? We've searched high and low and he's the lone candidate absent from the baby kissing line. Has he surrendered in favor of Spurgeon Jones?

The search for a big, he man with sufficient gutts to face Shaw in the recall has utterly failed. Several unknowns have announced intentions to file.

Bouquets are being pinned on the 62nd District Republican County Central Committee. The work of Chas. Alston, Wood Wilson and Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass is meeting with popular approval and they'll be retained in office.

Mrs. Charlotte Perry, well known in newspaper circles, has been selected to put forward the campaign among her sex for Congressman Dockweiler, Democratic candidate for governor.

That write-in campaign for A. Hartley Jones for Assemblyman 62nd District, Republican ticket seems to be well under way and is backed by many influential members of the party.

Our time honored friend, Mr. Stafford, one of the men who placed the Los Angeles Forum on the map, is noticed ducking in and out about the street, but insists upon asking instead of answering questions pertaining to politics. Has he quit the game? Who knows?

You persist in giving my candidate the short end in the Pie, but here's tickets for all of the Iras, old and young to see "Run Little Chillun." Thanks a million, we'll go, but the fires will continue to be hot as ever!

Quinn Campaign for Assessor in Full Swing

The wide importance and effect of having the right man in the County Assessor's office is one of the real problems to be solved by the voters in the 1938 elections.

Friends of John R. Quinn, incumbent assessor, point to the facts that he is a man of great experience, a deep knowledge of the office, and its details and a proved executive of many years during which he has become noted for his many humanitarian ideas and his absolute fairness in all things.

Large volunteer organizations are now being formed to take the name of John R. Quinn into every home in the County so that he may be returned to his office by the largest vote ever cast for any candidate.

At the start of the intensive campaign to retain Assessor Quinn in his office, 100,000 voters of Los Angeles County have already signified their intentions of supporting him and many of them have volunteered their services for work during the campaign, acording to the Quinn headquarters in Los Angeles.

Six district headquarters have opened and others will follow in various parts of the county as quickly as final arrangements can be made.

"Retain-Quinn" clubs are being organized and are having regular meetings which are addressed by members of the Quinn Speakers Bureau composed of some of the most prominent business and professional men of the County.

"From the reports I am receiving from my many good friends over the county it seems reasonable for me to predict my election in the primary on August 30thm," said Assessor John R. Quinn. "I would be very happy if I were able to say, when this election is over, that my volunteer organization in this race was the largest ever had by any man running for a County office, and present reports indicate that this is exactly what is happening."

Political Study Club Has Summer Tea

The Booker T. Washington Unit of the Women's Political Study Clubs held its annual Summer Tea on Sunday afternoon, July 24 at the home of Mrs. Lenetta Scott 3015 Boulder Street.

Many people called during the afternoon and a continuous program furnished entertainment for the guests, the program including musical numbers by Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Collier, Mrs. Hallie Poe, Mrs. B. Bruce, and Mr. Elihu Sloan and a talk by L. G. Robinson. The exectuive secretary, Mrs. Betty Hill, presided as Mistress of Ceremonies and introduced various candidates for office. Candidate-Speakers included Lieut. Governor Hatfield, Professor Stockton, Dr. Sullivan and James Rolph III.

Mrs. Beulah Bruce, Chairman of the Program Committee was in charge of the program. Mrs. Ethel Reeves acted as registrar. Mesdames Lena Scott and Carrie Brown (President of the unit) received the guests. The affair the most successful ever given by Booker T. Washington Unit, was another triumph for the energetic Chairman of Ways and Means, Mrs. Della Bell.

Boddy Okays Warren for Atty.-General

The Non Partisan Committee, directing the candidacy of Earl Warren for Attorney General on the Democratic, Progressive and Republican tickets, announced today that Manchester Boddy, editor and publisher of the two leading Democratic newspapers in California, had endorsed Warren for election in the Primary of August 30th.

Boddy's endorsement to the Committee stated: "Earl Warren is a man of experience, ability, and integrity of purpose, and, if elected will make an outstanding Attorney General". A statement by Grant B. Cooper, the Non Partisan Committee's Coordinator, outlining the exceptionl ability and qualifications of Warren, which brought national recognition from Federal Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, was ordered released by the Committee. Cooper, an attorney, is active in the Young Democratic Clubs of California, and is organizing the Earl Warren Young Voters of the Los Angeles area.

FREDERICK M. ROBERTS AT G. O. P. CONFAB

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 4.—Delegates summoned here by Chairman Glenn L. Frank to draft far reaching Republican party program immediately plunged into the business of working out a suitable plan of "strategy" that is aiming to shunt the New Deal into discard. Frederick M. Roberts, former member and dean of the California State Assembly is a delegate in attendance at the confab held here. Mr. Roberts, seeking the Republican nomination for the seat in Congress from the 14th district in Los Angeles, is believed to be the lone Negro delegate from the Pacific Coast.

Groups Get Behind G. V. Bennett

DR. G. VERNON BENNETT

Dr. G. Vernon Bennett, at present a Los Angeles city councilman from the 10th district, is receiving the united support of the Negro voters in his campaign for state Superintendent of Public Instruction. Bennett, who is serving his second term in the city council of Los Angeles, has proven his friendship for the Negroes in a practical way. He introduced into the city council a measure to increase janitors' salaries $5.00 per month, and on every occasion fought for equal financial compensation.

Bennett's supporters point out that he is the most emeinently qualified candidate for the post of State Superintendent of Public Instruction, having had years of experience as a public school teacher, principal, and superintendent as well as fourteen years experience as a professor of education, vocational training, U. S. Constitutional history, and other subjects on the campuses of four of California's universities. Bennett was ten years on the campus of U. S. C. prior to his election to the ctiy council.

"The Negro people should be vitally interested in my campaign," Bennett said in a recent public statement. "There is a strong movement among certain backward groups to segregate Negro education as done in the old South. I am unalterably opposed to this, and as State Superindent of Public Instruction I will prevent such an un-American scheme from proceeding."

W. D. Campbell Addresses Statement to 14th District

W. D. CAMPBELL

To the Citizens of the 14th Congressional District:

As you know, I am again a candidate for Congress on the Republican ticket. I have been your nominee and carried the fight in our Congressional district over the past few years against great odds. During this time I have made literally thousands of speeches and met many thousands of the voters in the 14th Congressional district. From these meetings and happy associations I have made thousands of friends, attested by the generous and loyal support I have received from them, and by their continued personal interest. They are convinced of my sincerity and honesty, satisfied with my abilities, and know that my intentions are to carry out with every resource at my command the assurance that I have given as to my political belief and desires to represent all of the people and be their friend in Congres.

My entire life, from a boy on the farm through the hardships of earning my way through colleges and universities, two years in the army, and my contacts with all walks of life, have given me a sympathetic understanding and sensitiveness to the human needs of the millions. It is my hope that all of my friends and those who have supported me, directly or indirectly through their faith in me, will again stand by me this year and do all they can to assure me my nomination at the August 30th primary, and my final election on November 8th.

General headquarters have been opened at 453 South Spring Street, room 1032. MIchigan 1311. I will be working throughout the district during the next few weeks filling speaking engagements and meeting as many people personally as possible, and I hope to have the opportunity of seeing all my friends and supporters at the earliest possible time.

Literature setting forth my platform will hereafter be widely distributed, and I trust that it will be received with the approval it has met within the past.

We have had 9 years of the depression, 5½ of it under the "New Deal". We had 10 or 11 millions unemployed in 1933; we have approximately 15 millions unemployed today, and approximately 40 millions or 1-3 of our people, directly or indirectly are receiving aid from the government of the United States. I know that every man and woman in this country able to earn a living desires honest work at fair wages rather than a starvation dole, or work under the politically corrupt W. P. A. or other Federal agency control.

Unemployment must be absorbed by industry and agriculture. It will be my effort in Congress to help bring about fair encouragement, with proper regulation for business and industry, giving it a chance to expand and employ more people. I will fight to protect the right of labor to organize and bargain collectively, and for equal protection and responsibilities for labor and captial, with government (the people) an impartial third party, a suitable government policy substituting the conference table, cooperation and understanding for industrial strife, thereby stabilizing industrial peace and employment for all.

I believe in shorter working hours and days, spreading employment to adjust conditions resulting from machines and inventions. I believe in a floor for wages and a ceiling for hours, protection for women and children and elimination of sweatshops and child labor; economic security for all our people; ample unemployment insurance and old age pensions.

I am opposed to the curtailment of production and the destruction food and property while millions are hungry and believe in the economics of plenty as opposed to the New Deal Economics of scarcity which is resulting in fewer goods at higher prices.

I will fight for equality of rights and opportunity of all citizens; protection of all minority groups regardless of race or creed, and protection of their economic status and personal safety, and for the stamping out of lynchings and other lawlessness by effective laws, instead of using it as a political football.

Other issues will be discussed in speeches and through the press Will those who wish to help call or see me when convenient? We are going to eliminate rubber stamps and restore fundamental representative American government!

Candidate for Superior Judge Practices 38 Years

H. R. Collins, the candidate for Superior Court Judge, Office No. 3 at the August Primary, has been actively engaged in the practice of law for more than thirty-eight years.

For more than twenty years he was associated with his father, who was engaged in the practice of law for approximately sixty-five years.

A native of Iowa, Mr. Collins came to California and was admitted to the Bar at Los Angeles in 1923.

His charities in practice have been directed primarily in cooperation with juvenile courts in the defense and rehabiliatation of the little ones appearing in thes courts.

Otherwise he engaged in the general practice of law in the State and Federal courts.

He and Mrs. Collins are proud of their five children, graduates of the schools and colleges of California who are becoming active in the business and civic life of the county and state.

At various times Candidate Collins has served as Master in Chancery, and he has become well acquainted with the procedure and practice of law that he is eminently fitted for the office of Judge of the Superior Court.

H. R. COLLINS

Record Registration is Indicated as Books Closed for Primary

With registration now closed for the August 30 primary, the figures indicate California will turn out the largest vote in State history if all those qualified vote. Which is the paradoxical thing about democracies.

Under a dictator where votes seldom change anything, nearly everybody votes. Under a democracy where votes count, far from the mapority votes. And if we fail to keep our registration in order, we don't have any vote at all! Which is worse.

But politics has ever had its paradoxes. California's current political season is no exception. Here we have the latest statewide check-up of polls showing Dr. Walter Scott Franklin of Santa Barbara leading his four Northern rivals for the office of lieutenant governor, not only in the South—which was to be expected—but throughout the North as well!

The courts also have interjected a paradox of their own with their decision in California last week that a person whose 21st birthday is on August 31 may vote on August 30. One's legal birthday arrives a full 24 hours before the natal day—that's the legal ruling. While politics rule the waves, paradoxes will waive the rules! (contributed).

WITHDRAWS

Looking forward to continue his campaign, Ivan Austin, above, withdrew this week from the race for assemblyman from the 62nd district. Austin a former radio teachnician, was running on all three tickets.

Jones Goes Over at Second Baptist

Candidate for the Republican Assembly nomination in the 62nd district, Spurgeon C. Jones filled a sensational appearance Sunday at the Second Baptist church. The young business man, it is said, revealed veteran political strategy in coming before the great Second Baptist congregation. His address was well-received.

Jones' publicity managers claim this week that their candidate "is fulfilling campaign promises before election". It's said that the Eastside Eastern Store manager has already instituted his 50-50 plan on the avenue. The 50-50 plan proposes that all businesses in the community hire one Negro for every caucasian employed.

JOHN BEARDSLEY
Seeks Superior Court Office

Candidacy of Beardsley Gains Favor

JOHN BEARDSLEY, candidate for Superior Court Judge, Office No. 21, recently was termed by a fellow lawyer "the best composite of legal ability and civil liberties standards that we have in the law profession."

A consistent protector of personal rights before the bar of justice, Beardsley has long been recognized as an outstanding authority on Constitutional Law, particularly with reference to the Bill of Rights. A native of Iowa, where he graduated from the State University, he has practiced law continuously in Los Angeles for the last 29 years.

John Beardsley's most recent contribution to the cause of people's rights has been his protection of the merit system with regard to city employees during three years' service as deputy to Los Angeles City Attorney Ray L. Chesebro. The committee sponsoring his candidacy points to Beardsley's eminent qualification to serve on the bench through his experience many times as judge pro tem of the Superior Court.

Augustus Hawkins Opens Campaign for Assembly

While friends and supporters in all political parties rallied to his support, Assemblyman Agustus F. Hawkins this week formally launched his campaign for re-election in the sixty second district in a statement in which he said that he would stand on his record and platform and shun personalities.

Mr. Hawkins has opposition on the Republican and Progressive tickets but no opponents in the Democratic race and it is generally conceded that he will garner all three nominations in the August 30th primaries.

Republican voters, impressed by the Hawkins' record, are flocking to his standard on the basis of his support of housing legislation, his vigorous fight against emasculation of Civil Rights bills, intoduction of anti-lynching resolutions in the 1935 and 1937 legislature and his sponsorship of bills to regulate wages, and hours of domestic servants.

"Those issues are of paramount importance to local voters," a prominent Republican wrote to Mr. Hawkins this week "and the people will certainly want to retain an experienced legislator who knows and fights for their interests."

In a brief outline, Mr. Hawkins listed the following measures which had his support at the last two sessions of the legislature:

1. Slum clearance Bill which will make possible low cost housing and reduce rents in this community.

2. Introduction of bills to regulate wages and hours of domestic workers.

3. Introduction of resolutions memorializing Congress to pass the federal anti-lynching bill.

4. Defeat of attempts to reduce minimum damages in Civil Rights suits from one hundred to five dollars.

5. Support of anti-spotters bill to protect railroad and other workers from spies.

6. Support of increases in old age pensions.

7. Support of measures to increase budgets for those on relief.

8. Was co-author of bill to exempt homes of less than $3,000 value from taxation.

"It is on my support of these and similar measures that I am basing my campaign for re-election," Mr. Hawkins said. "It is a record which I believe merits the support of every person regardless of political affiliation. I shall stand upon it during my campaign in the belief that the people are far more interested in what I have done, and in my solemn promise to continue the fight for their interests, rather than in my own possible personal issues."

Mayor Shaw Fulfills Promise to Political Study Clubs

In the appointment of Mrs. Edith A. Jones to the Housing Commission another of Mayor Shaw's promises to the Colored citizenry of Los Angeles was fulfilled. At the June meeting of the Study Club Council, a letter was read in which the request was made that a member of the organization be placed on one of the City's commissions. At the July meeting, the appointment of Mrs. Jones was announced. Mrs. Jones was the first president of the Pasadena Unit, and is now Parliamentarian for the Council of the Women's Political Study Club. She is a College graduate, the mother of three, and has had practical experience in the management of real-estate, and is well-qualified to assume the responsibility entailed in the signal honor of which she is the recipient.

At the July meeting, Mrs. George Hatfield spoke to the women in interest of her husband's candidacy for governor. Mrs. Hill, announced the appointment of Miss Susie Drisdom as stenographer in the Hatfield Headquarters of Bakersfield. She also announced that through the intercession of the Study Club, Pasadena will soon have a colored case-worker in its Charity Department.

In her report of the Free Health Clinic at the Temple Health Institute, Mrs. Vivian Johnson gave some startling facts given by Dr. A. C. Garrott in his address. Thirty-one Wasserman Blood Tests were taken with six nurses and four doctors in attendance.

The Council was happy to have as its guest, the Executive Board of the Women's Art and Charity Club, presented by Mrs. Beatrice Mason, and Mr. and Mrs. Burnell of Denver, Colorado, presented by Mrs. Carrie Brown.

The Council announced the opening of its Campaign Headquarters, at 4071 So. Central Avenue on August 16th. The public is cordially invited to be present.

Events for the month will include:

A Bridge Party, August 4th by the Ida B. Wells Unit.

Dance, August 5th by the Pico Heights Unit.

Tea, August 7th by the Harriet Tubman Unit.

Tea, August 14th, by the Elzora Gibson Unit.

Remembering Good

IF WE are to go forward, fitted for the work before us, should we not be properly prepared? Instead of indulging the human tendency to look back sorrowfully or to think regretfully of the past, we must learn to think scientifically, keeping our consciousness ever true to God, good.

Meditation upon what in the past was good, reminds us that we should render an account of our present stewardship. Should we not recognize the many blessings we all too often take for granted? Since, as Whittier has said,

"That all of good the past hath had Remains to make our own time glad,"

let us gladden each day by taking stock of "all of good the past hath had."

Allowing only the good to remain in our thought is a happy service, a grateful prayer of praise. Keeping in our hearts thoughts of the unchanging goodness and omnipotence of God quiets fear and brings new courage, joy, and peace into daily experience. . . .

Knowing the allness of God, good, brings peace, and peace brings joy, and joy proves the presence of good. Remembering God's gift to mankind in the revelation of the Christ, and remembering the message of "on earth peace, good will toward men" brings about a purification of heart! . . .

Mary Baker Eddy gleaned something of good from every one of her experiences. Out of her rich triumphs came her admonition (The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany, pp. 149, 150), "Remember, thou canst be brought into no condition, be it ever so severe, where Love has not been before thee and where its tender lesson is not awaiting thee." The way to turn from sad scenes in memory's lane need not be learned through hard lessons. Only when we cling to grief through self-pity do we miss Love's "tender lesson." Challenging every condition with the question, "What is Love's 'tender lesson'?" will turn our struggling into the giving of thanks to God.

The measure of our progress should be estimated, not by how much we know of Truth, but by how well we live and love it day by day, and by how much we express the spirit of good will toward others. A perfect rule for gracious and happy living is to remember God, good, all the time.

All thoughts that would keep out of our hearts love for God and man must be recognized as enemies to health, happiness, and holiness. Isaiah termed such insidious errors "other lords." Remembering good, remembering that God is with us, brings proof in our day also that those "other lords . . ." are deceased, they shall not rise: therefore hast thou visited and destroyed them, and made all their memory to perish" (Isaiah 26:13, 14). How happily we go forward when "all their memory" has perished!

What is it, after all, that makes our days seem unhappy, with spiritual happiness always within our reach? Is it not that God has been left out of our thoughts, and that love has been crowded out of our hearts? The need of the hour is not that great happiness be brought into our day, but rather that the happiness which is spiritual be recognized, claimed, and shared. Someone has said that there are some in this world who have the gift of finding joy everywhere, and of leaving it behind them when they go. This is the touchstone of selfless happiness.

The art of true living is to discern and to embrace the good ever within reach. In order that we may discern and embrace the good within reach we must be mentally ready to accept it. Being ready mentally prevents us from grieving over the past or from hesitating on the threshold of tomorrow. To "give thanks at the remembrance of his holiness" is to eliminate fear, sorrow, lack, enmity; is to make "all their memory to perish." "Remembrance of his holiness"—remembering God—is not this identifying ourselves with universal good?—The Christian Science Monitor.

The LAUNDRYMAN

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

I've wondered often lately, if our group has paid much attention to the invasion of our Eastside by Orientals, Japanese and Chinese. Silently, unostentatiously, but none the less surely they have moved in and set up neighborhood businesses to be supported by our people. They seem to be making good at it too, in every instance.

In almost every block in our densely populated sections where stores are permitted, you will see a Jap or Chinese grocery. Out of an approximate number of forty or fifty neighborhood groceries on the Eastside you will find not more than five or six of them operated by our group.

The Orientals who conduct these stores are quiet and courteous, and evidently give the public satisfactory service or else they could not exist. I wondered though at times why it is that WE, who furnish the trade which keeps these stores going, do not seem to be able to successfully operate them ourselves. Is it that we are as a whole, racially incapable of the minute attention to details so necessary in successful retail operation, or is it that we just won't trade with one another?

CENTRAL AVENUE NIGHT LIFE

Had an interesting experience one night last week during which I discovered the "Hot Spot" of Central Avenue night life. And to cap the climax, the place is one which just four years ago, was picketed because the proprietor would not employ any colored help, and asserted that he did not care for colored trade. Unless you happen to be a three o'clock reveller yourself, however, you'd never guess where it is.

I chanced to start out on a fishing trip around that time, one morning last week. As we near the corner of 54th and Central Avenue I saw such a crowd congregated in front of the drug store that I remarked to my companion that some serious auto acident must have occurred. We pulled up to the curb, got out, and walked over to investigate. On drawing closer we found that the crowd who stood on the sidewalk was simply the over-flow from within the store.

Inside, it was congested with men and women mostly of the "Younger Set", still in their early twenties. Cigaret smoke spread a heavy curtain of fog over the interior of the combination drug store and cafe; a nickelodeon raucously bleated jungle rhythm; while over and above it all came the irritating hum of highly-keyed human voices. Upon one just emerging from the outer stillness of the night, it jarred heavily, unpleasantly. The droning hum of the many voices, like the Tim-Tom rhythm of the music, was insistent, challenging. Both seemed to be demanding something.

I pondered fretfully over this problem as I sipped my cup of coffee, and finally the riddle became clear. The subtle, fretful note of insistency which I had sensed was simply the age-old human longing for ESCAPE; escape from the monotony, the hum-drum of everyday life, intensified tenfold by the wailing tempo of the blaring nickelodeon.

I glanced around at the faces of the young people who stood around in small groups, talking incessantly. They were not hardened faces for the most part. Immature, yes, but still not cast in definite molds; still plastic, subject to be influenced by either good or bad influences. And to me the thought came forcibly that the burden of the waywardness of the younger set rests squarely upon the shoulders of the parents. Because they neglect to create wholesome, stimulating avenues of enjoyment, sufficiently alluring to counteract the insidious influence of tawdry night-clubs and resorts.

Sentence Gro as Embezzler

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 4. (ANP)—Last Wednesday in Judge Brennan's courtroom here, Daniel J. Winge, Yale graduate convicted of embezzling funds while assistant manager of the Douglas Harrison apartments, was sentenced to serve two to two-and-half years in Essex County Penitentiary at Caldwell, N. J., at hard labor. Wings took the sentence without show of emotion.

Well known and popular here before his downfall, Wings had been a trusted official at the Harrison apartments. Also serving a term at the same prison for a similar offense, is Roscoe S. Bruce, Jr., who was given an 18-month sentence.

In Which We Turn This Pillc Over to Brice Taylor, Former All-American Gridder from USC

(Note: Brice Taylor, at running guard, was the scourge of the Pacific Coast Conference when a member of University of Southern California Trojans, '23-'27, and was named All-American at that position by several world-wide news agencies. He was conference sprint champion and a member of the 440-yard relay team that held the world record at that time. Now coaching at Sam Houston College, Austin, Texas, Taylor brings to readers of this column some pointed "observations".—J. C. F.)

SOME OBSERVATIONS— By Brice U. Taylor

THIS IS my first opportunity to publicly thank a lot of people for kind words and many favors during my competitive days in athletics, and also since I have been coaching. It will be very hard for me to ever express in words my deep appreciation to J. Cullen Fentress for his generosity in making his column available.

The staff out at USC has always had a leading place among pleasant memories. The venerable Dr. von Kleinschmidt, whose personality never fails to impress one with the quiet dignity and calm efficiency of a master builder, has done much more for me than I can ever repay. Dean Cromwell, "Head Man" Howard Jones, Bill Hunter, my fellow team-mates, and all the others have given inspiration and encouragement when my spirits were low and life itself was a tragedy. I salute all of you, gentlemen!

Without the walls of Troy, it was the sports scribes that gave me acquaintance with the larger audience of sports lovers. Maxwell Stiles of the Examiner; Braven Dyer of the Times; Jim Coughlin of the Evening Herald; Harry Levette of the California Eagle, and the Associated Negro Press, have all said very fine things about me, and their words have helped so much along the thorny paths.

During my current visit to Southern California, I have been asked over and over to give an estimate of the status of athletics in the Negro colleges of the South. I am optimistic about it because I have learned so much about its possibilities during the last few years.

Among the most encouraging signs of future growth and development of athletics in the Negro schools is the changed attitude of trustees and administrators. A decade or two ago to ask for a budget to promote physical education and interscholastic sports would receive nothing short of reproof and condemnation. A full-time coach was almost as rare as polar bears at the equator.

Today, the picture has changed. Many southern colleges now have very fine full-time physical education directors, well-trained and remarkably devoted to their art. They have helped to bring about the establishment of physical education as an integral part of the curriculae. Moreover, they have stimulated building of gymnasiums and making adequate provisions for proper equipment. I know of one college that has spent more money for physical education during the last two years than was ordinarily spent by six colleges in a period of ten years before the World War.

The southern schools are not suffering either for the lack of skilled teachers, or for the want of student material. Their limited success is in a large measure due to fine teachers who have gone there, and who have had the ability to mould crude but capable material into candidates for Olympic honors. A recent case in point is that of Ellerbe from Tuskegee.

The sole big need of the southern schools is opportunity to participate in athletic activity according to ability, not as a unique group, but as free American citizens.

How to attain this opportunity is always a topic for serious, thoughtful discussion whenever southern coaches meet.

In the first place, the attitude of the big universities has not changed. Negro students are not encouraged to participate in athletics, and the alumni are slow to offer scholarship grants to promising Negro youths.

In the second place, the big conferences and athletic unions have continued to be pressed by member schools that object to the presence of a Negro boy on a competing team.

Since the Negro boy's position in athletics is so precarious in any of the big institutions, it seems to me that the Negro wing of the alumni of the universities could take an effective hand. There are enough Negro graduates of USC and UCLA, for example, to provide adequate scholarship funds with which to help promising high school youths who have shown brilliance both in scholarship and in athletics but whose financial poverty makes a college education impossible.

We might normally expect an even greater development of Negro athletes in the South when boards of education can be convinced of the social usefulness of making adequate provisions for physical education on a larger scale in the elementary and secondary schools. Time will bring this about just as surely as it brought about the changed attitudes among trustees and administrators of the colleges.

Homeless Boys Home Planned By Independent

Announcement was made this week that People's Independent Church of Christ, through its minister, Rev. Clayton D. Russell, has completed plans for sponsoring a home for homeless colored boys.

Rev. Russell brought the matter before the congregation several months ago, which was unanimously endorsed. Among those with whom he conferred on the home was Arthur Wells. Mr. Wells, working with the juvenile authorities, including Louis S. Tenette, Alva L. Pulliam and Commissioner Sutton, succeeded in securing an admirable location and home.

Final plans will be made this week at a meeting to be held Friday night with Rev. Russell at the church.

LIBRARY BOOK NOTES

By Miriam Matthews

Two interesting studies, "The Negro College Graduate," by Charles S. Johnson and "The Negro's Struggle for Survival," by S. J. Holmes have recently been added to the special collections on the subject at the Vernon and Hlen Hunt Jackson Branch Libraries. Both volumes are published by University presses and both are contributed by college professors, one a Negro in Fisk University and the other a white professor in the University of California.

Should Negroes be educated now according to their respective abilities, in any field in which they seek knowledge, without regard to the social restrictions imposed upon them as a race or class, or should they be better trained with a view to existing vocational opportunities only? What factors can be regarded as responsible for successful careers, and what factors are responsible for failures? What has been the significance, so far as it can be measured in after school careers, of different types of Negro colleges, curricula, personnel, localities and financial support? Who of the Negro leaders are college bred? What part has the college background played in political, social, ethical, religious and racial movements, in the establishment of group ideals? No exact and final answers to these questions are possible, according to Charles S. Johnson in his introduction to "The Negro College Graduate" but it is hoped that the data assembled in this study will provide unusual opportunity for social and educational appraisals of a group which, while included in the American educational system as yet of such comparatively recent incorporation, and represents such a pronounced degree of social and cultural isolation, as to set out, in fairly sharp outline, the interaction of social factors and the routine processes of education.

S. J. Holmes, Professor of Biology at the University of California, documents the biological trends of the American Negro with remarkable objectivity until just before the end of his book on "The Negro's Struggle for Survival." After a comparative study of birth and death rates, infant mortality, immunity and susceptibility to disease, the traceable biological effects of race mixture, and relevant socio-economic factors like migration, urban, rural and slum environments, he concludes "that the rates of natural increase of whites and blacks in the United States have come to be more nearly equal than they were in previous decades" and "that it is not impossible that in the near future the Negroes may be increasing more rapidly than the whites." He adds to his concluding considerations the thought that the task of working out race relations "will be made more difficult if the ratio of blacks to whites increase." Alaine Locke, noted Negro critic, accuses the author of conjuring up a far-from-scientific "race bogey" and hinting at ethnic nationalism and measures of forced population control. Mr. Locke further states that if we are ever enlightened enough for practical eugenics, we shall have concepts of human welfare outmoding the dilemmas of racialism and the paradoxes of politically conceived genetics.

Weldon Johnson Leaves Estate of 'Over $10,000'

NEW YORK CITY, Aug. 4. (ANP)—James Weldon Johnson, killed on June 26, in an auto crash at Wiscasset, Maine, left an estate of over $10,000" it was learned Saturday when Mrs. Grace Nail Johnson, the widow, recuperating in a hospital at Damariscotta, Maine, filed the will for probate here through her lawyers.

The entire estate, cash, real and personal property, is willed to Mrs. Johnson who is also named as sole executrix of the estate. Witnesses to the will, drawn up in 1920, were Arthur Spingarn of the NAACP, and Mr. and Mrs. William (Dean) Pickens. The words "over $10,000" constitute a legal term under New York statutes. A letter appraisal may place the present value of the estate at $20,000.

Negro Movie Audiences Who Spend $50,000,000 Yearly to Support Film Industry Deserve More Than Occasional Juicy Part, Says Critic

Never was the deep, deep South more guilty of discrimination than M-G-M studios whose recognized heads are the same Jews who are being persecuted the world over. I know from experience that M-G-M studios have always been the most prejudiced studio in California. A few of their early injustices I will relate later in this story.

But the main issue today is the discrimination of 75 or a 100 Negroes working in a picture whose working title is "Too Hot to Handle", starring Clark Gable and Myrna Loy, and a host of other M-G-M celebrities.

Hundreds of Negroes were called out on an interview of which the most likely ones chosen and they were told to strip to their waist and these chosen ones received quarter checks at the rate of $11 a day for that interview. At the conclusion of this interview they were promised $75 a week straight time, which would have eliminated the studio overtime and such. After being called back to work they were told they would only receive $8.25 a day. For this $8.25 they are supposed to row boats, dance, shoot bows and arrows, which necessitates a very specialized talent and as such carried a higher rate than the $8.25 that MGM offered to pay. Most of the 75 people called were old hands in the motion picture game and knew what they should get for this kind of work and know they should receive $16.50 a day for this type of work.

Out of the 75 called only four accepted this $8.25 the others said that if they couldn't receive at least $11 for this work they would refuse to go on. The MGM studio head, Mr. Mannix, agreed to pay $11 for THAT DAY under PROTEST. On reporting for work the next day they were met by Guild representatives who told them they had to return to work for $8.25, for which we accuse the Guild of flagrant misuse of their power when they, as well as producers make the scale under which all artist must work.

The Guild nor the studio can cite one instance when a white guild member, male or female, appeared on a set practically nude and did a dance and dived into cold water and row boats, shot bows and arrows. I here challenge the Motion Picture Producers and the GUILD to cite me an incident where white people performed the like work for $8.25.

We KNOW MGM studio to be prejudiced. We know when they had a member of our race under contract at $1,250 a week and she wasn't allowed to eat on the same side of the room where chorus girls getting $75 a week were allowed to eat. She was ushered to the lunch counter and told that was the only place she could eat in the commissary. How could we expect a studio that would insult one of our women to do any better for 75 of our men. But we do expect a MORE MILITANT attitude from the SCREEN ACTORS GUILD.

We must place the SCREEN ACTORS GUILD in the same catagory as that of a lawyer who sells out to the other side. It has ever been so with the Negro. He is ever sacrificed that the other side gets the benefit of the doubt. The GUILD like the Negro with a white agent who has lots of white stars on his books in offering the Negro's services he tells the client he will give him the Negro actor for nothing if you will pay my white acts what they are worth.

So the GUILD sacrifices the Negro Motion Picture actor that he might have a more sympathetic producer where white motion picture actors are concerned. If the Guild is not going to protect the Negro there is no need for the Negro to be in the Guild. In most cases where Negroes work in pictures today it is purely an accident. Most of the Negro chorus girls who belong to the Guild haven't averaged four weeks work this entire year from motion picture studios. Why should these girls pay $25 or $30 to join the Guild.

I thought the Guild would be an improvement over Central Casting Offices, which was the worst thing that the Negro had to deal with in the motion picture industry. We know the jim crowism practiced by Central Casting Office, which is still in operation. We thought the Guild would be a salvation but with its flagrant mis-use of power, we must place it in the same catagory as Central Casting. Central Catsing Office has never had the power to do as much good as the Screen Actors Guild. The Guild is not only the actors' union but is the actor's tribunal where he airs all his grievances as citizens would do in open court. Justice in the court has been blind to the Negro so has the Guild been blind to mis-use and abuses of the Negro motion picture talent.

The Guild has intimated that the Negroes didn't need to take the work for $8.25 a day, but I want to tell such Guild members as Robert Montgomery, president, James Cagney, first vice president, Joan Crawford, 2nd vice president, Chester Morris 3rd vice and Kenneth Thompson, executive secretary and Noel Madison, treasurer, that your memories must be pretty bad if you can't think back when you were struggling in pictures, that after you had laid off for four or five months and you reported to the studios broke and hungry and if a job called for $16.50 and they offered only $8.25 to you, you would have taken it if you didn't have any one to protect you.

So it is up to you ladies and gentlemen, executive heads of the SCREEN ACTORS GUILD to protect these lessers, people of a great race of people of which there are 20,000,000 who spend millions week in and week out to pay you your millions that you have received from picture work.

Because if this group of which those 75 Negroes are members were to boycott your pictures and also boycott all pictures you would find in a short time you wouldn't receive those fabulous salaries.

I would like to quote from the bulletin of the Screen Actors Guild by Kenneth Thompson. "Negotiations between the Producers Committee and representatives of the GUILD on revision of the PRODUCERS-SCREEN ACTORS GUILD basic code began on April 19, 1938. The Producers were represented by E. J. O'Shea and Scott Dunlap with Robert Montgomery, Murray Kennell, Kenneth Thompson, Aubrey Blair, Lawrence W. Beilenson, Irving Pichel and John Dales, Jr., acting for the Guild.

"Negotiations extended over a period of approximately seven weeks with the committees conferring twice weekly."

It wanted to cite the above paragraph to prove beyond all doubt that if either the producers or the Screen Actors Guild had the Negro's problems in motion pictures at heart this appalling condition at MGM could not have happened.

So as we have told you Mr. and Mrs. Black America, for the past few months that you as a movie Audience spend over $50,000,000 a year to support MGM and other studios and hundreds of STARS like Robert Montgomery, Joan Crawford, Clark Gable (who is the star of the controversial picture "Too Hot to Handle") that YOU and only you can change this present set-up by boycotting all MGM PICTURES and every other picture studios that deals unfairly with members of your group. Let these studios know that you want WORK and consideration equal to that enjoyed by members of other minority groups. You might have forgotten that for your $50,000,000 you get an occasional Negro star player doing a few bits and working in a few sequences in major productions and you must admit that that is a durn little for $50,000,000.

Gigantic Outdoor Swing Contest Planned for Sept.

Plans for a gigantic outdoor swing contest, sponsored by the Southwest Merchants-Veterans Association, to be staged as advance to the American Legion convention, which will be held in Los Angeles next month, were announced this week by Sam H. Fisher, president of the organization.

"Jitterbugs" from all parts of Los Angeles county, will be invited to enter the contest, said Fisher.

Announcement of plans for the swing competition, the first outdoor event of its kind to be held on the Pacific Coast, aroused widespread interest throughout Southwest Los Angeles and met with enthusiastic response from scores of "jitterbug" teams, all anxious for an opportunity to "knock 'em cold"

PRIZE MONEY

Merchants of the Southwest section of the city indicated they had also been seized with something akin to a "jitterbug" craze by announcing they will provide prize money for the competitions. First award will be $100, second, $50, and third, $25. The tentative date of the contest has been set for September 12.

Negotiations are under way to obtain Wrigley field as the scene of the finals, said Fisher. A similar contest conducted recently in New York was witnessed by upwards of 100,000 spectators.

Swingsters who lay claim to being able to "stop 'em dead" will be afforded an opportunity to strut their stuff before the general public during a series of preliminary events, or elemination contests, which will be held at night at street intersections in the various Southwest business districts.

The first set of elimination competitions will be held the night of August 16, probably at Broadway and Manchester, Fisher announced.

Complete information regarding rules of the contest can be obtained by telephoning George P. Schneider, secretary of the Southwest Merchants-Veterans Association, at PLeasant 9146, or by calling in person at the Association's headquarters, 320 E. 69th street.

THE WHITE SIDE...

"About 375 people per month go shopping for names at the Brooklyn Library and its branches. Names, apparently, are more important to prospective fathers than to prospective mothers, for male applicants for the service far outnumbering females. About forty-five per cent of all applicants are Jews. Then come Negroes ...

"Negroes frequently get inspiration for names from headlines. Thus, after the death in France of Theodore Roosevelt's son Quentin, there was a rash of Quentins. After Lindbergh's notable flight in 1927 Charles Augustus became a Negro favorite, and at present it is Franklin Delano. Where the Puritans leaned toward nouns for given names—Purity, Faith, Hope, Charity— Negroes prefer adjectives: Speedy, Lucky, Sober, Contrite. They will borrow names from candy bars and cigar boxes, from billboards, railroad timetables, and books. Librarians have encountered such names as Alabaster, Sarcophagus, Flot and Jet chosen by Negroes before their imagination gave out and they had to seek help."

Saves Star's Neck But Cuts Hands

James Stephenson, colored movie extra, saved Boris Karloff's neck on the set of "Devil's Island" at Warner Bros' studio when a movie guillotine didnt follow direction and went berserk in a "last minute pardon" scene which nearly ended disastrously for Karloff, it was learned today.

The star was to have his neck saved in the film scene by a soldier who interposed his rifle barrel between the blade and the block. Real steel was used instead of wood to add drama in sound as well as action when steel met steel.

Safety stops inserted along the blade's runners as "insurance" gave way. Stephenson, playing in the scene, notice the failure of the "insurance" and grabbed the blade in his hands, saving Karloff from possible real life decapitation. His own fingers were cut so severely that he was out of the "Devil's Island" cast for a week.

Kenny Washington and Woodrow Strode, colored UCLA football stars, employed as "set service men" at Warner's during the summer vacation, were among the employes who gave aid to the wounded player.

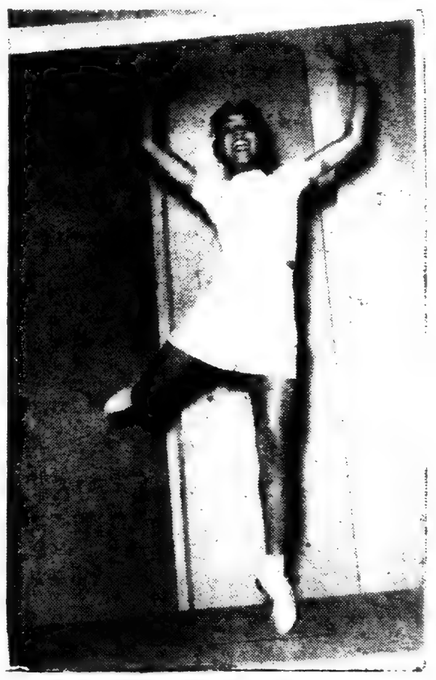
MID-SUMMER REFLECTIONS



August, the month everyone in the theatre gets busy for the opening of the theatrical season. Shows not already in rehearsal will start their rehearsals before the month is out. Broadway promises more shows this season than any since 1928. For the first time since the vogue for musicales in pictures and all Broadway musical comedy artists left the hardened artery for Hollywood, producers of Broadway shows are now able to use these same artists due to the elimination of musicals from the 1938 schedule.

Most of the musical comedy artists, other than the recognized stars, are now on their way back to Broadway.

A few years ago Hollywood and Vine reminded one of 47th and Broadway in New York City. You could see all the former Broadway stars grouped together discussing the decline of Broadway.

Today, Hollywood is the last place a musical comedy artist wishes to find himself. There being little or no demand for his services since musicals became too risky for film producers. Even pictures like "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and the much POSTPONED "St. Louis Blues" depend upon the story rather than song and dance sequences. Due to the sudden illness of Dorothy Lamour, "The St. Louis Blues" had its shooting date set back. Maxine Sullivan recorded her numbers for the flicker last Saturday.

WINCHELL TOSSES LEGON A BOUQUET

Mr. Charles Weintraub of the Irving Mills office is in town negotiating with Jeni LeGon for the new Cotton Club show which goes into rehearsal this month.

THE JOINT JUMPED

Last Sunday the Club Alabam really jumped. The Ben Bowie Post of the American Legion had Bill Robinson as their guest star. Bill was assisted by Louise Beavers, Maxine Sullivan, Jeni LeGon, and your scribbling reporter served as master of ceremonies.

Bill Robinson put on the most impressive show ever seen on the Avenue. That same bill held at a thearte, would have put the people on the roof. But the Club Alabam had the people stuffed in galleys and outside.

Les Hite moves into the Orpheum theatre in the next few days with an all-colored stage show.

"THE DUKE IS TOPS" PANNED IN NEW YORK

Although Million Dollar Productions' filmusical, "The Duke is Tops", drew good crowds when it was shown at the Apollo theatre in New York, the general impression was that the company devoted to all-Negro talkies has produced a flop that will appeal little to colored audiences and not at all to white.

JIMMY MARSHALL, ingenious manager of the East's finest theatre catering to "Sepia" talent . . . (Apollo) didn't permit the torrential rains of the past ten days to interfere with the standard of his performances.

A brand new band (new to Harlemites) swept into the 125th street mirth palace tagged . . . "Hartley Toots and his Rhythm Rascals". Following on the heels of Edgar Hayes' classy outfit, it looked like a tough spot for the "Toots" crowd, but believe us, they clicked in a huge way.

Melrose Clobert and "Shookum" Russell, featured soloists with the visiting orchestra, came in for a full share of applause after each encore number.

By JOHN KINLOCH

Picture: "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse"
Players: Edward G. Robinson, Claire Trevor, Humphrey Bogart
Place: Warner Bros. Downtown

"The amazing Dr. Clitterhouse" is a refreshing shift from the consciously witty, would-be sophisticated crime films that have circulated since the advent of "The Thin Man". Its main asset is the novelty of plot and the svelte portrayal of Edward G. Robinson.

Story concerns a society physician who is an amateur crimonologist. The gent harbors a theory that criminals, during professional activities, have very definite physical reactions, and feels that these reactions, if discovered, could somehow help society solve the crime problem in a more efficient, "more scientific" manner.. The idea becomes so intriguing that the doctor turns criminal himself in order to chart blood pressure, etc., during the illegal performances. However, he perceives that he maintains perfect calm throughout. This annoying result leads the worthy medico into an association with mob og gangsters, over whom he becames "Big Shot". Under his expert guidance, several robberies are planned—and at the successful culmination of each, blood-tests are exacted from the mobsters. Claire Trevor portrays the female "fence" through whom the stolen property is liquidated. As you probably guessed, Humphrey Bogart is the "threat" among the bad-guys. Dr. Clitterhouse' experience in the underworld climaxes in his becoming a murderer. In the subsequent trial his sanity is debated. The jury makes a decision: although the audience, we fear, will never be sure on which side the "sanity" boundry lay the Doctor's agile intellect.

Because of Anatole Litvak's well-sustained direction, the "scientific" feeling persists throughout the production and only does the near-hilarious ending fall slightly out of key.

Edward G. Robinson plays Clitterhouse with a vengeance. If ever there was a sauver crook, a smoother sophisticate, a calmer malefactor, bring him forth and let the world pay homage. However, it is to Robinson's credit that Clitterhouse' assurance didn't become incredible. With a hundred thousand dollars worth of stolen "ice" on his person, the Dr. picks a fuss with a cop, finally humbles him. An unknown outsider, he strides into the underworld's lair and a hundred film feet later is the boss of New York's most notorious burglary gang. Yet, it all seems possible. It was encouraging to note though, that the Doctor became almost frantic when locked in a refrigeration vault by villain A-No.-1 Humphrey Bogart. A less competent actor would have had calm Clitterhouse settle upon a chunk of ice, light a cigarette, look around in bored fashion and murmer "Deah, Deah, looks like a cold winter we're going to have."

Claire Trevor continues her assult on the dramatic crown of Warner Bros. "stugio" (now worn by the inimitable Bette Davis) with a flawless performance. Allen Jenkins and Maxie Rosenbloom contribute expert supporting roles, another rung in Maxie's cinematic ladder of fame.

'Bojangles' Plays Mechanic in New Auto Racing Story

It was while Bill "Bojangles" Robinson was in New York, celebrating the victory of his friend, Joe Louis, over Max Schmeling that he received word from 20th Centruy Fox studios that he was wanted immediately for a picture. So Bill boarded the first train—he never travels by air—and arrived in Hollywood to play what he considers one of his finest motion picture parts in the second of the Sports Adventure series of films, and auto racing story which is as yet untitled.

It was Bill who had the honor—and an expensive one of being the only person to bet on Louis in the heavyweight battle and lose! Taking the Brown Bomber's word, Robinson bet $3000 that Joe would end the fight in a second round knockout. Unfortunately, it didn't go that far.

In the auto racing film, Bill joins a cast including Henry Armetta, Joan Valerie, Henry Arthur and Tom Beck. He plays the part of Zepher Jones, who runs a used car lot and, because he shows adeptness as a mechanic he is instrumental in putting a racing car in such fine condition that it wins the big race.

NEW SONG

When Bill Robinson appears in a picture, two things are certain: there's going to be plenty of comedy and lots of clever dancing. And this picture is no exception. For his tap-dancing scenes, Gene Rose, 20th Century-Fox music arranger and composer, has written a swing fox-trot which he has dedicated to Robinson, titling it "Hi, Bill". The tap-dancing king is now busy writing lyrics for the melody which he predicts will be a hit tune.

STAIRWAY DANCE

Bill is best known for his famous "stairway dance" which has been imitated by hundreds of other dancers. He did his original conception of the dance with Shirley Temple in "The Little Colonel", his first feature picture. Since then he has appeared in more pictures with the tiny top-ranking starlet than any other actor in Hollywood. Also, he recently was instrumental in making his "Suzy-Q" dance a nationwide sensation. Now, in the Sports Adventure film, he will inaugurate a clever routine in which he will imitate the various sounds accompanying a thrilling automobile race, including the popping of motor valves, the skidding of the car's tires as it goes around a turn and the roar of the motor as the racer speeds down the straightaway.

Otto Brewer who is directing the picture, says that Bill's work before the camera is topnotch and that he rarely, if ever muffs his lines. "I learned that from Shirley 'One-take' Temple," explained Bill. "I teach her how to dance and she shows me how to handle my dialogue. Yes sir, she's a great kid".

IVIE IS WEEK-END STAR AT CLUB ALABAM

Nina Mae McKinney to Make 'St. Louis Gal'

Nina Mae McKinney, one of the foremost Colored actresses appearing upon the international stage and screen, has just been signed to a long term contract by Creative Cinema Corporation, 1845 Broadway, New York City, exclusively engaged in the production of all-Negro feature motion pictures.

Film fans will remember Nina Mae McKinney's first screen triumph as the star of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Hallelujah", the picture that gave Gary Cooper his start in the movies. Since then Miss McKinney has appeared in many films abroad, including her great starring success, "Life is Real" for Gaumont-British. She was also featured at the Palladeum in London and played forty-two consecutive weeks at London's famous Ciro's said to be the favorite habitue of royalty. She recently returned from a tour of Australia and New Zealand for the well known Tate Williamson Circuit.

"St Louis Gal" will be Miss McKinney's first starring vehicle for Creative Cinema Corporation. This will be followed by "Beale Street". Irwin R. Franklyn, well-known director of Negro films, has been assigned as Miss McKinney's author-director.

WE COMPLIMENT THE MASONS

The Masonic Grand Lodge, California and Jurisdiction, showed wisdom in the annual session just ended by re-electing Theodore Moss as Grand Master to succeed himself.

Mr. Moss ascended the throne at the height of the depression. Railroads, industrial plants, banks and all institutions in our industrial life, were tottering and going to the wall. He succeeded in successfully steering the craft clear of the breakers and landing upon a foundation of security, with proper management.

Today finds California Masons basking in the sunshine of financial security. Free from debt, possessing valuable realty holdings, speak for the wisdom and ability of Grand Master Moss.

We congratulate the Masons upon their wisdom and foresight and by retaining Mr. Moss as leader they will double their stride in the past.

CLUB UNIFICATION A FIZZLE

What looked like unification of State Colored Women's Clubs proved a dud at a rally to bury the hatchet between Northern and Southern California at Second Baptist church last week. Widely heralded, the meeting attracted state-wide attention and joy was expressed thruout California that race solidarity was to gain an inch.

Southern California, directed by Mrs. Eliza Warner and others, founded the club, but as the years passed, a rift came about and there were two sections, northern and southern — the northern section incorporated.

At a meeting in Fannie Wall Home and Day Nursery, Oakland, June 2, 1938, a joint meeting of the two bodies was held to decide on unification and we glean from the official proceedings that on motion of Mrs. Mabel Gray, president of southern body, and seconded by Mrs. Pittman of the incorporated organization, unification carried unanimously and Los Angeles selected as the spot for ratification. The northern body went so far as to secure the services of Atty. Walter Gordon of Berkeley, at a fee of $10.00 to file dissolution papers for the incorporated clubs.

The unification meet opened amid pomp and splendor at Second Baptist church and after much oratory, feasting on the fat of the land, all was as smooth as a marriage bell until the show-down on the question of unification. Mrs. Gray declared herself out of the race for any office and called for the papers showing dissolution of the northern body so that unification might be ratified. The northerners stalled and played away from the question at bar. During the discussion, Mrs. Gray sensing a curly-haired Senegambian in the pile of wood, wired the Secretary of State who replied as follows, under date of July 28:

"California State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs in good standing and has not filed a notice of its election to dissolve to date.
"FRANK C. JORDAN, Secretary of State."

The foregoing plainly shows that at no time, despite a unanimous vote to dissolve a few months previous, had they any intention of carrying out what was accepted in good faith as a bonifide agreement. Now some seem to feel that the whole scheme was to hoodwink the southern women and jockey them into enlisting under the incorporated banner, but Mrs. Gray, president, was too sharp to be taken in.

Foiled in their scheme, the incorporated delegates demanded the return of some ten or more dollars put up as tax, plus the days and nights of royal entertainment to public and private which was refunded gladly.

The outcome of what was to have been an event worthy of a place in racial history is regretted deeply by all who have the advancement and progress of the group at heart. As was said by this journal last week, unification certainly would have added to the strength of the northern group where so few Negroes dwell and given them a leverage that could have been used to great advantage in the battle for uplift.

Southern California women have naught to be ashamed of or to regret. They lived up to the letter of agreement and will not let the incident impede their marvelous development and progress.

WHY THE EXCITEMENT?

The statement of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt that she did not "see what all the hub-bub was about" in connection with Father Divine's occupation of an estate across the river from the President's Hyde Park home is to be hailed. The First Lady not only revealed a keen personal sense of racial equilibrium, but set an example for the property owners of the nation who suddenly discover ancient "property restriction deeds" when a Negro moves in next door.

HERE'RE THEIR RECORDS!

"Senator: HIRAM W. JOHNSON
Party: Republican
Term Expires: 1941
STATEMENTS TO NAACP CONCERNING BILL:
Feb. 14, 1934: "I observe your views with reference to the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill and will give them full consideration when this measure is before the Senate."
July 9, 1937: ". . . When this legislation comes before the Senate you may be assured it shall have my attention and the views of your organization my fullest consideration."

ACTIVITIES ON BEHALF OF BILL ON THE FLOOR OF SENATE: 0

Senator: WILLIAM G. McADOO
Party: Democrat
Term expires: 1939
STATEMENTS TO NAACP CONCERNING BILL:
Nov. 16, 1937: "I am absolutely opposed to lynching and shall support any constitutional measure to effect its suppression."

ACTIVITIES ON BEHALF OF BILL ON THE FLOOR OF SENATE: 0

The above tabulation, distributed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, is a record of California's two senators Republican and Democrat — in regard to the Wagner-Van Nuys anti-lynching bill.

Neither have exerted the slightest effort on its behalf and both have uttered evasive statements concerning it. Johnson: ". . . will give them full consideration when the bill comes up"; McAdoo: ". . . support any CONSTITUTIONAL measure to effect . . ." Senator Johnson applied "full consideration" to the bill so intensively that he was unable to do anything else on its behalf; Senator McAdoo evidently deemed the measure "unconstitutional", since his only activity was "yea" voting on the adjournment plea. What was that about the difference between Tweedledum and Tweedledee?

SIGNIFICANT TREND

The decisive defeat of "Kansas Hitler", Gerald B. Winrod, for the Kansas Republican senatorial nomination marks a significant trend in middle-western politics. Extending through Michigan, the Dakotas, Kansas, and many other states, there have been a great number of rumors recently concerning would-be Black Legions and "anti-Negro" organizations. It seemed as if the Old South were spilling over into the Middle-West. Political demise of candidate Winrod, with a platform of racial intolerance, is a welcome indication to the contrary.

THE HORNETS' NEST

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

CALIFORNIANS KNOW HOW

California produces people that get results. We like to think Andy Gonzales of San Jacinto, who blinked briefly in the spotlight of attention a few days ago, had that tradition in mind when he applied himself to the solution of a baffling problem. It wasn't a world-shaking puzzler, but it was sufficient to defy the efforts of seven men, a horse, a block and tackle, and many yards of heavy rope. His cow, Flossie, had gotten herself hopelessly mired in the quicksands of the San Diego River. Neither man, beast, nor cable, could budge her. So Andy bent over and bit her tail. With a wild lunge, Flossie struggled out. Swim, play tennis, fly an ocean, or get a cow out of quicksand — a Californian will do it better every time!

GIVE THE PUBLIC RELIEF!

California is today one of the few states in the union shouldering more than fifty per cent of its relief cases without Federal aid — no small burden on California purses, with more than 13 per cent of all families in the state receiving relief in some form. With such essential aid to the needy no one has any quarrel. But it is a different matter altogether when strikers raise vociferous demands that they be placed at once on state relief rolls — as they did at Compton, Calif., recently — and stage a sit-down strike in the relief offices to enforce those demands. An indignant public naturally protests. Why should it be steamrollered by a sit-down strike into toting a relief load of strikers? That unwelcome prospect, however, will doubtless continue to haunt the public until irresponsible strike action and sitdowns are legally and peaceably eliminated. The public needs that kind of relief. Labor needs that kind of peace.

BEAVERS TO THE RESCUE

Remember those beavers Uncle Sam was going to put to work in Idaho this summer? Well, those busy little animals are doing their share of anti-erosion work, improving watering facilities and forage crop conditions, but they're holding fast to an ancient principle — the laborer is worthy of his hire. Since they cost the government only $5 each, and do about $300 worth of work in a year, their point of view is understandable. So after being trapped, they tie up to CCC camps for a few days and fatten their vitamin supply with free government board consisting of corn on the cob, apples, carrots, bread and grain. Then the CCC boys build a temporary dam, just to give the beavers a generous hint of what we taxpayers expect of them, and then the furry conservationists are off to the races. A $300 return on a $5 job is the kind of thing financial wizards dream about. Unfortunately for them, the wizards probably never dreamed about beavers!

FLYPAPER EFFICIENCY

Next time you hear about the widely self-advertised efficiency with a capital "E" of Greater Germany, you have only to recall the story of an American newspaper's pressbureau in Vienna — and how it moved to Prague. Last week there was virtually as much celebrating in the New York offices of this paper as if the Atlantic had been spanned with a suspension bridge. For it had taken two entire months to move the contents of four small rooms! Red tape by the mile had to be untangled, innumerable documents had to be filled out in painstaking detail down to the last carpet tack, officials had to be interviewed, inquiries made and inquiries answered. Eventually the monumental bulwark of bureaucratic "efficiency" was finally hurdled, and last week the last office wastebasket was free to leave Vienna amid the cheers of wearied correspondents. Efficiency in old Vienna's lazy waltz time, we gather, had the furious rush of a Ben Hur chariot race compared to the new efficiency which gums up everything like flypaper.

BUYER'S GUIDE by Clarence Peacock

Much progress has been made in improving the health, and in increasing the life span of the American Negro, yet last year Negroes spent over $10,000,000 for patent medicines.

Many colored people, fearing that they have the symptoms of some chronic disease such as cancer, tuberculosis or syphilis, believe that if they were to go to a doctor, it would mean repeated visits the cost of which they could not afford.

Rather than see a physician, many unenlightened people rely upon worthless nostrums for the treatment of these diseases. These people are willing to let the manufacturers of patent medicines diagnose in advance, and treat with complete assurance, almost every disease that afflicts human beings.

Many in the patent medicine industry are guilty of the economic fraud of selling drugs under meaningless or fantastic names, with absurd claims of special merit. These drugs, with some exceptions, are injurious only to the extent that they drain from slim purses the dimes and quarters needed for bread, meat and milk.

I am not referring to the ethical pharmaceutical houses that manufacture proprietary medicines and household remedies which, by the general consensus of medical opinion, may be used in the home without professional advice. These home remedies should be used in preference to preparations that are offered as cure-alls.

There are in America today, over 4,000 colored physicians, 2,000 dentists, 300 osteopaths, 5,000 graduate trained nurses, 190 Negro hospitals and training schools, and 717 Negro owned and operated drugstores.

If the many millions of Colored people throughout the country had spent the larger portion of this $10,000,000 with their own physicians, they would have benefitted by getting the proper medical attention, and at the same time they would have been protected against products which might endanger their health or even their lives.

Patronize your physician. He is the one qualified, and allowed by law to prescribe medicine, and to diagnose your condition.

A number of the manufacturers of proprietary medicines and household remedies are inviting your patronage by advertising in your newspaper. Among these advertisers are St. Joseph's Aspirin, Vick's Capo-Rub, Phillip's Milk of Magnesia, Penetro, Fletcher's Castoria, Bayer's Aspirin, and others.

Fletcher's Castoria was one of the first companies advertising in the Negro press, to use special copy. Pictures of Loe Louis in their advertisements were displayed in drug stores throughout the country. The colored consumer response to these advertisements was so great, that competing products such as Pitcher's Castoria, Squibb's Castoria, and A. D. S. Castoria floded the drugstores in the Colored neighborhoods.

From my own observations, many of the larger pharmaceutical houses, such as E. R. Squibb and Sons, Eli Lily, Park Davis, Merck, Sharp and Dohme and others, enjoy considerable Colored patronage. However, these companies do not advertise in the Negro market, nor employ Colored people and representatives to service and detail the thousands of Colored physicians, dentists and pharmacists throughout the country.

Read our race newspapers, and patronize their advertised products for economic security.

Southerners Don't Think We're So Hot!

(From the Western Index Dallas—July 28, 1938)

Los Angeles is a city of scenic beauty sitting her proud majesty on the banks of the Pacific Ocean discovered by Balboa and called "Pacific" because of its calmness. It is one of the large cities of the United States and is made up of some of all the races of earth. Pasadena, Santa Monica, Venice, San Pedro, with many others are a part of Los Angeles. There are thousands of our Southern people there, many profitably employed; the greater number idle and unprofitably employed. A negligible number are mail carriers, clerks in the postal service and have courthouse and municipal employment. There is not much business owned and operated by our people. A few small grocery and drug stores, but for the most part barber shops, beauty salons, "eating points", cleaning and tailoring shops are the main businesses in which our people are engaged.

There are no imposing church structures owned by our people like those in the East, South and North. Our people are segregated largely as they are in the South, not by law but by the law of circumstances. The schools are mixed and there are a few race teachers on the faculty and seem to do well. The California Eagle, published by Mrs. Charlotta Bass, is the leading paper published by our race in California. It is a large paper, well edited and exerts a powerful influence in the section it serves. The Golden State Life Insurance Company is a progressive insurance company operated by our group and is doing a splendid business.

Many of our people express themselves as being perfectly satisfied there and say they will never return to the South. Then, there are those who long to be back in the "Sunny" South again. Our people out there attend church very well in the morning, but nearly all the churches are empty at night. In order to have crowds at night most all the churches must have programs. There are many churches there, many being cults. The "Father Divine" cult is also well represented there.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

AN OPEN LETTER TO MISS CHRYSTALEE MAXWELL

Miss Chrystalee Maxwell,
c/o California Eagle Publ. Co.,
Los Angeles, California
Dear Miss Maxwell:

Since the publication of the issue of The California Eagle newspaper which printed a statement made by you concerning colored nurses at the Los Angeles County General Hospital and their opportunities for advancement, several Registered Nurses employed at the hospital have had occasion to read your statement and to make a few comments themselves.

Now, in order to refresh our minds, we herewith quote your statement: "I don't see very much opportunity for advancement of colored nurses at the Los Angeles General Hospital. I see the Rest Home under construction by the Outdoor Life and Health Association, and similar institutions, as the way out and upward for the colored nurse who wants to do more than tend patients at the bedside."

It seems to be, as the case so often is, that some mis-information has been spread by someone. The many colored Registered Nurses who are employed at the "General" are always aware of the fact that most of the well-meaning public is mis-informed about many, many things pertaining to the hospital; but, when the public reads a statement made by one Registered Nurse about some thirty or forty Registered Nurses, the public would naturally be led to believe that the ONE Nurse would know what she was talking about.

For your information, Miss Maxwell, and for the benefit of the readers of the California Eagle, the colored Registered Nurses at The Los Angeles County General Hospital make the following statements which are substantially correct:

1. About two-thirds of the colored R. N.'s at L. A. C. G. H. do not "tend patients at the bedside."

2. There are colored Registered Nurses on duty in Surgical Treatments, Delivery Room, Admitting Room, Surgery, Clinics, Dressings, and in other departments.

3. TO-DAY there is opportunity for those colored nurses who help make the opportunity for themselves by forging away at greater heights to be attained in Nursing at one of the finest, most modern, most well-equipped institutions of its kind in the world.

4. FIFTEEN YEARS AGO, Miss Maxwell, your statement would have seemed plausible to some who had no vision for the future.

5. The colored R. N.'s inwth the President dates from G. H., in ALL its departments during all its shifts, day and night and see what the situation truly is TO-DAY.

6. The colored nurses at the L. A. C. G. H. owe too much to pioneer Negro citizens and civic leaders in Los Angeles, to allow such a statement as yours, here quoted, to go uncorrected and unchalleged.

Yours very sincerely,
MILDRED E. SUGGS, R.N.
(For colored R. N.'s at L. A. C. G. H.)

Ira T. Bryant Still Controls AME S. S. Union

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 4. (ANP)—Despite renewed efforts to oust him, reports at last weekend indicated that Ira T. Bryant, storm petrel of the A. M. E. Church, was still in control of that denomination's Sunday School Union and its affiliate, the quarter-million dollar printing concern, by virtue of his position of secretary-treasurer of the Sunday School Union.

For 20 years a fight has been waged to bring the big printing plant under direct supervision of the denomination, but so far all efforts have been unsuccessful. Last Wednesday Bishop J. S. Flipper, senior bishop of the Sunday School Union's board of directors was quoted as saying the amendment (providing for absorption of the printing plant by the general canference), must go through or he would resign.

As evidence of his determination to bring the matter, to a head the senior bishop refused to preside over the election of officers of the board. Crux of the whole controversy lies in the fact that the charter under which the printing plant operates, renders it independent of the church, because its board of directors is self-perpetuating and because its secretary-treasurer, Mr. Bryant, is appointed by the board and not by the General Conference.

Directors who must be residents of Tennessee are elected for three years and officers' salaries are fixed by the board. If Bishop Flipper refuses to preside at a new election, the charter permits old officers to hold on indefinitely. E. A. Selby, named to succeed Bryant at the last General Conference, has failed, through court action, to unseat him. The court held that the church had no authority to elect Sunday School Union officials. There the matter rests, with the church membership awaiting the next move by principals in the controversy.

Mrs. Bass,
Editor California Eagle,
Los Angeles, Calif.
Editor:

I have been a resident of Los Angeles for many years, in which time I spent eleven years in the Los Angeles public schools.

While in school I noticed the many races that studied together in harmony without even giving so much as a thought to, the distinctions of color and creed.

It was easy to observe that those that were not Americans by birth or those who were not white in color easily adapted themselves to the American education.

Since it is not so hard to adapt ones-self, if he is willing, to the learnings of another, why shouldn't there be some subject in which to test the adaptability of the white race.

A tenth of the United States population is Negro. The people largely responsible for the tremendous agricultural South is Negro. The race that produced many heroes in every war the United States participated, but who are given very little recognization. are Negroes. The race that has produced some of the most outstanding athletes in the world are Negroes. A race that is very prominent in the entertainment world is the Negro. A race that produces many expert scientists, writers, doctors, lawyers, etc. in which little or nothing is mentioned about, is the Negro race.

Since the Negro is so outstanding in every field that he has had the opportunity to be outstanding why shouldn't there be in the public schools not only of Los Angeles, but the whole United States, courses in Negro History? It is true that a few schools teach Negro history, but none of the Los Angeles schools are included in this few.

The population of this community is largely Negro and the schools in this vicinity are largely attended by Negro students.

If the local papers and the various organizations were willing to cooperate and fight to the finish for the benefit of having Negro history taught in Junior and Senior Highs and Night Schools of our locale we of our race could walk up another step of the ladder of Negro upliftment.

Since your paper voices for better opportunities for our race, sometime when you have ample space, write something with reference to the teaching of Negro history so as to convey to your readers this idea.

Motto: We are winning a fight for Negro teachers, let's win a fight for the public education of Negro history.

Thanks.

LEON E. STEWART, JR.

Your letter interests me a great deal, Mr. Stewart. Certainly I agree with you that the achievements of Negroes should be given recognition in our schools of learning. Certainly the great deeds of Afro-Americans should stand out in a manner in which all people would see them.

However, I do not agree with you when you argue for a "Negro History" class. The contribution of Negroes have not been of limited racial application, therefore I cannot perceive why these "Black Man's gifts" should be studied independently. What we should fight for is an appropriate recognition in the regular, compulsory history classes for both teachers and pupils. We do not wish to take credit for a special "Negro culture" but desire that our part in creating a composite AMERICAN culture should be accredited. As you state, the Negro's glorious military history in the nation should be recounted in our public schools--but not in separate "Negro History" class.

The work of men like Frederick Douglass, Booker T. Washington, Wm. DuBois, and James Weldon Johnson did not effect Negroes alone, but dealt its greatest impact upon the consciousness of the nation as a whole. In a country such as ours, we must always build away from any sense of exclusiveness. We do not care particularly to match the greatness of one Negro against that of another, but, rather, we desire to see what stature they assume when placed beside other leaders. We know that Afro-America's great would not come off badly in such a contest. We feel that Edison would not dwarf Carver, that Longfellow could not overshadow Johnson, or Bancroft, the historian, eclipse DuBois.

On such a hypothesis—that Negroes be included in their just and deserved positions as great Americans — may we fight for recognition.

Victim Father of Prominent Entertainer

Proprietor Stabbed As He Sought to Protect Waitress in His Employ

Police played a game of hide-and-seek all last night, seeking the slayer of Alex Joplin, 65-year old restaurant proprietor, father of Legatha Gomez, well known dancer, who is now in San Diego.

Joplin was stabbed to death late last evening as he sought to protect a waitress in his employ at 4515 S. Central avenue, from an attack by her former sweetheart, James Jenkins, address unknown.

CROWD GATHERS

The murder, sending Newton street police cars and ambulances speeding up the avenue, and gathering a crowd from blocks around, was the second involving Negroes within 24 hours and the third within a week. Officers at the Newton street station said the Eastside experienced the worse crime wave in the past seven days in the history of the station.

Joplin was stabbed across the chest, in the arm pit and across the wrist, severing arteries and veins. He bled to death before radio police reached the scene.

Witnesses to the murder were Cliff Ritchie, 4750 S. Central avenue; Frank Cook, 1029 E. 12th St.; and Hattie Haves, the girl whom Joplin was protecting, of 912 E. 46th street.

They told police Jenkins came into the cafe about 7 p. m., and without preamble struck the girl with his fist, inflicting a severe bruise on the side of her face. He then turned to go out, changed his mind and reapproached the cowering woman

Walking toward her, he drew a long bladed knife. The girl, seeing no avenue of escape, threw a ketchup bottle at her assailant.

PROPRIETOR INTERVENES

It was then that the aged proprietor intervened. Joplin attempted to remonstrate with Jenkins, whereupon the slayer turned on him, slashing wildly. Joplin staggered to the rear where he fell.

Jenkins evaded the grasps of witnesses and dashed down an alley. Upon a tip from bystanders that he was seen at 29th and Central, his clothing changed, police went to that vicinity, but he had eluded them. At press time he was still at large.

Griffith Wins Jim Crow Case; Praised

B-U-L-L-E-T-I-N

In a double colum front page spread yesterday, the Daily Journal, official paper for the city and county of Los Angeles, told of Attorney Thomas L. Griffith's brilliant legal victory. The "Daily Journal" is one of the few outstanding legal publications of the nation, and this marks the first time a Negro attorney has been given such marked recognition in its pages. Space given the Griffith story exceeds that accorded the announcement of Judge Bowron's candidacy for mayor of Los Angeles.

In a sensational decision this week, Judge Raymond Brockmann of the Municipal Court, held that to advance price when serving Negroes alcoholic beverages is illegal discrimination. Just three weeks previously, the same justice handed down an opinion on the Shepherd vs. Wylie case which stated that the complete refusal to serve liquor to a Negro or anyone else is within the law.

The paradox is explained in a "Memorandum Opinion" which justifies the Shepherd vs. Wylie decision on ground that the confusion of state laws in regard to the service of liquor is so great that dealer should be given complete discrimination as to whom he serve. On the other hand, the report reads, in the instance of Devane's Restaurant, at 12th and Main Street, discrimination on such an obvious racial basis existed that the Wylie vs. Shepherd demurrer opinion could not hold.

Devane's Restaurant refused to sell William Stubbs, a Negro, a 10 cent glass of beer unless he paid $1.00 for it.

The restaurant's attorney by demurrer asked Judge Raymond Brockmann to dismiss the case filed by Stubbs' Attorney, Thomas L. Griffith, Jr., upon the ground that the proprietor has the right to refuse service of alcoholic beverage to any person at any time. As his authority he cited the decision previously handed down by Judge Brockman.

Prosecution By Division of Industrial Welfare Looms; Commend Gus Hawkins

Amendment to State Labor Code, Investigation and Prosecution by Chief Labor Commissioner Results of Fight Inaugurated By California Eagle

An amendment to the state labor code, investigation and prosecution by the chief labor commissioner of California, and prosecution by the Division of Industrial Welfare are effects of the EAGLE'S campaign against the notorious Wilshire Apartment Service, this week brought to a sensational culmination by Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins.

The now-famed Apartment Service case first smashed headlines in the EAGLE more than two months ago. It was disclosed at that time that the organization secured contracts with apartment house owners and tenants whereby it supplied girls to perform janitorial duties. All wages from "clients" were paid directly to the Service, which in turn often refused payment to domestics on the technical ground that they had broken one or several of the provisions in the lengthy legal contract all workers were forced to sign at the time of employment.

The case, after unsuccessful presentation to the Division of Labor Enforcement, Deputy A. L. Barnes, was taken to Assemblyman Hawkins who immediately corresponded with Fred B. Wood of the Office of Legislative Counsel. Since--even if paid—the girls' salaries were below minimum wage law requirements. Wood first took the Assemblyman's request of investigation to Mrs. Mable Kinney, chief of the Division of Industrial Welfare, charged with the enforcement of the minimum wage law. She reviewed the opinion of the Attorney General, issued June 27, 1937, that labor contractors such as the Wilshire Apartment are liable to the minimum wage legislation. The Division, she stated, is prepared to enforce that law.

Mr. Wood then applied to Mr. Thomas Barker, chief Deputy labor commissioner, charged with the enforcement of the payment-of-wages law and with the enforcement of the employment agency act (Chapter 1 of Part 6 of the Labor Code). Mr. Barker held that in so far as the Wil-

GETS NYA APPOINTMENT

DR. WILLIAM R. CARTER, general missionary, Southern California Baptist Convention, who was informed this week by the National Youth Administration, in Washington, of his appointment to membership on the California State Advisory committee of the NYA. It was pointed out the appointment enables Negroes to become an integral part in the effective administration and planning of the program for the benefit of the youth of the state. The appointment was made on the recommendation of Miss Anne G. Treadwell, director of the National Youth Administration of California, who has manifested interest in the Negro youth of the state. It is believed Dr. Carter is fitted to serve as a member of this committee, having devoted the greater part of his life to the educational interests of the youth of the race.

Assertedly charged fifty cents for a five cent cup of coffee at Freddie's Cafe, on the highway just before entering Bakersfield, Jack Blurton, 38, was the victim of gross discrimination on his trip from Oakland to Los Angeles last week, reports state.

Blurton, a resident of Los Angeles for thirty-five years, got off a bus of the Los Angeles Sedan Service with other passengers just outside of Bakersfield to get refreshments. Didn't Want Marriage to 'Go On Rocks'

Separated Few Days Before Suicide - Murder; Parents of Child of One

Because Dwight Dorsey, 34-year old latherer, could not stand to see his second marriage "go on the rocks", he is dead today and his second wife, pretty and young Mrs. Marguerite Dorsey, 20, lies beside him in the morgue.

Dorsey shot and killed his wife late Tuesday evening while she lay in bed in their home at 2125 W. 29th Street, then turned the gun on himself, firing a bullet into his brain. Mrs. Dorsey died instantly. Dorsey died yesterday afternoon at the General Hospital to which he had been transferred from the Georgia Street hospital. Inquest will be held into both deaths tomorrow.

Dorsey's father-in-law, Simon Brooks, who was in an adjoining room when the tragedy took place, told the police the pair had separated several days before. Dorsey attempted a reconciliation and spent Monday night at his home. The couple came home Tuesday evening about 8 and went into their bedroom. A short while later Brooks says he heard shots, rushed into find his daughter dead and Dorsey dying.

Because of the position of the bodies and the reconciliation that it was believed had been effected the night before, police hinted at a suicide pact, but this was discredited by intimates of the couple who said Mrs. Dorsey had told her husband she would never again live with him. The two were parents of a one year old child.

Clarence Muse- A-TALKIN' TO YOU

AT LAST the PRESS, I mean the NEGRO PRESS is becoming conscious of the FACT that Negro actors in the PICTURE BUSINESS, need some help and appreciation from the PATRONS and PRESS. It is a worthy stand that EARL DANCER and EARL MORRIS have taken in this matter and I HOPE it will inspire these 12,000,000 NEGROES who flock to the MOVIE THEATRES to write and ASK FOR MORE COLORED artists on the screen. But I am not in favor of MAKING it a RACE ISSUE based on PREJUDICE, because I don't think the neglect is due to PREJUDICE. Simply we have not made our importance at the BOX OFFICE felt. This is a business of MAKING MONEY, and if we would make the producers KNOW that we are BOX-OFFICE by our letters and that WE WILL NOT keep going to the theatre, if we DO NOT GET a fair proposition among our ACTORS AND STARS, then and then only I feel that this great ECONOMIC PROBLEM will be solved. We admit that WE LIKE CLARK GABLE, ROBERT MONTGOMERY, JOAN CRAWFORD, Franchont TONE, JIMMY CAGNEY, GRETA GARBO, BETTE DAVIS and many others on the screen. We like them for their ARTISTRY. But it is reasonable that WE would LIKE THEM BETTER and go more often IF SOME OF OUR stars that are capable could appear to good advantage with these favorites. THIS IS absolutely NATURAL! So if the PRESS WILL continue this fight on LEGITIMATE GROUNDS, day after day the TIME WILL soon come, when there will BE NO FIGHTS about giving colored EXTRAS the right PAY, NO need for SIT-DOWN STRIKES. The bottom of the whole trouble and I have been PREACHING THIS for years, we MUST PROVE BOX-OFFICE. And that is proven when any COLORED ARTIST can receive TEN PER CENT of 12,000,000 in the FORM OF LETTERS that BOOST. Not letters asking for JOBS, the same as the ARTIST, BUT BOOST, asking no favors, CHEERING THE RACE UP the ladder. CREATE the NEED for Colored artists and that is definitely the JOB OF THE COLORED PRESS, hoping to get its reward when THERE ARE TEN or TWELVE real NEGRO STARS that must be plugged by the STUDIOS in NEGRO PAPERS. If that is the intention of the NEGRO PRESS they will win and win SOON. BUT if it is JUST the old story of RACE PREJUDICE it means NOTHING. GUILD, ACTORS, and PRODUCERS are governed by the BOX OFFICE.

Appearance of Dr. Bunche On Eagle Airing Lauded

In Los Angeles until the first of September is Dr. Ralph Bunche, Ph. D. from Harvard, famed anthropologist and former UCLA star athlete, just returned from a two-year jaunt around the world on a fellowship of the Social Science Research Council, one of 11 aspired for by five hundred of the nation's leading young scholars. Dr. Bunche travelled and studied extensively in Europe, Africa and the Orient. His appearance on the Negro Newspaper of the Air last night (KGFJ, 8:15) was accredited with being one of the finest presentations the program has yet offered its radio audience.

Much of the Professor's material was gathered on a gruelling five-thousand mile safari through Tanganyika, terminating at Uganda, on the Ethiopian border. On this jaunt, Bunch was accompanied only by a cook, a Ford, of the whimsical variety, and an interpreter (a former student of the Professor at Howard). Bunch attributed a blank refusal on the part of the Italian government to allow him to cross the border to the fact that "the war in Ethiopia is not over. There is still much fighting going on."

A great deal of police brutality in South Africa has abated since the "Veresniging Location" riot of some months ago. In common with its American counterriot, the New York City 'affair' of '32, this riot, a protest against invading "labor pick-up" cars, has effected widespread reforms.

Leaving the dark continent, Los Angeles' former basketball hero visited Seychelles Island in the Indian ocean, boasting a completely mulattoe population. Next in line were the Dutch East Indies—Java, Sumatra, and Borneo. These comparatively small Islands are inhabited by sixty million exploited natives, under the control of approximately two hundred thousand whites.

Catapulting into the Sino-Japanese conflict, Bunch soon arrived in Singapore—90 miles from Canton, being bombed daily at the time. Here the Uclan exhoop artist barely avoided death. A dutchman with whom he was acquainted proposed that they "run over" to Canton's International Settlement in order to witness a bombardment—occuring then regularly at ten and seven o'clock daily. Bunch agreed, but received a letter from his wife that afternoon beseeching him to move with caution. Thus discouraged, the adventure was postponed. Two would-be bombardment-observers were horrified to learn, next day, that the Canton-Singapore train on which they would have travelled had been blown to bits!

In the Phillipine Islands, Professor Bunch noted that American Imperialism is considerably less harsh than that of other nations. Queried as to the Phillipine independence movement, he opined that fear of the Japanese had greatly reduced its intensity.

Arriving in Japan, he states that pre-conceptions of "war-conditions" were greatly shaken. He discloses that there is no surface strain evident, that Japanese theatres and dance halls boom. However, Bunch pointed out that restrictions on the use of gasoline, leather, etc., etc., revealed certain tension.

Material gathered on the extensive journey will result in two books. Dr. Bunch, with his wife and two small children, who accompanied him on the European leg of his globe-circling jaunt, will remain in Los Angeles until the first of September, when they will return to Howard.

Issue Report On Federated Club Confab in L. A.

The following official report on the recent United C. F. C. W. Clubs convention which met here was issued last week.

Enthusiasm ran high Tuesday last, as more than three hundred clubwomen gathered in their thirty-second annual convention at the Second Baptist church. President Emeritus Eliza A. Warner opened the United Federated program as per scheduled and arranged, and the spirit of the theme, Today and The More Abundant Life, was on.

Boy Scouts led the flag salute each morning and also were escorts to his honor the Mayor when he brought warm words of welcome to the delegates Tuesday afternoon. He was introduced by Mrs. Esther T. Greenly, Mrs. Ada Jackson of Oakland, responded with grace and poise as she always does.

Mrs. Tarea Hall Pitman and Mrs. Mabel Gray, both immediate past presidents were presented at various times throughout the convention and were lauded for the very marvelous work they had accomplished during the past four years. It was their's to preside alternately along with other past presidents during the convention and were the recipients of loads of flowers and many lovely gifts.

Past President Etta V. Moxley glowingly expressed the feeling of every clubwoman of the hostess section in her welcome greeting to the fifty-six delegates from the northern section.

The lovely voices of such outstanding artists as Mrs. Jessie Cole Grayson, past president of Oregon state; Miss Mable Massengale, past president; Pearl Lowery Winters, Miss Talma Brooks, Miss Gladys Dent, Mrs. Hattie Norwood, Mrs. Sarah Brown, Mrs. Ruth P. McGregor, and others thrilled the very souls of their listening audience.

Outstanding speakers such as Miss Nannie Burrougs, president National Training School for Girls at Washington, D. C.; Mrs. C. D. Fredericks, Mrs. Rosiland Stocks of El Centro; Mr. Frank S. Maxwell, Ph.G.; Dr. T. L. Griffith, bringing welcome on behalf of the churches; Mrs. Loraine Baines, welcome on behalf of the hostess section to the reception; Mrs. Bertha Wright, in an interesting reading, and Mrs. S. Anna McGruder of San Francisco, responding to words of welcome, were more than enthusiastically received.

Mrs. Billie MacFarland, the general chairman for the convention, who was also responsible for the early California decorations throughout the convention hall; Mrs. Ardelia Anglin, the chairman of the reception committee, and Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew, who served as pianiste; Bishop Sara Butler, who directed music; and Mrs. Esther T. Greenly, the chairman of program, together with Mrs. Ruth Williams, cateress, wishes to use this medium in which to thank all who in any way contributed toward whatever success may have been accomplished during our convention.

The convention is indeed grateful to acknowledge the very graciousness of his honor, the governor of California, Frank F. Merriam, for his words of greeting through his representative, also the presentation of the gorgeous flag, our national emblem, from our own Golden State Insurance by that illustrious founder and president, William J. Nickerson jr. Also, in like manner, are we grateful to that grand person, Supervisor Gordon L. McDonough, for his presentation to us of a beautiful loving cup to be used as a symbol of achievement, to that club which excels all others in community service during each club year. The Five and Over Charity club, which so beautifully entertained at breakfast for the delegates, was also presented a lovely and exquisite thing of beauty, a loving cup by his honor, Senator Wm. Gibbs McAdoo, of which we are justly proud. Our hearts are overflowing with pride and deep and sincere appreciation for the grand, and beautiful reception accorded the delegates in the Dr. Ruth Temple granada by the Beauticians and Cosmetologists association, whose president is Mrs. Fannie Blanchette-Travis.

Our sessions were glorious and presided over as only our loved and esteemed Eliza A. Warner, president emeritus, can preside, who with dignity, grace, and poise led the grand fashion show, which was presented by Mrs. Julia J. Christian, who is the creator of the idea in our federation.

With only one regret do we close this our thirty-second annual federated convention. Due to a technicality of law, executive board was legally advised by an attorney-at-law, that the election of officers be held in abeyance for the present.

Esther T. Greenly, reporter.

EAGLE'S FIGHT—

shire Apartment Service is failing to pay wages earned, he is proceeding against it under section 216 of the Labor Code. It is said that the commissioner's agents at present are at work to secure conclusive evidence concerning the ability or lack of ability of the labor contractors to pay. As soon as the investigation is completed, the commissioner will proceed against the Service criminally.

In addition, Mr. Barker is acting against the company for issuing a check to an employee when there were not sufficient funds in the bank with which to cover it.

The commissioner further held that the only permanent solution to these "domestic slave-rackets" is to provide for the licensing of labor contractors of this nature under the employment agency act, since at present the Wilshire Apartment Service and others do not come under the strict legal definition of "employment agency". It was suggested that an amendment to section 1551 of the Labor Code be prepared to cover the situation.

The Office of Legislative Counsel has agreed and officially stated that it will undertake the preparation of such an amendment and any other additional legislation that may be necessary. After being "fool-proofed" by submission to labor experts, the measure will be placed in the hands of Assemblyman Hawkins.

Welfare and labor leaders joined in congratulating the EAGLE yesterday in the successful climax of the case, which it had brought to the public via ink-and-paper, radio and public address. The swift and efficient action of Assemblyman Hawkins was also commended.

To Hold Sale at Eastern-Columbia

In October, 1888 California was quite naturally unimpressed by the start of a struggling little store offering rugs, lamps, clocks, and curtains on monthly payments. But that little store which was opened with less than $200.00 worth of merchandise has grown and prospered with the west until today, after half a century, its management states it has grown into a coastwide group of Eastern-Columbia Stores.

One tiny shop developed into

an institution which in the past 12 months has served over 100,000 families, many of whom according to J. M. Sieroty, are the second and even the third generation of Eastern-Columbia's original customers.

This year marks the Golden Anniversary of the start of these stores which involved the names of such pioneer merchants as Adolph Sieroty, Henry Sieroty, Isadore Shemanski, and Joseph Shemanski. These men were among the first merchants of the country to popularize the small-payment plan of buying which is so popular with the American public today.

The second generation of these old California families are carrying on the traditions of the founders, and give Eastern-Columbia the distinction of having served Californians for 50 years under one management and with the attending stability and consistency of policy.

According to Mr. Sieroty, 30 stores located from Los Angeles to Seattle have combined their vast buying power to celebrate this Golden Jubilee; 20 buyers and managers have shopped the country's markets from New York to Los Angeles for the past 4 months; over 1000 employees were asked for suggestions to make this Jubilee the outstanding event of Eastern-Columbia's history. Mr. Sieroty added that plans are completed, and all activities are keyed for a grand opening on Monday, August 1st. LIBRARY BOOK NOTES

By Miriam Matthews

A splendid story of international finance intrigue is told in Christina Stead's "House of All Nations", one of the outstanding fiction titles of this season. The plot centers around the Parisian banking headquarters of Bertillion Freres, conducted by Jules, a mercurial genius whom people liked instinctively and William, the cold, restraining older brother. Jules Bertillion's credo was "No one ever made enough money," and so he managed matters magnificently until the inevitable collapse occurred. He was then forced to flee with his entire family and gold supply to Esthonia. Restless in this enforced idleness and luxury, he vanished to begin money-making anew. If you are interested in knowing how international financiers operate in these post-crash days and how gold leaves its mark on these shrewd, restless, cynical, pleasure-loving, client-worshiping money-changers, "The House of All Nations" is a book you shall not want to miss.

Using new material that is of interest to every American reader, Neil Swanson writes an excellent historical novel called "Forbidden Ground" which is also a thriller. The scene is laid in the Lake Superior country during the American Revolution and the story concerns itself chiefly with Baril MacGregor, son of a prosperous fur-trader whose headquarters were in Detroit. Since his father had been ruined by the British granting a monopoly of the fur trading business to the Northwestern Company headed by John Gorth, Basil fled to forbidden territory (Lake Superior Country) and made war on the British by capturing canoes laden with fur pelts. A romance is nicely woven into the plot through the daughter of John Gorth who is determined to marry Basil even though he repulses her. There is not a dull page in this story which is heartily recommended for adventure lovers.

The same audience will also enjoy Ridgwell Cullum's "One Who Kills", a story in which Timothy and Roger O'Gawn, twins, come to America to seek adventure and fortune. They penetrate the Canadian northwest and encounter all you could ask in the way of love and peril. Timothy falls in love with a girl who is part Sioux while he is hunting gold in Alaska. Trouble arises when he fights John Drane, a killer. As a result, he and his girl are forced to flee through the wildernes pursued by Roger (Tim's brother) who has joined the Northwest Mounted Police. This is a lively outdoor romance and adventure story by the author of "The Tiger of Cloud River" which will be enjoyed by his many followers.

Borrow these books from the Vernon Branch Library, 4504 South Central Avenue, and the Helen Jackson, 2330 Naomi Avenue.

CUMMINGS REFUSES LYNCH BILL ADVICE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 11, (ANP) — Representative Louis Ludlow of Indiana last week renewed efforts to force the Department of Justice to undertake a study of anti-lynching legislation for the information of the next Congres.

In a letter to Atty. Gen. Homer S. Cummings, Ludlow proposed that the department consider a proposal "to bring lynching within the catagory of Federal crimes and give the Federal Bureau of Investigation authority to investigate every lynching wherever it may occur."

U. S. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings last Tuesday informed Representative Louis Ludlow (Dem., Indiana), that responsibility for Federal anti-lynching legislation rests "primarily and unmistakably" upon Congress and that it would be "presumptious" for him to volunteer advice.

Bond Succeeds Bond at Dillard

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 11. (ANP)—Dillard university this week announced the appointment of Dr. J. Max Bond as academic dean of the institution, succeeding his brother, Dr. Horace Mann Bond, resigned. Dr. J. Max Bond is a graduate of the Chicago YMCA college and holds the M. A. degree from the University of Pittsburgh and Ph. D. degree from the University of Southern California.

During the past four years Dr. Bond has served as supervisor of the educational program for Negroes under the Tennessee Valley authority. He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, the Southern Sociological society, and the Regional Planning society, and will assume his duties at Dillard on September 1.

AUTHOR'S WIDOW TO TELL FATAL ACCIDENT

DAMARISCOTTA, Me., Aug. 11. (AN)—Mrs. Grace Nail Johnson, widow of James Weldon Johnson, noted author who was killed in a railroad crossing accident here recently, stated from her room at Lincoln County Memorial hospital last week where she is recovering from her injuries that she will give the only story of the tragedy over her signature and grant her first interview when she returns to her summer home, "Five Acres", at Great Barrington, Mass.

LeBerthon Addresses Omega Men

"The fact that my education went only as far as the third year in high school makes me eminently suited to talk to college men" stated famed Evening News columnist, Ted LeBerthon, at a breakfast of the Omega fraternity Sunday morning.

Introduced by "Gab Stuff" J. Cullen Fentress, the columnist appeared as a part of the fraternity's "The Negro in Journalism" program. Each year the organization studies colored advancement in some industry or profession.

Leberthon pointed out that "metropolitan papers should employ Negroes in a number commensurate with the Negro circulation . . . I look forward to the day when the man sitting at the next desk to me is a Negro."

Leaving the subject of journalism, the columnist, admittedly "prejudiced in favor of the little man", took a healthy blast at white supremacy. "Last night", he stated, "my wife and I were at some people's house for the evening. I excused myself early, saying I had to get to bed because I had to drive fifteen miles to a breakfast in the morning. I told them where and with whom that breakfast was. There happened to be a southern actor among the company and that, of course, brought on a nice argument.'

"Finally he asked me 'Are you a good Christian'. I told him that God would know more about that than me. Anyway, he stated 'God never meant the races to intermingle or intermarry'. Thereupon I pointed out that all through Venezuela, Panama, Chile, -- all of Central America--God evidently had been looking the other way for quite a number of years.

Conquered Shall Conquer

"The Conquered Shall Conquer", said LeBerthon as he commented upon the Negro's achievements in the worlds of music, and poetry. He held that "the Negro's imprint upon white America has been greater than that of whites upon him. The millions of white city-dwellers warm their hearts at the music of the Negro. And for a poet, I'll put my money on James Weldon Johnson."

After his talk LeBerthon answered questions; stated that his shift from "Night Court" to "In Hollywood" was voluntary. Omegas considered the breakfast one of their most interesting.

Lewis Narrowly Escapes Injury

Endangering Ted Lewis last Friday, a little man went berserk in the Club Roberti at San Francisco with a ten-inch carving knife in his hand, and for 30 minutes held two score patrons at bay until he was beaten insensible and carried out, it was reported here this week.

The knife wielder attacked Lewis, "the high-hatted tragedian of jazz", and Jan Garber, "idol of the airlanes", who were entertaining parties in the club. The club was a shambles when the fighting ended, but except for some severe bruises, no one was hurt. Tables were upset. Chairs, dishes and glassware smashed.

Lewis is still featuring Charles Wittie, his colored "double", and this season the little Bea Williamson, former New York Cotton Club dancer.

READY FOR ELKS

HON. ROY S. BOND, Chairman of the Committee of Arangements for the Elks grand lodge convention at Baltimore, August 21-27, who has everything "all set" for the invading antlers. Mr. Bond, an attorney of note has practiced law for twenty-three years in the State of Maryland. (C)

Elks Annual Conclave Set August 21

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 11—What will go down as the liveliest and most controversial session in the history of Elkdom will be held in Baltimore, August 21 to 28, when the I. B. P. O. E. of W. meets for its annual conclave.

Indications are that delegates to the Convention will attempt to settle the long smoldering resentment over the administration of the Order.

The rising tide of dissatisfaction was made evident some months ago when members of the organization received a copy of the organizations' By-laws and Constitution, showing, among other things that the book not only contained the set of regulations adopted at Cleveland last year, but also a multitude of vitally important amendments which neither delegates nor lay members knew anything about.

STEM REVOLT

The inference drawn in Capital circles was that J. Finley Wilson, Grand Exalted Ruler and his board of strategy had drawn a set of rules primarily intended to stem any open revolt at the forthcoming session, and to hamstring the activities of Attorney A. H. Collins, of Alexandria, Va., president of the Virginia Elks' Association.

Collins it is known for some time bitterly criticised the administration, as a result of which he was tried and convicted by the Grand Lodge and fined $150.00 with the alternative of apologizing to the Grand Lodge.

Father Divine Gets 50-Room Gotham Town House

NEW YORK CITY, Aug. 11. (ANP)—Father Divine, widely known Harlem cultist, this week continued to make a comeback and incidentally news for the nation's press, his latest claim to public attention being the presentation to him by a group of his followers of a 50-room mansion on Madison avenue overlooking Mount Morris park.

Father Divine's new dwelling is to serve as his private retreat where he can live in regal comfort and solitude with his 12 secretaries and a few of his chosen disciples. The building has a complete telephone system, with a switchboard and a dictaphone arrangement that will carry his message of "peace" to every part of the duplex building.

ELABORATE

The new home matches the elaborateness of the 500-acre country estate presented him two weeks ago at Krum Elbow, across the Hudson river from President Roosevelt's family seat. Previous owner of the Madison avenue home here was Dr. Elihu Katz, a stomach specialist, who declares he sold it to an agent, had no idea it was being bought for Father Divine. Shown through the house by Dr. Katz, the cult leader exclaimed: "Peace! It's wonderful. I never saw anything like it."

Nominal purchaser of the new Divine home was given as Frank Warner, white representative of the evangelist. He paid $24,000 cash for the property, "without making any ado whatever," Dr. Katz said. Speaking of the newly-acquired property, John Lamb, Divine secretary, said the evangelist would move in September.

He added, "The building provides one of the most completely equipped and beautifully furnished residences in the community. All floors throughout are covered with rubber-tiled flooring of neat design. Electrical fixtures are of the latest type and of beautiful design.

"Bathroom fixtures throughout are modernistic in harmonious color schemes. There is an electrical signal system throughout the house. When refurnished, it will be one of the most beautiful homes in the city. Dr. Katz will move to a new building on Fifth avenue." Father Divine, it was explained, will occupy the "master's suite" on the second floor, consisting of eight immense rooms, newly decorated and furnished.

Give Cause for Bilbo's Plan to Deport Negroes

CHICAGO, Aug. 11. (ANP)—Jealous of a Detroit group which claims the "glory" of backing the efforts of Sen. Theodore Bilbo of Mississippi to send at least 2,000,000 Negroes "back" to Africa, the Peace Movement of Ethiopia, a Negro organization with headquarters in Chicago, this week announced through Mrs. M. M. L. Gordon, executive president, that they and they alone were sponsors of the proposed legislattion.

"The bill sponsored by Sen. Bilbo is the work of our organization," Mrs. Gordon said. She declared the Peace Movement is six years old, that on Nov. 15, 1933, 400,000 signatures were sent to President Roosevelt with a request that "we be sent back to Africa", that President Barclay of Liberia favors the plan, and that every governor, senator and representative as well as leading newspapers had been memorialized on the matter.

"Sen. Bilbo brought our plan to the senate on last Jan. 21 in his fight against the anti-lynching bill," Mrs. Gordon said, "and on Feb. 7 a letter written by us to Sen. Bilbo, along with our memorial, was read by the senator on the floor of the senate."

Since then, the executive president said, the Mississippian has worked with the Peace Movement and in a recent communication told her, "I wish it were possible to have a petition of four or five million to present to the next session of congress at which time I will present my repatriation program in full."

Youngest Ph. D., 23, Now Eyes Job Bids

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (ANP—Carlton B. Goodlett, who when he received his Ph. D. from the University of California at Berkeley in June at the age of 23 became the youngest Negro to attain this high scholastic honor, is now considering offers of jobs for the coming scholastic year. Howard, Fisk and Wilberforce are mentioned prominently among the schools.

A graduate of Howard university before taking added study at California, Dr. Goodlett said in June:

"Negro institutions are better prepared to supply Negro youth with prerequisites for a life of usefulness than are white because of the tendency to develop an infinite belief in their powers."

The young doctor of philosophy was director of race relations at International house of California U. from 1936-37, a research asisstant in the Institute of Child Welfare, and student instructor in psychology from 1936-1938. His doctor's thesis, "A Comparative Study of Adolescent Interests in Two Socio-Economic Groups," concerned itself with high and low economic income groups in Oakland, dwelling especially upon the psychological development of the Negro child and adolescents.

RAILROAD CLATTER

Every Porter A Reporter

Well, dear readers, the Madam has made a hasty exit for Lexington, Ky., and will be gone for over a month. That means that your "Railroad Clatter" scribe will be foot-loose and at leisure to do as he pleases, go where he pleases, and act as he pleases without being hauled before the War Department the following G. M. Now I am telling you this out in front, so if you happen to see me some place where you think I have no business, don't mess with me because I am doing the best I can. There is only one thing that ties me down while the Madam is looking over the fast racehorses in her old home town and that is her young poultry ranch. She got the idea that she wanted to raise chickens and ducks and as luck would have it she has left a gang of fowl behind for your writer to water and feed, which means that I have to get home before the roosters start to crowing in the wee hours of the morning. Yet with all the chickens that she left behind, I can't eat a one. You see she knows them all by name and she got me told out in front that when she comes back home the first thing she is going to do is call each one of them and if they all don't answer the roll call she will know that I have pitched a party. If any of my good readers have a way to get around that one I shall be glad for them to drop me a line, which reminds me of the man who was in the middle of the ocean and remarked: "Water, water, water everywhere, but not a drop to drink". Chickens, chickens everywhere, but not a one to eat!

Birthday Greetings

Many happy returns to the following readers who celebrate their birthdays during the month of August: Thomas A. Long, Emanuel Gradington, J. L. Hill, mgr of the Angelus Funeral Home and S. W. Parks, Pullman Porter. Congratulations.

J. Ponder, Passes, Largest Railroad Funeral in 15-Years

J. Ponder, veteran Los Angeles Pullman Porter had closed a colorful career last Saturday when over 100 porters passed silently by his casket and viewed the last they will ever see in this world of their co-worker. Resting in peace in a handsome gray steel casket, buried in beautiful flowers, portraying the great esteem in which the veteran of the rails was held by his many co-workers, Jim Ponder, a native of Georgia sped on to the Great Beyond on his last train ride. It was by far the largest Pullman Porter funeral since the passing of Jim Montgomery. Ponder was known for his dry wit and humor and many are the laughs that he gave his fellow workers. 33-years in the service of the Pullman Company brought out many officials to pay their respects to a servant who had weathered many years of strict discipline and closed his books with an unusual record. The deceased entered the service of the company way back in 1905, and the writer well remembers when he transferred from Portland to Los Angeles, it was Jim Ponder who had charge of the Pullman car in which the writer traveled to this district. The following porters were pall-bearers: Wm. Thedford, J. W. Stafford, L. Jenkins, Sr., Johnny Moore, C. H. Levy and J. T. Ambrose. R. J. Murray read a resolution from the P. P. B. A. of A. and Rev. Eldridge made a few brief remarks.

Brotherhod of Sleeping Car Porters 13th Anniversary Ball Goes Rapidly Forward, Tickets Going Fast

Pullman Porters were clamoring for additional tickets at the Brotherhod office last week after disposing of the tickets which were mailed to them only recently. According to W. B. Holland, secretary-treasurer of the Brotherhood, the dance will be a big success. The entire cast of "Run Little Chillun" now playing at the Mayan theatre will attend the dance as well as many other celebrities of the theatrical world and with Benjamin's Ebony Serenaders furnishing the swing music a swell evening is sure to be had for those attending. The dance is being given in honor of the 13th anniversary of the International Brotherhod Of Sleeping Car Porters at the Elks' Auditorium.

Vice-President H. L. Armstrong Likes His Joy-riding With High Yallars

Our bashful vice-president, H. L. Armstrong was seen with a grin four feet long last week sliding down Washington Blvd. with a stunning looking high yallar. It seems as though Armstrong is stealing a march on the boys and the advertising committee is laying for him to see if they can place one of their auto streamers on the bumper of that high yallar's black coupe.

Among the attractions last Sunday in the social world was the Rainbow Tea given by the Trocadero club at the beautiful residence of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Martin, 1028 E. 45th St. The beautiful garden was the mecca of the elite of Los Angeles and many notable speakers were on the program. Mrs. M. L. Wright manipulated the Baby Grand in great style and had a way all her own in expressing her songs. She teaches music at Thompson College in Dallas. Mrs. Nannie Burroughs made a short talk as well as Mrs. Mabel Gray, president of the Federated Women's Clubs.

New Funeral Home Will Open Doors Next Sunday

ALPHONSO A. ROBINSON
President

When the new People's Funeral Home opens its doors at 4250 Central avenue Sunday, August 14, the event will be a milestone in the careers of three well known young business men who have fought their way up from handicapepd boyhoods to positions where they are in sight of the goals set by themselves long ago.

The three are: Alphonso A. Robinson, president; Norman W. Hopkins, vice president and general manager and John C. Blackwell, secretary-treasurer of a business institution designed by them to become one of the leading places of its kind in the west. Mrs. Francis Blackwell will act as lady attendant.

In issuing an open invitation to the general public to attend the formal opening of the People's Funeral Home next Sunday, Mr. Robinson told this newspaper that "we are sure that the funeral home will serve the very purpose implied in its name: that it will be a real People's Funeral Home, equipped and ready to give the very best in service to those who avail themselves of its facilities."

The familiar story of the rise of hard working and ambitious youth which sets a goal and works unremittingly toward that end is told and re-told in the life stories of the three officers of the People's.

Mr. Robinson was born on Texas farm and spent most of his boyhood performing the routine and tiresome task that are the lot of the farmer's son.

The family moved to Arizona in 1916 and seven years later Mr. Robinson came to Los Angeles because he wanted to become an embalmer and because he had a dream that some day he would be in business for himself.

He did become an embalmer and for the past 13 years has been on the staff at the Angelus Funeral Home. Meanwhile he has married and is the father of one child. Mr. Robinson is a member of Golden West Lodge of the Elks and is chairman of the Board of Trustees of Independent church.

Norman Hopkins was born in St. Louis, Mo. and like many another ambitious city youngster sold newspapers to help his family send him to grade and high high school in that city. He came to California twenty years ago because he had heard that this was a land of opportunity and because he had an ambition to become an embalmer.

NORMAN O. HOPKINS
Vice-President, General Manager

There were years of railroading--on Pullman cars and on dining cars--while Mr. Hopkins saved money to secure the professional training he needed. He did secure that training and came to Los Angeles nine years ago to take a position with the Angelus Funeral home where he won a host of friends and admirers. He is also married, the father of one child and a member of St. Philips Episcopal church.

When the People's Funeral Home opens its doors Sunday and Mr. Hopkins assumes his duty as vice president and manager of the new concern he will have started toward the satisfaction of the urge that led him to sell newspapers on St. Louis streets many years ago.

Like the president of the Home, Mr. Blackwell is a native of Texas. He was born near Gonzales on a farm and lived in San Antonio for many years. He is another former railroad man who used that work as a stepping stone.

Twenty-nine years ago, Mr. Blackwell came to Los Angeles where he has been engaged in business of various kinds, for many years. As a contractor and operator of a trucking business, he is known to many residents of the community while hundreds of others know him as the owner of house wrecking business.

JOHN C. BLACKWELL
Secretary-Treasurer

The building which will house the new People's Funeral Home has been thoroughly remodeled, inside and out, and completely renovated. The very latest and best in modern equipment will be installed to enable the Home to care for the wants of patrons in the minutest detail.

Sunday's formal opening ceremonies are open to the general public and a blanket invitation to every resident of the community to attend. Officers of the Home will be on hand to greet all of those who attend and show them through the new building.

DR. WM. A. MITCHELL FUNERAL HELD

Dr. William Arthur Mitchell, recently deceased San Diego physician and widely known in the Southland, was buried here Thursday from the chapel of the A. J. Roberts Mortuary. The body was shipped here by the Johnson-Sann Funeral Home of San Diego.

Relatives will motor here for the services and interment will be in Rosedale Cemetery.

Protest of the indiscreet remarks by Jake Powell, part time outfielder for the New York Yankees, and of subesquent action taken by Judge Landis have been forthcoming from all quarters.

The remark which split baseball's pants was made on an impromptu broadcast in Chicago two weeks ago and concerned Mr. Powell's fondness for "Beating niggers' heads" in his capacity as Policeman in Dayton, Ohio during the winter months. The action taken by Landis was to suspend Powell for ten days.

The whole country seemingly was incensed over the affair, the indignation arising not so much because Powell, as an officer of the law, has a passion for conking the heads of errant "jigs" who cross his path, but because speaking as a baseball player, he thus polluted the sacred atmosphere of American sports.

Westbrook Pegler, muck-raking syndicated columnist, (Fair Enough) turned his scathing pen toward the big-wigs of organized baseball in last Thursday's issue of the Evening News.

I quote from portions of his article.

"Judge Landis, who tried the case, and imposed the penalty would thus placate the Negro clientele of a business which trades under the name of the national game but has always treated the Negroes as Adolf Hitler treats the Jews.

"If all American employers did the same the entire Negro population of this country would starve, become public charges or go back to slavery. So Powell was only giving expression in crude, brief wordage to the unspoken but inflexible policy of the organized baseball industry. Moreover, his remark was thoughtless and probably untrue. Whereas the men who employ him and Judge Landis have given solemn study of the problem and confirmed their decision by their conduct.

Thus no Negro has ever been permitted to play ball or even to try out for a job in the organized industry, and Babe Ruth, were he a colored man, would not have risen above the rank and pay of the leaky roof leagues in which dark men operate as semipros.

"In the semipro business, however, for more than a quarter of a century white men have played on good terms against teams of Negroes. The white men have included major leaguers come down in the world, unemployed minor leaguers, part time mediocrities playing for a little extra cash and love of the game and some current major leaguer out barnstorming after their work was done.

"From the days of Rube Foster a famous colored pitcher, to the present, major league teams, as such, have avoided games with Negro teams, so there is no line of comparison, but certainly Foster and other individuals would have made good in the most expert company but for the great "verboten." Foster was good, and major league hitters who faced him in informal games admitted that he was ready in all respects but one.

"Many of the white players are southern men who would object to Negroes and the National organization of baseball is such that men must be farmed out to minor leagues playing in southern cities where a Negro would be unwelcome on the field in white company. These are practical difficulties which the magnates have had to consider, and it is no fault of theirs that the prejudice exists.

"However, they have been content to respect the prejudice and have never done anything to soften it up, even in northern cities where public opinion would have approved the granting of an opportunity to a pioneer Negro major or minor leaguer. By the time half a dozen Negroes had been given a chance, some to fail on their merits, no doubt, the novelty would wear off, and organized baseball in certain areas, at least would be free of discrimination on racial grounds."

CROUCH EARNS MATCH WITH ARIZMENDI; STOPS MILO IN 7TH

Johnny Hall K. O. Victor in 4th of Preliminary

By J. CULLEN FENTRESS

Well, we won't mince any words. Right from the bell, we're telling you that right here in this City of Angels there's one lad who is NOT an angel, that is, when he's in the ring. In face, we're going to get on the house-tops, if we are not arrested, and yell to all and sundry that within these city limits is a lad who in another twelve months is going to be knocking at the door of the lightweight champion of the world, and whoever happens to be wearing that toga can't deny this lad entrance.

Ladies and gentlemen, we give you sharpshooting Georgie Crouch. If you don't want him, it makes it unanimous. Lightweights will have very little of him.

Tuesday night at the Olympic auditorium, Georgie squared off against Joe Milo, from Detroit and other parts East. Milo, fighting on the style of Lou Ambers, has compiled a neat record in the ring, so we're told.

KOBRA KROUCH STRIKES

At any rate in Milo's buildup before the bout we read where he had met any number of Negro fighters and had taken them all. But, until Tuesday night he hadn't met Kool, Kalm, Kalculating Krouch (pardon, Georgie; it's Crouch, and not Krouch, but we couldn't miss the opportunity of using another K)

For four rounds the going was fast, furious and rather even. Then the fifth started, and so did K.K.K. Krouch (uh, there it is again). Kobra Krouch struck; swiftly and completely. Milo was shaken up. The sixth came and in the seventh, the Kobra struck again. This time, his striking was so deadly and convincing that Referee Frank Holborrow wasted little time, and stopped the bout, a thriller, with Milo on his feet, but taking a beating.

They put Crouch and Milo on before the other ten, featuring Babe Brandelli, a Crouch victim, and Wally Hally. We prefer our dessert last, and from the boos that greeted the Brandelli-Hally action we gather that the rest of the house felt the same way.

Referee Abe Roth called the latter bout a draw. We thought Brandelli had a shade the better of the dull action.

MAY MEET BABY

Pre-fight buildup stated the lad who made the best showing Tuesday night would get a crack at Baby Arizmendi, the Mexican Matador. Well, herewith and henceforth, that lad, as far as we are concerned, is Kobra Krouch, and what a match that would be!

In the preliminaries, Eddie Marcus kayoed Ray Robleto in the third; Johnny Hall flattened Frankie Hern in the fourth. It was the most sensational kayo of the night. Hall caught Hern in a corner and after some fast milling, backed away and Hern dropped from a right flush to the jaw. Dr. Lloyd Mace, the house physician had to work over the fallen fighter.

Serio Mendoza scored two knockdowns and took the opener from Frenchie Savidan in a punching duel.

Oscar Clisby Wins Medal in Eagle Golf Tournament

Oscar Clisby, Pasadena veteran of the fairways, added another laurel to his collection when he breezed around the Brookside Golf Course Sunday morning in 74 strokes to capture medalist honors in the California Eagle's First Annual Los Angeles Colored Amateur Golf Championship tournament. Two strokes behind "gentleman golfer" were O. R. Jackson and Munroe Boykin, deadlocked at 76 each. Only other player in the tournament to break 80 was Pee Wee Roscoe Jones, smooth-stroking featherweight.

The Woode brothers, both top-notchers, were either off form or were throwing off as neither made the championship grade. Carl Wode's 83 placed him in the Class "A" Biscailuz division and Herman Woode's 86 dropped him Archie Hairston, L. A.'s longest iron the Class C Quinn division hitter, and Simun Smythe, most improved golfer of the season, shot 80 and 81 respectively. Squeezing into the titular class was Harry Moore with 82.

C. M. Abernathy won the championship of the Class "C" division without a battle. Being the lone player in his bracket his score of 100 was a prize winner.

Playing in his first golf tournament, Judson Grant won the most thrilling match of the day. O. R. Jackson had Grant trailing until they hit the home-stretch. The match was all even at the 17th hole. On the 18th green, Grant's short put for a birdie and victory hit the back of the cup and jumped out. The overtime battle went to the 23rd hole where veteran Jackson met his waterloo from the putter of General Grant. In the other championship matches Oscar Clisby outclassed Archie Hairston, 7-5. Munroe Boykin toyed with his foe Sigmund Smythe to the tune of 4-3. Roscoe Jones defeated Harry Moore 5-3.

Class "A" Results

Dr. C. A. Bradford trounced C. E. Porter 5-3. Carl Woode was much too strong for Don Walker, winning 7-6. J. A. Buchanan eked out a 1 up victory over C. L. Lay. "Smiling" Cliff Williams used his handicap to advantage and surprised L. A. Minor, the pipe-smoker and coat-wearer expert, 3-2. "Heavyweight" Henry Lewis had too much endurance for Henry Martin, and won 3-2.

Class "B" Results

Munroe Ellis curved a 3-2 defeat around Jack Scott. Johnnie Riddle gave Herman a stubborn tussle before surrendering 3-1. "The cross-hand champion" Wm. Gilmore defeated Virgel Ward, 4-2 when Ward failed to use his handicap to advantage.

An enthusiastic gallery followed the players around the beautiful links, located adjacent the big Rose Bowl, and witnessed same audience is expected at the semi-finals tee of Sunday morning at 9:35 and the championship matches in each division at 2 p. m.

Wiley College Eyes Coming Grid Campaign

WACO, Tex., Aug. 11.— Despite jolts received in recent years by southern college athletics, there seems no abatement of interest among Wiley college followers in the major sport, football, according to information released by the news bureau. Coach Biff Long says it is a hard road the Wildcats must travel to their once undisputed primacy on the gridiron, but they are not hopeless.

Many alumni are asking "what's the matter with Wiley?". Others are wondering whether in its struggle to secure academic future on the present high level the school has lost interest in sports. President Dogan states that while it is true that the academic and administrative policy is asking a good deal more of the Wiley athlete, there is no taboo on athletics.

As to material in addition to the loss of several varsity men by graduation there will be other mortalities due to inability of some to meet the rigid requirements and to expiration of the time limit for some players. But, among those who offer bright prospect for the coming season are Joseph Patrick, Willit Hicks, and Ruben Mims.

The football schedule for 1938 is as follows:

Sept. 30, Bishop College, here; Oct. 8, Arkansas State, here; Oct. 17, Prairie View College, Dallas; Oct. 22, Sam Houston, Austin; Oct. 30, Southern, Shreveport; Nov. 5, Philander Smith, here; Nov. 12, Texas College, Tyler; Dec. 3, Zavier, New Orleans.

Reggie Weir Not to Seek Fifth ATA Title This Year

LINCOLN U., Aug. 11.—On the very week-end prior to the opening of the twenty-second National Tennis Championships here, the startling news hase been received that Dr. Reginald E. Weir of New York City will not defend the title he won last year at Tuskegee Institute. Dr. Weir reportedly told an interviewer his medical career could not be sacrificed for a titular defense this year. He said, however, his practice permitting, he will re-enter the "Nationals" when he becomes established in his life's profession.

Had Reggie Weir been able to defend his title this season, he might have set a record never before dreamed of in A. T. A. history, insofar as the men's singles are concerned. He might have won the coveted title for the fifth time. Two players, neither of whom is now active, have studded the pages of colored tennis history with four A. T. A. wins. Atty. Tally R. Holmes and Edgar G. Brown, both of Washington, D. C. However, Weir, although having to share the honor of winning the title four times with Messrs. Holmes and Brown, went them one better in the respect that three of his triumphs were in successive years, 1931-1933 inclusive.

Harmon Fitch of Winston-Salem, N. C., the "All-American Runner-Up", who has been a finalist in every national tournament since 1924 without actually winning the title so many as a single time, probably will be the gladdest person to hear this news for it is doubtful that any other player but Reggie Weir could have beaten this sensational, court-covering demon last year.

Thus, the A. T. A. men's singles title is wide open for the strongest claiment this year and Fitch, Ernest McCampbell, Richard Cohen, Toomy Walker, Lloyd Scott, Frank Jackson, Nat Jackson, James Stocks, Warren Weaver, Namon Hensen, and a host of others will have in their bids.

Old-Timers Ball Team Slate Game August 21

NEW YORK, Aug. 11—Few fans today know the origin of Negro baseball, but any number of fans know of such stars as Dick Redding, Joe Williams, Knucks James, John Lloyd, Chappie Johnson, Dan McClellan, Ben Taylor, Johnny Pugh, Sol White, and Wickware. The great Walter Johnson, former Washington ace twirler once lost a 1-0 game in Schenectady, N. Y. to Wickware.

Dick Redding who struck out Babe Ruth three consecutive times will oppose Smoky Joe Williams, who once averaged twenty-five strike-outs per game at Randalls Island, Sunday, August 21. The country has been scoured in an effort to bring together all the old timers who formerly dwelt in the baseball hall of fame. More than fifty players have already agreed to take part in this game. Part of the proceeds of this game will be used to aid the old boys, who are not enjoying the necessary fortunes of life.

Another feature of the old-timers program is a game between the New York Black Yankees and the Cuban Stars. This team from Cuba has many players in their line-up who handed the National League Champion New York Giants a 4 out of 5 lacing last winter in Havana.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Hear me speedily, O Lord: . . . cause me to hear thy loving-kindness in the morning; for in thee do I trust: cause me to know the way wherein I should walk; for I lift up my soul unto thee." These words of the Psalmist constitute the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Soul" on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

The Lesson-Sermon includes other passages from the Psalms: "LORD, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. . . . Let thy work appea. unto thy servants, and thy glory unto their children. And let the beauty of the LORD our God be upon us"; and these words of Isaiah: "I will greatly rejoice in the LORD, my soul shall be joyful in my God; for he hath clothed me with the garments of salvation, he hath covered me with the robe of righteousness, as a bridegroom deckeith himself with ornaments, and as a bride adorneth herself with her jewels."

Among the selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, is the statement: "The recipe for beauty is to have less illusion and more Soul, to retreat from the belief of pain or pleasure in the body into the unchanging calm and glorious freedom of spiritual harmony."

Rev. E. E. Lightner, minister of the Lincoln Memorial Congregational Church, Vernon and Hooper avenue, will resume his series of morning messages on "Some Fundamental Needs of Men". Nat'l Baptists to Stress Education

CHICAGO, Aug. 11. (ANP)—Realizing that religious education is growing more and more important because of the economic and social conditions existing today, the National Baptist convention when it holds its 58th annual session in St. Louis Sept. 7-11 will pay particular attention to the program of the American Baptist Theological Seminary at Nashville as well as celebrate 75 years of Negro progress since emancipation, Dr. L. K. Williams, national president, declared.

Because of the growing importance of religious education in treating current problems, a new and better leadership is required, it was pointed out. The principal need for the seminary at Nashville is scholarships for young men who aspire to enter the ministry and thus become through training able to cope with existing economic and social conditions.

Another of the problems confronting this year's convention deals with finances, of importance to any organization as large as that of the Baptists. The Convention will consider ways to increase and strengthen the work of the Home Mission board which seeks to build and succor churches in the rural district, provide competent missionaries to aid the work carried on in the Bahamas islands where a day nursery, school and social settlement are being maintained.

The convention officers hope to announce a plan to pay in full the indebtedness to the Wyndham estate incurred through building the $500,000 publishing plant in Nashville. A total of $50,000 would satisfy the claim, leaving less than $200,000 due on its maturity through the bond issue which is being promoted and which it is hoped will be consummated at the St. Louis meeting.

The celebration of 75 years of racial progress will take place each day of the convention with noted speakers present. The part the church has played in advancing industry, education, etc., will be related, and in addition there will be a pageant, exhibition, parade and concert featuring Negro music and addresses.

Eighth and Towne Leads in Contributions for Missions

(Special to the California Eagle)

NEW YORK City, August 11, —The Missionary Department of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, with headquarters here at 112 West 120th Street, reported through its Secretary and Treasurer, Dr. L. L. Berry, that the Rev. A. Mansfield Collins, Pastor of the First A. M. E. Church, Eighth and Towne Avenue, Los Angeles, California leads the entire Connection in contributions to the Department of Support of Missions. His Church, one of the largest and most important in the Country, leads also in dollar money reports.

IMPORTANCE OF MISSIONS

The Missionary work the African Methodist Episcopal church at home and abroad, is not only of importance to the Connection, but the Race generally. Its social action program, the training of the Youth for Mission work, the aid given in establishing Medical clinics in Africa, the support of Mission Schools in foreign Countries, are some of the many progresive measures now being sponsored and successfully carried out under the present set up. The work is wholly dependent on the efforts put forth by the Pastors and the co-operation of the membership.

DR. COLLINS' WORK

Dr. A. Mansfield Collins is nationally known for his work in the interest of Missions. As pastor of some of the largest churches of the Connection, including Quinn Chapel in Chicago, he always stressed the necessity of giving full support to the Mission Department of his Church. D, Collins has always insisted that the heads of the Missionary set ups in the churches be trained in religious work, and that their educational background compare favorably with that of any other group doing a similar work in any connection. First A. M. E. Church of which he is now pastor, is known to have some of the most efficient workers in this field. The symposium "Has the Church Failed Youth" to be conducted at the Eighth and Towne Street Church to which all people are being invited, is another of the interesting programs that makes his church the mecca of the thinking class.

Dr. Collins is a former College president, and is regarded as one of the leaders in the educational field. He is popular in the East, and there are many here who believe that he will be elevated to the Bishopric at the coming General Conference of his church in 1940.

Chatter and . . . Some News

By HELEN F. CHAPPELL

With suspense being a recognized element in any initiation program . . . guess it was only fitting that my first California weiner bake was preceded by a two and a half hour wait for Jean Thompson Saturday . . . (who hasn't come yet) . . . and a rollicking ride to Cabrillo in the Harris family car climaxed in a blowout some miles this side of the destination discovered after Gladys, of the Harris clan, confessed she couldn't help it if the wheels kept running all over the road . . . All the time, Jay Moss was threatening nervous prostration and the rest of the party unusually quiet.

Arrived at Cabrillo just in time to follow the gang to Terminal beach where the bake continued . . . chief entertainer being Hallie Harding. Jolly guests included: Sam and Virgil Brown back from a trip East in their new car; Clifford and Hope Bennett with Cliff enjoying a poke at Hope's starting a young fire while trying to cook bacon; Alberta Dawson, winner of the Elks' bathing beauty contest; and Joe Mills; Laura Slayton, advisor to the group and official hostess; a dozen other pretty girls and likable swains. Never will I forget the incoming tide . . . rising for miles along the shore and breaking on white sand under a moonless sky . . . Thanks to the Doll League for a grand good time.

OMEGAS, HAM AND EGGS:

Though it meant hauling out of bed Sunday morning at the too early hour of eight after so few hours of sleep, it was worth almost any price to respond to the invitation of Omega Psi Phi fraternity to eat ham and eggs and to hear Ted LeBerthon. His subtle sense of humor, unvarnished and unvaunted sincerity, and wealth of information interpreted in humanitarian light made listening to him the finest experience of the season . . . But then, that is covered elsewhere. Four ladies: Mrs. C. O. English in pink jumper frock and becoming summer felt of the same hue; Mrs. J. Cullen Fentress in blue; Amy Landry in gray and white; and Miss Young in blue, completed the feminine guest list . . .

The first part of the week saw Mrs. Charles Upton, wife of "Railroad Clatter" Upton, entraining for a visit in Lexington, Kentucky and Chicago . . . In the latter city, she will attend the Women's Economic Conference and the parley of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters . . . keeping up the Upton reputation for scoops!

The George A. Beaverses jr. are back in town after vacationing in Val Verde at their summer home . . . Mr. Beavers is back at his Golden State desk with more energy and progressive ideas as ever.

The smart younger-set Club Coterie, boasting representative femininity, is rushing plans for its fiesta Sunday, August 21, under the captivating theme of "Twilight in Mexico" . . . and the Majestic Corsairs, no less smart young men, are staging their fourth annual promenade in the Elks' ballroom this Friday evening. The C. L. Hudginses are complimenting visiting aunt, Mrs. T. B. Graham, with a dancing party.

YOUTH TAKES A HAND:

Wendell Green is off to the World Youth Congress after much hard work on the part of the Southside Coordinating Council and cooperation of businesses and organizations . . . the meet is convening at Vassar college on August 16 . . . Wendell, with four others, is "trailering".

Boys of Second Baptist presented themselves in a record day Sunday and this Sunday the girls of the same church are vieing with young people of Eighth and Towne. The dirndl dress parade in the Second Baptist evening pageant beckons lovers of drama and the symposium: "Has the Church Failed Youth?" challenges intellectuals and those with chips on their shoulders to come and hear what youth has to say about it. Westminister Presbyterian boys are having their day August 21 . . . on the Eastside the same day has been selected by Zion Hill Baptist girls . . .

Carlton Allen, former UCLA student, now a city employe, created a mild furore Sunday evening with his paper on criminology at First AME . . . but he stuck to his guns right well . . . having his wife's proud eyes for inspiration . . . She was charming in subdued print

Nellie Turner tells me that William Perry, who's been "Texas-ing", will be home Thursday . . . The deadline and lunch are rushing me . . . so long.

REV. CLAYTON RUSSELL AND GWEN DIGGS RING CEREMONY IMPRESSIVE

Father Moore Reads Services at White, Green Altar; Throngs Overflow Independent Church Onto Sidewalk

Throngs overflowed the auditorium and vestibules of the People's Independent Church of Christ and crowded the sidewalks last night long before the hour appointed for the wedding of the pastor, Rev. Clayton D. Russell, and Miss Miss Gwendolyn H. Diggs, daughter of Dr. C. S. Diggs. The Rev. Fr. H. Randolph Moore of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, read the impressive ring ceremony at an alter of white and gold against a background of acacia studded with woodwardia fronds with huge dahlias immediately above the alter.

At nine o'clock the bridal procession began. Bridesmaids in canary yellow net and lace enhanced with rhinestone accessories carrying vanity cases of purple king, asters and Talisman roses suspended by gold-ribbon with a single gardenia nestled in each bow and wearing orchids in their hair, led the procession down an aisle flanked on either side by three candelabra wrapped in fern and white stock and topped by cathedral tapers. Ushers in tuxedos wearing boutennaires proceeded to the chancel covered with interwoven hollyhock, fern, baby dahlias and tapers in groups of five in apex formation.

BRIDE IN WHITE

The bride wore white! An ivory creation in Queen Ann design with characteristic empress collar, long sleeves with pointed lace and a halo of white lace holding the veil that cascaded into a three and half yard train. Given in marriage by her father, she walked acros the white raised platform to the alter in quiet dignity, carrying proudly a gold crucifix showered in orchids and lilies of the valley which was a gift of the groom.

Attending the bride as matron of honr was Mrs. Adeline Jones of honor was Mrs. Adeline Jones Miss Carolyn Moore-Blodgett: both wore nile lace and chiffon. Other attendants were Mrs. Amy Landry Smith, Mrs. Alberta Mayo, Miss Gwendolyn Valentine, and Miss Gladys Taylor. Flower girls were Lestrita and Analita Nicholas, twin daughters of the Lester Nicholases and Agatha Bellamy. John Sanders served as ring bearer.

The groom wore full dress and was attended by Samuel Brown as best man. Ushers were Floyd Covington, Atty. David W. Williams, Paul Turner, Gilbert Lindsay, Clifton Russell, and William Goward.

VESTED CHOIR SINGS

Immediately before the ceremony, a full vested choir sang Lohengrin under the direction of Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew who wore white satin with rhinestone accessories. The choir lined the north and south sides of the church and was accompanied by Mrs. Fannie Benjamin at the organ who played Mendelssohn's famous wedding march. William Gillespie sang "O Promise Me" and Miss Emma Smock in a green and blue chiffon gown sang "At Dawning" and "The One Rose".

The first five rows of the church auditorium were occupied by members of the brides' and groom's family and guests. Among them were Mrs. Frances Griffin, mother of the groom, in seal blue lace with silver accessories; Mrs. Lucretia Diggs, sister-in-law of the bride in a white straples gown; Mrs. Carney G. Stewart, bride's aunt, in peach lace with rhinestone accessories.

RECEPTION CROWDED

The beautiful reception immediately following the wedding held in the annex of the church was constantly crowded by scores of guests. A four tiered cake of solid white centered the bridal table. The green background of the alter was duplicated in the reception room decorative scheme. Ralph Porter: Dunbar florist, was floral and art decorator for both wedding and reception and created all boquets. Assisting in the bride's room were Mmes. Sophie Smith and Ruth Fowler.

The pair will spend their honeymoon at Yosemitie National Park and will be at home after September 1, at 1361 West Thirty fifth street.

The bride is graduate of the University of Southern California, a Delta Sigma Theta soror, and a teacher in Los Angeles Public schools. Rev. Russell is a member of both the orders of Elks and Masons, and attended Jefferson High school and the University of Southern California. He is pastor of the People's Independent Church of Christ.

BRIDE

MRS. CLAYTON D. RUSSELL (Gwendolyn Diggs), who became the bride of the popular minister in a church wedding last night. (See story.)

BLACK AND WHITE BEAUTY CREAMS

Los Angeles and Pasadena Society...

By George Garner

Southland socialites went "cafe society" last Tuesday . . . for the smart champagne hosted and hostessed by an inimitable Southland pair, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Pettibone Clark . . . adjudged by all to have been . . . just as prediction had it . . . a brilliant soiree indeed . . . and given amid the clever intimacy of the Clark Hotel cocktail lounge . . .

While supper and dancing were, of course, entirely in order . . . there seemed to be an unusual effervescence . . . even for a Clark party . . . of repartee and badinage . . . with that "having myself a time" look on every face . . . I saw Mrs. Thelse Thomas, guest of honor; Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Lee, Dr. and Mrs. Howard Allen, Mr. and Mrs. T. Smith, Mrs. Gwendolyn Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Lee, Mrs. Geo. Garner, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robinson, Mr. B. B. Bratton, Mr. W. DeVaughn, Mr. W. Natt, Miss A. DeLlavalade, Dr. and Mrs. W. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harvey, Mrs. Ruth Towles, Miss Rucker, Miss Louise Lux, Mr. J. W. Bailey, Mrs. B. Henderson, Mr. Auto Martin, Mr. Austin Harris.

And . . . of course . . . biggest Southland social event of this week will have been the nuptials Russell-Diggs . . . for which more than a record turn out is predicted . . . as I write . . . as always, depend on our California Eagle for full particulars.

Mrs. Garfield Lee of Pasadena's Manzanita Avenue opened her home last week to a brilliant luncheon party to honor visitors to the Southland: Mmes. Edward Dailey, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Harriet Hill, also of Pittsburgh; Naomi Kyle of Claremont, West Virginia; Ernestine Peters of Parkersburg, West Virginia and Hazel Watson also of Parkersburg . . . Mesdames Hill, Kyle, Peters and Watson are the four charming sisters to the well-known Grant brothers, Earl, Russell and Brockwood . . . . and for whom Southlanders have been giving fete after fete during their visit here . . . guests enjoying Mrs. Lee's exceptionally charming courtesy included Mmes. Netta Paullyn Garner, Hugh T. Lowery, Dayse Henderson, Daisy Barrett, Charles Perry, Fenola Crawford, Henrietta Grant, Annamae Woods, Lula Grant and Flora Grant.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam J. Fuller of Pasadena's Navarro Avenue . . . . at home recently to seventy-five guests . . . all to honor Mrs. Fuller's visiting cousin, Miss Ora Lee Leavell of Hopkinsville, Ky. . . . receiving with Mrs. Fuller and Miss Leavell were Mmes. Ollie Ann Robinson, Ledly F. Plummer, Denver, Colorado; and the Misses Gladys Harris and Dorothy Williams . . . ices were served by Mmes. Junie Stepp, Willye Lee, Belle Buchanan and Miss Alexine Cox. . . . and huge bowls of punch served on the patio by Messrs. D. L. Ward and Adam Fuller . . . the charming Miss Leavell has been taken on a veritable round of Southland courtesies since her arrival in Pasadena . . . following the completion of her Southern California "vacance" . . . will entrain for her home via San Francisco, Oakland and Chicago . . . once home, Miss Leavell will resume her duties as a teacher in the Hopkinsville school system.

Invitations are at hand . . . bidding Southland top-drawer socialites and youngerset members to the reception . . . to be given this Sunday . . . honoring the newly-wed Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. McNeely . . . she the former Cecelia Viviane Dye . . . daughter of Louis Milton Dye . . inasmuch as both honorees are extremely well-known . . . the hours between four and six are more than likely to prove insufficient to allow felicitations from all their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hudgins have issued invitations for a garden party and dance . . . to honor their aunt, Mrs. J. B. Graham . . . for this Thursday evening the eleventh . . . Mr. and Mrs. James Hardy are opening their Compton avenue home and gardens for the semi-formal occasion.

A brilliant turn out . . . for the informal garden party and reception . . . given by members of the Negro History Study club . . . just recently . . . to honor visiting teachers . . . the lovely South Los Angeles home of Mr. and Mrs. John Chapman was opened for this occasion . . . Officers of the progressive group include Messrs. Archie Hairston, president; John L. Davis, secretary; and W. A. Easter, advisor.

Clever entertainment . . . the shower that Mrs. Lorenza Jordan Cole and Mrs. Massengill gave jointly this week, for bride-elect Grace Fisher . . . and also tendered as a garden party . . . in South Los Angeles . . . quite a number of Southland socialites were attendance.

Handsome ivory embossed invitations are out . . . issued by the Roscoe Conklin Joneses of Berkeley's Ashby Avenue . . . for the marriage of their charming daughter, Gervaise Nadine . . . who will become Mrs. Charles Wentworth Moore . . . on Sunday evening . . . at quaint Chapel of the Chimes, Piedmont Avenue, Oakland . . . a reception in the Ashby Avenue residence o fthe Joneses will immediately follow the solemnization of the banns.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. McNeely, Mrs. Kenneth William Mack, Miss "Jo" Williams and Charles Burris were breakfast guests of Stan Williamson at the recent August first Sunday session of the Pasadena Fellowship Breakfast League . . . following breakfast the party decamped for the beach at Santa Monica . . . and later yet to return to the Westside McNeely apartment . . . to be joined by Messrs. Kenneth Mack and Will Long, Jr. . . for an informal supper party.

SANTA MONICA PARADE:

Sun-lazing it 'neath the elusave shade of a beach umbrella . . . personable Zodelle Marshall, George McGruder, and Zodell's little sister, Annette . . . Kappa neophyte Boswell dolefully receiving pearls of wisdom and advice for Kappa mentor McNeely, June Baker in a becoming drindl . . . filmdom's Britisher, Frederick Clarke, strolling with a friend along the strand . . . Emmett Tabor holding down the hot-dog stand . . Maude and Millie Crosley in slacks and bound for the pier . . the Yarborough girls and Freida Bigby . . . Jimmie Luvalle asking the hour of day of Esther Mack . . . Cy Westbroks and Clarence Mack giving a dissertation anent the presence of 'white elephants' so close at hand . . . Arrest Posey As Assault Suspect Here

William Posey, well known criminal lawyer, was arrested Sunday morning by Newton Street police and booked on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon after he allegedly shot Mrs. Daisy Tipton, housewife of 1235 E. 35th street.

The shooting, results of which were declared not serious to Mrs. Tipton by doctors at the Georgia Street Receiving Hospital, culminated a quarrel between Posey and a young woman, Miss Mamie Monroe of the 35th street address, into which Mrs. Tipton intervened.

Posey claims he did not intend to hurt Mrs. Tipton, but brandished the 45 calibre revolver when she attacked him with a stick. The weapon was loaded with five cartridges and one shell and was in Posey's inside coat pocket when police arrested him.

Mrs. Tipton told police she was working in backyard when Miss Monroe came to her and reported that Posey was using abusive language.

Mrs. Tipton claims she went into the living room and remonstrated with Posey, who turned and ran into his bedroom. She followed, him, she said, and stood in the entrance, still talking.

When Posey allegedly wheeled and aimed the gun, Mrs. Tipton said she fled, the bullet grazing her shoulder blade. She ran out of the house and to the home of neighbors where she called police.

POLITICAL POTPIE

By IRA

The Olson headquarters credit John Fowler with being one of the best speakers in the campaign. After his radio address of a few days ago (Radio station KFVD), they said Fowler's speech was the best heard on that station.

Fowler, because of his effective presentation of the Senator's platform, was assigned to speak on the same program with Senator Olson before a white audience of 2000 at Bixby Park, Long Beach, last week. Old Spreading Joy says it's Olson 3 to 1.

Pie is short on "filling" this week. Simply because the mixer doesn't give a d--- and is tired of giving space to candidates, campaign managers, etc., etc., who show the same attitude when a dime is to be spent for advertisement. Why should the Eagle pay this scribe to keep birds before the public who spend not and give no recognition? Well, next week is skinning week. Look for some fancy hides.

The 45,000 Negro voters in the 62nd Assembly district are looking over, along with the 100,000 ore more of voters among the group in the state, Governor Merriam and his record carefully.

E. T. Hubbard, retired minister of the AME church, wants to ge to Congress from the 14th district. "Back to the farm" is his motto.

Bob Strathet and Emery Crane are still on the firing line for their man, Wm. Gibbs McAdoo, Democrat, who now represents California as U. S. Senator.

Earl Wasren, candidate for Attorney-General is worthy of consideration of our group, and we believe if elected will deal fairly with us in the selection of his official family.

Talk about fine men seeking the vote of our group, none are more deserving than Sheriff Gene Biscailuz. Fair and impartial toward all groups, he has won a warm place in the hearts of all who stand for justice and fairplay.

—o—

The campaign of William D. Campbell, popular young Republican, for the 14th Congressional District nomination goes into full swing this week with posters appearing throughout the city. Campbell's record of clean-cut, honest service will be stressed rather than mere "political promises and grandiloquent gestures".

—o—

Earl Warren, in his smashing fight for the Attorney-generalship, has created quite a furore. The out-spoken, determined leader is said to be gaining ground daily, and many voters previously connected with other candidates are "deserting" and flocking to the Warren ranks.

—o—

John R. Quinn, incumbent County Assessor, bases his battle for reelection on his brilliant record of fine service. Quinn has reorganized his department and put it in its finest working order. It is pointed out that Los Angeles posesses one forty-eighth of all the Real wealth of the nation. The tremendous job of assessing this property has been competently and honestly figured out by the Assessor.

Earl Browder to Speak in L. A. Sunday, Aug. 28

The only presidential candidate who ever walked out of a hotel because it refused to allow a Negro reporter to enter for an interview, will speak in Los Angeles at the Olympic auditorium on Sunday evening, August 28.

That man is Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party of America. He ran for president in 1936, on the same ticket with James W. Ford, only Negro candidate for vice-president of the United States.

Browder's refusal to accept the "hospitality" of a Jim Crow hotel occured in Baltimore in the election year of 1936.

Franklin Pledges Aid in Present Labor Troubles

"We must have industrial peace in California, instead of labor wars and industrial turmoil, if we are to achieve business recovery and create jobs for our jobless workers."

Prefacing his declaration of policy with that statement, Dr. Walter Scott Franklin of Santa Barbara today pledged that if elected Lieutenant Governor "I will appoint a Senate Labor and Capital Committee truly representative of workers and employers and will use my best efforts to aid in the enactment of legislation which will permit the substitution of meditation for strikes and lockouts."

Dr. Franklin, a successful farmer as well as a nationally renowned physician, asserted that "The future welfare of California is dependent, in my opinion, on two achievements--a sensible program of tax reduction, which will permit agriculture and business and industry to operate profitably, and a new era of understanding and peace on the labor front."

Gov't Monopoly is Menace, Says Ray L. Riley

Monopoly in government menaces the people of the United States as much--if not more--than monopolistic practices in business, State Railroad Commissioner Ray L. Riley declared today.

Commissioner Riley, seeking nomination to the United States Senate, pledged himself to support a program of decentralization of Federal government:

He said:

"The national government today is in the strange position of criticising monopoly in business, while practicing monopoly in government. If we believe what Washington says, we conclude it is against monopoly. If we observe what Washington does, we conclude it is for monopoly."

"In the past few years there has been an alarming concentration of governmental powers in Washington. Bureaus have assumed autocratic powers of the forty-eight states."

Crusaders to Aid Myles in Campaign

Activity of the Myles for Assembly Committee for the 62nd District expressed itself today in the decision of the Committee to organize groups of crusaders in every Precinct of the 62nd Assembly District.

The committee pointed out that Thomas W. Myles, Jr. has resided in Los Angeles longer than any other candidate for the office of member of the Assembly (62nd) and that he is by and large the best qualified candidate for the office. His experience in Legislative procedure dates back to 1925 when he was first attached to the Assembly as Assistant Sergeant-at-arms. He has since served as Clerk to the Committee on Education and was attached to the Ways and Means Committee.

Myles has been a consistent fighter for recognition of his group both in the matter of citizenship rights and in the matter of appointment and employment of colored citizens by the Nation, the State and its various political sub-divisions. Mr. Myles has fought actively and aggressively against any attempt to limit the citizenship rights of his people as well as against any infringment upon those rights by intolerent groups or by biased public officials or by the courts. He was foremost among those who waged a vigerous battle against discrimination in the Municipal swimming pools in Los Angeles.

Through his influence with former Governor C. C. Young, he was instrumental in bringing a branch of the State Employment Service to Central Avenue. He fought and defeated a powerful chain of theatre operators who were practicing racial discrimination in their houses. He compelled the County Civil Service Commission to reverse itself in the matter of ratings given colored applicants for internship in the Los Angeles General Hospital, thereby forcing the admission of the first interne of color in that hospital. In the last session of the Legislature (1937) through his personal friendship with many Senators and in cooperation with Lieutenant Governer George J. Hatfield, he forced the nefarious Cunningham Bill to be committed where it died. He has been responsible for the placement of people on the payroll o fthe State and its political sub-divisions.

The Myles for Assembly Committee also announce the receipt of letters from three announced candidates for Assemblyman, 62nd District, in which they stated they had withdrawn their candidacy in favor of Thomas W. Myles, Jr. The candidates thus expressing their support of Mr. Myles and pledging their aid are: James M. Alexander, formerly Chief Cashier of the Department of Internal Revenue of the United States for the Southern District of California, to which office he was appointed by President William Howard Taft and in which capacity he served with distinction for a period of 14 years. James M. Jones, President of the American Advancement League and Ivan Austin, active in Community Betterment Organizations.

Mr. Myles is a keen student of government, having been an "A" major in political science while in college. Senator Hiram W. Johnson, California's Senior Senator rates him as an "expert" in his knowledge of governmental affairs.

The Committee emphasized that should Mr. Myles be elected to a seat in the Assembly the people in the District might expect an alert, capable and fearless fighter for the following program:

1. A vigorous defense against all efforts on the part of sinister influences to curb the rights of his people.
2. One hundred per cent support of the American principles of government and definite opposition to any radical moves to alter or weaken our Republican form of government.
3. Cooperation with business, agriculture, and industry to the end that those important economic institutions may be rehabilitated and continuous private employment stimulated.
4. A determined fight to secure more patronage and regulation in government for the 62nd Assembly District.
5. Opposition to oppressive taxes.
6. Support of a liberal program of aid to the aged and blind and adequate relief for the physically handicapped and those employables who actually are in need. Myles will fight vigorously against "relief racketeers."
7. Myles stands for a broad program of adult free education and a program of re-education to be instituted by the State to rehabilitate many of employment who otherwise will never again find luerative work.

Mr. Myles is a member of the Church of Christ, is past President and past Secretary Manager of the Young Men's Civic Association of California, is a past president of the Junior Branch NAACP of Los Angeles, is a member of the Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity, is the Executive Director of the American Committee for the Enforcement of the Constitution, is a Reserved Officer and is Special Representative of California Republicans Incorporated and has numerous other fraternal, civic and social organization connections. And is endorsed by many civic and business leaders and by leading political organizations in the State and District.

ASSEMBLYMAN AGUSTUS F. HAWKINS

Business Groups Okay Gus Hawkins for Assembly Post

Bolstering the claim that Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins is certain to win Republican, Progressive and Democratic primary nominations August 30, his supporters this week pointed to an imposing list of endorsements by business groups, home owners associations and labor unions recommending him for all three tickets.

Heading the list of business groups which have endorsed Hawkins are the Building Material Dealers, the Retail Druggists and Retail Grocer's Association whose recommendations specifically urge his election by voters of all parties.

In addition, the California Conference for Political Unity and Labor's Non-partisan League are active in Mr. Hawkins' behalf as are transportation employees' unions, railway workers and every other labor union having locals in the sixty second district.

Based solely on Mr. Hawkins record at Sacramento for the past four years, the endorsement points out that he is the only candidate with a record and a platform adequate for the needs of the district.

Meanwhile hundreds of individuals endorsements were being given the assemblyman by workers who remember his fight for building the Boulder Dam transmission line and who recall that many hundreds of jobs were secured on the line through his activity. Other workers active in his behalf are the sewing project employees whoe jobs he helped save at a time when the projects were scheduled to be abandoned.

Candidate for Senate Seat Would Fight for Lynch Bill

James W. Mellen of Los Angeles, Jeffersonian Democrat, candidate for the United States Senate, today pledged himself to work for and vote for the Anti-lynching Bill and all other legislation in the interest of the politically oppressed and under-priviliged citizens of the country, if nominated at the August 30 primary and elected in November.

In an interview with a reporter for the Eagle, at the headquarters of the Jeffersonian Democrats of California, Mr. Mellen said:

"I suppose I come naturally by my love of liberty and a desire to aid the politically oppressed and the economically underprivileged. One of my ancestors left his comfortable home in Ireland and headed a continent of Irish volunteers which came to America to free the Colonies from England. The Mellens on my father's side and the Prices on my mother's side have been fighting for political liberty ever since.

"If I am elected to the Senate, I not only will vote for the anti-lynching bill but I will work to bring it to a vote. There is no more savage crime than lynching. It is a disgrace to the Nation and must be stopped.

"One of the reasons I am opposed to President Roosevelt is his failure to act when the anti-lynching bill was filibustered to death in the Senate. Mr. Roosevelt has put on the pressure to pass his pet measures. If he had raised his hand and demanded a vote on the anti-lynching bill, it would now be a law on the statute books.

"Another thing I propose to do, if elected, is to strive for legislation to take the 3,500,000 aliens on relief off the relief rolls, deport the undesirables and make jobs for idle Americans."

Says Death of Justice May Affect Negro's Political Life

The recent death of Justice Cardoza of the United States Supreme Court may have a significance in the political life of the Negro that has generally escaped notice, according to a report from the office of Dr. Rayford W. Logan, director of education of the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity.

"Great Liberal as the late Justice was"; Prof. Logan pointed out "he agreed with the other members of the United States Supreme Court that the Democratic party has the right to exclude Negroes from its primaries. Three of those nine members have left the court since that decision was rendered. As soon as two other changes have been made, Negroes should prepare a new case and endeavor to have that decision reversed. The United States Supreme Court has reversed itself before. Abraham Lincoln's criticism of the Dred Scott decision helped to make him president. Negroes should not cease similarly to denounce the decision in the Grovey vs. Townsend case which has made the South as Fascist as Italy or Germany", the report continued.

Dr. Logan first made the suggestion of preparing a new case as a part of the Alpha Phi Alpha campaign for citizenship. The idea is now being studied by some of the most distinguished Jawyers in the country. "The Negro is more effectively disfranchised in the South than at any time since 1867. For this reason the political views of future appointees to the United States Supreme Court should be carefully scrutinized", the report concluded.

GOP Program Committee Holds Meeting in Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 11. (ANP)—A feature of last week's meeting here of the Republican Program committee was the speech "Politics and Rackets" delivered at Northwestern university, by Francis E. Rivers of New York, assistant to District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, who in prosecuting Manhattan racketeers has obtained 72 convictions and 73 indictments.

Rivers is a member of the New York World's Fair Corporation and a former member of the New York State Commission on Urban Conditions of the Colored Population. In his speech, he refrained from discussion of the Negro problem as such, made no reference to a probable betterment of economic conditions among Negroes by means of a new Republican party program.

This was said to be in keeping with the policy of the new Republican party. Att'y Rivers' address was presented as a substitute for the planned appearance of the late Dr. James Weldon Johnson.

Confining himself strictly to a discussion of the "inevitable link" between politics and rackets, Mr. Rivers detailed the Dewey "putsch" against Manhattan law-breakers, against "politically-protected racketeering" and the potent Gotham Tammany Hall machine.

He said, "It would seem that the main essential for breaking the grip of rackets and politics on our large cities is to get in the office of prosecutor an unbossed person who is more than honest, courageous and able . . . In short, the ability to confront the ruthless and efficient machine that commits crime with a relentless and efficient machine that detects and punishes crime. To elect to office such a person as prosecutor in a city, calls for true high-mindedness on the part of political parties; they must support for municipal office only able and honest public servants regardless of party and permit them to give a non-political administration of the city government.

REAL STATESMANSHIP

"A high measure of the devotion and patriotism of a national political party is its willingness to extend all possible aid to end the alliance of politics and crime. If we are to recognize the fact that organized rackets can exist only through the corruption or the incompetence of local political machines, then we must recognize the clear duty of a national political party to crush such local machines. Where that process means the destruction of powerful local and state leaders of the party affected, the duty to clean house is even more urgent. That is not a sacrifice. It is real statesmanship."

Another highlight of last week's meeting of the G. O. P. Program committee was a garden party reception given at Poro Gardens for committee members. Men and women of both races, high in the councils of the party, were present. Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, son of President Roosevelt I, and the former governor-general of the Philipines, was given an ovation as he arrived at the Garden party.

Colored members of the Republican Program committee who attended the meeting and round table discussion were Dr. Carl G. Roberts, Chicago; J. Walter Wills, Cleveland, O.; Mrs. S. Joe Brown, Des Moines; Fred M. Roberts, Los Angeles; Bishop David H. Sims, Philadelphia; Joseph S. Mitchell, Boston; C. I. Johnson, Chicago; Patrick B. Prescott, Chicago; Mrs. Sarah Pelham Speaks, New York; Senator William E. King, Chicago, and Francis E. Rivers, New York.

W. C. Handy On Broadway 20 Yrs.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. (C)—W. C. Handy, father of the "blues", has been on Broadway for twenty years, he revealed in a special interview in the office of Handy Brothers Music Co., Friday. Mr. Handy will be 65 years old on November 16, and is still active, managing the affairs of his world-wide organization himself. Associated with him in the business is his brother, C. E. Handy, and his son, W. C. Handy, Jr.

Mr. Handy practically earns his living now from royalties on "The St. Louis Blues". As a member of the American Society of Authors, Composers and Publishers, his rights are amply protected, and his income runs around $20,000 a year from all rights to the song. His firm is active, however, in the publishing field, and is making a special effort to cause the public to know better the works of Negro authors. A new piece the firm has published is "Drum Corps with Bugle", a modern treatise by A. Jack Thomas, former bandmaster of the U. S. Army, many copies of which have been bought by the government for the CCC camp bands.

OBITUARY
Passing By

Departed this life, August 4, 1938 at the age of 96 years: Mrs. Allie Houston was born in Atlanta, Ga., July 12, 1842. She leaves to mourn her loss, two sons, one daughter, seven grand children and six great grand children, two nephews and a host of friends. Mother Houston, as she was called, was a devout Christian. Joined the church in her youth, remained faithful until her death. Mrs. Houston was formerly of 8th and Towne A. M. E. church, in 1920 she moved her membership to Grant's Chapel, where she remained until death claimed her as his own.

Many beautiful resolutions and telegrams were read, her pastor, Rev. House officiated in a most solemn manner, reading hymn 486, AME Hymnal. "Servant of God, Well Done". His brief sermon was very consoling.

La Fiesta club of Grant's Chapel of which she was a honorary member paid their respect in uniforms and flowers; the choir responded in goodly number.

The service was under the supervision of the Eastern Star Society. Their ceremony was very impressive; too much cannot be said about this beloved Christian mother, the entire church will miss her sweet smiling face and wise council.

Among those left behind are: Mrs. Sybil Bryant, Mr. Thaddeus Taft of Grant's Chapel; Mrs. Caleda Lawson, former organist of Grant's Chapel; Mr. Lee Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Miller, Mrs. Eulila Taft, Thaddeus Taft, Jr., Willie Taft and others who will miss her.

We beseech the bereaved family weep not, put your trust in him who guides the Eagle through the pathless air, and ever watches over all.

An Italian has designed a small automobile to run more than 45 miles on a gallon of fuel.

Young Democrats to Hold Meeting

The Southside Young Democratic club, a charter member of the Young Democrats of California, properly seated on the floor of the Los Angeles County Central Committee, will hold a Town Hall meeting at Ross Snyder playground, 8 p. m., August 17, where candidates for the assembly will speak on domestic service, old age pension and unskilled labor legislation. The audience will have an opportunity to question all speakers.

Spurgeon Jones Carries Platform to Congregation

The sensational appearance of Spurgeon C. Jones, outstanding Republican candidate for the Assembly nomination in the 62nd district, on the pulpit of Mt. Zion Baptist Church, 50th and Hooper, last Sunday broke the long-standing policy of Rev. F. H. Prentis not to open that platform to political candidates.

Reports state that young Jones' brilliant oratory broke another precedent in the monster acclaim accorded after his address by the congregation. Jones is considered for Republican Assembly nomination in the 62nd.

Jones' unparalled appearances before the city's great congregations herald a new day of Christianity in politics. The young business-man, eminently successful in his field, believes that generally "un-Christ-like" function of politics can be made into something more closely following the precepts of the Divine leader.

The fact that several prominent ecclesiastics have opened their pulpits to him bare witness that young Spurgeon's ideal is appreciated and will be supported.

Voters Urged to Unite on Warren

An appeal to voters to unite in nominating Ealr Warren as a non-partisan Attorney General in the Primary of August 30, was issued today by Irving M. Walker, veteran Los Angeles lawyer.

Walker emphasized the non-partisan character of the office of Attorney General, and the pledge of Warren that, if elected, he will conduct the office upon that principle.

Political Solidarity Sought By San Diego Young Folk

SAN DIEGO. (By Mrs. E. B. Wesley)—Political solidarity has become an aim in San Diego. A new organization, known as the Young People's Civic association, has recently been formed for the specific purpose of uniting at least 3000 of the 6000 Negro voters in San Diego.

Some of the facts stated by this body of young men and women: "There are approximately 10,000 public jobs in San Diego County, paying millions of dollars in monthly salaries. There salaries, and less than 50 Negroes ployed in them. There are approximately 12,000 utility jobs, also paying millions in monthly salaries, and les sthan 50 Negroes employed therein."

The case as stated is that of 6000 Negroes in San Diego eligible to vote, more than 60 per cent are unregistered and of some 14 political and semi-political organizations, not one represents 200 united voters.

The simple solution, these young people say, lies in the UNITED VOTE, which has put Italians, Mexicans and Jews in every department of San Diego's civic administration. A mass meeting of the association has been planned for August 12.

K. of P. Lodge and Court Hold Successful Sessions

SAN DIEGO, Calif., — The Grand Lodge of the Knights of Pythias, California Jurisdiction and the sixteenth sessions respectively in the City of San Diego July 24-28. The session is termed one of the most successful in the history of the organization.

Grand Chancellor, Hon. J. Allen Reese called the session to order Monday morning. The Grand Lodge officers and the delegates from the lodges of the jurisdiction responded to the roll call and then then began a season of progressive legislation helpful to the fraternity and especially benficial to the racial group. The reports of the officers showed a year of prosperity with gains in membership and financial returns. Funds of the organization are invested in government securities and insured banking institutions. Certain funds were allocated to a race institution that enjoys the protection of U. S. Government insured funds. There are no claims against the jurisdiction and no suits against it.

On Tuesday evening the Grand Court of Calanthe, Mrs. Beatrice Sellers, Grand Worthy Counsellor, celebrated its sixteenth anniversary. A literary and musical program followed a recital of the history of the organization. Among the many commendatory facts recited was the wise financial program of the Grand Court and its growth as a financial institution.

The Memorial Services Sunday evening were largely attended by not only members of the fraternity but also by the citizens of San Diego. The response to the welcome addresses was made by one of the young Sir Knights, DuBois McGee, Deputy Grand Chancellor for Imperial County. The memorial sermon was preached by the Grand Prelate, the Rev. T. S. Patterson of San Bernardino.

Bakersfield Man's Songs Liked By Ray

BAKERSFIELD, —(By Jerry Fleming)—Bill Brantley, local songwriter, seems about to have success knocking at his door. While in this city last week, Floyd Ray, orchestra leader, selected several compositions by Brantley and collaborated with the young writer and Sol Moore, ace arranger for the Ray band, on another piece, that critics say will become a "hit".

Brantley has become well known for his activities with short wave radio, and in the field of commercial art and amateur photography.

Ray took Bakersfield by storm these last two weeks. The band performed in "Jam Sesions" for race fans every day when not ocupied in engagements at the Union Avenue Plunge.

Rev. Carter to Observe Anniversary

PASADENA, Aug. 11,— The Rev. W. D. Carter, pastor of the Friendship Baptist Church of this city will celebrate his 50th anniversary of religious service next week.

Rev. Carter was ordained a minister August 18, 1888 at the age of 23. Since that time he has served four churches, in Fulton, Mo., for ten years, in St. Paul, Minn., for 13 years, in Seattle, Wash., for 12 years and in Pasadena since 1923.

An elaborate program is being arranged for the celebration beginning Tuesday, August 23 and lasting until Sunday, August 28, when the venerable minister will speak from the subject "The Conclusion of the Whole Matter". It has not been announced that he will retire from active service, but it is hinted by those close to him.

Rev. Carter was well known on the West Coast and in the Great Northwest before coming to California. In Seattle, he pastored the Mt. Zion Baptist church, during the twelve years of which regime the present edifice at 19th and E. Madison was erected.

His wife, is also well known in civic and religious work. She is best remembered for her work in establishing the Phyllis Wheatley branch of the YWCA in Seattle.

Voters of Redlands Form 5 Counties Civic League

REDLANDS (By Alice Freeman)—Aiming at "solidarity in voting strength" in the primary election of Aug. 30, Negro voters of Redlands are organized into the Five Counties Civic league.

Jerome Collins is president; J. H. Scotland, vice-president; Harold Scott, recording secretary; W. T. Jones, assistant recording secretary; Lewis Foster Jr., corresponding secretary; R. A. Wagner, treasurer; and U. V. Green, chaplain.

A campaign committee was elected to study the character and platform of all candidates for election and recommend to the league for approval and endorsement. "Only those who definitely appeal to the social justice of all races, colors and creeds." Robert Burton, P. H. Owens and Harold Scott form this commiittee.

Another veritable treasurer, a Watchorn gift, is the "Lincoln Family Bible," just unpacked. It will be added to the rapidly growing "Lincoln association" book department of the Redlands Shrine. This consists of identical editions of books Lincoln read.

This edition of the "Holy Bible" was published in 1807, and is quite rare. The actual book owned by Thomas Lincoln, and from which Nancy Hanks read aloud to her two children, is now a carefully guarded museum piece in the Library of Congress at Washington, D. C. It is the King James version, was taken by the Lincolns from Kentucky to Indiana, and thence to Illinois. The copy now in the Redlands Shrine is in almost perfect condition, despite its 131 years of existence. It was published two years before Lincoln was born.

The Second Baptist Church of Redlands surprised the pastor, and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Foster, with a shower surprising them with many useful things, a baby bed was given them by the Missionary Society of the white First Baptist Church of Redlands.

A group of young people of Redlands enjoyed a day at Santa Monica beach last Sunday. They were: Misses Dolores, and Mildred Burton, Helen and Bessie Collins, James and Rueben Burton.

The LAUNDRYMAN

HELLO, folks. The weather's getting too hot for a feller to do much philosophizing. So for the time being, I've decided to bring to you-all "The Adventures Of Dark Secret and The Laundryman With The Townsend Pension."

It's a bright sunny morning in June, 1948, and me and Secret is sitting out on the front porch of our 3 room bungalow waiting for the mail man to bring us our first $200.00 checks from the Guv'ment on the Townsend pension plan. We had bought this little home out on 103rd street some years ago during the time we was promoting Negro Dollar Days in different cities, and had been living there for the last eight years. The little old house wasnt so much to look at, but it was comfortable, and we had a nice little garden running over with string-beans and tomatoes, and a few water-melons that we had planted. We also had a Dominick rooster and a couple of good laying hens.

The years leading up to the age of sixty-five had naturally slowed us down some, and we was both bothered with spells of rheumatism occasionally. But we was still active enough to scratch around and make a living for ourselves. However, only yesterday, a Guv'ment man had notified us that our two hundred dollar checks was on the way, and we was pretty much excited over it.

Although it was around eleven o'clock in the morning, neither one of us was fully dressed. Secret had on an old faded pink bath-robe that Millie had give him fifteen years ago before she quit him, while I was sporting a brown dressing gown that a certain "Broad" had give me in 1931 when I was a "Hot Shot" on Central Avenue.

From the left side of our shady little porch our two small push-wagons could be plainly seen, standing in the angle of the fence. Secret's was a Hamburger and Hot Tamale wagon, while mine was one of them kind you sell pop-corn in. He worked the pool-rooms and barber-shops at night. I made the theatres and the dance-halls.

Secret glanced over at his little wagon and says to me half-sorrowful:

"I guess we'll have to sell them wagons now--since we going to get this here $200.00 every month."

"Yeah, I reckon we will", I answered, half regretfully. You see, I had always took a lot of pride in keeping my wagon spick and span, and the thought of giving it up kinder hurt me.

I got up from my chair, and had started to go inside after a drink of water when Secret hollered out:

"Say, here comes the mail-man now. I reckon he's bringing us our dough".

I turned, and sure enough he was opening our gate. Following close behind him was a short stout white man in a light gray suit ad straw hat. He was puffing along, keeping step with the mail-man just like soldiers do.

Well, they come up on the porch, and the mail-man says:

"I got some Guv'ment mail for Mr. Dark Secret, and the Laundryman. Do they live heah?"

"That's us", we told him, and he give us the letters and turned around and beat it. The white man stayed. Me and Secret began to tear open our letters, but he halted us.

"Those are your Townsend pension checks, fellers," he says, "But you got plenty of time to open them after I'm gone". He rolled his cigar to the left side of his mouth and continued: "I'm the Government Inspector over all pensioners in this section, and I'm here to tell you the Government rules about spending this money."

He spoke very biggity, and I didn't like his tone none too well. But Secret asked him to have a seat, and he taken one and proceeded to give us the low-down. I can't remember all the things he said you could, or couldn't do, but one thing he made very clear. That was that each of us was s'poused to spend at least fifty dollars every week, and that we MUST be BROKE at the end of each month.

"But s'pose a feller has trained himself for years to live off fifty dollars per month like me and Secret has. We'll have to work pretty hard trying to think up ways to get rid of the surplus, and at the same time not breaking the Gov'ment regulations," I says to him.

The Gov'ment supervisor cleared his throat importantly. "You'll have to live up to the Government regulations if you expect to stay on our pension list," he said stiffly. "Goodbye! I'll call around to see how you are making out, about the last of next week."

Fascist Decree Insults Negro

SARAGOSSA, Spain, Aug. 11. (CNA)—A gratuitous insult to the Negro people is contained in an edict issued this week by the rebel regime in this city.

The decree bans as too "democratic" the appearance of men in shirtsleeves on the streets or in public places, and states:

"Unfortunately, such habits are relics of democratic liberties which it is necessary to correct—which can only be an example for or tolerated by such creatures as Zulus."

E. B.—Who is the party that wrote this Special Delivery letter?

Ans.—I vision the party that wrote this letter as being tall and light of skin. This party bears the initial of J or E.

V. D.—My home is not peaceful at all. Do you think I'm doing the right thing to give up and leave home or should I keep trying?

Ans.—Your home life has been very unsettled during the past months due to certain influences in the planets which govern your life. However I see a change for the better, after the changing of the moon sign which comes in August. Stay with your husband he needs and will make this up to you in the future.

K. E.—I don't have many friends. Do you think there is someone in the world that cares for me?

Ans.—You are quite reserved and self-retiring and have a tendency to be backward when you first meet people. Others may misunderstand your quality of reflection, but they do not realize that you are quite at home and at peace with the world in the sacred seclusion of your thoughts. Try to mix more and enjoy yourself. I am sure people would like to be your friends.

R. M. M.—When will things be settled in my own home?

Ans.—By putting forth your efforts in trying to make arrangements for this home during the coming months you will prove successful. There will be a small setback due to finances but this will be taken care of through your own efforts.

J. J.—Should I return to my husband or stay with this man/

Ans.—By all means return to your husband. He really cares for you and needs you. He is willing to make amends and will do everything he has promised. This other party you are with will soon grow tired of you and then it will be too late to return to your husband.

E. M.—Will I ever be successful in life?

Ans.—You have excellent powers of observation and you have a quick and good preception. This will enable you to overcome obstacles in your pathway to success. It would be wise however that you use your own judgement in matters and do not let other people influence you. Also do not put off things that should be done as you have in the past. Your success will come early in your life.

M. G.—Will you please tell me where my daughter is and if she is living or dead?

Ans.—I vision your daughter bearing the name of Octavia as being very much alive and well. She is working in the vicinity of California and is married. You will hear from her in the future when she gets in touch with you.

D. M. M.—Will the railroad problem be settled?

Ans.—This problem confronting the railroad employees will be settled in the near future much to your satisfaction. Do not worry about it as you will be well taken care of.

A. B. J.—I don't have any boy friends at the present. Do you think I will marry anytime soon?

Ans.—You will meet a young gentleman during the coming A-8 winter through one of your friends. This man will prove a steady worker and will make you an idea mate. He will be medium height and dark of skin.

Respect Your Heritage, Says Dillard Professor

NEW YORK, Aug 11.—A growing disregard for the glorious heritage of their race, aided and abetted by teachers in mixed as well as Negro schools and colleges, has succeeded in giving our youth a lob-sided viewpoint "on the matter of racial respect," Randolph Edmonds says in an article appearing in the August Crisis magazine entitled "Education in Self-Contempt."

Edmonds, a member of the faculty of Dillard University, at New Orleans, La., now studying playwriting in Dublin, Ireland, says he first realized the seriousness of the situation when he read Benjamin Stolberg's article "Minority Jingo", in the Nation magazine of October, 1937.

Taking a resounding whack at Stolberg, who "using Benjamin Brawley's book, "Negro Builders and Heroes", as a basis-let out a terrific blast against minority jingoism," Edmonds replies:

"Since we have been inoculated so frequently with the virus that what are virtues in other races are vices in the Negro, Mr. Stolberg's article leaves me cold."

3,000 Got Degrees Crisis Survey Shows; Nine Ph.D.'s

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—There were 3,079 colored persons graduated from mixed and segregated institutions of higher learning in the United States during the academic year of 1937-38, according to the twenty-seventh annual education edition of the Crisis magazine for August.

The figure does not represent complete and accurate statistics the magazine says, because the National Association for the Advancement of Colored ePople does not have the "means or the staff to make an absolutely accurate survey". Another contributing factor is the manner of keeping records in such mixed schools as Columbia University, University of Pennsylvanie and the University of Southern California, where graduate statistics are kept without regard to race.

Howard University continues to have the largest enrollment among th Negro Universities, 2,240, according to the magazine. Other figures set forth in the article show that 22,361 students were enrolled in Negro colleges during the past year. Of this number 2,451 were graduated with the bachelor degree. Of the mixed schools, New York University headed the list with 494 colored students enrolled. There were 2,525 colored students enrolled in mixed schools during the past year with 192 receiving the bachelor degree. There were nine colored students who received the Ph. D. degree last June.

Enrollment for Y Camp Nears Record, Claim

With approximately 84 enrolled and more signing up each day, it appears that attendance at the YMCA camp in Little Green Valley is headed for a record. The capacity at the camp is 120.

The mountain camp near Big Bear Lake offers a diversified program. A full time staff is on duty giving instructions in swimming, handicraft, nature study, archery, etc. In addition there is medical supervision by a registered physician and a highly efficient kitchen staff.

Boys will leave for camp August 29 and return September 5. Fee of $11.50 includes transportation and board.

Visitors Day, which is one of the big events at camp will be Sunday, September 4. An early invitation is extended to everyone in the community to visit the camp on Visitors Day by Baxter S. Scruggs, executive secretary of the 28th Street Branch.

Protest Police Brutality in Dayton, O.

DAYTON, O., Aug. 11. (ANP)—That Jake Powell, utility outfielder for the New York Yankees baseball team, may have told the truth when he stated in a recent radio interview in Chicago that as a policeman here his chief diversion was "Beating niggers' heads," was evidenced last week when more than a thousand Negroes staged a mass meeting to protest Dayton police brutality.

The meeting was called specifically because of the killing of Jack Francis, local numbers baron, by G. F. Baumgardner, a member like Powell of the local police department. The NAACP sponsored the meeting along with several other organizations.

Immediate discharge of Baumgardner was called for by speakers who declared, "Jack Francis was a numbers banker, but was a man and had a right to live." A cleanup of the entire police department and an end to the unjustified killing and mistreatment of arrested persons was sought.

3 SUITS

Three different suits have been filed against local police by Negro citizens for brutality. At the same time colored Daytonians, aroused by the bragging insults of Powell are seeking a hearing with Chief R. F. Wrustner on not hiring Powell again this winter.

Interracial friction resulting in the bombing of the home and business establishment of C. J. McLin, prominent mortician, has caused the stationing of four private guards at the home. It is believed the bombing was an attempt to at least intimidate McLin, advisor to the Dayton Youth Movement, an organization picketing white stores in Negro neighborhoods that do not hire colored, clerks.

Motor Vacationists Given Health Code By U.S. Service

Vacationists who would keep fit on long trips are offered a "health code" by the U. S. Public Health Service.

Don't slump in the seat. Slouching causes a tired and aching back.

Don't grip the wheel to tightly or hold the body tense. This produces nerve strain and may cause the driver to falter when quick action is required. Be attentive, yet relaxed, while driving.

Avoid eye-strain. Don't stare ahead, but get the eyes accustomed to an easy restful position.

Drive slowly over rough roads. Relax when taking the bumps as injury may be caused by hitting the roof while sitting stiffly upright.

Have foot pedals adjusted to a comfortable position so as to avoid stretching or straining legs to operate them.

Take rest intervals to avoid fatigue. Maintain a steady driving pace and avoid spurts or driving at high speed.

Eat sparingly while driving, particularly in hot weather. Fruit juices and plenty of water, cold but not ice cold, are beneficial.

Don't drink from roadside streams or wells unless they are posted as safe by health authorities, or unless the water is boiled.

Safeguard Forests Against Fires is Auto Club Warning

Protection of scenic and recreational assets in the forested areas of the state by carefulness in use of campfires, burning matches and tobacco was urged upon motorists in a statement today from the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Pointing to the heavy toll resulting from the recent widespread outbreak of lightning-caused fires, the motorists' organization emphasized that danger of further fires will continue through the balance of summer and early fall. Long after the season when lightning is a cause of fires the forests will continue to be exposed to the threat of man-caused fires, the club warned.

"Warm weather and drying winds leave a tinder-like condition in many forest sections, needing only one careless act with fire to start disastrous conflagrations," the statement continued.

"State law provides that outside of a business or residence district no person shall wilfully or negligently throw from any vehicle upon a highway any lighted cigarette, cigar, ashes, or any other flaming or glowing substance.

"In national forests during the summer no smoking is permitted except in camps, at places of habitation, or in special areas along roads and trails set aside for the purpose and posted to that effect."

COMMUNIST OFFICES OPEN ON CENTRAL

"We hope that the many friends of our District will come to see us at our new joint headquarters at 5421 South Central Avenue," Pettis Perry, District Organizer of the Communist party announced today.

"Time" Apologizes; Mag Editors Thought We Liked Term "Darky"

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The Time magazine apologized this week for use of the term "Darky" in a recent article appearing in the news magazine, describing a Michigan horse show in which Joe Louis took part.

In a letter addressed to Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who protested use of the insulting epithet, I. V n Meter, editorial secretary of the publication said:

". . . I can assure you that your frank criticism has had the careful attention of all those who contributed toward the preparation of TIME'S report on the Orange, Virginia horse show.

"Our attempt at a pun (on the race-track slang "dark horse") in the caption was, we now realize, objectionable to many of TIME'S good friends—and hence in bad taste.

"Frankly, we had not known that feeling was strong against this traditionally kindly Southern expression. But we know it now, and won't forget it, you may be sure."

DR. HOWARD H. ALLEN, young physician and surgeon, who will open his offices in the California Eagle Bldg., 4073 S. Central Avenue, Rooms 5 and 7, to the public Sunday afternoon, hours 2 to 6.

Sing, Gillespie, Sing

(To Mr. William Gillespie)

Chant your gospel songs with spirit.
Of a home we shall inherit.
If we take his cross and bear it,
Sing Gillespie. Sing.

Charm with vocal mist young fellow.
For your tones are true and mellow.
Like the sweet strains of a cello,
Sing Gillespie. Sing.

Soothe away our tribulations.
Lust and greed is wrecking nations.
Wend your way around creation,
Sing Gillespie. Sing.

Like a serenade from heaven,
Sing a blessing. God has given,
To the tempest, tossed and driven,
Sing Gillespie, Sing.

So inviting, so beseeching,
So magnetic, and far reaching,
Better than most people's preaching,
Sing Gillespie. Sing!

LIGHT and SHADE

By EARL DANCER

STILL WRITES WORLD'S FAIR MUSIC

The big fight on the Western Front has been between the Negro actors, M-G-M studios and the Screen Actors Guild. Much has been said pro and con on the subject. I am ever on the side of the Negro actor. Few, if any of the Guild or M-G-M executives are confronted with the same problems as these extras.

The mistakes the colored actor might make would be caused by his lack of employment. One can always plead leniency for errors caused by hunger.

I know that the studios and Guild will receive the support of a few Negroes who are doing and have been DOING ALL RIGHT for themselves for a number of years. Let me say here, that something is wrong, radically so, with this whole set-up. As old time political organizations would select one or two supposedly influential Negroes for benefits and starve the other thousands, the motion picture industry proposes to do the same. As the newer and more enlightened Negro in politics said, this set-up is wrong, so does the more militant Negro actor or musician decry his status in the film industry.

I would like to quote briefly from "On the Sidewalk" by C. A. B. (Mrs. B— owner and publisher of this newspaper). "Although it is conceded that breach of contract by labor is never advisable, the power displayed by 75 black extras may serve well as an indication that the Negro does not intend to be excluded from Guild benefits. Indeed the strike, ill-advised as it was, might perform a great service. It is recalled that the New York City race riots of a few years ago, though regrettable in themselves, affected sweeping reforms which arbitration, protest and petition in the past had failed to accomplish. However at this point it is best to impress all concerned that sanity and understanding must be had. The display of power is complete, now is the time for careful consideration and cautious advances. 'Force, like drugs, may stimulate in small quantities, but in excess may be fatal'".

This is a serious indictment. It is indicative of the fact that an elimination of either a conscious or subconscious discriminatory practice is most expedient.

Producers and major studios MUST awaken to the fact that 20,000,000 Negroes support their productions. Yet for this support the Negro finds his wealth of material stolen by these same studios. His music, his humor, his innate style of song delivery, which is his natural heritage, are being performed by white actors.

These imitators are good as long as there are no authentic Negro singers or dancers in the picture to show the difference. In most pictures where a Negro appears he invariably steals the song and dance honors. The producer was quick to see that these imitations looked better in the absence of the genuine article, so he eliminated the Negro.

I have never took the stand that major studios or the SAG HAD to give the Negro a better break, but I have repeatedly said if he continues this unfair practice, it must be done without the support of the NEGRO'S MONEY. After attacking M-G-M studios in my column last issue, I was able to see all sorts of executives that I hadn't been able to see in the capacity of a reporter. Only after this attack was I able to see the head of M-G-M casting office, Fred Datig, who told me that all Negroes who did more than just atmospheric work had since received adjustments, which will compensate them from $11 a day to $35 a day. He further assured me that everyone working on the set of "Too Hot to Handle" is quite happy.

It was cited to me one day last week that Earl Dancer, as a person, might suffer serious consequences from the stand he has taken. Also that certain individuals connected with him might suffer.

My answer to that statement is that this issue is more important than any single person in Hollywood. And I, as a person, am perfectly willing to let the chips fall where they may — if in so doing that, instead of four or five Negroes receiving a few dollars from the motion picture industry, hundreds, who also deserve a living, may achieve just that.

* * * *

In the years 1918, 1919 and 1920 there was just one Negro rated as a star and just one Negro working in white Broadway musical comedies. His name was Bert Williams. There were loads of white artists who blacked their face and portrayed the Negro, using his wit and humor to amass large fortunes. Foremost among these were Al Jolson, Eddie Cantor. There was also a number of white exponents of Negro music and rhythm, foremost among whom were Sophie Tucker, Blossom Seeley, Ann Pennington, Marion Harris, Bee Palmer. Yet Broadway, through Sime Silverman in "Variety", said there was no place for Negro women in the theatre.

Then into this picture walked a newer Negro who saw no reason why the great number who had created this music, this humor and wit shouldn't be earning a living from it. So they sat about to break down that wall of no all-Negro musicals for Broadway.

Miler and Lyle, Sissle and Blake and that old dean of composers, Will Marion Cook, and a host of younger and more militant Negroes sought to correct that unfairness. What they did is now theatrical history. Today we are confronted with that same problem in motion pictures.

This practice of taking the Martha Rayes, Alice Fayes, Dixie Dunbars, Al Jolsons and Eddie Cantors to supply the Negro rhythm and humor in motion pictures and the complete elimination of authentic Negro talent is just another instance of the unfairness practiced by these major studios. I made a picture a few years ago for M-G-M studios entitled "Manhattan Melodrama", by quite a coincidence, starring Clark Gable and Myrna Loy, stars of the present controversial picture, "Too Hot to Handle". The script called for a colored orchestra with a colored girl singing in front of it. My orchestra was photographed and Shirley Ross, a then unknown white girl, was blacked up to represent the colored girl which the script called for. And of course, M-G-M executives still tell us that they haven't been a prejudiced studio where the Negro is concerned.

I don't know who will take the bows for this adjustment, whether it will be the Screen Actors Guild, or M-G-M studios. But I know that after hearing Mrs. Bass' radio talk Tuesday night on the sit-down strike and her article in last Thursday's EAGLE, I was informed over the phone that an adjustment would be made concerning these 75 extras. On visiting M-G-M lot Friday, I found that these adjustments had already been made. Which proves conclusively that if there is an adjustment of the Negro's status in the motion picture industry it will be brought about by the vast Negro audiences and the Negro press.

STILL'S WORK TO FORM BACKGROUND FOR FAIR EXHIBIT BY DREYFUSS

Still Considered Representative of Composers of Tomorrow

William Grant Still, noted composer, has written the music for the Theme Center of the New York World's Fair, 1939. Still, who went to New York from Hollywood last week to confer with Fair officials, described his composition as a symphonic poem with choral finale. It will form background and emotional climax for the "World of Tomorrow" exhibit which Henry Dreyfuss is creating for the interior of the 200-fot Perisphere.

This exhibit will take visitors on a magic carpet ride through space above "Democracity", the perfectly integrated garden city of tomorrow legions of workers will come swinging down the skies, symbolizing the cooperation which could make such a city possible.

As they march, the workers will sing the chorus of Still's work. At the finale they halt, arms upraised, their heroic-sized figures filling the sky, their voices overflowing the sphere.

Still said he composed the work in Hollywood from a time sheet and written descriptions of the exhibit.

Words have not been written, nor a name selected. Recording will be by a full symphony orchestra and a chorus of 1,000 voices.

NATIONAL RECOGNITION

Still, who at 43, has gained recognition as one of America's foremost composers, is also well-known as a conductor and arranger. Like so many of the younger modern composers, he won his first spurs in popular music. However, he has equipped himself with a sound classical background.

Critics consider him representative of American composers of the future, who will combine classical knowledge with a feeling for jazz idiom.

Born in Mississippi, Still spent most of his early years in Arkansas and Ohio. His father, who died shortly after he was born, provided him with his musical inheritance. His mother who was a teacher of high school literature in Little Rock for many years wanted him to become an educator.

She got him as far as Wilberforce, but there his musical instincts gained the upper hand. Disinterested, he refused to study and flunked out.

On his own, he went to Columbus, got a job in a poolroom at $6 a week, later played in dance hall bands. Finally he was able to do what he wanted—go to Oberlin and study music. Subsequently, he studied at the New England Conservatory under George Chadwick and for three years with Edgar Varese, who, he says, taught him self-expression.

Still considers that Sophie Tucker granted him his first real chance when she gave him a job orchestrating music for her acts. He also worked for a time with W. C. Handy in Memphis.

The composer can play almost any instrument (including the saxophone "very badly"), and when "Shuffle Along", first and most famous Negro revue, took Broadway by storm a dozen years ago, he was in the orchestra pit playing the oboe.

His talent for rich orchestrations soon graduated him from the pit. Before long he was doing orchestrations for Earl Carroll's "Vanities", "Rain or Shine" the second "Americana" etc., was arranger for radios "Deep River Hour" and for Paul Whiteman's orchestra.

On the coast Still has done work with Warner Brothers and Columbia Pictures, where he worked as musical adviser for a time. He has conducted the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra in the Hollywood Bowl and the Federal Orchestra in San Francisco. Next week he will conduct the San Diego Symphony Orchestra in that city.

For the last two years Mr. Still has had a Guggenheim Fellowship, which was awarded him originally so that he could write "Blue Steel", a three-act opera. The fellowship has been extended twice, each time for half a year.

In addition to "Lenox Avenue", which he was commissioned to write for the Columbia Broadcasting Company, and "From a Deserted Plantation," his published works include "Afrco-American Symphony"; "Symphony in G Minor"; "Sahdji", an African ballet; "La Guiablesse," a ballet based on a legend of Martinique, and 'Kaintuck", a composition for piano and orchestra for which he was commissioned by the League of Composers.

Extend Run of 'Little Chillun'

Due to its great popularity with local theatregoers, "Run, Little Chillun," sensational Negro folk drama by Hall Johnson, has had its run at the Mayan Theatre extended to August 21.

The play has attracted capacity audiences throughout its run and consistently the box office records of Federal Theatres Productions this season.

May Cast Jess Brooks in 'Wind' Role

Jess Lee Brooks, who has starred in numerous Federal Theatre Project plays, is being considered for the part of "Sam" in "Gone With The Wind", it was learned this week.

Brooks is currently seen as "Rev. Jones" in "Run, Little Chillun", at the Mayan Theatre.

Two other members of the cast of "Run, Little Chillun" recently found a place in pictures when Prince Modupe, Nigerian drummer, and Edward Short, dancer, were cast in "Too Hot to Handle" by Val Raset, dance director for M. G. M.

S. C. Primary Restricted to Whites

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 11.—According to a statement issued last Tuesday by Governor Olin Johnson, voters in the August Democratic primary will be restricted to whites. The governor cited a law passed at the last session of the legislature which authorized a political party to limit the qualifications for membership in that party.

He added that the Democratic party had amended the rules, so that only white Democrats could vote, thus eliminating the Negro vote entirely in the preliminary. Explaining the lily-white "amendment" of South Carolina Democrats, Gov. Johnson said.

"Inasmuch as these changes in our rules have definitely eliminated even the possibility of Negroes' voting in the primary elections of South Carolina, any further mention of the Negro question by any candidate only serves to show that he is endeavoring to evade the real issues of the campaign and appeal to the ignorance, the prejudices and the emotions, rather than to the intelligence of the people of South Carolina."

Ingram Appears in New Musical

NEW YORK, Aug. 12—Canada Lee, veteran Broadway actor, last night (August 1st) took over the role of Christophe in the WPA's "Haiti", when Rex Ingram left the east to appear in Max Gordon's production of "Sing Out The News".

Canada Lee, the new Christophe, once replaced Rex Ingram in "Stevedore", and only recently played the part of Haiti's Black Napoleon when Ingram left to make a movie short in Alabama.

Arrest Joe, Driver for Speeding

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11. (ANP)—A busy traffic officer forced Joe Louis to delay by an hour Monday his appearance here with his Brown Bombers, Detroit softball team, which later lost a 2 to 1 tilt with suburban Lakewood.

The heavyweight champion said he and Alonzo Broks, his driver, and brother, were halted at Dono, near Toledo, for speeding and were brought before a justice of peace. While

Mrs. Robeson Negotiates for London Production of 'Haiti'

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The possibility of a London production of "Haiti", the WPA Federal Theatre Project's current hit at Daly's Theatre, loomed large with the arrival from England last week of Mrs. Eslanda Robeson, wife of the internationally famous actor and baritone, Paul Robeson.

Several hours after Mrs. Robeson debarked from the Ile de France, she attended a performance of "Haiti" and made reservations to see the drama every night last week.

Mrs. Robeson, who remained in New York ten days, stated that she was interested in "Haiti" as a vehicle for her husband. If produced there, she said, Paul Robeson will portray Christophe, the Black Napoleon.

The wife of the Negro star reported that the Federal Theatre's production of "Haiti" has created widespread interest in London and prompted her visit to New York.

Mrs. Robeson contacted William Du Bois, author of the play, and negotiated for a London production.

"Haiti" opened at Lafayette Theatre in Harlem March 2nd and was moved to Daly's, 63rd Street east of Broadway, on July 11. More than 84,000 persons have seen the show. Rex Ingram plays the leading role.

A recently patented signaling device relatively short distances is operated by ultrashort radio waves.

'Swing Night' at Black, Tan Next Friday

Proceeds of the affair will go to aid the Outdoor Health and Life Association building program.

Entertainment for the Aug. 19 affair will be furnished by a revue from the recent hit, Dixie Goes High Hat and many other well known stage and screen celebrities. Active in the Committee sponsoring the benefit are Mesdames Norman Hopkins, Lloyd C. Griffith, Stanley Whisenant and Misses Frances Henderson and Helen Duncan. Picture: "Professor Beware"
Players: Harold Lloyd, Raymond Walburn
Place: Paramount

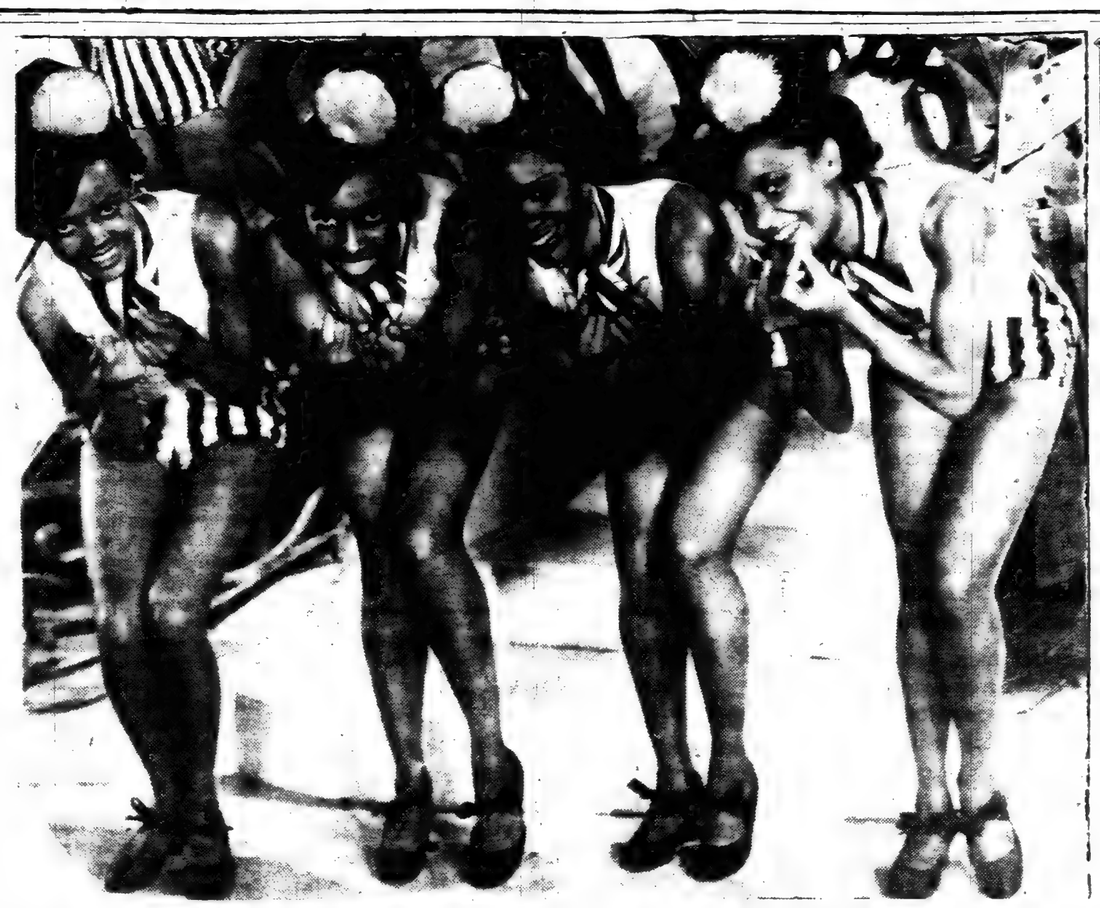
The perennial masters of cinema comedy, Wallace Beery, Charley Chaplin, and Harold Lloyd, seldom fail. After five years of retirement, Chaplin came back in "Modern Times" to clean up a fortune; Beery, of course, appears every couple of months. "Professor Beware" is Harold Lloyd's first in two years and is on a par with, if not a niche above, his hilarious "The Milky Way".

The comedian's bag of tricks gives the funny-bone a tremendous wrench at the first and never lets go until the last laughable scene. Of course, in order to enjoy this fare an audience must recite, at convenient intervals, something like this:

"Ours not to reason why;
Ours but to do and laugh like H."

The plot centers about a Los Angeles Egyptologist who finds an opportunity to embark with an archological expedition—if he can get to New York within something less than a week. Without funds, the Professor's cross-country pilgrimage, his implication with police, friendship with hoboes Raymond Walburn and Lionel Stander, and dizzy marriage with an heiress, leave one breathless--but happy.

"Professor Beware" is the kind of film you can't tell about. A scene, rippingly funny on the screen, sounds like a page from an undertakers' manual when put down in "black and white".



Phyllis Welch, the new ingenue in the pic, turns in a well-balanced, hearty little portrayal and probably will go far. Old stand-bys Walburn and Stander do justice to the comrade hoboes, while Cora Witherspoon is excellent as the domineering wife of the Judge before whom Lloyd and Miss Welch are tried for "vagrancy" and immorality". Wm. Frawley and Sterling Halloway contribute brilliant bits as an inebriated talent scout and party of the first part on a honeymoon, respectively.

For those without an overdose of "social consciousness" in their entertainment desire, "Professor Beware" will supply an evening of uninterrupted "good clean fun".

Picture: "Bulldog Drummond in Africa"
Place: Paramount, for a preview.
Players John Howard, H. B. Warner

"Bulldog Drummond in Africa" tells all about the mysterious, bearded spy who steals the Big Whozit of Scotland Yard off to Africa in order to wrangle news of a "war-secret". Drummond follows and after much ammunition has been buried in villainous human carcasses saves the Big Whoozit of Scotland Yard, John Howard, H. B. Warner, Heather Angel, Reginald Denny, and E. E. Clive try very hard to inject some reality into this obvious "thriller".

Recommended for those under twelve, mentally incompetent, or who don't give a hang so long as the Paramount is Air-conditioned.

MAESTRO LES HITE'S CUTIES SWING IN DOWNTOWN THEATRE

300 Jam Record Sing League Meet; NYA, NTS Aides Talk

By NETTA PAULLYN GARNER

The August session of the Pasadena Fellowship Breakfast League--overflowing the hall of the Garner Foundation to the sidewalks and Blake street. The lawns and veranda surrounding the building were filled to capacity, where tables had been placed to accommodate the 318 persons who gathered for this most outstanding event in the entire year of the Sing Association's sponsorship of the Breakfast League.

Dr. Elbert W. Moore, League chaplain, delivered the invocation. There followed assembly singing of a patriotic air.

Mrs. Anne deG. Treadwell, State Director for the National Youth Administration, had journeyed from San Francisco to appear as guest speaker for the organization. Following breakfast and the removal of tables to accommodate the entire body within the hall, George Garner, director of the League, introduced Mrs. Treadwell.

Given in behalf of the NYA, its activities, and its efforts toward the promotion of moral and economic stamina within our American youth, Mrs. Treadwell's well-worded address was both informative and interesting.

Floyd Covington, executive secretary, the Los Angeles Urban League, and member of the NYA Board of Commissioners, responded to Mrs. Treadwell's address in behalf of the Sing League group.

Also present was Miss Nannie H. Burroughs, feminist race leader, president of the National Training School for Women and Girls at Lincoln Heights, Washington, D. C., and for thirty-seven years secretary to the Women's Convention Auxiliary to the National Baptist Convention.

Miss Burroughs gave an impromptu talk on what she termed "the fine inter-racial fellowship which the Foundation is sponsoring" expressing appreciation for the fine work being accomplished by George Garner, his associates and for the "white friends" who are helping him to make a Realization out of an idealization.

Mmes. Sally Johnson Horton, Madeline Carter White, musicians of Chicago at the great Olivet Baptist church, delighted the throng with their musical renditions.

Elliot Carpenter, distinguished internationally famous basso cantante and collaborator with the justly famous Clarence Muse, thrilled with his singing of Rausbach's "Trees" and the Negro spiritual: "Nobody Knows de Trouble I've Seen."

Reverend E. W. Moore, as commentator for the Pasadena Community Sing Association gave a magnificent resume of the importance of NYA as it effects our Negro youth; citing the interesting case of young Negro Author, Richard Wright, who.

"Risen from obscurity has been employed for the past year by the Federal Writers project in New York City. He has also been offered the position as manager for a New York newspaper."

Dr. Moore also told of assistance graciously proffered to him from time to time by the honor guest, Miss Nannie H. Burroughs.

Members of the Women's Auxiliary to the Pasadena Community Sing Association were in full charge of the service for this greatest breakfast event of the year. They are: Mmes. Pearl Fairfax, chairman; Anna Baptiste, treasurer and house committee chairman; Marie Gillem, Netta Paullyn Garner, Gertrude Wiggins, Lillian Ford, Alice Mills, Nannye Willburn, Galena Mackey, Bell Doston, Lillian Mims, Albertine Glenn, Rose Stewart, Helen Adams Moore, Bertha Morton, Nancy McMicken, Hattie Keyes, Carrie Copeland, Blanche Hurts, and Rhoda C. Harris, chairman emeritus.

Board of Directors to the Fellowship League include George Garner, director-chairman, Dr. J. H. McRiley, president; Stanford Williamson, secretary; Felix Woods, treasurer; Reverend E. W. Moore, chaplain-commentator, Mmes. Anna Baptiste, Helen Adams Moore, Netta Paullyn Garner; and Messrs. Jordan Willburn, Arthur Newsom.

Recruits from Les Aiglonnes ment Club who gave admirable Club and the Young Men's Settle- assistance to the Women's Auxiliary as waitresses and waiters, included Lulu Mae Yarborough, Helen White, Freida Bigby, Don Butler, Audley Cole, Wendell Franklin and Paul Harris.

Sword Brands Rex Ingram Forever As Star of 'Haiti'

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Rex Ingram has an "H" branded on his right thigh as a lifelong reminder of his glamorous role of Christophe in "Haiti," the WPA Federal Theatre production, now at Daly's Theatre, 63rd Street east of Broadway.

This H-shaped scar is the result of a cut which Ingram received several weeks ago making an exit through a secret passage in the first act of the play. He missed a step and fell headlong on the floor. His sword, which was buckled to his side, made a deep gash in his thigh and when the wound was healed, Ingram discovered a perfectly shaped "H" imprinted on his leg.

Plans for Fund - Appeal of Chest Announced

Next Fall's annual fund-appeal of the Community Chest in the Exposition-Adams district will be based on the efficacy of the personal appeal with emphasis on facts and understanding, according a statement just issued by Mrs. Abraham Lehr, following her acceptance of the district chairmanship.

"I am convinced," said Mrs. Lehr, "that if we can bring every person to realize and understand that the money we give to the agencies through the Chest, regardless of how small the amount may be, will in a degree help make better citizens, that there will be few indeed who will not cheerfully do their level best to help out the campaign over the this year.

Mrs. Lehr at this time is selecting sectional leaders and aides who will volunteer their services for the forthcoming annual appeal.

Admitted Negro Insurance Assets Now 20 Million

RICHMOND, Aug. 11. (C)—Admitted assets of Negro insurance companies for 1937 as compiled by Miss E. O. Tibbs, statistician and actuary of the National Negro Insurance Association, and released through C. L. Townes, secretary, are $20,092,955.76. This is $486,109.74 more than was recorded in the last statistical report, made by Cyrus Campfield for the year 1936. Campfield recorded $19,606,846.02.

Although assets have increased, insurance in force has decreased, according to the Tibbs report, to $272,527,288. The Campfield report showed insurance in force at $320,749,077. Also, the Tibbs report shows that while $179,846,356 insurance was issued in '37, there was lapsed $157,198,163, which accounts for the new promotion plans of the association to seek a "higher type" of business, so it will "stay on the books". A total of $2,580,491 was paid in death claims in '37, Miss Tibbs reports. According to Campfield, in 1932 the admitted assets of the companies was only $11,963,272, making a gain of $8,000,00 in five years.

Shell Employes to Benefit from Retirement Plan

S. Bellther, President of Shell Oil Company, today announced the adoption of a Retirement Pension Plan, the provisions of which will extend to all of the 27,500 Shell employes in the United States and Canada.

The plan which is desired to round out a broad program of social benefits already in force will date back to January 1, 1938. The form of the plan was determined after a careful study of the factors involved in providing old age security and is different in several respects from other pension plans.

The Shell pensions will be provided by the Company without contribution by employes. Normal retirement ages are defined as 60 years for men and 55 years for women, but retirement at these ages is not compulsory. Generally, the pension is 40 percent of the salary at the time of the employe's retirement and this plan does not replace the company's Provident Fund.

In operation for three years, a plant at Pretoria, South Africa, produced its millionth ton of steel in May.

MAKES HEADLINES

Thomas L. Griffith jr., son of Rev. T. L. Griffith, pastor of the greater Second Baptist church, and president of the NAACP, appeared before Judge Ray Brockman in the Municipal Court this week in Case Number 485206 (Stubbs vs. Salvato).

Just a few days ago, colored Los Angeles felt that racial discrimination had been permanently legalized so far as liquor establishments are concerned when Judge Brockman handed down a decision in the case of Jerry Shepherd, colored, vs. H. A. Wylie, beer parlor proprietor. In this litigation, Shepherd demanded $2000 damages for Wylie's refusal to sell him liquor. The judge ruled that, due to the multiplicity of involved regulation which shackles the liquor dealer, he should be allowed discriminatory powers.

Hence, when restauranteur Salvato boosted his price for a 10c glass of beer to $1.00 when Negro Stubbs demanded service, he felt safe. Lawyers for the dealer, by demurrer, asked a decision of Judge Brockman and based their arguments on the previous Wylie vs. Shepherd ruling. Attorney Griffith challenged this basis of contention on the ground that Stubbs had not been REFUSED service, but had been grossly discriminated against through an illegal advance in price. Almost paradoxically, Judge Brockman brought in a favorable decision.

Yesterday morning, the Los Angeles Daily Journal, official paper of the City and County of Los Angeles and one of the nation's outstanding legal publications, carried a front-page double-column spread on the case. This marked the first time in the periodical's half-century of existence that a Negro attorney was given such marked recognition. Hats off to Attorney Thomas L. Griffith!

THE PASSING OF WARNER OLAND, "CHARLIE CHAN"

Born in Sweden where he died last Saturday, Warner Oland, clever impersonator of an oriental detective, was a son of the soil. As "Charlie Chan", Oland was the typical Chinest sleuth; but as an actor he was neither Jew nor Gentile. He was the people's favorite—a peculiar "type" actor. His playing did not always provoke laughter but stimulated a feeling of mystery in all who came to see him act.

The order of our thinking seems to be "0! Well there will be someone just as good or better waiting to take his place" when one great actor crosses the great Divide, but not so in this case—there was just one "Charlie Chan."

An innovation in clubdom is the appearance of the "Social Aid Club" composed of 20 young men employes of the Oriental Rug and Cushion Company of 4371 E. 49 Street.

The objective of this club is to raise a fund to be used in aiding members in illness, death or loss of job. While the club, whose presidnt is George Anderson, is scarcely six months old, it has just completed a three months drive in which nearly a hundred dollars was raised. The Californic Eagle congratulates these young men in this effort to do something really worth while.

BATTLE ON

The war between conservative and New Deal Democrats is now in full swing. From Virginia we learn that New Dealers have taken a sound thrashing with the loss of two seats in the House to "old school" Dems. In nearby West Virginia, however, Roosevelt forces, as expected, sweep all before them.

ON MAYOR FRANK L. SHAW

Drafted from the ranks of the great common people, Frank L. Shaw made his debut as servant of the people and was elected member of the City Council five times. Service to the underdog created a demand that he be advanced to a higher position because of betrayal of men in whom trust had been placed to carry forward a cause that would relieve suffering.

Frank L. Shaw had no difficulty in being elected to the Board of Supervisors. With the interest of humanity as his watchword, he sponsored and put over a program that has given Los Angeles County one of the finest hospitals in the whole world. Men and women from all over the nation flock to this institution to serve as internes or nurses because of the high rating received therefrom.

From this hospital men, women and children are given free the best treatment medical science affords.

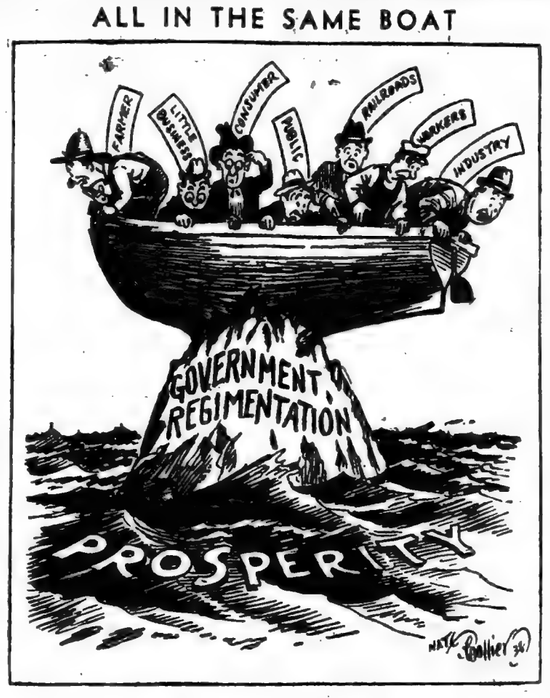
Shaw was instrumental in bringing about a condition whereby the humblest citizen receives the same medical care and attention as those with millions.

The citizenship felt the need of such a man to reshape the affairs of America's fifth largest city, and Mr. Shaw answered the popular demand that he become candidate for mayor. Elected after a stirring campaign, despite a series of lies and what not from the day he was inducted into office, he continued to fight for the people and was rewarded for his fine service with re-election to serve a second term,—an honor seldom bestowed upon men who have served Los Angeles in a similar capacity.

In the midst of a second successful administration; scandal-mongers, hard-losers, and racketeers have been successful in causing Mr. Shaw to face a Recall, Sept. 16th.

It's a pity that a few people have been able to hoodwink enough honest men and women to sign such a petition, which only adds to the tax burden of which we now complain. Many signed because Mary Roe or John Doe was out of a job and received a fee of 10c for each signature, but will not vote to recall the mayor.

We take the same stand as in the past. To recall Mayor Shaw at this time would disrupt and throw out of gear machinery that is functioning and keeping our heads above the waves.



A new man at the head of the civic band-wagon just now would bring to a standstill all the things now under way.

The "outs" would come in. Friends would have to be rewarded with fat places on payrolls. Then too, contacts that have been made for federal funds would be terminated, and the city and people would suffer while doing all over the work that has required six or more years.

Several months have been spent casting about for a man to be offered up as a sacrifice on the altar of greed, gold, and power.

At last Superior Judge Bowron has been fooled into placing himself in this position. Fine man, Judge Bowron,—a man who enjoys the confidence and respect of all citizens and could be retained in office as long as he may desire. It's a pity that such a fine fellow, able official and good neighbor has allowed himself to fall victim to the siren call selfish malcon-

ALL IN THE SAME BOAT

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

THE BIG NEWS

"Citizens of Berlin vote to give Herr Hitler the sack. Fuehrer termed pain in the neck by citizens' spokesman." If cable despatches brought those words from abroad, we might assume that some correspondent's sense of humor had swept him off his feet, or that all Berlin had lost its head from an over riotous beer bust. That we can, and do, depose public officials in America, without any loud to-do being made over it, proves the measure of liberties we enjoy — and the liberties others lack. Next month, for example, citizens of Los Angeles at a special recall election will vote to keep Frank L. Shaw as their mayor or to let him out. And the big news on September 16 will be, rightly enough, whether Shaw lost or won, not that half a million or so people held within their hands the power to choose freely whatever official they wanted. In a democracy that is an accepted fact, not worthy of headlines, but certainly worthy of remembrance!

HIGH COST OF DYING

An interesting little commentary on the high cost of departing this earth came to light in a San Francisco Superior Court a few days ago. When an automobile accident fatally injured Lewis M. Baker one day in October 1936, he had $9874 in his pocket. When his widow started looking for his funds five days later, there was only $91 left. Last week she sought an accounting, and was informed that the estate had been disbursed in the following manner: To the doctor for medical treatment of Mr. Baker, $5000. Mr. Baker died four days after the accident. To attorneys, hired by Baker to represent him in the accident case, $1250. To the hospital, for four days' care, $500. To a companion of Mr. Baker's in the crash, for medical services, $1100. To Mr. Baker's brother, $1000. To the undertaker, $550. Other expenses, $383. And so it goes — or went.

"I DO NOT CHOOSE TO RUN"

Though little more than a third of the nation's voters, judging from a poll of the American Institute of Public Opinion, believes President Roosevelt will seek a third term, there is no dearth of lively rumors asserting that he will. Those same rumors circulated freely even after Calvin Coolidge pointedly and memorably declared, "I do not choose to run". Nobody believed he really meant it. It so happened that he did, much to everybody's surprise. But such examples of determination, as every voter knows, are few and far between. The urge to climb back into the harness, or to hug it more closely if one is already in it, comes naturally in politics. Many governors of other states have been three- and four-term repeaters. Though not a single California governor since Hiram Johnson has been reelected, only rarely does a governor or a governorship candidate like Lt. Governor Hatfield look temptation squarely in the face and make the pledge, "If elected governor, I will under no consideration be a candidate for a second term!" That's the exception. Perhaps we should make it the rule.

TOP SCORER

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has now made public its scoresheet from 1932 up to the present. In that period 127 kidnapings took place, of which 124 have been solved, with the following results: 273 persons convicted and dealt 11 death sentences, 41 life sentences, and other sentences amounting to 3382 years. With that high score on record, we nominate kidnaping for the nation's most dangerous occupation!

The Negro Press and Its Close Relation to the Negro Market

(Chicago World, July 16)

A fact that only in the Negro Press can be found the vital news of the lives of colored people explains why they support these papers so fervently and that they are the chief means for reaching the colored market.

According to "Author" Edwards, who wrote on the the "Southern Urban Negro as a Consumer" the number of colored homes reading the white daily newspapers regularly on the one hand, and local weeklies on the other, do not adequately portray the comparitive values of the two sets of papers as advertising mediums in reaching the colored buyer and the market. The colored paper performs a service for the groups which the white daily can not perform. Whereas the white daily press presents its news and other features with the white reader chiefly in mind, the colored press presents its news and other features with the colored reader solely in mind. It lifts out of the mass of news presented in the white daily, items of specific and timely interest to the colored people, enlarges upon them and interprets them from his point of view. An example in point is the interpretation of matters relating to the race question. The platform upon which the colored newspapers stand is invariably tied up with this question. Again, it gathers together and presents other material which may be of absolutely no interest to the white race, but is of paramount interest to the colored people. Without the colored newspapers today, little news would be circulated regarding the activities of groups and individuals. The colored newspaper, therefore, speaks directly to the colored people on many subjects. When he reads it he knows that whatever is presented there is specifically for him. Consequently this medium affords the advertiser an opportunity to speak to the colored man alone, in particular to the best part of the group. More concretely, it enables him to utilize his advertising copy, illustration and appeals whose value, psychologically, should do much towards gaining the immediate attention, the sympathetic appreciation, and consequently the favorable reaction of the colored buyer the product concerned.

Thus, large advertisers often go to considerable expense to impress merchants whose trade is largely colored, with the size and force of their consumer advertising campaigns.

According to the Bulletin on Domestic Commerce issued by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce under date of January 10, 1935, the Purchasing Power of Colored People in the United States is estimated at two billion dollars. The small colored retail merchant, alone, annually sells more than $101,000,000 worth of merchandise directly to members of his race, and many of the other 300 colored newspapers and periodicals are excellent mediums for advertising articles and services of good quality, resulting in such volume trade.

BUYER'S GUIDE by Clarence Peacock

A $40,000,000 market is large enough, and portant enough for any manufacturer to consider seriously, in merchandising his products. Last year, colored consumers throughout the country spent over $40,000,000 for tobacco.

In 1937, $25,000,000 was spent in advertising by the four big manufacturers of cigarettes. The manufacturers of Chesterfield cigarettes spent $8,500,000. Luckies spent $5,600,000, and Old Gold spent $4,000,000.

I find that not one of these four companies, during the year of 1937, found it necessary to advertise in the Negro press, or to make any direct appeal for colored patronage in this $40,000,000 market.

If these manufacturers had spent even as little as 1 per cent of their advertising appropriation in the Negro press, the purchasing power of the Negro race would have been greater by $250,000, in 1937. This quarter of a million dollars might have given employment for one year, to 184 colored youths, at $25 a week.

Why is it that these manufacturers are ignoring this $40,000,000 market in their advertising? Obviously, they have all the Negro business they want, without making any special appeal for colore dpatronage. Just so long as the majority of colored consumers persist in buying almost any brand offered them, their economic status will not change.

Some time ago, the R. J. Reynolds Company, manufacturers of Camel cigarettes, advertised their products in the colored newspapers. The response of the colored consumer to these advertisements evidently was not great enough to warrant them to continue using the Negro press, as an advertising medium.

If colored smokers had given their full support to these advertisements, by buying Camel cigarettes, Camels would have continued to advertise in the Negro press. As a result, the increased sales would have been a sufficient inducement to have encouraged the company to have employed more Negroes both in their factories, and also as colored salesmen and representatives.

At the present time, there are three brands of cigarettes being advertised in our colored newspapers. They are Twenty Grand, Domino, and Marvels. These brands deserve your patronage. Demand them when you make your purchases.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

I note in the August 4th issue of the California Eagle an editorial comment under the head 'Club Unification a Fizzle' It is to be regretted that this item, which no way carried all the facts, occurred in a publication whose policies have usually been so broad.

There are many statements that can be refuted but especially do I wish to call attention to the attitude of the northern women. As a California club and fraternal worker who does not recognize either north or south in organization work, and as an active member of the California Federation of C. W. clubs for 22 years I am in a position to see the errors of both sides and the results of interference from over zealous and office seeking persons to the detriment of the unification of club work.

Had Mrs. Eliza Warner, President Emiritus, who had been selected by both north and south as presiding officer, been permitted to carry out the duties of this office today the north and south would have been united.

The northern clubs voted 100 percent to dissolve the incorporation papers, to meet in Los Angeles with the southern clubs, and together draw up new incorporation papers. Statements of "hoodwinking" and "unintentional dissolution" are refuted by the fact that the women from the north at their own personal expense and sacrifice came to the unification meeting, previously engaged thru their president, Mrs. Pittman, Atty. Walter A. Gordon of Berkeley to file the dissolution papers of the incorporation.

These papers could have been received in Los Angeles before the end of the recent meeting had the statement made that no election could be held until after their arrival been made on the first day of the meeting instead of on the last afternoon of the meeting, after the Body had decreed that neither presiding President could run for President of the unified body.

Following competent advice the northern women offered a solution which would have taken care of the whole matter. The formation of a temporary organization without regard to incorporation or unincorporation, but whose sole purpose was unification was offered until the dissolution and new incorporation papers were received. This plan was not accepted by the others. The northern women then requested the return of some one hundred dollars in State and National taxes brought with them and placed in joint treasury. They then returned to their northern homes.

Club women generally have much to be ashamed of, and it is regrettable that office seeking and self praise has been permitted to wreck or nullify the efforts of Negro womanhood in this State towards club unification and racial advancement.

Yours for deeds not words,
Vivian Osborne Marsh
State Supervisor of N. A. C. G.
Member of Northern Ex. Board.

Dear Editor:

For the past several months the State Relief Administration has been taking on people with college degrees but without experience, to do social work. A number of colored college graduates with degrees have applied for positions but Miss Mable O'Donnell, in charge of personnel has refused to consider them.

On Monday, August 2, 1938, she employed forty-five (45) inexperienced white workers to work in the Recertification Department, all of whom did not have degrees. Colored workers are told that they must have a degree plus two additional years of professional training. This department serves as a training unit for the workers. The agency is unable to get trained workers as they are not available. In view of the coming political campaign it is not necessary to have such persons as Miss Mable O'Donnell in office. During the past four months, three Negro workers resigned from the Metropolitan Office at 1238 So. San Julian Street, and four from the Compton Office at 3840 So. Broadway Place, to take positions with the Bureau of County Welfare.

Any worker who applies and then has the audacity to telephone after hearing of so many positions being available, is branded, and if in the end that person is given work, he or she is finally dismissed and not recommended for re-employment.

The stenographers meet the same problem. A number of stenographers have applied but have been told they would be given the first opportunity.

A College Graduate without employment who wants a job.

P. S. 1. Why doesn't some political group use this as a means to further their cause?

2. Why doesn't your paper insist upon the State Relief Administration hiring Negro workers as you do in private industry? You have more of a right here as the taxes pay the organization.

3. Why don't you interview Mrs. Batavia, Director of Compton S. R. A. Office, 3840 So. Broadway Place, and ask why white workers are carrying colored files? Why don't you have a group contact Miss Mable O'Donnell? Ask her why 45 were hired Monday and no colored.

4. Will you please keep up the publicity each week. If something is not done about this situation very soon, it will be beyond control. If you feel that there is nothing that you or your group can do about this, it will be turned over to some candidate for the Governorship, to use as a platform issue for gaining votes.

Dear Editor:

Relative to your recent inquiry "On The Sidwalk" and the reference "Open Sesame" I quote:

Slowly and surely the need for compromise with the colored voter has become more apparent, so that today the political and public state of mind is rapidly changing toward a more receptive recognition of the value of the black voter to either party. This fact was demonstrated in a recent article quoting the Democratic national chairman appealing to southern politicians to "collar" the black vote (third term issue) for the said party, which caused such a political furore in several white dailies below the Mason and Dixon Line. Unified action and the extended use of black political power, with the resultant displacement of millions of black votes from the Republican party, has influenced that party to react more favorably to patronage demands of colored Republican politicians: but even this still represents a "bait" to the colored voter.

I have had as a dream all of my life that before I died some agency of our Race would draw the group closer together better than in the past for the good of both races, colored and white, and that all friction and temporary causes of the differences which may ever have separated the two races of the United States would be acknowledged in their true and just proportions, and that we shall realize, whether the skin be black or white, yellow or brown, that the ignorant misimpressions wherein both races have differed on the race issue in the past will sink into absolute insignificance compared with those vital achievements which at all times, have established the race-man in his true light of equality, and will he ever demonstrate his potential voting power to unite us in one great cooperative whole, spiritually, physically, economically, financially, loyally, as well as progressively through the unity of the black vote!

When we go to the polls we should have force in our desire. No false force of loudness, but force that arises from earnestness and sincere determination not to satisfy self alone, but to achieve something for the Race as a whole.

Woman Held For Fatal Shooting Of Former Sweetheart

THEIR WEDDING A SENSATION!

REV. AND MRS. CLAYTON D. RUSSELL (Gwendolyn Diggs) shown immediately following their marriage in the People's Independent Church of Christ Wednesday night of last week. The wedding drew the largest crowd in the history of the church with both the popular pastor and his bride besieged by an admiring throng. (Other pictures on social pages.)

Self-Defense Given as Youthful Slayer's Motive as Coroner's Jury Orders Her Held to Answer; Well Known in Younger Set of Church

A major crime wave continued unabated on the Eastside this week with the fatal shooting Monday of Walter Lindsey, 26, of 708 E. 18th street, by Marjorie Lois Foreman, 20, of 752 E. 32nd street.

Lindsey died Tuesday morning at the General Hospital from gun shot wounds in the abdomen, inflicted by Miss Foreman during an altercation. She was held to answer by the coroner's jury at the inquest held early this morning. (Thursday).

Self-defense was given as the youthful slayer's motive, in a statement made to the police following the shooting. Arraignment will be held this afternoon. Lindsey was shot shortly after noon Monday at Miss Foreman's home. She told officers that Lindsey, a former sweetheart, had come to her home earlier that day, urging a reconciliation and when she refused, threatened her life.

When he came again, this time, through the rear door, she claimed, she ran before him, snatched her father's 38 calibre revolver from a bureau drawer and ran to the front of the house. When Lindsey caught up with her, she said she told him not to come any farther. As he continued toward her, she pulled the triger and he fell from the porch to the front lawn, a bullet in his abdomen.

Officers found Miss Foreman standing on the front porch, the gun still in her hands. Lindsey's body lay on the lawn. The gun contained five shells, four of them loaded.

Witnesses were her father, James Lindsey, 708 E. 18th street, and E. W. Heflin, 703 E. Jefferson, both of them of whom substantiated her claims of self defense. Lloyd Griffith of the firm of Grifith and Grifith, has been retained as defense counsel.

Miss Foreman was well known in the younger church set, having participated the day before in a girl's day program at a local church, taking one of the leading roles in a playlet.

Popular Eagle Newscast at 6 Mos. Mark

Smashing to a close six months of sensational popularity-strides, the "Negro Newspaper of the Air", KGFJ at 8:15, nightly, except Saturday and Sunday, chalked up a half year on the ether-waves this week.

Celebrating with a big special edition, the EAGLE editors stated yesterday that all credit for the program's unprecedented advent should be given S. A. Scherer Loan Company. "S. A. Scherer is the first great white institution to sponsor over the air a program directed toward intelligent Negro listeners. Their vision and courage in taking this hitherto 'taboo'ed' course should be rewarded with active support by all Americans interested in a balanced representation of the Race's genius to the general public. "The Negro Newspaper of the Air" is the first colored 'airing' ever to cast off the policy of sheer entertainment," statements held.

The special interviews presented through the facilities of the Radio newspaper have brought such outstanding persons as Nannie Burroughs, President of the National Training School for Women and Girls, in Washington, D. C.; Dr. Ralph Bunche, former U. C. L. A. star athlete and outstanding political scientist; Lieut. Lawrence A. Oxley, field representative of the United States employment service; Clarence Muse, noted actor and columnist; Woodrow Wilson Strode, football star; and Paul R. Williams, prominent architect, to the Radio audience.

FIERY WEEKLY FEATURE

On several occasions the fiery weekly "editorial opinions" of Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, EAGLE editor-publisher, has set the "whole town talking". The fiery publicist has often probed deep into the political and economic situation in local areas--and usually to the extreme discomfort of several individuals.

The appearances of Miss Helen F. Chappelle, society news, and J. Cullen Fentress, sports news, give the program an added sparkle and balance.

RECEIVES AWARD

MISS BLANCHE GENEVA WILEY, above, is the year's recipient of the Angelus Funeral Home scholarship, presented through the Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority by J. L. Hill, manager of the Home.

Miss Wiley was recommended for the scholarship by Mrs. Elsa May Smith, girls' vice-principal of Jefferson high school, of which Miss Wiley was a Summer '38 graduate.

In a letter to the sorority Mrs. Smith stated that Miss Wiley by vote of the faculty was one of five, and the only Negro girl, elected to the Ephebian society, honor organization in the Los Angeles City Scholo system, selection being based on leadership. In addition Miss Wiley is a member of the California Scholarship Federation, having maintained an "R" record during her three years in high school.

Head Blows Force Hank to Lay-Off

15 Stitches Needed to Close Injured Lip; May Be On Shelf 3 or 4 Mos.

Henry Armstrong's analysis of his title battle with Lou Ambers given here to friends a month or so ago, proved correct today, as the great triple-champion may be forced to keep idle three or four months to allow severe lacerations, suffered in his winning fight Wednesday night in New York against Lou Ambers, to mend.

Not so long ago, Armstrong told friends in Los Angeles that he expected to have his hardest fight against Ambers. Because of the fighting style of Lou, who runs and jumps with the ease of a kangaroo, Hustlin' Hank figured he would have a lot of difficulty in winning.

Doctor's examination revealed that Hank had swallowed a large amount of blood during the bout. He ejected about a quart and a-half of blood at the office of Dr. Alexander Schiff where he went for an examination.

TRIPLE CHAMPION

The little Los Angeles battler was being hailed today as one of the greatest fighters in history, holding three titles at the same time being little short of a miracle.

Flooring his foe twice before a fight-crazed throng in Madison Square Garden, Armstrong left no doubt as to the superior man. He won a 15-round split decision, and now holds the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight boxing crowns. All hail to the Miracle Man!

Heres what they received: Ambers, $33,860.22 while Armstrong's share was $20,766.43.

Knife-Killer Still at Large; Search Moves Northward

As press time early today, scurrying vainly to various habitats in search of Jenkins, who had a previous police record, the officers told the Eagle yesterday that they believed the man has made his way out of the city and to the Northern part of the State. A statewide broadcast was sent out early this week, giving the killer's description and ordering him held for Los Angeles police wherever he is apprehended.

A warrant was issued for Jenkins' arrest Friday by the district attorney's office, following the coroner's inquest in which the jury found that Joplin, well known Avenue businessman, came to his death from stab wounds inflicted with homicidal intent by Jenkins.

Coroner Frank Nance's inquest room was the scene of a heated argument between Mrs. Nagatha Gomez, daughter of Joplin, with whom he lived at 1022 E. 45th street, and Miss Hattie Hayes, 912 E. 46th street, plump waitress, whom Joplin was protecting when he was stabbed.

Mrs. Gomez accused Miss Hayes of changing her testimony from the story she told Newton street officers directly after the

by c. a. b.

FOR the past week, Los Angeles--particularly the Eastside--has suffered a sweeping crime-wave. There have been terrible accidents resultant from drunk driving--robberies, and two major cases of murder. An irate husband, tortured by the thought of a failure in his second marriage--tormented by what unknown fears we shall never know--kills his young and pretty wife, and turns the smoking weapon upon himself. Two bodies in the county morgue bare mute testimony to the stark tragedy of domestic frustration.

A young man rushes into a Central Avenue Cafe--molests a waitress--his former sweetheart. The aged proprietor attempts to intervene and is slashed to death. And at four o'clock the next morning a game of hide-and-seek which led through the treacherous alleys of dark back-streets is unfinished. And yet, a young man has taken the first step on an inevitable journey to society's throne of retribution—the electric chair.

Horrible, and certainly an unvoiced denunciation of something in our way of life. The tragic young couple of whom I spoke had a one-year old child. What a terrific actual and phsychological handicap it will suffer facing the world with a knowledge of its parents' awful death. The young man--and a very young one--who, in seeming cold blood, killed an old man for protecting a woman, doubtless will leave some parent with a searing, heart-rending memory.

And when such things happen about us, many turn to the platitudes. Point out, piously off the point, that Crime Does Not Pay, or advocate stricter legislative measures and more efficient police organization. But, how short-sighted--and how typical. For always at a critical time, there is much agitation and little consideration.

There are certain laws of Physics which extend into every phase of our life, and whose truth applies to all our problems. One such is the theory of Cause and Effect. In this instance, we see the effect in the stories in all our newspapers. We find in our great, ever-growing city, crimes of every nature. There is a certain percentage of crime in any community the size of Los Angeles which we might label "legitimate", or within reasonable bounds when compared to the population. The number of maldeeds performed in this most recent crime-wave far exceed any such "legitimate" estimate. And since this is the official organ of the Negro, let us speak more pointedly on the Eastside alone.

Youth Tells NAACP Of Police Brutality

16-Year Old Youth Tells NAACP President of Brutal Beating Suffered at Hands of Tulare Police; Cops Tried to Force Confession of Theft

Details of horrible brutality on the part of Tulare police reached Attorney Thomas L. Griffith, president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, local branch, this week. The sensational disclosures hinged on the alleged police thrashing delt a sixteen-year-old Tulare youth, Solomon Stevens, in order to force a confession of stealing nine dollars from a white boy. He was later found innocent.

The incident occurred November 25, 1937. Injuries received were so extensive that the youth has spent much time in hospitals. Ailments about the head have become so painful that the young man is unable to work.

Probable course of the NAACP will be a petition to the Attorney General.

Excerpts from a letter written by young Stevens in Attorney Griffith's possession follow:

"On the 25th of November, 1937, between eleven and twelve o'clock I was arrested by the Tulare City Police who accused me of taking nine dollars from another boy about my age, which is sixteen years old. The two officers, Henry Spomer and Carl Peebles took me to the City Jail and left me in the waiting room for about a half a hour. Peebles taken me in office and set me in a chair across the table from Henry Spomer who asked me what did I do with the money I said I did not get any money from George Wilson. Henry Spomer said to me, I just as well get out my billy so you just as well tell the truth for I am going to kill you. Then Carl Peebles hit me across the head with his blackjack and said let's see how hard that thing is. Spomer came around the table and slapped me on one side of my head with his left hand and on the other side with his blackjack. Carl Peebles hit me again with his blackjack, then Spomer asked me what did I do with the money I told him I didn't have it so he hit me across the face and made blood come from my nose and Carl hit me across the side and the back of my head, Spomer asked me again where the money and I told him I didn't have it so he said, "You G-- d---- liar, you (s— o— a b—,) you will tell before we get through with you, that's the way with niggers, always telling lies. I am going to take you down in the cellar and when we get through putting electricity to you, you will tell. Then he said get up from that table you black s-- of a b--. Then he hit me across my head with his blackjack. I got up from the chair and Spomer grabbed me by the muscle of my arm and booted me to the cell and locked me up. I stayed in the cell about a half an hour, when Mr. McMillen, a police officer and Henry Spomer took me out of the cell into the waiting room where Spomer asked me if I had decided to tell the truth about the money. I told him yes, that I didn't know nothing about the money, Spomer said "Thats a G-- d-- lie. McMillen got a belt with handcuffs attached to it which he put around my waist, handcuffing my hands to it, then Spomer put a cloth around my head so as to blindfold me then he grabbed me by my shoulders, kicked and pushed me down the steps also bumping my head on the concrete wall."

Blow Prejudices To Hell, Says Burroughs

Baptist Dynamo Blasts Politicians, Racial Inferiority Complexes, Misuse of Ballot; Fires Immense Audience at Second Baptist Church

"There is enough dynamite—moral, mental and spiritual—among the 13,000,000 Negroes in this country to blow handicaps and race prejudice to hell!" exploded Nannie H. Burroughs, president of the National Training School for Women and Girls, in Washington, D. C., before a tremendous audience Sunday at the 2nd Baptist church.

The dynamo of the Women's Auxiliary of the National Baptist Convention blasted white and black politicians, racial inferiority complexes, "a civilization that drops an entire race to the bottom of its reservoir", loafers—both street corner and ecclesiastic brands, and misuse of the ballot, among other things.

Miss Burroughs, acknowledged among the Race's premier orators, fired the immense Second Baptist audience with lofty rhetoric and brittle wit.

DENOUNCES GIFTS

"Anyone needeing help all the time isn't worth helping" declared the educator in a denunciation of a "hat-in-had" racial attitude. "We are goig to write out our equality with other people on the basis of pure merit and beat race prejudice to a frazzle" exclaimed Miss Burroughs at a climatic point.

NEGRO INCIDENTALLY

"I am" she said, "just incidentally a Negro, but mainly a glorious human being!" in a fiery jab at 'racial inferiority complexes.' "If I thought" she continued, "God Almighty had made me inferior to anything that walks on earth, I wouldn't serve him another minute."

SUCCESS MENU

Prescribing the correct potion for success, educator Burroughs held a "satisfied man is a liability on this earth. . . .To make a cause, a man, a civilization, you've got to put everything you've got in it! If we try honestly and earnestly and fail, the exercise will have been good for us. Each generation must leave something for the next to build upon."

"Stimulate Business" is the war cry of the entire MOTION PICTURE business, by ADVERTISING TO THE EXTENT of ONE MILLION DOLLARS in the newspapers of the country. Now, it seems to me that this is the grand time for the NEGRO PRESS to do its bit for the COLORED ARTISTS. SLOGANS, of all kinds are being created to arouse interest, and I AM SURE with a great need for business the NEGRO PRESS would be excellent in getting a big RETURN FROM 12,000,000 or more NEGROES of America. Above all, here is a grand chance to get MORE EMPLOYMENT, on a legitimate basis, GETTING THE COLORED FOLKS OF THE WORLD BOX OFFICE conscious. Please understand it is not a special plea because they are COLORED, but a plea because we SPEND MONEY for entertainment and lots of it and WE WANT THE PRODUCERS to CHANCE to help in this GIGANTIC EFFORT to keep AMERICA'S recognize the fact and GIVE SOME OF OUR boys and GIRLS a greatest industry on TOP. Colored artists are an ASSET TO WHITE theatres when properly exploited, the accent on the COLORED TRADE is a HOME RUN as to the need of giving this TRUE AMERICAN a chance in TRUE AMERICAN stories. His MUSIC (I mean the NEGRO), his wit, his great DRAMATIC ABILITY must be developed and our PRESS have a golden opportunity at this GREAT LOW in the business to join the BOOSTERS. Your advertising AGENTS can get some of this outlay if they go after it in a BUSINESS way, and all of the RACIAL NONSENSE can be wash-

Tivoli May Be Re-Named; Theatres Plan Stage Shows

Sensational annuoncements from the new management of the Tivoli, Florence Mills, Rosebud, and Hub Central Avenue theatre-chain were plentiful this week.

They are tabulated below:

1. The "Tivoli" theatre will soon be renamed "The Bill Robinson" if present plans work out. The new operators stated that they wished to pay tribute to a great theatrical genius, a fine man and a great and outstanding Negro. Bill Robinson was the first choice. The renaming is believed to be symbolic of the earnest attitude of cooperation and economic recognition which the new owners posses.

2. It was announced that a system of employment of young neighborhood talent will be instituted in order to give local youth an opportunity to develop. This announcement comes upon the heels of the recent "Back to the Stage" campaign of the California Eagle theatrical section. The quick response on the part of several other Central Avenue "movie-house moguls" to support a program which would include employment of theatrically ambitious district youngsters.

3. The most extensive renovation and rehabilitation project in local show-house history is now in progress at the four theatres —particularly the "Tivoli"—future "Bill Robinson". New curtains have replaced the old, somewhat disreputable asbestos sheets. Seats have been repaired; new ones installed. Redecoration and "finishing touches" have been applied to interior sore-spots, while a new ultra-modern marquee is scheduled to replace the incumbent. In fact, "Two Features Now Playing and Selected Short Subjects" will be streamlined as never before on Central Avenue.

Cook Parries Knife Thrust; K. O.'s Would-be Attacker

The tragic fate of Alexander Joplin, 72-year-old restaurant proprietor, was almost duplicated last Friday night with Gene Henry, cook in a restaurant at 5259 S. Central avenue, just missing a knife thrust similar to that which killed Joplin.

Police called to the restaraunt found James A. Calloway of 1139 E. 49th street, stretched on the floor, his skull fractured. Henry told police, and witnesses corroborated his story, that Calloway came into the restraunt in a drunken condition and attempted to assult a waitress, almost a duplication of the performance of James Jenkins, who murdered Joplin in Joplin's restaraunt two nights previous.

Henry said he protested and ordered Calloway out, the drunken man drew a knife and attempted to cut him. A much younger man than Joplin, Henry was able to parry the knife thrust and hit Calloway, the force of the blow knocking him to the floor. At the General Hospital where he was moved following treatment at Georgia Street Receiving hospital, he had not yet regained consciousness at press time, and is not expected to live.

Dwight Dorseys Separated; His Body Sent Home

Divided in life, the bodies of Dwight R. Dorsey and Mrs. Margaret Louise Dorsey will not lie beside each other in death.

This was learned this week as funeral services were held Monday in the chapel of the Conner-Johnson Mortuary for Mrs. Dorsey with interment in Evergreen Cemetery, and as Conner-Johnson prepared Dorsey's body for shipment to his mother in Omaha, Neb., his native home.

Dorsey, a 34 year old latherer, shot his wife, the pretty 20 year old, former Margaret Louise Brooks, at their late residence, 2125 W. 29th Street, Tuesday night of last week, then turned the gun on himself. She died a few minutes after in the Georgia Street receiving hospital of gunshot wounds in the head. Dorsey succumbed at General Hospital the next morning.

The name of a prominent doctor was mentioned in the inquiry into the suicide and murder. Mrs. Dorsey had separated from her husband and had been seen in the company of the young medical man on a beach party. It was her refusal to be reconciled to her husband that led to the tragedy. She was Dorsey's second wife. The couple had one child, a baby less than two years of age.

Stocks Passes Up National Tennis Meet; Was Favorite

LINCOLN U., CHESTER COUNTY, Pa., Aug. 18—When the dusty automobile, bearing a California license plate, and driven by Clarence Mills, president of the Western Federation of Tennis clubs, rolled into town last Thursday and onto the scene of the 22nd National Tennis championships, Mills, with the exception of his family was all alone. Interviewed immediately he gave out the information that James Stocks, believed by many to be a favorite in the men's singles this year, could not make the trip, summer school duties at the University of Southern California keeping him in Los Angeles.

The "Nationals" got underway here Monday with several stars of yesteryear and last year absent. The decision of Reggie Weir, New York doctor, to relinquish his title, shocked the tennis world last week. Stocks' action this week placed the doubles championship on the block. He won it last year with Tommie Walker of West Virginia State.

Angelenos Form Archery Club; First of Kind Here

With several high-sounding motives to their credit, a group of Angelenos this week announce dthe formation of an archery club, the first of its kind for Negroes on the West Coast.

Headed by Al Mollers as president, the group aims to introduce the sport, little practiced by Negroes, at a tournament to be staged in September.

Working under the title "The Archers of Robin Hood", the group Mollers said, has an ultimate aim placing of one Negro on the Olympic archery team. William Gilbert is vice-president, Addie Carter, secretary, Hazel Bartley, assistant secretary, Thomas Lindsay, treasurer, Robert Johnson, business manager, and Jessie Kimbrough, instructor.

It was pointed out that Kimbrough constructs bows and arrows in a workshop at his home, as a hobby, and is believed one of the ace exponents of the sport on the Coast.

Bent On Good Time, Man Robbed of $235

Knowledge of man's first name is not sufficient acquaintance on which to base trust, R. M. White, 39 year old white salesman of 404 E. Chevy Chase learned to his sorrow Sunday. White reported to Newton Street police that he bent on a good time in the Central avenue section, met up with a colored "friend" of his whom he knew only as "Jim" and spent the evening with him, at the conclusion of which he discovered that his purse was missing, containing $235.00 and furthermore, he was locked in his own automoblie for safekeeping by the obliging "Jim". He claims the purse-lifting occurred on E. 42nd place and that bloc kon E. 42nd place and that among the $235.00 was a $100.00 bill.

Eastern Star Chapter Hears Report

Friday afternoon, August 12th was another brilliant page in the book of the activities of Deborah Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star. The Worthy Matron, Mrs. Claribel Ashcraft, made her report of the actions of the Grand Chapter, convening in the city of Riverside, July 1938. At the close of this report, which was a wonderful one, the chapter was at recess for the program prepared by the Star Points under the direction of Mrs. Louise B. Key. Bishop Sara L. Butler rises and makes timely remarks and presents the mistress of ceremonies, Mrs. Key. The chapter sang "God bless our Eastern Star"; the Star Points presented a skit "A tribute to our Worthy Matron" under the direction of Mrs. Louise V. Fulghum. It was very beautiful and well received. Mrs. Olivia Van Meter rendered "Rose in the Bud" and thrilled the chapter with her sweet mellow voice. Mrs. Hallie Dell King rendered a reading and Mrs. Key, a paper entitled "My Matron".

Flowers were presented to the Matron by Mrs. L. G. Shaw and a token by Mrs. Geraldine Johnson, all on behalf of the chapter. The Worthy Matron presented flowers to all officers.

Visitors were present from all of the chapters in Los Angeles and Pasadena. The Worthy Patron, Mr. R. A. Ashcraft presided over the felicitations from the visitors, who expressed their delight at being present and admired the beautiful floor star rug presented to the chapter by the Silver Leaf club of the chapter under the presidency of Mrs. Geraldine Johnson. Mrs. Gertrude Edwards responds to the many kindly remarks from the visitors. After the meeting the members and guests enjoyed delicious refreshments in the banquet hall.

Your Guiding Star

by RAYMON
EMINENT ASTROLOGER

B. W. M.—I am planning on making a move in business. Will I succeed?

Ans.—I would advise that you do not make this move at the present. It would only prove a setback to you. Wait until October at which time your finances will permit such a move.

M. L. G.—Will my boyfriend return to me in the future?

Ans.—This man bearing the name of Leslie has a tendency to be fickle and will always want some other woman. Forget him and try to interest yourself with your friends. You will meet the right one in the future.

E. K.—Will my husband get this money soon?

Ans.—By contacting the right parties and aplying all his efforts in trying to get this money, he will prove successful. This will enable you to start building on your new home.

T. J. C.—Is my sickness natural or not?

Ans.—I vision your sickness to be more mental than physical. If you will not worry about your troubles as you have in the past you will not be so depressed. Also you have the habit of overdoing things, therefore the more temperate you live, the better your conditions will be.

P. E.—Does my husband care for me anymore and will he return?

Ans.—It appears to me that certain difficulties have arose during the past few months which have turned your husband in another direction. It would be wise for you to contact him and make amends. I see him willing to return to you only he is too stubborn to make the first move.

M. T.—Would it be wise for me to marry the second time?

Ans.—Indications are that you will enjoy a second union in the near future. This union will prove more successful than the first.

H. B.—My friend is in some trouble and has asked my advice. Do you think I should give it?

Ans.—Talk to your friend and explain both sides to her as you have the faculty of seeing both sides of any problem, and your judgement can be relied upon.

T. R.—Will these men keep me from getting my advancement in the work I am doing?

Ans.—You have the habit of confiding too much in your friends and will eventually be betrayed by them. However I do not see them causing you to lose this job as their idle talk will not be heeded. In the future make sure of your friends before trusting them.

J. L.—Will I win the case I have in court?

Ans.—Since you were hit there has been much delay in this suit. Although I do see you receiving a settlement finally that will help pay the doctor's bills, it will not be what you are anticipating.

Campbell Boomed for 14th District Congressman

The campaign for William D. Campbell's candidacy as congressman from the 14th Congressional District gained additional impetus this week as Republican forces lined up to recapture their place in both national and state representation.

It is recalled that Campbell won the 1932 nomination with a sweeping victory in this district because of his fearlessness in expressing belief in a program designed to benefit the whole people.

Leaders pointed out that the election of Mr. Campbell who is a respected and progressive practicing attorney will mean equal representation of all persons, regardless of race, in this district. Indications point to his being a winner in the coming primary race.

6. Stringent state control of better housing, slum clearance and fair rent programs.
8. Prevention of repitition of the so-called vice investigation, a political publicity trick which brought uncalled-for shame to this district.
9. Organized effort toward curbing the sharp practices of unscrupulous independent credit merchants who exploit and victimize innocent buyers with multiple merchandise and unfair credit charges.
10. An organized district forum to acquaint representative with civil needs and will of the people.

tion's studio on Sunset Boulevard, stated that Cooper would return to Los Angeles after the Henry Armstrong fight which was held last night in New York.

A summons for Cooper was obtained in the New York City Family Court last week by Coopmon, who sang and danced several years ago in "Show Boat", "Running Wild" and other Broadway revues. The complaint stated that Cooper, although he was well able to do so, had contributed nothing to the child's support in the past year. Mrs. Cooper went blind several years ago.

The management received a letter of acceptance from Bill Robinson allowing them to name their theatre after him. Plans are being made to change the marquee of the theatre. stabbing. According to testimony of Lieut. Broady, Miss Hayes told him Jenkins was resentful because she refused to continue relations with him because he had just spent six months in jail. On the stand she said she had not known he had ever been in difficulty with the law.

Only one man, of the four or five who were in the restraunt during the altercation, had nerve enough to stay within reach of the killer. He was Lum Bolton, 982 E. 46th street. Bolton said he was sitting at the counter eating when he observed the events which followed.

He said Jenkins came in and ordered a meal, swore violently at Miss Hayes during the course of it, chased her to the back of the cafe with a knife and when Joplin ordered him out, turned his wrath to the old man.

Bolton claimed that his head was down when the two men met in the center of the restaurant. it was not until he felt the room go strangely quiet that he looked up to see Jenkins take a final slash at Joplin and run out. He said the aged man took two or three steps to the rear, sat down on a bench, then slumped to the floor, dying.

One other witness Miss Norlean Kursh, a roomer at the same address given by Miss Hayes, gave dramatic testimony. She said Jenkins ran past her as she sat in an automobile on the outside. He was carrying the bloody knife, still open, she said, and muttering "They don't know me. I'll kill them all."

Sidewalk . . .

rence A. Oxley, of the United States employment service, reveal the tremendous influx of Negroes from other sections of the nation--particularly the south--which Los Angeles has undergone within the past two or three "depression years". Thousands have come--forced from their former homes by the advent of insufferable economic conditions. Here they are. Able-bodied men and women, without employment, and on the streets. Bored--listless--no-where to go and nothing to do--and, here, the enigma of a crime-wave becomes more understandable. At least, we have some inkling of the CAUSE. Yet we have so little real information. How many indigent Negroes are without jobs? Without food? How long have they been here? How many days have they worked since that time? What can they do? What unknown opportunities exist for them?

A compilation of this information is a fitting task for the numerous Negro clubs and organizations. I stress the Women's associations. They possess the equipment for such a duty. Countless women could contribute hours of time hitherto spent in the dull service of social Gods--garden-teas and bridge-parties. And perhaps such a campaign would make clear the fact that only a very few Negroes receive governmental empolyment; would reveal that only the highly educated, expertly-fitted Negro finds a place in the machinery of state and civic administration. And it is not these over whom we must worry in an anti-crime crusade. It is not these who drift in and out of local courts--on vagrancy, petty-larceny, and even lesser counts. It is not these whose self-respect and perspective are demolished; trampled in the dust by economic adversity. It is not these who rob and attack and murder. It may be that a militant investigation on the part of women's clubs could serve as a battering ram to open the flood-gates of employment for Negroes in the lower, yet more vital, fields of state and civic employment.

Then too, an inquest into the liquor situation on Central Avenue would be of inestimable value. A liquor expert from Hawaii visiting Los Angeles reported to the editors of the California Eagle that the alcoholic beverage sold on the Avenue is positively the worst offered for public consumption in the nation. My friends, he spoke as a government expert. Hence--since we must have a saloon on each alternate corner--let us assure ourselves that the worth of liquor sold therein is commensurate with the price demanded. I believe we can prove that more than seventy-five percent of liquors purchased on Central are grossly overpriced--and even over-drugged!

And then we come to the most important, the basic cause for crime in any urban center. The shocking housing conditions of certain Eastside areas in reality are the Public Enemies, one, two, three, four and on down the line, in the community. The California Eagle heartily endorses the housing campaign of both the Federal, state and city governments. An investment for creating tolerable environments in which its young may grow is a sound business venture for any nation or subdivision thereof. In the case of the Eastside housing unit, we only pray for immediate construction.

It is known that rodents, insects, and harmful bacteria germinate at a tremendous pace in dirt, filth and darkness. This holds doubly true with humans. Sweep away the slums and you destroy the Kingdom of Crime!

'Beyond the River' Thrills Big Audience

With the theme "Beyond the River", the Second Baptist Sixth Annual Girls' Day program Sunday emerged one of the most successful in local religious circles.

The morning program was highlighted by the address of Miss Manilia Smith, who received a Master of Arts degree in Latin at UCLA. Her address, depicting the requirements for a Christian life, was accredited with establishing a new high-point in Second Baptist Girls' Day oratory. Scholarly, yet terse; informative, yet spiced by frequent vivid illustrations, the speech gained for Miss Smith a legion of admirers.

With a gentle background of flowing water over the beautiful baptistry of the church, one of the distinctive musical presentations featured three attractive girls, one instrumental and two soloists. The expert precision with which the service moved under the able hand of the mistress of ceremonies was extensively commented upon by the congregation.

Evening services featured the brilliant operetta composed by Second Baptist's staunch young worker, Emily Jane Green. The story was taken from Revelations and Negro History. The performance was accorded wide and favorable criticism by the layity, while special enthusiasm for Miss Green's ability was expressed by drama authorities.

Other renditions featured on the evening program included the theme song used during the National Baptist Convention by the Chorus directed by Mme. Mozelle Te Outley. The story of the spiritual was told and many sung . . . especially those anticipating a new and happy day. Here again the colorful flare of Second Bapfist girls was brought into play in the picturesque background.

Miss Iola Brister, LAJC drama student came all the way from Monrovia to deliver "Judgement Day", by James Weldon Johnson. Miss Brister's delivery of the old-fashioned sermon was both sensitive and forceful.

Pepsi-Cola Asks Writ to Restrain Coca-Cola Co.

Suit was filed in Queens County Supreme Court by the Pepsi-Cola Company against the Coca-Cola Company, asking for a restraining order to enjoin the Coca-Cola Company from interfering with the Pepsi-Cola Company, its subsidiaries and licensees throughout the United States.

Simultaneously with the filing of this bill of complaint against the Coca-Cola Company, the Pepsi-Cola Company stated a petition had been filed in the U. S. Patent Office in Washington by the Pepsi-Cola Company attacking the validity of the Coca-Cola trade-mark.

The petition further states that the names "Coca" and "Cola" are both descriptive names, are public property and, therefore, cannot be used exclusively by the Coca-Cola Company.

ACTIVE 35 YEARS

The bill of complaint alleges that the Pepsi-Cola trade-mark has been in existence and in continuous use for more than 35 years, and that during all that period Pepsi-Cola has been sold side by side in competition with Coca-Cola; and that its rights have never been challenged in the United States by anyone during this entire period.

The bill of complaint further alleges that the Pepsi-Cola Company, its subsidiaries, affiliates and licensees, have an investment in excess of $25,000,000, and that in the calendar year spent in newspaper advertising alone in excess of one million dollars ($1,000,000).

The Pepsi-Cola Company complains that the Coca-Cola Company seeks to "destroy its business and that of its subsidiaries, affiliates, and licensees."

"RIGHTS" ATTACKED

The Pepsi-Cola Company asks an injunction restraining the Coca-Cola Company "from causing any opposition to be filed to the registration of plaintiff's trademark in any State of the United States or in any foreign country" and from any action that might threaten prosecution of anyone for manufacturing, buying, selling, distributing or otherwise dealing in the trade name of Pepsi-Cola.

Papers in the suit were served today by the law firm of O'Brien, Driscoll and Raftery, on Deputy Secretary of State William O'Brien at Albany, as the legal representative of the Coca-Cola Corporation in New York State.

CHICKEN THIEF SAWS OFF LOCK; KIDNAPS 6

"Who tok the lock off the hen house door" is what C. N. Bradford and R. C. Washington, Newton Street detectives, were called upon to determine last Sunday. Hurst Beroman, 1145 E. 45th Pl., told the officers someone sawed the lock from the door of his henhouse Sunday night and escaped with six Rhode Island Red pullets, which he valued at $3.60. He said the "chicken-kidnapping" had occured on two previous occasions.

Saul Klein Well Qualified for Judgeship

In Attorney Saul S. Klein we have the man of the hour. For over 25 years he has made it possible for us to know where he stands. Having suffered hardships and discriminations he is naturally better fitted to deal with human nature and to understand the problems of the masses who suffer. It is practically the duty of every citizen to see that Attorney Saul S. Klein is elected Judge of Superior Court, Office No. 1 by a decisive and substantial majority. We want no more such decisions as rendered by Judge Charles W. Burnell in the Burns Case. Attorney Klein is admirably fitted in temperament, ability and experience for the office of Judge of the Superior Court, Office No. 1 at Los Angeles, California.

GILL

The funeral of Matthew Gill, 1632 E. 112th street, was held at the CME church in Watts last Saturday under the direction of the Angelus Funeral Home, with interment in Evergreen cemetery.

The deceased was born in Shreveport, La., and had made his home in Los Angeles for the past 33 years. For ten years prior to his death he was employed as a janitor at the Goodyear Rubber Company.

Two sisters and other relatives here survive.

JOPLIN

Last rites for Alexander F. Joplin, 72, cafe owner, were held in the church chapel of Angelus Funeral Home last Saturday.

The aged man was stabbed to death late Wednesday evening when he tried to protect one of the waitresses employed in his place at 4575 Central avenue, from a murderous attack by a former sweetheart, James Jenkins.

He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Magatha Gomez, with whom he had made his home at 1022 E. 45th street.

The rites were conducted by Rev. S. M. Beane, pastor of Hamilton M. E. church and interment was in Evergreen cemetery.

SMITH

Thomas J. Smith, of 796 East 42nd place, was drowned at Lakeside Golf Club, where he had been employed for the past ten years as a waiter, last Friday. Final services were solomnized at St. Patricks Church yesterday afternoon under the direction of Angelus Funeral Home, with interment in Calvary cemetery.

The deceased had lived here for 19 years, his birthplace being New Orleans, La. His widow, Mrs. Eugenia D. Smith, mother, Mrs. Dora Carresse, and many other relatives survive.

FORSYTHE

Final services for Mrs. Irene W. Forsythe, of 200 East Grand avenue, San Gabriel, were held at St. Patrick's Church, Tuesday morning with interment in Calvary cemetery directed by the Angelus Funeral Home. She passed away at the General Hospital following a brief illness, last Sunday.

Mrs. Forsythe had made her home in California for 18 years, coming here from Pine Bluff, Arkansas. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Lena Wilson and other relatives in Los Angeles; and a father and son in New York City.

Divine Not in Conflict with Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Father Divine repudiated this week reports that he is up in opposition to the New Deal following a transaction by which Howland Spencer, white gentleman farmer and New Deal foe turned over to the cult leader his 500-acre estate at Krum Elbow, opposite President Roosevelt's family seat on the Hudson River.

In a speech in the banqueting hall of his "heaven" at 152-60 West 126th Street, the cult leader told his followers he was not in conflict with the New Deal.

Alluding to Spencer's openly expressed hatred of the Roosevelt administration, he said:

"For this cause, I wish to say we are not having any grievance with any person or persons. We highly appreciate having any persons represent our communities in the highest order of things, and we do not have anything of what the press said that he against the President on account and Mr. Spencer had disagreed ine, but found "sort of amusing" the "thought of the steamboat that will bring thousands of colored people from New York to swim in the Hudson here and have picnics on the hills." It is understood that Spencer first donated a parcel of his property to the Divine cult, which then purchased additional property, reputedly at a figure of $50,000.

Spencer thinks the Divine cult is a "good thing" because its followers "take vows of chastity and poverty". He is violently opposed to the New Deal because of its program of unemployment relief. He complains that he could not get men to work his farm for the wages he offered, and asserts that President Roosevelt is "heading for a Russian State".

McDono Plan to Assure Full Year's Rent

Assurance of a full year's rent to property owners renting homes to county indigents, as well as the stabilization of rents of homes occupied by these people is being sought in a proposal by Supervisor Gordon L. McDonough which he placed before the Charities department for investigation.

Under McDonough's plan the county would guarantee a year's full rent to property owners at a stipulated amount which would give relief clients and the charities department a basic figure upon which to compute the budget allowed for these individual cases.

At the present time the budgets are at a fixed sum and when rents fluctuate, the balance left for food changes accordingly and is often detrimental especially to women and children.

"Many property owners who are renting to clients of the county charities department, lose from one to two months rent per year, because of the tenants' moving", said McDonough. "These moves are often made necessary by attempts to increase rents and the tenants unable to pay--moves to a chepaer house."

A packet for paper matches recently patented includes a flap to cover the matches and prevent them igniting when one is removed and struck.

Hunnigan, Fay Griffith, Ora Solomon, Maude Broady, Ruth Wilson, Katie Lewis Ackers, Broks, Elizabeth Leneer, Buelah Wyndon, Elsie Ellsworth Pious, M. LIBRARY BOOK NOTES

By Miriam Matthews

Those who read Louis Armstrong's "Swing That Music" will surely want to read Dorothy Baker's "Young Man With a Horn," the latest Houghton Mifflin Literary Fellowship Award. It is a strange, powerful novel of "swing" with a passionate musician riding for a fall. The music of Leon (Bix) Beiderbecke, who died in 1931, was the inspiration for the writing of this book, but the characters and events in the story are all fictitious.

Rick Martin, our hero, was born in Georgia and left an orphan at a tender age. Reared by his seventeen-year-old aunt and her brother who brought him to Los Angeles when he was eight years old, he was left pretty much to his own devices while they went out to earn a living. When he was fourteen, he learned to play the piano by fooling around with pianos in churches and later in night clubs. But a piano wasn't exactly his instrument so he turned to brass when he finally earned enough to buy himself a horn. Getting a good deal of teaching from Art Hazard, the great Negro trumpeter, he learned to do things with a trumpet. After playing with numerous small bands around Los Angeles, he was finally "discovered" and taken to New York where he became a sensation overnight. He loved his work and never got tired. He kept it up night after night until he pushed things too far. He didn't sleep and he didn't eat, because he could do so many other things. He could drink, for instance, and before he knew it he was drinking almost constantly in order to keep everything else going. As a result he finished up his time in this life before he was thirty. Mourned by almost nobody except two Negro musicians, Jeff Williams and Dan Jordan, it will be only a question of time until he's forgotcompletely.

That's the story, and according to the author, it could never be called a grand tragic theme. But it is a story that has the ring of truth and an overtone or two. It is the story of the gap between a man's musical ability and his ability to fit it to his own life; and the difference between good and bad in a native American art form—jazz music.

DOWN IN FRONT

About the only sports that really interest anyone now, up until, and beyond August 31st, are the various political handicaps. Mere tennis players, golfers, swimmers, football or baseball players can not hope to compete with the gentlemen, who are after breaking the tape first on midnight August 31st, and if they (the athletes) have any sense, they won't try.

So until my candidate gets the nod, or his opponent strips the white shirt off his manager's back to throw in the ring, I am offering this space to guest-columnists.

This week's stint fell from the typewriter keys of Damon Runyon, peer of sport columnists. If you knew or even vaguely heard of the glory that was Joe Gans', you'll be interested . . . read on.

"We have just received Volume 1 of "Black Dynamite", which is the beginning of a history of the Negro in prize fighting written by Nat Fleischer, one of the very few men in this country who write of prize fighting with any knowledge of the history and traditions of that outlandish game.

"Nat Fleischer is a fellow who runs a magazine devoted to prize fighting, and has one of the finest collections of books and pictures on pugilism past and present in the world. He is an erudite gentleman, and writes most entertainingly, and while volume 1 covers only the Negro prize fighters of a great many years back, we are sure he will finally get around to the greatest of them all.

"That was a skinny, plaintive looking brown fellow out of Baltimore named Joe Gans. He was one of the few real geniuses of the ring. He was such a genius that in his time prize fighting could truly be called boxing. He made it a game of skill, not just a test of slugging power. He was not only the greatest Negro fighter that ever lived, but no white man ever surpassed him in knowledge of boxing.

"He was in the hands of crafty manipulators, and even when he was still lightweight champion and his great skill was generally recognized, he fell into disrepute and drifted forlornly to the village of Lieperville in Delaware County, Pa., where he had often trained for his fights.

There he looked up a man named James Dougherty, noted in prize fighting circles as "the Baron of Leiperville", and he told Dougherty he was pretty sick, but if he could get money enough to reach Chicago a newspaper friend there would stake him to railroad fare to the Pacific Coast, where he might get some matches.

"Dougherty took Gans to his own family physician and had his examined, and afterwards the physician called Dougherty aside and said:

"Didn't you tell me this man was some sort of an athlete?"

"That's right", said Dougherty. "He is a boxer—the lightweight champion of the world."

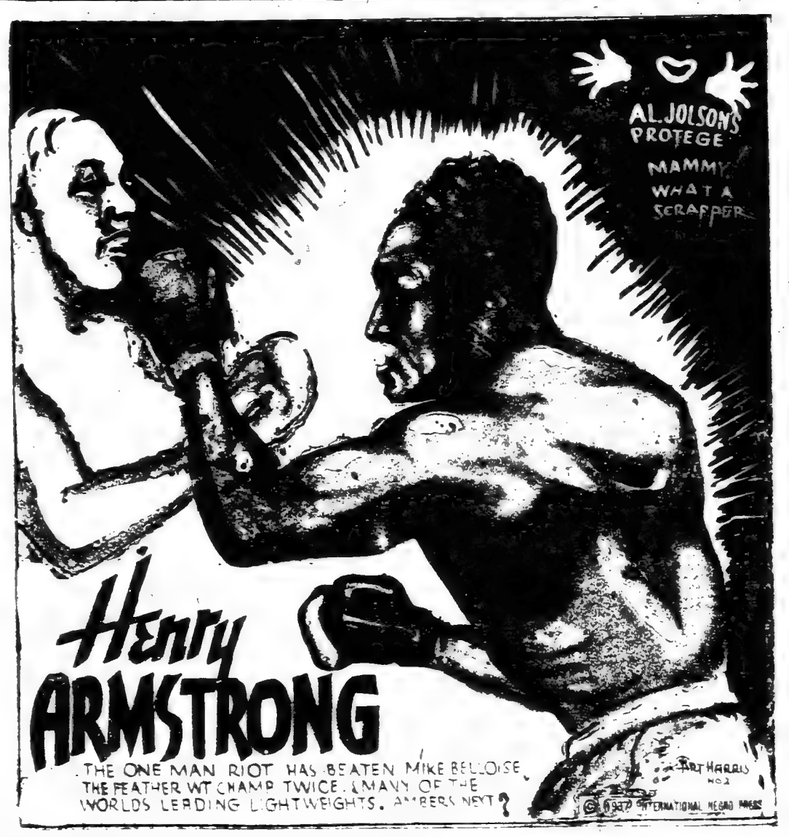
"Impossible!" said the physician. 'Why, he is not only in advanced stages of tuberculosis, but he has other serious ailments. He should be in bed'.

"However, Dougherty sent Gans to Chicago, and from there the fighter went to the Coast to put in some of the greatest battles of his career, including the famous forty-two round fight at Goldfield, Nevada, when he won from Battling Nelson on a foul and kept his lightweight title.

"Nelson's manager Billy Nolan, had exacted 133 pounds ringside of Gans, an onerous weight for the Negro under any circumstances, and subsequently demanded that Gans weigh in at this mark with his fighting gear on—trunks, shoes, etc. The fight was Tex Rickard's first promotion in the game that was later to make him famous, and he sent for Gans and said:

"'You don't have to stand for that, Joe. I'll call the whole thing off'.

"'But Mr. Rickard,' said Joe 'won't that cost you a lot of money?'



"'I'm in $29,000,' Rickard replied, 'but I'll lose that rather than see you persecuted any further.'

"Gans thought a long while and then said, quietly:

"'I'll make the weight', Mr. Rickard.

"He planned to weigh in with paper shoes and paper trunks, but it turned out he made the weight without resorting to that expedient. Rickard told us this story. He said Joe Gans was the greatest sportsman he ever met in the prize fighting game, and Rickard had been in it a long time when he said this.

"He finally died of tuberculosis. They said it came of making weight for Nelson and others. He should have been in a sanitarium years before. Do not mention the names of any of the present-day fighters in the same breath with Joe Gans."

Hank Favored Switch to Garden

Armstrong and Ambers returned to the dreary routine of their training camps last Thursday morning as they waited for Promoter Jacobs to stir up enough interest in the bout to warrant opening the doors.

The rain which forced postponement of the bout, originally scheduled for the Polo Grounds, was welcomed with open arms by all the participants. Only ten thousand people were on hand to witness the fight when it was called off.

Armstrong, who had originally warned against moving the bout on last Wednesday because of conflicting sporting events, was well satisfied with the switch from the Polo Grounds to the inside arena. He had insisted for it in the first place, but had given into the wishes of Ambers.

WEIGH-IN

The two champions appeared most on top of each other at the offices of the athletic commission, yesterday morning, for the weighing in. There was some confusion as to just what titles were fighting for. The New York Commissioners still insisted that the welter crown which Armstrong holds was at stake, while the National Boxing Association was just as firm in saying it was not.

Boykin Wins City Golf Title; Sub-Par Golf Subdues Jones

By WARREN C. VINSTON

Colorful events took place Sunday on the flood-torn Brookside Golf course in Pasadena as J. Munroe Boykin the toughest golf opponents on the West Coast, Oscar Clisby and Roscoe Jones to win the California Eagle First Annual Los Angeles Colored Amateur Golf Championship tournament.

"Birdie King" Boykin encountered Oscar Clisby, tourney medalist, and one of the best golfers in Los Angeles, in the semi-finals. Given only an outside chance to defeat Clisby he jumped into a quick lead when he pared the first hole in 4 to Clisby's 6. He went two up with a par on number 3 and increased his lead to 3 up with another par on the 5th hole. Clisby put up a battle, taking Boykin to the 18th green before surrendering 1 down.

In the other semi-final match, Judson Grant, "dark horse" of the tournament, let little Roscoe Jones slip away from him after maintaining a two hole advantage thru the 11th hole. Jones had to execute brilliant approach shots on the last few holes to turn the tide. Victory came on the 17th hole when the midget master sunk an approach shot from the trap. The score Jones 2 and 1.

BRADFORD THREATS

Dr. C. A. Bradford gave Carl Woode a big scare, prolonging the contest until they reached the final green. Woode won by a scant margin of 1 up. In the other first flight fight between two lightheavies, J. A. Buchanan floored Cliff Williams 3 and 2. In the second flight competition Solomon Ellis was too accurate with his unorthodox style for Henry Lewis and took him into camp 3 and 2. In a hard-fought duel, Wm. Gilmore lost a gallent decision to Herman Woode. Woode's superiority was demonstrated on the back nine when he overcame an early lead to eke out a 1 up victory.

In the championship consolation bracket Sam Smythe was too uncanny on his approaches for slugger Archie Hairston and lucked out on him 4 and 3. Harry Moore, after a four year layoff, played like a regular performer against O. R. Jackson. Moore carried Jackson to the 22nd hole before losing 1 down. In the play-off for the consolation prize Jackson beat Smythe, 6-5. In the combination class "A" and "B" consolation division C. E. Porter defeated Don Walker 2 up. Clarence Lay spoiled the day for Porter when he scored a 2 and 1 triumph in the afternoon. Henry Martin and John Riddle fought a nip and tuck battle down to the 17th hole where Martin scored a 2 and 1. Martin and Lay will match strokes next Sunday for the divisional prize.

BOYKIN SHOOTS SUB-PAR

The climax of the Eagle's colorful tournament got under way shortly after 2 o'clock when the two finalists, Roscoe Jones and J. Munroe Boykin, hit two long, beautiful tee shots straight down the fairway. Jones, a carpenter, nailed his second shot right on the pin and was down in two putts for a par 4. Boykin took a 5. Boykin reversed the score on the second hole scoring a 4 to Jones' 5. Boykin went 1 up on the short 3rd hole when Jones tee shot missed the green and he required 4 strokes to the sensational tailor's par. Both players negotiated the next three in par figures. Boykin continued to equal par on the 7th, 8th, and 9th. Jones was one over on each hole and was four down at the turn. Scores: Boykin, 36, Jones 40.

With the city title within reach, Boykin turned the heat on, old man par instead of coasting home. Jones for the first time showed signs of concentrating on the back nine. He pared the 10th, 11th, and 12th holes, but Boykin matched him hole for hole. A par 5 on the 13th hole put the match on "ice" for Boykin as his opponent took 6. On the next hole a par 4 netted Boykin another hole and the championship. The new champion scored birdies on the 15th, 16th, and 17th and missed one on the 18th by inches. Final scores: Boykin, 71; Jones, 79. (Par 72.)

Carle Woode defeated J. A. Buchanan 1 up to win the Sheriff E. W. Biscailuz Trophy. "Bulky" Buchanan copped the Supervisor John Anson Ford Trophy. Solomon Ellis upset Herman Woode 1 up to win the Tax Assessor John R. Quinn Trophy. Runner-up Woode won the Councilman Dr. E. V. Bennett Trophy. C. M. Abernathy won the Eastern Outfitting prize as champion of the "C" Class. The winner of the Lay Martini match will receive the Victor Clothing Co. award. Champion J. Munroe Boykin win the Mayor Shaw Cup and runner-up Roscoe Jones the Supervisor Herbert C. Legg Trophy. All trophies are the permanent possession of the winners. They will be awarded by the donors at the golfers victory dance at the Vogue, Friday night August 26.

Garcia Posts Two Grand for Armstrong Bout

NEW YORK, Aug. 18. CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Mind" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist. This verse from Job is the Golden Text: "Behold, God is mighty, and despiseth not any: he is mighty in strength and wisdom."

A Bible citation in the Lesson-Sermon presents words of God that were revealed to Moses, from Exodus: "Behold, I send an Angel before thee, to keep thee in the way, and to bring thee into the place which I have prepared.... And ye shall serve the LORD your God, and he shall bless thy bread, and thy water; and I will take sickness away from the midst of thee." A verse from Isaiah states: "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee: because he trusteth in thee."

Passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the statements: "We classify disease as error, which nothing but Truth or Mind can heal, and this Mind must be divine, not human. Mind transcends all other power, and will ultimately supersede all other means in healing." "The evidence of divine Mind's healing power and absolute control is to me as certain as the evidence of my own existence."

HOLLYWOOD JEWS USE SOUTHERN PREJUDICE AS SMOKE SCREEN, SAY

By EARL DANCER

For the last ten years the executives of the motion picture industry, who are for the most part Jews, have hidden their real motives behind a smoke screen of southern prejudice whenever the suggestion is made that the Negroes receive better roles in films, and by better we mean roles other than "Uncle Toms and Topsys."

The motion picture producer invariably replies that the South won't accpt this type of Negro characterization. This is the most vicious lie ever perpetrated. The white South has received Cab Calloway in Dallas, Texas, where 10,000 whites and blacks attended together a concert and dance. This same South applauded Ethel Waters in an all-white production, "As Thousands Cheer".

This same so-called prejudiced South staged a sports event which featured Jesse Owens. It appreciates Roland Hayes, whose technique and artistry rates with the world's greatest white concert artists. Southern critics have acclaimed Marion Anderson as the possessor of one of the truly great voices of all times. Now, whyinthehell will they refuse to accept this same talent in motion pictures?

The answer is that HOLLYWOOD PRODUCERS DON'T WANT THIS TYPE OF TALENT. They propose to use Jews, imitating Negro artists. Hollywood producers have practically eliminated the Negro from motion pictures. We herewith cite an example to support our contention.

"Boystown", a picture in production, or possibly finished by this reading, is a story based on the juveniles placed in an institution at Boystown, Nebraska, which is near Omaha.

Some of the juveniles there are Negroes and the finished script called for colored juvenile actors to portray these actual Negro boys in Boystown. Paul White and Stymie Beard were called in on interview, but the interview was as far as Paul White, Stymie Beard, or any other important juvenile actor, got as far as this picture was concerned.

These parts, of which we were reliably informed as being important, were completely eliminated from this production.

This is an economic problem, one which no Negro can sit idly by and not raise a real protest. The Hollywood Jews want everything for the Jews. We, the Negro race, who contribute $50,000,000 or more annually to the motion picture industry demand something from Hollywood for the Negro actors. We noticed that the Negro isn't eliminated from prison scenes. Few, if any, productions containing prison sequences fail to conspicuously show Negroes among its inmates.

And all that we may say pro and con of this great injustice means absolutely nothing unless the Negro ACTS. And the only action that we can see for 20,000,000 Negroes is to boycott every theatre where motion pictures are shown, and do so until Hollywood makes up its mind to recognize black America thru its Negro actors here in Hollywood!

SINGS FOR TEACHERS

Smith University, Charlotte; Livingstone College, Salisbury, A. & T. College, Greensboro, and Teachers College of Winston-Salem.

:-:-Review-:-:

Picture: Mother Carey's Chickens.

Players: Fay Bainter, Anne Shirley.

Place: RKO Hillstreet.

Aided and abetted by competent aciors, "Mother Carey's Chickens" is a well-done little piece of sentimental drama.

It is all about a family whose Lord and Master is a Navy man. Being such, wife and kiddies must follow about from one naval base to another. When the father is killed in the Spanish American War, the family sinks all it's got in a beautiful colonial mansion with the idea of running a boarding house. Soon, however, a pair of malefactors come along and purchase the place from under the Careys. The hilarious manner in which the family convinces the new owners that they have made a "raw deal" is a fitting climax.

Anne Shirley and Ruby Keeler, the latter effecting an inauspicious screen return, are the young sisters with eyes for one and the same man. He, James Ellison, a young school teacher, falls for sister Keeler. Miss Shirley's disappointment is soon forgotten with the advent of young Medico Frank Albertson.

Fay Bainter's portrayal of a lovable of 19th century mother surrounded by her brood gives the film a dignity it would have lacked otherwise. Anne Shirley once again reveals herself one of filmdom's most promising youngsters. James Ellison, after his brilliant performance in "Vivacious Lady", deserves something better than this; handles it well though. Frank Albertson, back from the land of grease-paint and curtain calls, handles the other" young suitor" job nicely. Inimitable Walter Brennan contributes an expert character job as a rural yankee store-keeper. Jackie Moran and Virginia Weidler handle child roles well.

There is a welcome and somewhat nostalgic charm abut the picture, although we hope and pray another family series has not been born. The setting, late '90's, is well carried out and should be something of a kick to folk who can murmer "Why yes, I remember the year I wore a dress just like that."

Tears, but not too many of them; laughs, but not too many of them; a corney but well-hashed little script—this is "Mother Carey's Chicken".

Picture: "Sky Giant"

Players: Richard Dix, Chester Morris, Joan Fontaine.

Place: ditto

A stalwart B picture, "Sky Giant" reveals the woe consequent to an ex-army Colonel taking over a civilian aeronautical school.

Harry Carey climbing another rung on the come-back ladder, is flawless as the belligerent militarist, while Richard Dix is first assistant and a humanitarian or something. Chester Morris ,Carey's son, turns up at the training school and acts very much like James Cagney would in the same predicament. Cocky and devil-may-care he (1) gets the girl, (2) the last laugh on superior officers, (3) is a hero in the end.

Richard Dix, for the first time in a long while, shows that he is worthy of elevation once again to the A-picture class. Chester Morris, really a fine actor doesn't have much to do in this but be noisy, self-assured and a pain in the neck. Joan Fontaine shows great improvement. Paul Giulfoyle is excellent.

If you like the Cagney-O'brien plot-thrills, chills and fights over the 'same dame'", this will please you.

An aluminum alloy molding has been invented to seal cracks between bathtubs and walls that can be installed without requiring the use of special tools.

Biltmore Play to Have Tallulah Bankhead in Lead

Tallulah Bankhead's new play "I Am Different" authored by Zoe Akins from the Hungarian of Lili Hatvany, will be given an auspicious premiere at the Biltmore Theatre on August 22 by Lee Shubert and Jos. M. Gaites.

The play which will have a limited two week engagement with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday, is headed for New York especially for this production. The setting of the new comedy is a cosmopolitan city in central Europe and its thrilling story centers around a woman, who though she solves the heart problems of others, finds it extremely difficult to solve her own. Miss Akins, author of "The Old Maid", which won the Pulitzer Prize for 1935, says it is full of delightful comedy and sparkling wit, for which Tallulah Bankhead is famous.

Seats are now on sale at the Biltmore Theatre box office for all performances including the spectacular opening night, Aug. 22. This will mark Tallulah Bankhead's only appearance in Los Angeles this year.

EDDIE ANDERSON GETS SMALL ROLE IN FILM

Eddie Anderson, well known actor of stage, screen and radio, has a small part in the Paramount picture "Thanks For The Memory", starring Otto Kruger, Hedda Hopper and Charles Buttreworth, it was learned this week. Tentative release date is December 16.

City Churches Acclaim 'Run, Little Chillun' with Services

Complimentary to the efforts of the Negro Unit of Los Angeles Federal Theatres Project to stimulate an interest in Negro Art, several pastors of the city have extended invitations to the cast of "Run, Little Chillun," Hall Johnson's folk drama, currently playing at the Mayan Theatre, to be honored guests at their services August 28, it was revealed this week.

Shortly after the opening of "Run, Little Chillun," the ministers were sent complimentary tickets to see the drama which comes from the pen of Hall Johnson, noted choral director, and, perhaps, is the only Negro credited with a work of this sort.

Appearing as guest preacher at the Zion Hill Baptist Church, Rev. Grant Harris, pastor, will be Arnestley Williams, who is cast as "Rev. Ebenezer Allen" in the play. In real life, Mr. Williams, a graduate of Gammon Seminary and Samuel Huston School of Theology, has served as assistant to the pastors of Friendship Baptist Church, in Pasadena, and Bethel Baptist Church, in San Diego.

His text for Sunday, August 28, will be taken from Galations sixth chapter, the first verse: "Be Not Deceived for God is not mocked for Whatsoever a Man Soweth, That Shall He Also Reap". Interestingly enough, the same idea is inculcated in the play, "Run, Little Chillun", in the simple language of Hall Johnson's character interpreted by Miss Olive Ball, the woman evangelist. It reads: "You ain't sowed nothing but Good and Nothing but Good Can Come Back to You."

BROOKS SOLOIST

At Hamilton M. E. Church, of which Rev. S. M. Beane is pastor, Jess Lee Brooks, noted Federal thespian and an outstanding baritone concert singer on the West Coast, will be guest soloist for the morning services.

SERMON TEXT

Prior to leaving for an extensive vacation in the East, Rev. R. B. Porter, pastor of the Progressive Baptist Church, on East Vernon avenue, announces that he will preach his morning service on August 28 on "The Devil in Our Land."

Rev. Porter said today that the economic stress of our present era, the widespread prevalence of crime and graft and greed throughout the nation is direct evidence of the growing power of evil.

Subtitle of the famous Hall Johnson Negro folk drama is "Run, Little Chillun--de devil's done loose in de lan'."

ON WOMAN'S DAY

At the historic Eighth and Towne Avenue A. M. E. Church, Mrs. Olive Ball has been invited as special guest for the Woman's Day program, held annually by the church.

Miss Ball, an honor graduate from Howard University, spent a number of years teaching English and music, before taking up dramatics as a career. Her beautiful rendition of the classic prayer in "Run, Little Chillun" was lauded by New York critics as the premiere dramatic moment of the season. She is a member of Eighth and Towne and was requested by its pastor, Rev. Mansfield Collins.

Miss Ruby Elzy, renowned singer of the race, will give a rendition of her song: "Nobody Knows the Trouble I See," from the score of "Run, Little Chillun", and the aria, "Hear Ye, Israel," from Mendelsohn's "Elijah", at one of the largest white M. E. Churches.

Members of the cast of this production will be in attendance at all of the churches on August 28 as goodwill messengers from the theatre to the church.

The Negro Unit of Federal Theatres and the Carlyle Scott singers of Federal Music Project expressed the belief that through these two great mediums of expression, there is much to be accomplished for racial progress as well as a distinctive contribution to be made to the general culture of the nation.

Eternal Strife Depicted in FTA Airing

The eternal strife existing between two opposite races, as depicted in James Weldon Johnson's poem, "Brothers," is the theme of tonight's (Thursday) "A Capella In Bronze" program.

Federal Theatre of the Air favorites appear in the quarter hour musical program which is aired over KMPC at 9:30.

"Brothers in spirit, Brothers in deed are we" is the essence of this stirring Amos Reese playlet in which Lester Wilkins, Herbert Ward, Amos Reese and the popular Federal Theatre of the Air Negro choir appear.

SHOUT HALLELUJAH

Parson Sabbath's text for next Wednesday night's "Shout Hallelujah" program is taken from the 107th Psalm, "or, He Satisfies The Longing Soul." The popular musical series is heard over KWB and the Calif. Radio System from 9:15 to 9:30 P. M. with ederal Theatre of the Air favorites.

"Rebekah at the Well" is the title of tonight's quarter hour broadcast which dramatizes the story of Abraham's son, Isaac, who has brought a wife from among his own people in response to Abraham's faith.

Negro familiars in the cast include Earl Hall, Charles Hawkins, Josephine Burke, Lester Wilkins and Jack West. Beloved old spirituals include 'Can't Sit Down," "When I Fall On My Knees" and "Lord I Don't Feel No Way Tired."

Para Recognizes Maxine Sullivan

Only Negro mentioned in the official Paramount Studio list, issued to the press this week, is Maxine Sullivan, singing star, who rocketed to fame when she sang the Scotch ballad "Loch Lomond" in swing time.

LEADS WILD DANCE

JANET COLLINS—Gifted young dancer who leads the wild, orgiastic dance of joy in the "Pilgrim" scene of "Run Little Chillun". By popular demand this remarkable Federal Theatre Project drama hads its engagement at the Mayan extended two weeks.

Miss Sullivan is listed among those having special contracts, which include Don Ameche, Ronald Coleman, Joan Bennett, Gary Cooper, Irene Dunne and several others. In Hollywood now. Miss Sullivan is making the picture "St. Louis Blues".

Chatter and . . . Some News

For a long time now, social and ace users of the "'Member when?" prefix will date Angel City activity from a night in August . . . Less vaguely: a Wednesday night in August . . . August 10, when teeming throngs were only allayed by the Newton Street police corps . . . who could not be too rough because of the occasion . . . the wedding of the very popular and youthful minister, Rev. Clayton D. Russell to the former Gwendolyn Diggs. Someone who stood in the very heart of the press of people will reminisce . . . "Member the ambulance . . . for the two or three women that fainted, if memory serves me right, 'twas two; seems like the third one got her leg hurt when the steps gave way" . . .

And you, hastily showing your capacity for keeping in mind pictures of such times, will gush, "Man, yeh . . . and remember how folks swamped the groom and got his shirt dirty . . . What, you didn't hear he had to change it? . . . And, that's the night the murderer got away down on Central and Forty-sixth while they were detailing cops from the University station?"

"That's right . . . and you know it took four cops to get the bride through that crowd . . . "

"Well, I never . . .but wasn't it some wedding?"

"Wasn't it though? . . . Be a long time before folks get that curious about another one."

"You tellin' me?"

ANOTHER DIAMOND

Not to be outdone by big sister, Jessie Mae, Eloise Nickerson is demurely displaying a sparkling stone on the third finger, left . . . The donor is one Maurice McGavock, a Golden State Mutual agent, and the cause of more than one heart skipping beats . . . in former days. Eloise, certainly no less popular, is causing not a few sighs in the ranks of eligible swains, too.

Somewhere between the copy room and the microphone Monday night, I confused some dates . . . and married Wathea Simms to Marvin Jones . . . No repercussions yet, but an invitation received this morning sets the date as September 4. Is my face red? . . . no, that's sunburn . . . tsk. Last Thursday was the wedding day of Grace Fisher and Weldon Atkinson who've already received my wishes for many long, happy years together . . . Which also goes for Cecil Davis who took unto himself a bride, Inez Johnson, Sunday ete twilight in the residence of Dr. Towles at 49th and Wadsworth.

It's a long way from the little town of Xenia, Ohio to the Angel City . . . but not half so long as from playing for student dancing parties, . . . at a price way down the scale, to Benny Goodman's band! That's the story of jolly Rose Murphy who less than three years ago shared some happy times with us 'Forceans . . . and was the talk of the campus. Now she's the talk of the threatrical world . . . and just as genuineuy friendly as ever. Rose's busy in Hollywood . . . is a guest at the Dunbar Hotel.

Dinner Sunday in the Avenue's quietest dining roomb with Jester Hairston who's directing the singers in the current Hal Johnson production of "Run Little Chillun" reaped some interesting backstage facts . . . most significant to me, is the singing which is supported by eleven white who do not come on the stage at any time. Just wondering how we'd take if it the situation was just the other way. It so happens that said singers were sent to another project this week and they were very reluctant to leave.

Green fees are forty cents per in advance . . . fifty-five cents at the tee—meaning the Vogue.

"Lucrative bouts Lewis had booked in Europe and Australia may be canceled because of the commission's action," Lauria said. "I have filed a writ of certiorari against the three commissioners, Gen. John J. Phelan, Bill Brown and D. Walker Wear for $300,000.

STYLE NOTES

Color and fabric are accepted by most women as being the fundamental determinants of smartness . . . So when fashion decrees bright color we rush around shopping for brilliant materials and if Paris says silk with a predominant strain of wool then wool becomes the rule for the laity. However, the basis of choice of material are secondary with the professional stylist, for they depend on the alpha and omega of style--the line--to us a simple matter decided oftentimes after we have purchased our material.

The really smart woman will first consider the lines that will advantageously compliment her for style lines change not so radically and quickly as fashion they are determined by the age . . . by modes of travel and climate. Streamlined trains mean travel clothes of less lines . . . an increase in leisure time has definitely influenced flowing lines in lounging and play clothes . . Colors attract, but its the cut of the garment that holds the attention or brings recurrent glances even from rivals.

The line we are particularly concerned about tonight is the neckline for while corsetting and smooth undergarments will assist in bringing the desired rounding of hips and bust . . . . while sleeves can protect undesirable contours of the arm and battered elbows, the neck whether wrinkled or smooth, unusually long or short with rolls of fat, it is, for the most part, constantly exposed to the critical eye as well as the flattering, having as its only aid to attractiveness the cut of the line topping the dress. Necklines are more than just high or low while a low V line may be flattering to the throat and chin of oversize proportions a square cut one will emphasize thickness of a short neck. Just the opposite is true for the long and generously proportioned neck. The new petal necklines are kind to long necks if they are not wrinkled or bony. They were certainly never intended for short ones . . Before you shop for that new fall frock inspect your necks.

Johnson-Davis Nuptials Solemnized in Pre-Dusk

H. Towles, 4959 Wadsworth St.

The bride's bouquet was of gardenias. She was attended by Mrs. Helen Beavers Hodge in pink net who also wore gardenias. The groom and his attendant, Dee Hodge, both wore dark civil dress. The simple ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Mr. Bethel in the midst of white stock and white chrysanthemums.

The pair will be at home at 1343 East 90th street after Sept. 1. The bride is a clerk in the home office of the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company. The groom who came to Los Angeles from Pittsburgh about eighteen months ago as an agent for Golden State, He has shown marked ability as an all around insurance man since his association with the company, according to executives, and has been one of its leading producers fully meriting his recent promotion. Mr. Davis will assume his new duties on September 1.

Activity of club women throughout Los Angeles County in behalf of the re-election of Sheriff E. W. Gene Biscailuz reached high interest today as Mrs. Paxton Lytle, State Chairman for Safety of the California Federation of Women's Clubs and vice-president of the Parent-Teachers Association, assumed leadership in the women's division of the Sheriff's campaign.

"I believe I may speak for all the club women when I say that we stand for honest, efficient, progressive American leadership in public offices. Sheriff Biscailuz has given exactly those qualities to the Sheriff's Department of Los Angeles County and he should be retained in office to continue the good work he started and is pursuing," Mrs. Lytle said.

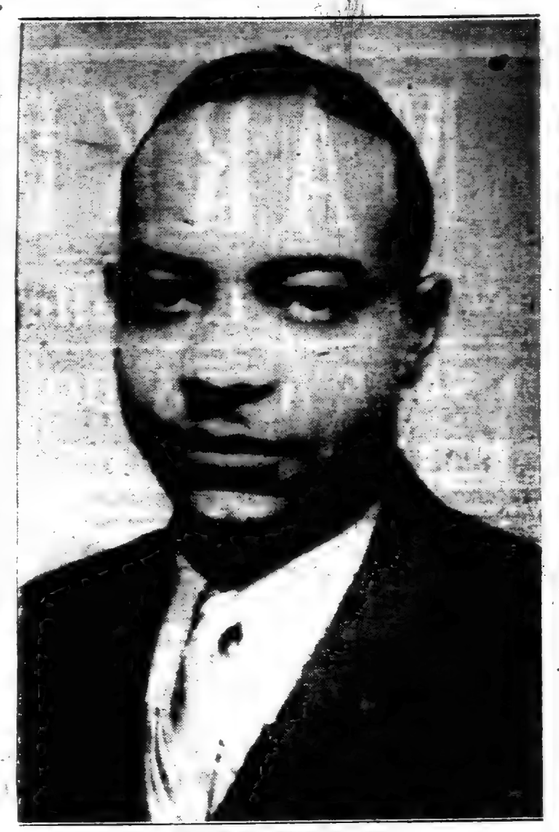
In a message Mr. Adams said:

"The future character of our state and local institutions will depend largely upon the character and qualifications of the man selected by the voters to fill this office of Attorney General.

"For many years Earl Warren has served as District Attorney of Alameda County, third largest in the state. The work he has done in that office establishes him as a sound man and a sound lawyer. He is on the Republican Democratic, and Progressive tickets. Therefore, you can vote for him, regardless of your party affiliations.



Warren is married and the father of six children. He is a veteran of the 91st Division.

The topic will be Domestic Help, Wage and Hour Law, Old Age Security and Slum Clearance. The audience will have an opportunity to ask questions.

The Southside Young Democratic club is interested in enlightening the public as to which candidate will best serve this community and is willing to work with all progressive groups whose aims are the same.

Franklin Makes Progress in Race for Lieut.-Governor

That Dr. Walter Scott Franklin, candidate for lieutenant governor, is making progress in his campaign is shown by the constantly increasing list of his endorsements, according to Mrs. Andree W. Olson, Los Angeles County Campaign Director.

Heading the list of endorsements is that of the San Francisco Republican County Central Committee. Others include:

Los Angeles Civic League of Good Government; Non-Partisan Study Club of Southern California American Institute of Public Service; Los Angeles Charter Foundation; Professional Men's Committee on Governmental Affairs; Los Angeles Negro Non-Partisan League; Los Angeles County Medico-Dental Committee; Westside Taxpayers Association, Los Angeles; Veterans' Protective League of California.

"In Los Angeles County and Southern California in general", says Mrs. Olson, "our check-ups, together with polls taken by other candidates, show Dr. Franklin running better than a 2 to 1 favorite over his nearest opponent."

Dr. Franklin, recognized by the medical profession as one of the nation's most distinguished eye specialists, is not a politician. Although a member of numerous state and local boards and committees, he has never before sought public office.

Offering a prescription for the ills of government, he said:

"Let's talk about government in the language of a layman. Let's concern ourselves more with jobs and taxation and means for prideful earning of our living, with statesmanship and public service, and less with brash promises, ill-conceived panaceas and political reprisals".

"Let's live within our income. When the individual family finds its expenditures exceeding its income, that family, if it is wise and practical, cuts its budget. When the state finds itself in similar circumstances, it needs to do the same thing."

Backing for Scully On Increase

Thomas P. Scully stood today as the leading candidate for the Democratic nomination for state senator from Los Angeles County.

Scully was catupulted to the forefront of the race as the result of resolutions adopted by Hollywood Central Young Democrats and by the Democratic County Central Committee.

Advancing a broad program fair alike to Labor, Business, Industry and Agriculture, Thomas P. Scully, 39-year-old Hollywood businessman today was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for State senator from Los Angeles County.

Scully is member of various Democratic organizations which urged him to make the race; he said when he filed for the office.

He has gained an extensive acquaintanceship with voters in 15 years of business activity in Southern California. He is married and has two children.

Scully is a veteran and a member of Victory Post No. 54.

Judge Gates Has Proved Ability in Many Fields

JUDGE WALTER S. GATES

A public servant who has at one time worked in the various trades is of all men most capable of understanding the problems of his fellow men.

Judge Walter S. Gates, candidate for re-election to the Superior Court of Los Angeles County, has proved his ability in many fields of endeavor. He was born forty-nine years ago on a Pomona Valley ranch, and was left fatherless when eight years old. As the eldest of three small children, he began at once to do odd jobs in a grocery and for neighboring ranchers, in order to assist his widowed mother.

Later he learned apprentice work in a print shop, and also sold papers on the streets of Los Angeles. Following this he worked on the railroad, in a sugar mill and as a switchboard operator.

So outstanding was the young Walter among newsboys, that professional men encouraged him in his ambition to become a lawyer. To most lads with family responsibilities, a university course would have seemed impossible, but he managed to earn his way by doing janitor work at night, and in 1913 graduated with honors from the University of Southern California.

After thirteen years of successful law practice, Walter Gates was elected to the Superior Court, which position he has filled most ably during the past fourteen years.

So vital in our day is the need for men who are fearless, unbiased and upright, men before whom we could come with confidence should we ourselves be involved in litigation, that no voter can afford to treat lightly selection of Judges for our Superior Court Bench.

Judge Gates judges the cases that come before him without prejudice, regardless of race, class, or creed.

Far and wide he has received acclaim; he has been given publicity in distant metropolitan newspapers because of the fairness and wisdom of his decisions.

In his own neighborhood, Judge Gates is known and loved as a neighbor and friend. His career has been most helpfully influenced by Mrs. Gates whom he married in his early twenties, and the character of four children pays eloquent tribute to the home life and ideals of Judge and Mrs. Gates.

The candidacy of Judge Gates is endorsed wholeheartedly by the lawyers of Los Angeles County, as well as many organizations including veteran, labor and public improvement groups.

His name will be found on all tickets in the primary election of August 30th, because our Superior Court Judges are chosen, not on grounds of political affiliations, but because of their qualifications for administering justice. For your own sake and the welfare of your neighbors, vote for Judge Walter S. Gates, Superior Court Office No. 2, on August 30th.

Many State Officials Ask Re-election

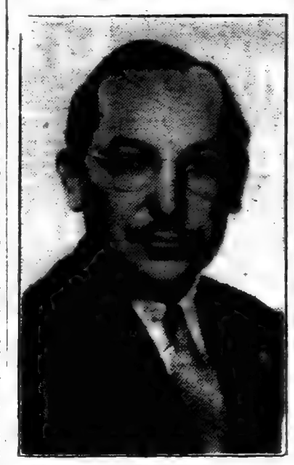
Everybody knows who the Governor is, but how many know the name of the State Controller, the County Assessor, or even the Lieutenant-Governor. The Governor gets the public eye, gets his picture into the papers, and his name is a household word. When election time rolls around, people know him.

Pity the rest of the state officials, they are practically anonymous. They have the hard, almost impossible job of reminding 2,000,000 voters that they have served them during his last four years, if they seek re-election.

Harry B. Riley is the present State Controller, in case you never heard of him. He has kept the state's books, paid its bills and collected some of its taxes, and has insisted upon an economical, efficient administration of his office. He is asking re-election.

Maintenance of the high standards of his predecessor, the late Ed. W. Hopkins, including absolute impartiality between all taxpayers, large or small, has been pledged by County Assessor John R. Quinn, candidate for re-election.

Lieutenant-Governor George J. Hatfield feels certain of the Republican nomination for Governor, according to an extensive poll just completed by The Los Angeles Referee, sporting publication, whose polls during the past fifteen years have always proved correct.



Earl Warren, non partisan candidate for Attorney General on the Democratic, Progressive and Republican tickets, is contacting Los Angeles voters this week.

LEWIS TO FIGHT JIMMY ADAMICK

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—John Henry Lewis, world's light-heavyweight kingpin, and Jimmy Adamick, from Midland, Mich., have been signed for a 12-round fight at the Philadelphia Municipal stadium, September 12, it was announced this week by Promoter Herman Taylor.

An inventor has received a patent for a cover to enclose an automobile hood front fenders and heels for use when a car has to be stored out of doors.

Griffiths Ask Support of Judge Brand

JUDGE EDWARD R. BRAND

Retention of able judges who have proven themselve tolerant and capable of treating all who come before them with due consideration regardless of color, creed, or condition in life, is urged by Lloyd C. Griffith and Thomas L. Griffith, prominent attorneys, who are active in supporting the candidacy of Judge Edward R. Brand for re-election to Superior Court Office 17, at the primary election August 30.

"I was in schol with Judge Brand and I know him to have the character and the capabilities which assure a fair and impartial hearing to all who may come before him," Lloyd C. Griffith said.

"In both his private and his public life, Judge Brand's conduct is exemplary. He is a true and tried friend of man, discharging the duties of his high office conscientiously but always tempering justice with mercy.

Few men are given more power by the electorate than is a judge of the Superior Court who may take away a man's fortune or family and even say 'you die' or 'you shall spend the rest of your life in jail'. It is imperative to the welfare of any minority group that only men who have tolerance in their makeup sit in judgment on them. That is why I and my brother are for the re-election of Judge Brand to Superior Court Office 17."

If You Are Away On Your Vacation Come Aug. 30th, You Can Still Vote!

Going to be away on your vacation election day, August 30?

Then here is how you can vote in spite of the vacation.

Call on or write your county clerk or registrar of voters for an application blank for an absentee voters ballot. He'll send you a blank and you may vote anytime up until August 25.

If the ballot is cast before the clerk you won't have to have it notarized. Otherwise, there will be a small fee. So the simplest method is to go to your county clerk and tell him your vacation plans.

Complete instructions on how the ballot should be made out will be sent any person applying by letter.

Little Interest Shown in Africa, Claim

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 18.— Interviewed this week by an ANP correspondent A. J. Siggins, prominent British traveler, lecturer, and author, bemoaned the fact that American Negroes show little interest in the commercial development, of Africa and declared they are "fast asleep" in overlooking this "golden harvest" being reaped by the other nations of Europe.

Author Siggins recently returned from a trip to the Union of South Africa, said that Africa is still the "Dark Continent" to 99.9 per cent of the English. Refering to the Negroes of America he said:

"I want Africans in the U. S. A. to realize that they have an Empire, too; theirs is their Motherland, and it is a sacred duty laid upon them by their blood to cherish that Motherland and to make it respected throughout the world. No African has anything to be ashamed of in the history of Africa, when compared to that of any European nation. Africans have evolved of living and philosophies that no European nation has been able to rival.

"In music and art, the African has never had a rival; the nearest is still miles behind. In athletics, Negroes have proved themselves supreme: boxing, running, jumping, etc. None can beat them when they get a chance.

"You Americans of African decent can sell your brains and your man-energy in the form of manufactured goods to Africans. You can start a business and industries over there and can find room for employment of your people and your capital, just as well as Europeans . . .A thousand million dollars a year is open to you, if you are energetic and alive . . .Help your African brethreren to reach where you are and go after their business."

To Arraign Murder Suspect, 29th

"Gentlemanly instincts", if one is to agree with defense counsel for William Burns, accused of the murder of William Wolff, white, prompted the violence that resulted in Wolff's death.

At the preliminary hearing into the case, held last Thursday afternon in Judge Frank Tyrell's Municipal Court, it was brought out in witnesses' testimony that Wolff called an unidentified woman, who was driving Burns' car when it assertedly struck that driven by Wolff, profane and vile names. Angered, Burns is said to have stabbed the white man in the back, the knife severing the spine, causing paralysis and death on August 4 at the General Hospital, 12 weeks after the stabbing. The tragedy occurred early in the morning of May 15 in a gas station at Wilshire and Figueroa. Witnesses Larry White, service station attendant, and Howard Mayes, a bartender, both white, told the court that Wolff followed Burns' car into the gas station where the two engaged in an argument as to who had hit who. Cursing followed, with Wolff assertedly directing his epithets to the woman, whose name is being kept secret, whereupon Burns stabbed him.

Whereabouts of the death weapon puzzles the prosecution, represented by young deputy district attorney Mark Brandenburg. Although witnesses testify they saw Burns raining blows on Wolff's back, and although blood was gushing from his neck when they reached his side, neither of them saw a knife in Burns' hand as he belaboured the white man's neck. Police who arrested Burns later that evening claimed that Burns said he used an ordinary pocket knife which he had thrown down "somewhere".

Burns is being represented by Curtis Taylor, well known criminal lawyer, and David Williams, both of whom are Eastside attorneys. Arraignment was set for August 29 in Dept. 41 of the Superior Court.

Seek Kin of Dead Man to Claim Estate

If Mrs. Bella Miles, who lives somewhere in the United States, reads this she should communicate immediately with the chief of police of Pittsburgh, Calif.

According to a general bulletin sent out by the Missing Persons bureau of Pittsburgh, Norwood Walter Davis, age 55 to 58 years, died a few days ago in Pittsburgh, leaving an estate of $17,000 in life insurance and real estate. At the time of his death he was living with a woman to whom, it is asserted, he was not married. Unless Mrs. Miles or her children appear to claim the estate, the common-law wife will come into possession of it. The bulletin stated that Davis' ex-wife, Mrs. Norma Davis Graves lives in Pittsburgh but is not eligible for the estate.

Mrs. Miles and her children, Mary Ella Hunt, Carrie Miles, Mamie Wallace, Rosa Williams and Jeff Miles, are known to be the deceased's next kin.

Chicagoans, Spurred By Harlem Success, Launch Job Campaign

CHICAGO, Aug. 18. (ANP)—Mindful of the success of Harlemites in reaching an agreement whereby one third of the district's white collar jobs will go to Negroes, the local Council of Negro organizations has redoubled its efforts to provide employment for colored persons.

One of the problems confronting the local organization is the hiring of Negro drivers by the leading milk companies. The Bowman, Capitol and Borden-Wieland dairy products companies have stated they have no anti-Negro policy, but drivers they employ must belong to the Milk Wagon Drivers union, an A. F. of L. affiliate.

Make Arrests in Shorter College Robbery Case

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 11. (ANP)—Police here are hopeful of announcing shortly the solution of the startling shooting and robbery of Presiding Elder O. Sherman on June 7. The pastor was robbed of $2,200 belonging to Shorter college, A. M. E. institution here, and shot as he was conveying the money from the school to his home.

Three men are under arrest, one, W. M. Burns, described as the brains of the plot, and two others, men named Ollison and Duckworth, who are said to be his accomplices. The latter two men are in jail, but Burns is at liberty under a $5,000 bond. All three are residents of Fordyce, a town near Little Rock.

There is mystery to the hold-up and attempted assasination, with ramifications into church circles which have kept the case upon the tongues of nearly every one throughout the state. The money was part of an educational fund which had been raised during the presiding elder's council in North Little Rock. The funds were turned over to Rev. Sherman who is chairman of the finance committee, and were to have been banked on the following day.

As Rev. Sherman drove into the driveway of his home, one of two men who had been following the car took the grip containing the money from him at the point of a gun and then fired point blank at his head. The bullet entered one side of his neck, emerging on the other side, but the plucky minister though weak from loss of blood followed the robbers in a zig zag chase about Little Rock streets until he lost them.

PAIR CONFESS

Three weeks later a clue developed which led to the arrest of Burns, Ollison and Duckworth. The latter two confessed that they had plotted with Burns to commit the robbery, and testified that the money had been turned over to him after their escape.

Burns is a principal in a rural school near Fordyce and has been a prominent layman in the A. M. E. church. He was a lay delegate to the last A. M. E. General conference held in New York in 1936, where he had served as a member of the important Episcopal committee of the body. He had for some years been a professed friend of Rev. Sherman, and was a former student at the school. He is alleged to have hired Ollison, an expert chauffeur, and Duckworth, a casual laborer, to carry out the details of the crime, promising them a share of the proceeds they said in their confession.

The question arises as to who tipped off Burns that Rev. Sherman had custody of the money. Only presiding elders were inside the meeting at the time. There is curiosity also where Burns was able to raise the $300 to pay the bonding company which went his bail, the $150 cash which he paid his lawyer and the $50 which it is reported he paid to secure his release from jail before the formal charges were filed against him.

Efforts are being made to get the case set for the next court session on August 22.

Probe Chicago's Jitney Cabs

CHICAGO, Aug. 18, (ANP)—Police and the state's attorney's office began an investigation Thursday of the Bronzeville Chauffeur's Safety club and Municipal Judge Eugene Holland, who is charged with freeing every Negro cab driver brought before him who belongs to the club.

Colored cabs haul passengers up and down a single street for 10 cents each charging 5 to 10 cents whenever a cab goes off the main street to a special destination. The drivers, however, reserve the right to pick up as many additional passengers as their cars will hold. This is called a violation of city ordinances. Under the law, no driver may charge less than a standard rate for services nor may another passenger be picked up without the consent of the first.

Open Artificial Ice-Making Plant

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Aug. 11, (ANP)—To provide ice for the poor of the city the government has built a huge plant for the manufacture of artificial ice, five miles from the center of the Capital. Output of the plant at present is five tons of ice bars per day.

Although for the past year electric refrigeration and apparatuses for making ice have found a ready market in Addis Ababa, with a rebate granted each customer, a large part of the population, white and black, have been too poor to buy the new equipment.

Pickens Tells How U. S. Can Stay Out of War

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (By ANP)—One of the 24 nationally known persons asked to comment for the "Keep America Out of War" congress on the present world situtions and the nation's stand on the war problem was Dean William Pickens, NAACP field secretary. The sentiments of those invited to comment were released in the daily papers Sunday.

Dean Pickens, in his statement, declared: "The United States of America is one nation that is big enough to stay out of war—out of any war in which she is the aggressor. As matters stand today, and as they will stand for many tomorrows, it will be difficult for America to engage in any war, if that war has to be made by other aggressors on America. We will prepare for defense. Nobody will attack us. We should not attack others.

"We need not be so foolish or 'idealistic' as to believe or pretend that there are not forces in the world which would attack us if they thought they could do so and win and profit. We need only such preparation for defense as will assure those forces that they cannot win and cannot profit by any attack upon the United States. We shall not depend on any mysticisms but upon our national forces, spiritual and material. As a nation, we should have nothing to do with anybody's else wars. But our citizens, as free individuals, should have as much liberty as possible to take their own individual way in such conflicts, at their own individual risks.

"I do not belong to those who say that they will not fight if our country is attacked. There is such a thing as a defensive fight. If the liberty and life which we have in America is attacked, it would be as wicked as it would be calamitous for us not to defend it. If we are prepared and do not threaten, we can avoid war."

Says Cincinnati Women Lead in Suicide Attempts

CINCINNATI, Aug. 18. (ANP)—Giving the results of his survey in the July issue of the American Journal of Psychiatry, Dr. Philip Piker, well known Cincinnati psychiatrist, declared that in the ten-year period ending in 1936, colored women resorted to suicide more frequently than any other race-sex group in the city.

Dr. Piker, who is assistant professor of clinical psychiatry at University of Cincinnati's College of Medicine, said that of the 1,817 cases studied, colored women, who represent only 5 per cent of the city's population, make up 20 per cent of the cases of attempted suicides.

The figures are: of 1817 suicidal attempts, 806 were white females, 577 were white males, 358 were Negro females, and 76 Negro males. Average age of those who tried (only 14.5 per cent succeeded) to end their lives was 32.7 years. Oddly enough, Sunday was most frequently chosen for suicide attempts, the evening being most popular. Fewest suicides were attempted between Morrison, D. G. Prelate, Portland; E. Robinson, D. G. Tyler, Sacramento; M. D. Batson, Juvenile Supervisor, Los Angeles; G. Jackson, Fraternal Sec'y, Bakersfield; A. Holiday, chairman of Art Dept., San Francisco.

Peter Ogden Death Benefit Dept.; E. A. Warner, Pres., Los Angeles; V. G. Francis, Sec'y, Berkeley; S. L. Eggleston, Treas., Los Angeles.

San Francisco was selected as the place of the next grand session in August, 1939.
